No Radioactive Leaks but Toppled Nikes Dented

QUAKE UPSETS A-MISSILES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Star said in a copyrighted story Saturday night that the March 27 earthquake in Alaska toppled and damaged a number of Nike-Hercules missiles containing nuclear warheads at an Army base adjoining Anchorage.

There were no casualties and no radioactive material contaminated the area, the Star said.

The Defense Department subsequently said in response to questions that several of the missiles had suffered some damage during the earthquake but that there had been no fire, no explosion and no release of radioactive material. The department also disclosed some nuclear weapons in storage at Kodiak Island had been submerged in seawater for a brief time due to the tidal wave and may have to be replaced.

The Star story in its Sunday editions said:

While the damage apparently was confined to the casings, or skins of the warheads, a number of specialists were flown to Alaska to disassemble the warheads and put them back together.

That is what happened, the Star said:

When the earthquake, one of the most intense ever recorded, struck at 5:36 p.m. on March 27, it knocked the missiles off their launchers to the ground. The number of missiles involved is classified information.

An emergency procedure to deal with such cases was followed immediately. In checking the missiles, the damage was reported to range from slight indentation to considerable. Specialists from the Missile Command headquarters at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, and from the Picatinny Arsenal in Dover, N.J., were dispatched immediately.

A Defense Department spokesman, asked about the story, said:

"During the recent earthquake in Alaska several of the U.S. Army Nike-Hercules air-defense missiles at Fort Richardson were subjected to severe shock during the quake and were damaged to varying degrees. These missiles, containing nuclear warheads, were dislodged from their launchers by ground shock, fell to the ground and suffered damage ranging from slight indentations to significant damage to the missile bodies.

"There was no fire, no explosion and no radioactive contamination involved in these incidents. However, the accident did require immediate corrective steps to insure availability of replacement missiles and warheads. These air-defense capabilities in Alaska have now been restored."

The Pentagon statement also said certain other U.S. nuclear weapons in storage at Kodiak Island, were submerged in seawater for a short time due to the tidal wave. These weapons may also require replacement after inspection is complete. The Department of Defense indicated that all safety devices functioned as designed.

Terror in Alaska

Editor's note: As the dust settles after the most violent earthquake ever recorded in the Northern Hemisphere, the full picture of its enormity begins to emerge. Here two reporters who covered it now weave together the details of the panoramic convulsion and its path of human terror.

By SAUL PETT and JULES LOH
Associated Press Newsfeature Writers

His 200 head of cattle were grazing quietly at his ranch on Narrow Cape, a lovely finger of land washed by the Gulf of Alaska, about 50 miles southeast of here on the Gulf of Kodiak.

About three o'clock that afternoon the cattle turned and began to move away from their low-lying grazing land, to higher ground. They had never done this before so early in the day.

Louis Beaty frowned. The sky was sunny and blue. The mountains behind him stood serenely in their skirts of snow. The wind blowing in from the turquoise sea was gentle.

Vague Sensation

Beaty vaguely sensed that the cattle had sensed something. But what?

What, indeed? The mood of Alaska on this Good Friday, March 27, 1964, was benign. Spring was coming, the temperature was rising. People were already betting on when the ice would break up in the rivers. Even in this age of flight, the ice breakup remains symbolic to Alaskans. The winter feeling of isolation was about to yield to the friendliness of Spring, like opening a window onto "the Outside," onto the rest of the United States.

Down deep under the earth's crust, more than 50 miles down, in an eternal darkness without season, it is thought that a huge river of slowly swirling, boiling pitch-like substance rings the great iron core of the earth.

Fluid in Motion

Just what was happening down there on this Good Friday no man on earth could say with certainty and cows make unreliable seismologists. One theory is that this huge river by its constant and opposing currents wears and strains the earth's crust. Where the crust is weak, it may crack. Alaska is known to lie on a relatively weak layer of crust.

At her tidy frame home in Anchorage, Joan Groom couldn't have cared less about the mysterious forces grinding and straining the earth beneath. Of more immediate concern were the visible forces that could at any moment wreck her living room and nervous system.

Pink Cake, Candles

The children, at last, were in their places; the pink cake with its cover of coconut was on the table, her daughter Claudia had made her wish and was now ready to blow out the four pink candles. Ten young critics, four of them her brothers and sisters, were yelling she couldn't do it in one puff.

Downtown, Harry Groom, a photographer, was starting home. Recalling his daughter's party, he decided on one quick fortification against the inevitable chaos. He pulled up at the "Highland Fling," where they sell two drinks for the price of one between 5 and 6 o'clock, went inside and ordered bourbon.

Out in the quiet suburb called "Turnagain," a well-birched subdivision of ranch and split-level houses, Esther McCreedy was finishing a ham with brown sugar and pineapple rings. Her husband was due home for supper in about 20 minutes.

Far to the south, across the alabaster peaks and sparkling sea, 250 miles from Claudia Groom's birthday party and 50 miles northwest of Louis Beaty's curiously acting cattle, Bill Cuthbert, a leathery and grizzled fisherman, was sitting down to supper in the galley of his 86-foot scow, the "Selief." The boat was tied to its slip in Kodiak harbor, a picturesque horseshoe at the foot of the mountains. In the hold were $3,000 worth of Alaska king crabs, ready to be unloaded next morning at the cannery.

Atop the hill above the harbor, in the sanctuary of St. James the Fisherman Episcopal Church, carpenter Louis Horn was hanging a new Cross above the altar. It was now 5:20 p.m. Horn selected two small eyebolts to suspend the heavy Cross from the ceiling.

"Do you think these will hold it, Louis?" asked the Rev. Donald Bullock.

"Sure, Father."

"What if we have an earthquake?" the father chuckled.

"Even in an earthquake," laughed the carpenter.

Warm, Springlike

By Alaska standards, it was warm, about 35 degrees in Kodiak and Anchorage and the infrequent towns and remote villages in between. But 1,500 miles down the rim of the great Pacific basin, at Newport, Ore., it was much warmer and Monte and Rita McKenzie and their four children had gone to the shore on a camping trip.

They found a cozy spot for the night, a driftwood shelter on the beach north of Newport. The sea glowed in the light of a full moon. The McKenzie family, clustered tightly together, soon fell asleep. After seven months, the pain of their nine-year-old daughter's death had begun to ebb.

Pressure Erupts

And in the serenity that bathed the moonlit beach in Oregon, the gentle harbor in Kodiak and the quiet going-home time in Anchorage, the earth crust under Alaska could no longer endure the strain of the inexorable forces below. It let go at 5:36 p.m., Anchorage time.

And across more than 600 miles of mountains and towns and spruce forests and icy streams and secluded coves and great expanses of snow broken only by animal tracks, the earth strained and groaned and shook.

And in untold hundreds of places it cracked open and in scores of places it buckled and toppled buildings and swayed trees and poles in wild dizzy arcs

Signal Hill Undercover Man Talks

Legion's Judges Hear of Racist Speech by Gale

By GEORGE ROBESON

The witness, who first gave his name as "Jim Stewart" and later, under defense cross-examination, said his real name is Sam Isaacs, testified he went to the Signal Hill post on March 19, 1963, to hear a speech by Col. William P. Gale, leader of a group called the California Rangers. He said Gale told the audience that the NAACP is controlled by about 25 Jews and that Jews are "a mongrel race."

* * * *

ISAACS WAS the third witness called by the California Department of the American Legion to support Legion charges that Signal Hill post has spread racial hatred. The department is represented by Alex Kahanowicz, the defense by Bertrand L. Comparet.

Under cross-examination by Comparet, a San Diego attorney, Isaacs was asked if he entered the meeting as a spy.

"THOSE ARE your words," the witness answered. But he admitted a moment later that he had acted as an agent for the ADL and later submitted a

M'Arthur Gradually Weakening

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur fought silently for life Saturday night but doctors feared his stubborn heart was giving up.

A terse report issued at 5:30 p.m., EST, by Lt. Gen. Leonard B. Heaton, Army surgeon general, said MacArthur was "resting quietly" under constant care. He said it was becoming harder for MacArthur's heart to keep up the struggle.

From the time of Heaton's bulletin until almost midnight there was no apparent change in MacArthur's condition.

Heaton earlier had refused to say the 84-year-old general was dying. But he reported that MacArthur had fallen into deeper coma and that his heart, pulse and blood pressure continued to fail.

The morning medical bulletin at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said the general "continues in a peaceful coma which is gradually deepening . . . the other major vital functions are becoming increasingly difficult to sustain."

AFTER PANIC, THE TEARS

Mrs. Margaret Feria of Harbor City reaches tearfully for her 8-year-old son, Robbie Kauffman, as they are reunited after a frantic two-hour search through the district's storm drain system where he and three other youngsters were believed lost.

'64 Good Year for Party too

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday 1964 will be a prosperous year for the American people and "a good year for the Democrats from the political standpoint."

Asked at another of his Saturday afternoon news conferences whether it would be a good year for him, Johnson replied:

"The Democrats, I said. That means all Democrats."

Johnson, who all but announced his bid for re-election with that statement, was in a generally bouyant mood as he surveyed the world for newsmen clustered around him at the coffin-shaped table of the Cabinet Room.

* * * *

SPEAKING of recent events in Panama and Brazil, the President said:

"I would say that this has been a good week for this hemisphere."

Johnson reported he is "encouraged by the developments in Panama," which agreed Friday to resume diplomatic relations with the United States and proceed with talks aimed at solving long-standing difficulties over the Canal Zone.

He announced that the new U.S. ambassador to Panama will be Jack Hood Vaughn, the Peace Corps' director for Latin America.

* * * *

AS FOR Brazil, Johnson said he is glad constitutional processes were observed in the overthrow of former President Joao Goulart and added, "We expect and look forward to brighter hopes there."

On another optimistic note, the President announced "very good news" about the nation's persistent balance-of-payments problems. He said preliminary figures indicate that in the January-March quarter, the U.S. payments deficit — the amount of money leaving the country balanced against the amount coming in — was almost eliminated.

The 50 or 60 newsmen who gathered at the White

AFTERNOON OF FEAR

Tots Spur Frantic Storm Drain Hunt

By ANDY PARK

Fear gripped a Harbor City neighborhood Saturday and launched a two-hour search by police and firemen—above and below the ground—when it was believed four young children had disappeared into a storm drain system.

All the youngsters later turned up safely.

It began with a frantic call to a telephone operator from a neighbor of Mrs. Margaret Feria of 1273 W. Anaheim St. Mrs. Feria, too frozen with fear to act, was sobbing that her 8-year-old son was lost in a storm drain.

* * * *

WHEN FOUR squad cars from the Harbor Division of the Los Angeles Police Department and two units from the fire department arrived at the row of seven apartment buildings, scores of neighbors were already swarming over a two-acre backwash of the Bixby Slough west of Harbor Park, searching for any sign of Mrs. Feria's son, Robbie Kauffman.

At noon, Theodore Vandervert, manager of the apartment complex, was crossing between two buildings when he saw four children playing near a manhole cover.

"Robbie was prying up the cover with a piece of iron," Vandervert said later. "I didn't think much of it. The kids often went down the drains. They had a 'little club' that meets down there."

* * * *

"MRS. CAMPBELL, she lives in the front apartment, she told me that there were two other boys with Robbie and his girl friend, Tammy."

"I thought it best to tell Mrs. Feria," Vandervert said.

Firemen wearing masks descended into two separate networks of drains under orders of Battalion Chief E. M. Culp while officers and detectives began a house-to-house canvass.

School Falls, 40 Die, 128 Hurt

BOMBAY, India (AP) — A girls' high school collapsed in the south Indian textile town of Madurai Saturday and rescue workers reported 40 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage. Fifty girls were taken to hospitals with serious injuries.

About 250 girls were attending Saraswathi School at the time of the tragedy. Officials said the dead included 38 girl students and 2 teachers, including a man. The total number of injured was 128.

Hot-Rod Bit Not for LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday he is unaware he has ever driven above 70 miles an hour while acting as his own chauffeur.

He also said he intends to keep on driving from time to time.

A newsman reminded Johnson of stories that the President had driven at speeds of perhaps up to 90 miles an hour in a 70-mile-an-hour zone while spending the Easter holidays on his Texas ranch.

"Some people have expressed concern that you are putting yourself into danger," the inquirer said. "Do you intend to perhaps drive more slowly, or are you concerned about your own safety?"

Johnson replied: "I am unaware that I have ever driven past 70."

Another newsman told Johnson that along with expressions of concern during the past week about his driving an automobile,

L.A.C. Says:

May Craig Has Her Say

Millions of Americans have watched May Craig and listened to her Maine accent as she asks questions on "Meet the Press." Now she is stating some of her own views in a U. S. News report. She is greatly disturbed over the lowering of our morality in dealing with domestic and world affairs. She says: "Unless there is a change, deep down, in the American people—a genuine crusade against self-indulgence, immorality, public and private—then we will witness the decline and fall of the American Republic."

As examples Mrs. Craig gives, "death on the highways—a pack a day, cheating from top to bottom in our society, reckless debt, break-up of the family and a faltering foreign policy." Why, she asks, should we think we can take that path and change history? Around the world they can take our money with one hand and slap us in the face with the other. We talk of our "leadership" but we are apparently incapable of giving leadership.

She goes on to remind us that Red China is close to being admitted to the United Nations. This is at a time when our men are dying in jungles—killed by Red Chinese weapons and their trained guerrilla fighters. We are opposed to Communists, but seem to think Khrushchev is not so bad as we sell him our subsidized wheat and thus save him from a breakdown of the system we say we oppose.

Mrs. Craig apparently is a conservative, and therefore suspect to many who object to these observations. But they are vital reminders of the faltering policies we have been following. She refers to the Cuban Bay of Pigs debacle where we failed to support the 1961 force of Cubans we had trained to overthrow Castro. It made us appear weak in the eyes of most of the world. The result is, today Cuba is the base for Communist attacks on Latin-America, and a nuclear menace to our own nation.

The Bobby Baker scandal is apparently to be glossed over to avoid embarrassment to the President and senators during this election year. Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are drawing great crowds to view them in "Cleopatra." Frank Sinatra continues to be a favorite entertainer, even though he was kicked out of his Nevada enterprises because of his association with hoodlums.

Mrs. Craig says: "The United Nations itself should be forced into financial honesty by the U. S. refusing to keep on paying the bills while many nations get a free ride while outvoting us. The idea of letting in a small nation of fewer than a half million people—utterly inexperienced in governing itself—within a few days of its establishment, is an example. We might at least insist on a period of probation."

She concludes her article with: "Nobody respects a fumbler—a weak man, a wobbler in policy or deeds. First, every one of us has to clean out weakness and selfishness and immorality of all types. Then chosen leaders with strength and principal will lead us to where we can have self-respect and respect of others. Would we elect such a man if he campaigned on such a platform?"

It is quite an analysis of present-day problems. It should cause each of us to ask, How do I measure up? It will give added interest to the appearance of May Craig in her next Meet the Press panel. It reminds us of Bernard Baruch's remark that the American people had lost their capacity for indignation.—L.A.C.

Tenth of Labor in Defense Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate labor subcommittee reported Saturday that almost a tenth of the U.S. labor force works in defense-related industries and that scientists and engineers would be hardest-hit by any decline in military spending.

It said the engineers and scientists would "find their jobs conditions somewhat altered as they move into civilian enterprise. They will command lower salaries and be required to design products which meet far different specifications than in defense."

President Predicts Good '64

House on a hunch that Johnson might have an impromptu news conference bombarded him with questions about foreign affairs.

At one point, the President expressed hope that one potential cause of East-West friction, overflights of East Germany by U. S. military planes, has been eliminated.

Attributing such incidents to faulty instruments or crew error, he said, "I have issued instructions calculated to avoid any such errors in the future that are humanly possible to avoid."

Asked to assess the ideological battle between Moscow and Peking, Johnson said the Soviet Union and Communist China "are fighting for support" among the Communist parties in other countries. He said the matter concerns them and "I do not see that there is anything I can say that would contribute to it."

One reporter asked whether the actions of French President Charles De Gaulle are splitting the Western Alliance.

"No," the chief executive responded, "I do not believe that the Western Alliance is being split. I think we have differences . . . from time to time between countries and between spokesmen and leaders."

* * * *

BUT THE President added that "when the chips are down," the alliance will stand together and "effectively defend freedom wherever it is challenged."

The mention of the November election came when a newsman asked Johnson if he knows of any incumbent President failing of re-election in times of prosperity.

Grinning, Johnson said he didn't think Democrats had any mortgage on prosperity. But he added that he thought Democratic policies were more likely to achieve it.

* * * *

WITHOUT directly alluding to his own chances of election in November, Johnson said:

"I think this will be a good year for the American people in the economic sense and a good year for the Democrats in the political sense.

WISHES HE'D BEHAVED AS WELL

LBJ Lauds Youth Morals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Saturday gave his two daughters an "A" for conduct and hinted a bit ruefully that he wished he had been as good when he was their age.

In fact, he thought pretty highly of all of today's youth.

"From my observation, there has been an improvement in morals since my day," he reflected, drawing a laugh from reporters who had been called into his office for a news conference.

Johnson left home after he graduated from high school and roamed through the Far West picking up construction and farm jobs before he decided to enter college.

"I think I would have made my parents happier if, at 16 or 18 or even 20, I had conducted myself to the same high standards of morals as my daughters apply to themselves now," he mused.

Johnson was speaking of his daughters Lynda Bird, 20, and Luci Baines, 16, and their friends. He acknowledged that, as President, he may be seeing "a little different type of youngster."

But he added that in watching young people of his daughters' ages, "I am very proud of their morals and their intense interest in the finer things in life and in their general conduct."

The President affirmed his faith in America's young despite current problems of unemployment and school dropouts, which he said "contribute to situations that are not too pleasing."

Johnson's reflections came after one reporter asked him what he thought of published reports of "the loosening of morals" among America's youth.

U.S. Ups Domestic Purchases of Beef

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson said Saturday the Defense Department has decided to buy an additional 3 million pounds of meat in the United States each month to send to installations overseas.

He said this will reduce meat imports by 8 or 10 percent and help the U. S. balance of payments problem, which he predicted "could be almost balanced off" in the first three months of 1964.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara already has issued orders for the new meat-buying policy, Johnson told a news conference, and informed the President just Saturday.

At current domestic prices, such meat purchases were not expected to have a great effect on the annual balance of trade deficit, last reported running at an annual rate of $2 billion. Even so, government officials argue that "every little bit helps" to reduce the gap between U. S. sales and purchases overseas.

Assuming the Defense Department buys domestic beef at current market prices, it would pay about $1.6 million a month for three million pounds.

Instead, the new policy was viewed more as part of a determined administration effort to help boost domestic cattle prices and take the heat off demands in Congress for stiff new meat import quotas.

Hot-Rodding Not for Me, Says LBJ

there have been suggestions that he leave the driving to a chauffeur.

"Would you give us your reaction to that or tell us whether you plan to continue driving?" he was asked.

"Yes," Johnson replied, "I will drive from time to time.

"I ride very little and drive very little, but I will be going from the bottom of the hill on the ranch to the top of the hill, and I may actually, every three or four months, go over to a neighbor's place. I would want to feel free to do that."

Johnson Appoints Envoy to Panama

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson named a new amabassador to Panama Saturday, promised help to Brazil and declared with obvious satisfaction: "This has been a good week for this hemisphere."

The Panamanian assignment went to the Latin Ameriucan director of the Peace Corps, Jack Hood Vaughn, 43, who has had considerable experience in foreign aid work in Latin America and once served in Panama.

Johnson said Vaughn would go to Panama "just as soon as he can be confirmed by the Senate." The ambassadorial post has been vacant since last August. Johnson praised Vaughn as a man who knows personally about as many Panamanians as any U. S. citizen does.

* * * *

The notes reopening diplomatic ties cleared away the last obstacle to the U. S.-Panamanian agreement concluded Friday to negotiate for a "just and fair" solution of their differences over the 1963 treaty which gives the U. S. absolute and perpetual control of the Canal Zone. Panama is demanding a share in control.

* * * *

THE PANAMANIAN settlement formula was reached just one day after the new government was established in Brazil following the ouster of President Joao Goulart,

ANOTHER witness, Rodney King, 32, of Long Beach, said he, too submitted a report to the ADL after he attended a Signal Hill post meeting in February of 1961. He said he chatted in the lobby of Signal Hill City Hall, where the post's meetings are held, with Victor Marshall, a past commander of the post.

He said Marshall told him that Jews were "pushing integration" for Negroes, that former President Eisenhower is a Swedish Jew and that the members of Eisenhower's cabinet were Jewish. King said Marshall supplied him with several pieces of anti-Semitic literature.

* * * *

THE PROSECUTION called six witnesses Saturday, and is expected to bring two more to the stand today. Then the defense, which has filed a list of 56 possible witnesses, will open its case.

At a recess in the trial, Marshall denied to newsmen that he had made the statements attributed to him or handed out race-hate literature.

The public was barred from the hearing room at Hollywood Post 43, but many Legionnaires were admitted. About 150 spectators sat through the first day's session and another 50 or more sat outside the hearing room. Among those outside and inside the room were members of a group calling themselves the "Christian Defense League," who had come to offer support to the Signal Hill post.

"Some of the CDL members said they were a "security force" to protect Signal Hill post members "in case there is trouble."

* * * *

ONE OF THE MEN, who carried a pistol under his coat, sat in the hearing room and kept in touch with another man outside the room by walkie-talkie radio. He was ordered to shut off the radio, but was not disarmed because he presented credentials identifying him as a reserve sheriff's deputy, Legion officials said.

But there were no incidents, although there had been rumors earlier that a group might stage a demonstration at the trial.

* * * *

THE HEARING will resume at 9 a.m. today and end later today or tonight. But there will be no verdict until June when the executive committee of the Legion's California Department meets in Sacramento to consider the recommendation of the three-man trial board. State court proceedings were followed almost entirely.

If the Signal Hill post is found guilty of charges that it spread "anti-Semitic, anti-Negro and other hate literature and propaganda" in or immediately after its business meetings, its charter could be revoked.

Kidnaping Suspects in Custody

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two men charged with shooting a policeman as he directed rush-hour traffic in downtown Los Angeles and kidnaping two motorists were returned here Saturday from Barstow, Calif., where they were captured.

Police said Earl Halstead, 40, of Orange, Calif., and formerly of Detroit, Mich., and William F. Andruss, 21, of San Jose, Calif., had admitted robbing a downtown Los Angeles pawnshop and stealing a car, but none of the other charges.

CATCHES SWOONING BRIDE

Big John Wayne Is 'Wedding Hero'

Melinda Ann Wayne, 23, and Gregory Robert Munoz, 26, a Los Angeles County deputy district attorney, were married in the Roman Catholic Blessed Sacrament Church.

WITH WAYNE HOLDING her on one side and the kneeling bridegroom on the other, the pretty, brunette bride soon recovered.

A priest brought a chair and she sat through the rest of the Mass.

Wayne said afterward: "I don't know whether it was the right procedure, but she's my baby and so I dashed up there."

Melinda fainted about three-quarters of the way through the 95-minute proceedings.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Donald La Cava, who was matron of honor, said later that Melinda has fainted at others' weddings and does so when she smells incense.

dreau. "We've got to assume that the kids are in the drains. We've got to search until we find them."

* * * *

FOR MORE than two hours searchers probed the winding pathways of the concrete catacombs still under construction in the 1300-block of west Anaheim St.

More children were missed.

"Where is Bradley Darrah?" a woman asked. "I haven't seen Bradley. He's always playing down there."

* * * *

"DOES ANYBODY know this 'Tammy's' last name?" a policeman asked.

"Let me go down there after him. He's my brother. Let me go," screamed 18-year-old Ken Kauffman at policemen who were shaking their heads.

The radio on a hook-and-ladder truck parked near the scene blared:

"We have a map of both the abandoned drain system and the new one being put in. However, this map doesn't show manhole covers. It's Saturday and we can't raise anyone at the Public Works office. Do you want this map?"

The Chief radioed back: "Send it over."

* * * *

There was a break: The missing Bradley Darrah, Skipper Johnson and Tammy Kaufman were located. Whether or not they had been in the drain couldn't be quickly determined.

At 5:59 p.m., a minute short of six hours since the children were last seen, a tousled, blond boy bounced into the midst of a crowd now numbering more than 100.

"Hey, what's going on? I saw you from where I was playing over near a tree."

Robbie Kauffman had been found.

"We came out a few minutes after we went in," he told his mother.

Car's Wreck Pins Driver for an Hour

An Artesia man, pinned for more than an hour in his small sports car, was in critical condition late Saturday at Community Hospital: His car swerved out of control at 8 p.m. and hit another vehicle head on just east of the intersection of Bellflower Boulevard and Spring Street.

A passenger in the sports car and a man and wife in the other car were admitted to the hospital in serious condition.

Also injured were James F. Hause, 29, of 20806 Gridley Road, Artesia, a passenger in the car with May; Jack Walter Taylor, 32, and his wife, Yvonne, 35, of 15321 Rushmore Lane, Huntington Beach.

Two units from the fire department worked over the small vehicle for an hour before they were able to extricate May from the twisted wreckage.

Cyprus Scuttles Turk Pact

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—President Makarios of Cyprus announced Saturday night he has unilaterally abrogated the treaty that gave Turkey the right to maintain 650 troops on this strategic Mediterranean island.

A short time later reports of new fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots reached the capital from the northwestern section of the island. British U.N. troops in the area came under fire for the second straight day but there were no indications of British casualties.

However, the reports said one Greek Cypriot was killed and at least six others wounded in some fighting between the villages of Kokkina and Pakyyammos.

* * * *

A U.N. spokesman said Greek Cypriot irregulars in home-made armored cars launched a two-pronged assault against the Turk Cypriot village of Mansoura near Kokkina.

There were few details of the fighting but U. N. truce team went into the area in an attempt to arrange a cease-fire.

The spokesman said the British troops came under fire from both sides. He said the Greek Cypriots were armed with automatic weapons and used armored bulldozers in the assault.

A spokesman said Makarios told Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey in a note that he was abrogating the treaty because Turkish troops on the island refused orders to return to their barracks.

Probers Suspect Lie-Detector Abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee reported Saturday the federal government gave lie-detector—polygraph—tests to at least 23,122 persons last year.

The subcommittee said "... Serious questions have been raised ... regarding the reliability of the device and the propriety of its use."

The committee found most of the supposedly scientific tests were administered by military men, some of whom had only five days' training and most of whom were required to have only a high school diploma.

Further, the House Committee on Government Operations reported the polygraph was found to be only 72-percent accurate in judging falsehoods.

All federal courts and many state tribunals refuse to admit results of a polygraph test into evidence.

The preliminary report was prepared for the full committee by the foreign operations and government information subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif. Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., heads the full committee. Public hearings on the use of the polygraph will begin Tuesday.

The Army was reported by the committee to be the most frequent user of the lie detector. It administered 12,494 tests in 1963—8,084 for security reasons.

Oddly, the Army employed an E-5 sergeant for the security tests while using a warrant officer in criminal cases.

The committee found the Navy required only five days' training for lie-detector operations, while the Army gave a seven-week course.

As for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the committee reported it gave 2,314 tests last year and had the stiffest requirements for operators—a two-week academic course and a year's on-the-job training with an expert.

In all, the committee said, the government owned 526 polygraphs and spent $4.5 million in 1963 on their operation.

Beyond all this, the committee reported, there was almost no supervision, especially in the military, of the test operators by higher authority or of the questions asked.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF FOUR-STORY LONG BEACH NAVAL HOSPITAL

First Phase of Naval Hospital Construction Gets Under Way

First phase of construction on the 350-bed, $7,500,000 Long Beach Naval Hospital at Carson Street and the San Gabriel Freeway is under way.

The pile-driving contract has been let and the construction area is being staked. This foundation phase of the operation should be completed in 120 days.

Plans for the four-story structure to be built on a completely landscaped 30.5-acre site were prepared by the firm of Hugh Gibbs & Donald Gibbs, Long Beach architects.

* * * *

THE COMPLETELY air-conditioned hospital building will provide facilities that include nursing units for the various divisions of surgery, medicine, psychiatry, intensive care and pediatrics.

Bed-patient and out-patient clinics are to be provided for medicine, surgery, allergy, eye, ear, nose and throat, dentistry, orthopedics and pediatrics.

The following adjunct facilities normal to a general hospital of this size—210,500 square feet—will be included: radiology and surgery departments, laboratories, central sterile supply, occupational therapy, physical therapy, admitting and emergency department and administration. A Patient Welfare and Recreation Department is included and, applicable primarily to a military hospital, will provide recreational and educational opportunities for long term patients.

* * * *

THE HOSPITAL will face Carson Street and have separate entrances and parking facilities for each major department.

The piling-foundation contract was let to the firm of J. Putnam Hench. Officer in charge of construction is Rear Adm. L. C. Coxe, director of the Southwest Division of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. His on-site representative is Comdr. R. F. Dunnells, resident officer in charge of construction, Long Beach area.

New Water Plan Seeks North States' Surplus

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A plan for bringing surplus water from northern states to Southern California and Arizona was announced Saturday by California water agencies.

It is intended to be a substitute for a similar plan proposed by the Department of Interior.

The new concept, which is to be explained to California's congressional delegation early next week, envisions use of surplus water from rivers such as the Columbia, Snake, Yellowstone and from areas in northern California.

The plan, in the form of a bill sponsors hope will be introduced in Congress, was conceived by California water agencies that benefit from Colorado River water.

The bill would require the secretary of the Interior to make feasibility studies of all sources of water that could be delivered to the Colorado River basin. The secretary would also be required to study how water taken from the north could be replaced if needed.

Heretofore, northern interests, particularly in Idaho, have objected to any suggestions that water be shipped south.

Top Lawyers Defend Rights Bill's Legality

By BILL BROOM
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A panel of the nation's leading lawyers, including Long Beach attorney Joseph A. Ball, defended the civil rights bill Saturday against attacks on its constitutionality.

Ball is a past president of the California Bar Association.

They issued a statement in response to a request from the bill's bipartisan floor managers in the Senate, Majority Whip Hubert Humphrey, D.-Minn., and Thomas H. Kuchel, R.-Calif.

Well-financed attacks on the measure's constitutionality and false warnings of how it might affect business and working conditions have been publicized in recent weeks in full-page newspaper advertisements. These have brought an outpouring of enough apprehensive mail to Northern and Western senators to worry them.

The bill's supporters decided at a mid-week strategy session to spend six days in a careful and lengthy exposition of each provision of the bill which would include a rebuttal to many of the attacks. Meanwhile, Southern opponents of civil rights received few opportunities to challenge or to speak.

Humphrey and Kuchel said the lawyer's statement on the constitutionality of the public accommodations and equal employment opportunity titles of the bill "utterly destroys the argument of those who have claimed that Congress lacks constitutional power in these areas."

The statement said Congress has constitutional rights under the commerce clause and the 14th Amendment to legislate in public accommodations and employment and that these rights have been upheld many times in the courts. It was signed by 22 of the nation's most prominent attorneys, including three former U.S. attorneys general, four past presidents of the American Bar Association and the deans of Harvard, Yale, Minnesota and Vanderbilt Law Schools.

Session on Rights Collapses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first Saturday session of the Senate's formal civil rights bill debate collapsed Saturday when embarrassed administration forces failed to muster enough members to do business.

Only 41 senators appeared on the floor in a quorum call. That was 10 less than required to conduct business.

The Senate had no choice but to quit. It gave up after 40 minutes and voted, 27-14, to recess until 10 a.m. Monday.

* * * *

SOUTHERN FOES of the bill thus won a moral victory—and a day of rest—through the unsuccessful quorum call, one of their own favorite delaying tactics. Their amusement over the situation was heightened by the fact that several "team captains" appointed by the bipartisan leadership for the debate never showed up.

Among them were Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.; Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., all specifically assigned to be on hand.

Also absent was Senate GOP whip Thomas Kuchel, Calif., comanager of the House-passed bill with Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., had a speech all ready, calling the bill "good and moderate," but never had a chance to make it. He will do so Monday.

Integrators Picket Fair, 30 Arrested

A spokesman said the demonstration was aimed at drawing attention to city school integration problems.

The Rev. Milton Galamison and 29 others were taken to police headquarters in patrol wagons after they had lain in a street to block passage of trucks hauling material for last-minute work at the fair, scheduled to open April 22.

One picket chained a truck to a fence to tie up traffic leading into the exposition site. The 30 arrested were paroled for a hearing on disorderly conduct charges.

The coroner's office said Robert Donohue, 78, apparently died from natural causes at his home, 3404 Via Oporto. He had been a patient in the U.S. Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton.

Shotgun Blast Fatal to Builder

The young owner of a construction company who was "just horsing around" with a 12-gauge shotgun when it exploded into his stomach Thursday, died at 3:47 p.m. Saturday in Community Hospital.

Donald J. Hill, 22, of 1735 Coronado Ave., owner of Hill and Hill Construction Co., had undergone surgery Thursday night.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Rocky's Brother Vies in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, declaring that Arkansans are tired of one-party politics, announced Saturday as a candidate for governor.

Several hours later, the chairman of the Arkansas GOP accused Rockefeller of whimsical domination of the party, and said the GOP here is dead.

WINTHROP ROCKEFELLER
Wants F us's Job

Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, said he got into the race because of "tremendous encouragement" from all sections of the state.

His most likely opponent is Gov. Orval E. Faubus, a five-term Democrat who is expected to announce for re-election this week.

William L. Spicer, GOP chairman in Arkansas, said Rockefeller will "absolutely not" have a united party behind him, and that "in view of the split, the chance of Rockefeller beating Faubus is not good." He said the party was split wide open.

Communists Plan Showdown for Fall

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass disclosed Saturday that world communism's showdown meeting about Red China is planned for fall.

This gives plenty of time for all parties to take a position and for Premier Khrushchev to marshal his strength for the climatic test of strength with Mao Tse-tung.

The Tass disclosure came in a dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, reporting that the Bulgarian Communist Party was "shoulder to shoulder" with Moscow in the fight with Peking.

Soviets Launch 'Cosmos' Satellite

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday launched the 28th unmanned satellite in its "Cosmos" series in an apparent new effort to press its study of the effects on man of prolonged space flights.

The launching followed the April 2 rocketing of a flying laboratory, "Zond-1," into space to test on improved rocket booster and take scientific measurements.

Closed Casino Quickly Reopens

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Gambling at the Silver Slipper casino on the Las Vegas strip resumed early Saturday, only a few hours after state gaming agents halted play there because of alleged cheating.

The Nevada Gaming Commission issued an emergency order against the club at 9 p.m. Friday alleging the Silver Slipper had been caught using crooked dice on one of its tables.

The club reopened its 10 table games and 105 slot machines at 1:45 a.m.

Deposed Goulart Arrives in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Joao Goulart, deposed as Brazilian president by a military-political revolt aimed at throttling communism, arrived here Saturday to take up political exile. He refused to comment on Brazilian politics.

Goulart's private plane arrived at 3:35 p.m. EST from his Sao Borja, Brazil, ranch, ending a two-day mystery as to his whereabouts.

Solon Accuses Celler

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Michael Feighan, D-Ohio, has accused Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of blocking an "uninhibited" investigation of U.S. immigration policies, including charges some congressmen have taken maney to "fix" immigration cases.

Feighan made the statement during an appearance before a House appropriations subcommittee March 20. In his testimony, made public Saturday, he asked for $160,000 to hire a staff for a long-dormant House-Senate immigration policy committee he heads.

Tornado's Aftermath

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Thousands of airmen and civilians searched on hands and knees Saturday for anything worth saving from the debris left by the towering tornado that crushed through northwest Wichita Falls, killing seven and injuring 113.

Damage to civilian property was estimated by various disaster officials at about $3 million.

Fire Kills Baby, Mother Faces Homicide Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—A Brooklyn mother of five was charged with homicide Saturday after her one-year-old daughter burned to death in a fire that swept the family apartment.

Two of the children admitted playing with matches and setting their bed afire, police said. Neighbors rescued five of the children, but the infant, Kim, perished.

This was the 27th case this year in which children, left unattended by their parents, perished in fires, police said.

Bruce Jailed Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Comedian Lenny Bruce appeared in Manhattan Criminal Court Saturday on a charge of using obscene language and was released in $1,500 bail for a hearing April 23. He had spent the night in jail.

Bruce previously has been arrested in Chicago and Los Angeles on similar charges.

AUTOMATION INSTITUTE OF AMERICA
ANNOUNCES OPEN HOUSE
THURSDAY, APRIL 9th • 100 E. OCEAN JERGINS BLDG.
OF 50th AFFILIATED SCHOOL...
AUTOMATION INSTITUTE IN LONG BEACH

AUTOMATION IS HERE TO STAY

Payrolls, bank statements, book club accounts, utility bills, aerospace programs — all have entered the realm of Automation. And here in our expanding Long Beach market, the multi-faceted business of data processing is finding a fertile ground for expansion.

It all started after the war when Data Processing began moving into banks, businesses and industries — until now the demand for trained personnel in Data Processing is timely for a school devoted to the complete spectrum of data processing from Card Punching through Computers.

HARRY E. WHITE
School Director
AUTOMATION INSTITUTE

So on January 27th the Automation Institute of Long Beach & Orange County began classes in the well-known Jergins Building at 100 East Ocean Blvd., and according to its president, Harry E. White, Automation Institutes are our nation's largest independent Schools for Business Automation training.

This Automation Institute in Long Beach is a branch of the Automation Institute of America that started out in 1956 in San Francisco.

At Automation Institute there are morning, afternoon and evening classes for students who are at least high school graduates and who pass an aptitude test. The basic course in Card Punching and Verifier training runs 60 hours and classes are limited to eight students.

Mr. White stated that academic and administrative staff of Automation Institute are prepared to meet the increasing need in our market area for many more well-qualified personnel skilled in using automated office equipment.

Charles E. Wolff has been named as vice president and educational director. He will supervise educational administration and academic policies. Wolff will also acquaint our local schools, teaching staffs and students of the growing need for young people in the field of data processing in our area. A color movie, "Careers in Business Automation," is now available by Automation Institute for showing in schools, and before interested groups. Mr. Wolff has had experience as a college and university instructor, school director and formerly with the Small Business Administration. He is currently an Associate Professor of Marketing at Long Beach State College.

Evart Carroll, long time resident and city employee of Long Beach, is Registrar. Mr. Carroll holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from Pacific Coast University of Law. He stated that interested persons may contact him now for further information on the various Data Processing courses.

Robert McEwan is the Institute's supervisory instructor. He has had 23 years experience with several large companies operating, installing and supervising many types of IBM Business Machines equipment. Mr. McEwan was most recently with Citrus College where he taught a number of data processing courses.

Mrs. Betty Hansmann has been appointed the school's Placement Director. She points out that Automation Institute provides all of its students a valuable free nationwide placement service upon successful completion of their chosen courses of instruction. Mrs. Hansmann most recently was with the Long Beach City College placement office.

School Director Harry E. White invites all interested persons to visit the completely remodeled Automation Institute during the school's OPEN HOUSE on Thursday, April 9th, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and talk with the staff and faculty, and visit the modern classrooms and IBM Business Machines practice rooms. Refreshments will be served.

HE'S ONE OF 80 STARTING A NEW LIFE

For Little Ki Sun Kim, New Home in Artesia Will Be Dream Fulfilled

By JACK BALDWIN

When a fully-loaded four-engine chartered plane returns to the Southland on May 1 with 41 American couples bringing back 80 Korean waifs there will be one youngster arriving with more of a handicap than just being an orphan.

He is 10-year-old Ki Sun Kim, who learned to beg when he was 4 after his mother abandoned him and his brother. One morning Ki, asleep on a pile of rags, awakened to discover his brother gone—apparently on an early forage for food. He never saw him again.

Alone in a strange village, Ki attempted to return to his home village by catching a ride on a moving train. Too small and weak to pull himself up, Ki was dragged along the rough roadbed until his foot was literally worn away by the rocks and splintered ties. His leg was amputated below the knee.

* * * *

ORPHANED AND hobbling on crutches, Ki held little hope that a "Mama San and Papa San from Stateside" would ever come to adopt him.

Then one day John Filbeck of Artesia, an assembler at Douglas Aircraft plant in Long Beach, and his wife Mary, a former school teacher, read about Ki's plight in a newsletter from Harry Holt, founder of an orphanage near Il San in South Korea.

The Filbecks, who live on a farm at 17222 Clarkdale St., already have two Korean children adopted when one was 4½ months and the other 35 days old. Rhonda Denice is 5 and next month Ruth Darlene will be 4.

* * * *

ON APRIL 24 the Filbecks will board the chartered Flying Tiger Constellation along with 40 other couples, including several from Compton, Anaheim, Garden Grove and Los Alamitos, and make the 6,000-mile flight to Korea. The special trip is the second arranged by Mrs. Ray Proxmire of 632 S. Los Angeles St., Anaheim, herself the foster mother of three Korean orphan girls.

HARRY HOLT
Wrote Newsletter

The flight, costing the group approximately $40,000 plus living and incidental expenses, is necessitated by federal and state laws requiring prospective parents to see the children they intend to adopt before or during adoption proceedings.

"Last week my husband slaughtered 40 pigs he raises for our friends and members of the Evangelicalist Center Church," Mrs. Filbeck said. 'The money from their sale will help pay our expenses to Korea."

* * * *

IN KOREA, Ki is being "briefed" for life in America by John Steensma, a director of a rehabilitation center who understands what it is to be handicapped. A missionary of the Christian Reform Church, he has lost both his arms. His wife Juliana, also of Artesia, helps her husband in working with the handicapped.

Most of the children to be adopted will come from among the 800 abandoned boys and girls being cared for at the Holt Orphanage. Holt, 59, a former Oregon millionaire-farmer who adopted eight Koreans before deciding to found the orphanage, was in the Long Beach area earlier this week attempting to obtain a surplus or obsolete transport plane.

"We could bring in a lot more babies and children if the cost of getting them to the States were not so great," Holt said. "On the return trip we could take supplies, food and clothing. And with the savings in transportation costs our hospital project would move along much faster."

* * * *

HOLT VISITED the Proxmire home for a few days' rest earlier this week after a month-long trip through South America to arrange for adoptions by prospective parents there. He visited his own family in Creswell, Ore., before returning to Korea.

Among area families making the trip are:

Mr. and Mrs. William Eskew, 1608 Orchard St., Compton, who will bring back two girls, 8 and 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robieson, 1126 Weatherby Road, Los Alamitos. They will adopt a 5-year-old girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Sauder, 1928 Robert Lane, Anaheim. They will adopt a 9-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Fast, 12892 Gilbert St., Garden Grove, who have six children of their own and will bring back a 2-year-old girl and a 6-month-old girl.

While many of the parents, who will be from states as far away as Wisconsin, Minnesota and Virginia, will be wondering how their adopted children will adapt, the Filbecks have a special "worry."

"Kim Ki, as we are going to rename him, has been fitted with an artificial leg," said Mrs. Filbeck. We just wonder if he will be able to ride the Shetland pony we got for him."

Pope Sends $10,000, Blessings to Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaskan earthquake victims received a $10,000 check and the blessings Saturday from Pope Paul VI.

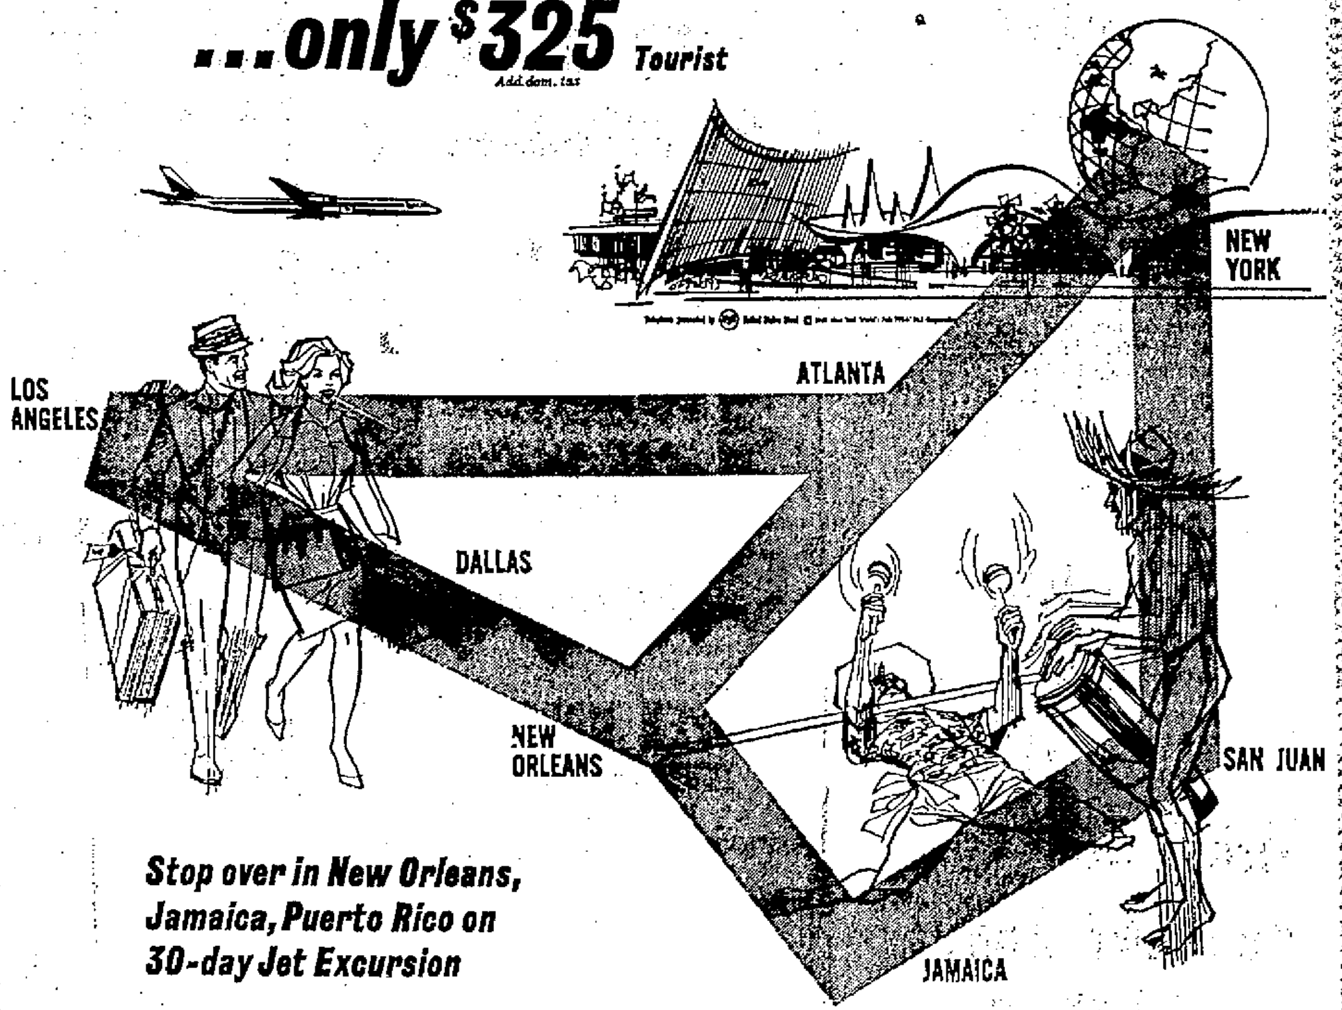
DELTA'S 8,000-mi. Jet Circle Trip to NEW YORK and the CARIBBEAN

...only $325 Tourist
Add dom. tax



Stop over in New Orleans, Jamaica, Puerto Rico on 30-day Jet Excursion

Now Delta Air Lines, California's Big Jet leader to all the South, offers Angelenos an 8,000-mile bargain Jet Circle Trip to New York and the Caribbean—for only $35 more than the regular round-trip Jetourist fare to New York City alone.

Then, on by Delta Jet to Jamaica for a few days in this exotic, glamour island of the Caribbean, or you may continue on thru to romantic San Juan, Puerto Rico. Your flight from San Juan to New York is via Pan American Jet Clipper*. Or you can plan your whole trip in reverse, seeing New York and the World's Fair first and returning via the Caribbean and New Orleans. Stop over in any city along the route, as long as you complete the trip within 30 days.

Only Delta flies both the magnificent Douglas DC-8 and the dazzling Convair 880 Jets that speed you at 600 MPH on the most thrilling, and one of the most economical trips of a lifetime.

Fly now, pay later—only 10% down, take up to 20 months on the balance.

Snow Hits Wyoming, Colorado

By United Press International

A late-season snowstorm buried Wyoming and Colorado under as much as two feet of snow Saturday and hazardous driving warnings were posted as far east as Iowa.

Laramie and Casper—two of Wyoming's largest cities—were practically isolated. Traffic was slowed to a crawl over much of Colorado.

Wheatland, Wyo., received 26 inches of snow Friday and Saturday before the storm pushed eastward. Twenty inches fell at Fraser, Colo., and 10 inches at Denver.

* * * *

HIGHWAYS to the west and north of Laramie were blocked by heavy drifting snow and Casper was cut off to the west and south. Roads also were closed in the Cheyenne, Wyo., area.

Casper and Laramie received more than a foot of snow. The storm Friday knocked out telephone service at numerous Wyoming and Colorado communities.

Colorado's agriculture commissioner termed the storm a million-dollar snowfall. Paul Swisher said the storm was "the best of winter" and worth millions of dollars to farmers and ranchers in Colorado's drought-hit plains.

Snow also fell throughout northern New Mexico.

TRIPS, PRIZES PILE UP FOR WINNER

First Miss Long Beach Hopeful Signs

Two things guarantee that Spring is just around the corner: boys start playing baseball in the streets and bathing beauties begin trying to measure up to fame.

Friday night, the Long Beach Police Department answered its first complaint about a ballgame in the street. ("We chewed them out and sent them home.")

* * * *

THE CONTEST, sponsored by the Junior Chamer of Commerce, officially opened April 1 with a new format and a list of prizes that promises to attract entrants in large numbers.

The contest, to select a representative for the city and port, has taken on added importance, according to chairman Eddie Cardenas, because of events slated for this summer.

"The 1964 Miss Long Beach will be sent overseas as a goodwill ambassador," Cardenas said. "She will also be official hostess for the International Convention of the American Newspaper Guild here in July, hostess for the International Beauty Congress will appear on network television and will preside at the Olympic trials here in August."

BRAINS AND BEAUTY mark the first entrant in the 1964 Miss Long Beach contest as Tincher Elementary School teacher Helen Minton, 27, signs up with contest chairman Eddie Cardenas, left, and Jaycee Purvis Naick. Miss Minton will vie for more than $3,000 in prizes, including a weeklong trip to Japan, that go with the Miss Long Beach crown.

* * * *

CARDENAS, along with Purvis Naick, chairman of contestants for the contest, announced that prizes worth more than $3,000 will be lavished upon the winner.

The International Beauty Congress is sending Miss Long Beach to Japan the week of July 4, along with Miss American Beauty and Miss California, to attend the finals of the Japanese IBC contest.

"She will take part in officials visits to four cities in Japan," Cardenas said, "representing the Port and City of Long Beach."

* * * *

THE WINNER will receive a cash honorarium of $250 plus transportation and all other expenses for the Japanese trip.

Other prizes include a $300 wardrobe, a diamond wrist watch, cash and other merchandise."

The Jaycees will stage an elimination contest May 23 at Alamitos Bay near the lifeguard station, with finals to be held at the Elks Club June 4.

Committee heads emphasized that more prizes for the 1964 Miss Long Beach are being added to the list.

* * * *

"WE ARE working on a trip to New York, movie tests and many radio and TV appearances," Cardenas said.

Entry blanks for the competition are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 121 Linden Ave., or will be mailed to applicants if they will phone the Jaycee office.

Contestants must be 18 to 29 years of age, must have been a resident of Long Beach for six months or be a resident student at a local college; be unmarried and agree to remain single until the susseccor is selected next year.

Deadline for applications is May 20.

3 Survive Air Crash in Sierra

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Three injured men who weathered a stormy Sierra night in the wreckage of their light plane were rescued by helicopter Saturday and flown to warmth, food and medical attention in a Reno hospital.

Jack Roys, 40, of Reno, the pilot, and Jack Copple, 48, of San Jose, Calif., president of Copple Construction Co., were the most seriously injured.

Ralph A. Weaver, 45, of San Jose, vice president of Pacific Delta Gas Co., said he was lucky to escape with a scalp cut and bruised ribs. "The Lord must have been looking out for us this time," Weaver said.

* * * *

A NURSING supervisor at Reno's Washoe Medical Center said Roys was being treated for head and leg injuries and Copple for a back injury.

Roys was believed to have suffered a concussion, but was conscious when transferred on a stretcher from a plane to an ambulance.

The three men were on a business trip from San Jose to Tonopah, Nev., in the single-engine plane owned by Pacific Delta Gas when the craft stalled into a boulder-strewn mountainside at more than 11,000 feet in the High Sierra east of Yosemite National Park.

Food Costs Drop In Long Beach

We all agree with President Johnson, that something should be done about rising food prices. Rex Welch not only agrees, but is doing something about it. Patrons of Welch's Restaurant are enjoying a lower food cost, due to the rollback in menu prices. A survey shows where a family of four are saving $2.60 or 26½% drop in their dining out cost at Welch's. This family had grilled Swordfish Steak (formerly $2.50) now $1.75 on the dinner, Chicken Fried Steak (formerly $2.75) is now $1.95, Roast Turkey dinner (formerly $2.25) is now $1.95 and the chopped Sirloin Steak, served with two Vegetables and Onion Rings (formerly $2.25) is now $1.50. These are just four of the twenty high quality dinners that have been reduced.

The tuition-free class will meet from 7-10 p.m., Tuesday in room 416 of Wilson High School. Instructor is Dick Major of the Long Beach Civil Defense Office.

La Reina Rule Speaks in L. A.

La Reina Rule, author of the "What Your Name Means" column which appears in The Independent, Press-Telegram's Southland Magazine, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the meeting of the Southern California Genealogical Society at the California Federal Savings and Loan Building, 611 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Artificial Magnetic Field for Use in Spacecraft Under Study

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space is a place where, if weightlessness doesn't get you, magnetic fieldlessness may.

Scientists have long pondered the desirability of supplying spacecraft crews with artificial gravity to offset the presumably debilitating effects of prolonged weightlessness.

Now they think it may be adviseable to provide astronauts on long jaunts in space with an artificial magnetic field to compensate in part for the one they left behind.

* * * *

SINCE LIFE began evolving on earth some three billion years ago it has been continuously subjected to the pull of gravity and to the less obvious effects of the earth's magnetic lines of force.

It appears likely that over the ages the structure and function of plants and animals have been profoundly influenced by gravity. Just recently scientists have found evidence that the creatures of earth also are subtly regulated by the earth's magnetic field.

In orbit a spacecraft is essentially weightless because its speed offsets whatever gravitational forces may be operating upon it. Interplanetary space is permeated by magnetic fields, but they are extremely weak compared to the earth's.

* * * *

SO, IN addition to weightlessness, space travelers on long journeys must be able to adjust to what amounts to magnetic fieldlessness.

Gravity can be imitated by rotation. In a large space station, say, this would create a pull on astronauts in the rim something like the tug to which they were accustomed on earth. An artificial magnetic field also could be created, by electrical means.

Little is known about the importance of the earth's magnetic field to man. But information is accumulating.

For example, recent experiments showed the men who spent two weeks in a laboratory chamber without a magnetic field suffered some impairment of vision. They recovered quickly when returned to a normal environment. Research is continuing.

Szilard Joins Salk Institute

LA JOLLA (UPI)—Dr. Leon Szilard, internationally known biophysicist from the University of Chicago, has joined the staff of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

A co-winner with Dr. Eugene P. Wigner of the Atoms For Peace Award in 1959, Dr. Szilard is credited with assisting in the design of the chain reaction of uranium and graphite used in the atomic pile. He also has achieved fame in theoretical and nuclear physics.

Gemini Test Turning Point

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

Launch of the first Gemini spacecraft from Cape Kennedy Tuesday will be a giant step toward getting America out of the flyweight class in manned space flight.

The first two Gemini test vehicles will be unmanned. But if all goes well with them, two American astronauts will ride together into space for the first time late next fall in a craft twice the size of the pioneering Mercury capsules.

Gemini will also be this nation's first spacecraft to be actually "flown" by its occupants.

The original concept in manned Mercury flights was that the astronaut would go along only as an observer because his capabilities in space were unknown at that time.

Although he could exercise some manual control, his spaceship was designed essentially as a fully automatic machine.

However, the pilot proved himself during Project Mercury.

For example, if John Glenn had not been able to take over the controls in his flight when the automatic control system malfunctioned, there would have been insufficient fuel to complete his mission.

There were several other instances during the program when the astronauts demonstrated their ability to contribute toward mission success.

Therefore, Gemini has been designed as a true pilot-controlled operational spacecraft, with decisions made by humans rather than by electronic boxes.

And there will be decisions aplenty for them to make.

The pilot will decide whether to abort a mission during the boost phase. He will also separate the spacecraft from the booster, steer the craft from one orbit to another, rendezvous with another satellite, decide when and where to re-enter the earth's atmosphere and then control the re-entry before guiding the spacecraft to a safe landing.

Unique feature of Gemini, as compared to Mercury, will be its ability to change orbits.

Mercury spacecraft were restricted like trains to a single orbital "track" while Gemini will have a selection of space "highways" to choose from.

Glenn and his mates could twist their ships under manual control. They could turn, tip and tilt them . . . but the Mercury capsules remained in their fixed orbital path until retro rockets were fired to begin re-entry.

Miners Vote to Continue Coal Tie-up

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Hopes for an immediate end to a walkout of coal miners in six states vanished Saturday when a hard core of recalcitrant workers voted unanimously to continue a strike in protest to a new contract.

United Mine Workers Local 6321, representing 1,250 men at the huge Robena Complex of U.S. Steel Corp. at Carmichaels in southwestern Pennsylvania, held a meeting at Masontown. About 1,000 workers voted to extend the strike. The local's next meeting is scheduled for next Saturday.

Representatives from nine other locals in West Virginia and Ohio attended the meeting in Italian Hall. During the two-hour session, local leaders emphatically reaffirmed their opposition to the contract signed by the union's international officers.

Solons Get Petitions for Prayer Law

Petitions bearing 120,000 signatures have gone out from Long Beach to 35 congressmen in support of a proposed constitutional amendment permitting voluntary prayers in public schools.

Vice Mayor James A. Hayes mailed the bulky stacks of petitions in boxes and big envelopes to 22 members of Congress from California and 13 from other states.

A volunteer corps of circulators collected the signatures during a five-month campaign following the Long Beach City Council's adoption of a resolution last Sept. 17 endorsing the amendment.

The volunteers also sorted the petition forms by cities and areas represented on the signatures. Thus each of the Congressmen is getting an appeal from his own home town.

• • • •

IN A covering letter Hayes urged the legislators to vote for discharge of the House joint resolution from the Judiciary Committee, a move to send the amendment to the floor for debate.

The biggest batch of petitions went to Rep. Craig Hosmer of Long Beach, but there were also sizable mailings to Congressmen from as far away as New England and the Deep South.

From Long Beach the movement spread to distant localities by a procedure which had not been expected to produce such massive results, Hayes said.

Volunteers left blank forms for signing in popular tourist centers of Southern California. Visitors asked for more of the forms to take back home. Then they organized their own campaigns and mailed the petitions to Hayes for forwarding to Congress.

The petitions refer to the Long Beach council's resolution. They specify that the amendment should permit rather than compel the local school authorities to authorize prayers.

Laos Prince Phouma Confers With Chou

TOKYO (AP) — Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier of Laos, conferred with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China in Peking Saturday, the New China News Agency reported in a broadcast heard here.

It said they had a "friendly talk," then went to a banquet at which Chou declared "U.S. imperialists . . . tried hard to disrupt the unity of the three political forces (rightist, neutralist and leftist) in Laos and ceaselessly created tension there."

Spies Convicted

TOKYO (AP)—Seven South Vietnamese have been convicted of espionage by a North Vietnamese court, Radio Hanoi said Saturday. One was sentenced to death, one to life imprisonment and the other five to prison terms ranging from 4 to 20 years, the broadcast said.

Britain Gets Snow, Chill Sets Record

LONDON (AP)—Snow fell in many parts of Britain Saturday, capping the chilliest three-day spell in 93 years for this time of year.

Weather Bureau officials said Britons are experiencing their coldest April since records started in 1871. The midafternoon temperature in London was 37 degrees Fahrenheit.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Apply "light touch." Hold off on major decisions. There are changes in the works. Don't commit yourself—wait for all the facts. Career, business matters spotlighted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Key is greater faith. Includes faith in one "far away." Realize that minor delay in communication will not be a major catastrophe. Utilize common sense. Be mature, patient.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Important to be surrounded by beauty today. Includes beautiful relationships, thoughts, ideals. Strive for full development as an individual. Seek the best. Stick to principles.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Take personal survey. Rely only upon your own judgment, conclusions. Others may mean well . . . but are not aware of your specific needs, desires. Continue to take your time.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Not so good for relying upon friends. There is a conflict indicated—between one who is older and one who is youthful. Your best course sees you obtaining greater privacy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Time to fulfill emotional requirements. Strive for greater understanding. Realize that friendship is a two-way street. Be willing to speak frankly. Attend church of your choice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Find out the why of current happenings. Then take steps to insure greater security. Especially applies to home, family affairs. Recent let-down was really minor. You'll be fine!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep up with the times! Read, absorb knowledge. Fine for attending lecture. Exercise intellectual curiosity. Highlight original approach. Say yes to exciting challenge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make effort to stabilize peace. Includes "steadying" of budget. Start planning for future. Be more specific about hopes, wishes. Strive toward greater self-understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): No time for impulsive actions. Move "in-between" major obstacles. Utilize wonderful ability to perceive, analyze moods. Avoid heavy reliance on intuition. Utilize your knowledge!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Be ready for changes. Analyze statements made by one close to you. Don't be caught off guard. Review alternative methods. May be necessary to take short journey. If so, proceed with confidence.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20): Quiet evening with friends advocated. Fine ideas can emerge as result of stimulating conversation. Entertain and be entertained. Earlier: attend church of your choice.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are not easy to pin down. You don't fit into any pigeonhole. It is this individuality which makes you particularly attractive to members of the opposite sex.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Capricorn. Special word to Leo: You gain most through policy of moderation.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY—

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Generate good will. Show appreciation to friends who have proven loyal. Break out of rut. Day for creative thinking. Fine for hobbies, special interests. Highlight adventure, experimentation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Self-discipline required. Don't "let yourself go." Make sure you give your best—results will be rewarding. Fine for advancing career. Do so by making specific decisions, suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): You may attempt to go too far afield. Remember: Answer is not at a distance. Perhaps it is within your own family circle. Highlight practical approach. Gain indicated through written word.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Don't ignore "hunch" concerning money matter. Follow through. Investigate—check details. Applies especially where partnership agreements enter picture. Take time to be thorough.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Excellent for bringing achievements, ambitions to attention. Don't expect success to be dropped into your lap. But maintain attitude of confidence. Others want to test your "staying power."

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Need is for aiding loved ones. Give your time to help those who request it. Don't use budget as an excuse. You are capable of taking step to insure domestic harmony. Do so!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Strive toward fulfilling emotional goal. You require love, understanding. This is day to move toward fulfillment. You can do so by giving of yourself. Keep mind and heart open.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't be discouraged by minor obstacles. You can now rise to new heights. But first take stock. Remember past resolutions. Ask aid of one with more experience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid scattering your forces. Finish one thing at a time. Tendency is to try expanding in too many directions. Obtain solid support before making major move. Catch up on correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Be careful observer. Information gained today could prove of immense value! Piece together bits of information. Facts now closer to the surface. Come up with complete story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Cycle high. Spotlight on personal appearances, abilities. Get past the secretary today and see the boss. Means don't waste time with intermediaries. State case "at top."

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20): Emphasize ideas which make use of current possessions. Economize—avoid waste. Highlight quality rather than flash. Be ready to cooperate with family member.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have great sense of rhythm; you love justice and will fight to help any who are oppressed.

Michelangelo's Pieta in Naples for U.S. Trip

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Michelangelo's Pieta, wrapped in three tons of plastic, wood, asbestos and steel, arrived here Saturday night for its voyage to the United States.

The statue reached Naples over wet roads most of the way on a slow eight-hour truck trip from Rome.

The priceless statue of Mary with the dead Christ was to be placed aboard the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo here today. Its destination is the New York World's Fair.

FUND NEED URGENT

Disasters Strike in U.S.

Earthquakes and tidal wave disasters in Alaska and Crescent City dominated thoughts of Long Beach Red Cross workers in the current fund campaign for $387,974.

Area chairmen reported collections of $195,000 to date. Mrs. Betty Benwell made the first report from the women's residential division, collection of $21, 558.

Direct contributions to earthquake disaster victims were reported as $200, one a check from a local physician, others in amounts of $1 to $10.00.

Chairmen reported that campaign contribution made since the disasters a week ago have increased in amounts. Blood banks, stimulated by disaster needs, were larger than usual.

* * * *

JAMES A. Willimgham, fund chairman of the local Red Cross campaign, emphasized that major disasters can hit any time and any place. "Our campaign budgets, local and national, are geared to meet these vital needs," he said. "We must meet our local goal to insure our own possible disaster needs as well as daily needs. Our campaign will continue until the job is done."

* * * *

MORE THAN 1,000 families affected by earthquake and tidal waves will require Red Cross assistance in repair and rebuilding of homes, replacement of household goods, and filling other esentials of living. Teams of Red Cross disaster specialists are providing care at all affected points.

Final costs of Red Cross current disaster services in this latest tragedy also in 111 counties affected in the Ohio river floods, will reach $2 million.

Tribute was paid to local volunteers who worked night and day to handle over 600 calls to learn about the fate of relatives in earthquake stricken areas.

ALLEN H. SEED JR.
Speaker

Seed Speaks on City Beautifying

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of "Keep America Beautiful," will speak at noon Thursday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Seed's topic will be "Beauty is Good Business."

The luncheon meeting is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber's Women's Division.

Seed has been with "Keep America Beautiful" since 1959. He is a former president of the National Association of Civic Secretaries and a former national director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He served as president of the New York Jaycees. He has devoted himself to civic causes for about 30 years after retiring after a career in advertising and sales promotion.

Babs Hutton Slated to Wed No. 7 Soon

JIUTEPEC, Mexico (UPI)—Celso Castrjon, mayor of this village, said Saturday he has been asked to be prepared to conduct a marriage ceremony for dime store heiress Barbara Hutton and Vietnamese Prince Pierre Raymond Doan Vinh "at any moment" between now and next Wednesday.

It would make the seventh wedding for Miss Hutton. She and her fiance have been secluded at her Japanese-style estate here five miles from Cuernavaca.

Civil Defense Conference Set

Civil defense leaders, scientists and public officials will meet in Long Beach May 21-22 for the annual regional conference of the United States Civil Defense Council.

Several hundred delegates, most of them professionals in defense and disaster preparedness, will hear addresses by Dr. Edward Teller and others. The region encompasses five Southwestern states.

Dr. Teller, nuclear physicist sometimes called the father of the hydrogen bomb, will speak at a May 21 dinner meeting. All sessions will take place in the Edgewater Inn.

Other scheduled speakers are Dr. Charles F. Richter, professor of seismology at Caltech; William Durke, deputy assistant secretary of defense for civil defense; Gen. Carl Aulick, regional director of civil defense; John Gaffney, director of the California Disaster Office.

* * * *

Joining in the event is the California Civil Defense and Disaster Association. The Los Angeles County Division of the League of California Cities also has urged its members to attend.

Long Beach's assistant director of civil defense, Evar Peterson, is general chairman. His office in the city hall is accepting reservations on behalf of the U.S. Civil Defense Council.

U.N. Plans 20th Anniversary in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The United Nations General Assembly will meet in San Francisco in 1965, it was announced Saturday.

The special session will be held to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations Charter here on June 26, 1945.

U.N. Secretary General U Thant and United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson met with Mayor John F. Shelley and other civic leaders Friday to discuss plans for the celebration.

Jubilee Review at CC Meeting

Reflections of the lustrous 75th anniversary Long Beach observance will set the tone at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce annual membership meeting April 23, in the International Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, Broadway and Linden Avenue.

A stylized review of the Diamond Judilee activity of 1963, will highlight entertainment privided by personalities from the Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association and Community Playhouse.

Bob Pierce arrangements committee chairman for the meeting, said more than 600 persons are expected to attend the function.

Dr. Orville W. Cole, immediate past president of the Chamber, will preside.

On the arrangements committee are Warren Mitchell, Russ Maurer, Glenn Conway, Paul Randall, Bill Boyd, Marvin Cloyd, Harvey Waggoner and Ralph Davidson.

Negro Qualifies for Georgia Race

ATLANTA (AP)—A Negro attorney from Albany, C. B. King, qualified Saturday as a candidate for the 2nd District congress race—the first Negro in Georgia history to run for Congress.

King, 40, who has practiced law for eight years, has long been active in the Albany integration movement.

The Week's Recreation Schedule

Attention camera fans! This year's All-City Camera Day is June 7. You are asked to turn your winning pictures in now to your favorite camera dealer as judging will take from April 15 to May 15. Every park playground is holding May Festival rehearsals featuring folk dancing. Each area will represent a different country.

Houghton Park asks interested boys and girls to pre-register for the summer soft ball program. Their folk dance rehearsals are Friday and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. Scherer Park announces a new hour called "Ladies Incorporated". Every Monday at 10:45 beginning April 13, this group will have fun with whatever activity they have selected. Call Roberta Weinstein for further information.

Silverado Park offers beginning tennis to women every Thursday at 10 a.m. At the same hour a tiny tot rhythm class meets in the clubhouse. Tennis classes for both men and women are scheduled Saturday at 10 a.m. Tuesday at 3:30 is the tennis time for teen-agers. Social dance instruction for grades five and six is given Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. The junior high dance club meets Wednesday at 6 p.m. and the senior highs at 7:30. Veterans Park has a children's tennis class Tuesday, 3:30 for elementary and junior high ages. Instruction for adults in tennis, Friday at 1 p.m.

Saline Plant Being Shipped to Guantanamo

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The dismantled Point Loma saline plant, which converts salt water to fresh, was loaded aboard a cargo ship Saturday for shipment to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The plant was ordered shipped there after Fidel Castro cut off the water supply to the U.S. Navy's Guantanamo base.

The vessel, the President Grant, was expected to leave Sunday night. A spokesman for Westinghouse Corp., prime contractor for the transfer operation, said the ship should reach Cuba within 10 days.

Cambodian Red Visit

MOSCOW (AP)—A Cambodian military delegation headed by Lt. Gen. Lon Nol arrived in Moscow Saturday on a 10-day official visit.

Alaska Terror: a Panoramic Convulsion

and heaved up pavement and snapped bridges and sheared avalanches of snow and dirt and stone from mountain tops. Out in the sea it raised a mighty wave.

Birthday Chaos

In Anchorage, Joan Groom's house quivered, then shook with increasing force. The chimney crashed onto the roof and the birthday cake smashed on the floor. Screaming with fright, the children toppled over in their chairs. Joan Groom lost her balance and pitched to the floor in a litter of flying books and glass and overturned furniture.

Again and again the house shook, sometimes gently, sometimes violently. Then suddenly it ended. Somehow, no one was injured. White with horror, Joan Groom began to sing a song the children had memorized. Slowly, one by one, they stopped crying and began singing:

"The little bookshelf
"Is wiggling itself
"And the books are falling down.
"The fairytales and fables
"Are tumbling over chairs and tables.
"Mother Goose is running loose,
"She is marching into town."

At the Highland Fling, Harry Groom felt the first tremor and smiled. "Oh," he said flippantly, "another earthquake." Others at the bar smiled. After many years of gentle tremors and no real quake, Alaskans had come to regard the subject with nonchalance.

But this tremor refused to stop, and the bar fell quiet and then the whole room rocked with new force. Bottles pitched to the floor, glasses smashed, women screamed. People tried to rush to the door but the floor was billowing like insane Jello and they fell and they crawled. Harry Groom finally made it to the street, still holding, for no reason he remembered, the two-for-one glasses, unbroken. Like husbands everywhere in town, he was trying to get home to his family.

Outside, on Fourth Avenue, the pavement was billowing and people were falling and cars were bouncing and one whole block of stores sank—just sank — 20 feet into a huge crack of the convulsed earth. The marquee of the Denali movie theater, which was to open in a half hour for the evening show, sank to the level of the sidewalk.

A block away, the five-story J. C. Penney building swayed out over the street, swayed back and then one end sank in a roar of crumbling masonry and glass. Elsewhere, a new six-story apartment, not yet occupied, collapsed in thunder and in many places earth fissures snaked right through living rooms.

Almost Trapped

At the 14-story Mt. McKinley Apartments, one of Anchorage's two tallest buildings, Delphine Haley was riding the elevator near the eighth floor. The elevator quivered and stopped. Then it began bouncing up and down, up and down, and Delphine Haley screamed in terror. The whole world, it seemed to her, was screaming.

The elevator stopped bouncing momentarily between floors and she squeezed through a 10-inch opening in the doors and climbed to the floor above. She made her way to the stairwell and in the darkness, in the incredible shaking and swaying, she became hysterical. Crying, she pitched herself headlong down each flight, crawled across the landing, and pitching and crawling finally made her way to the ground floor and out. She looked back and saw others crawling groggily out of the building. Up the entire face of the structure the apartment was scarred by a series of zigzagging cracks.

When Esther McCreedy's ham pitched from the stove, she knew it was no ordinary tremor and hurried out. Near the door she was thrown down by a violent new shudder. And just outside the door, she turned and watched her home sink "as if in slow motion" up to the roof level in a huge crevasse.

Beyond, where 100 homes had stood, she saw an eerie expanse of ruin. The bluff overlooking Cook Inlet had fallen away 300 yards inland, taking with it houses snapped in two and three pieces into deep gorges. The area looked like a vast brown sea of motionless waves, peaked with pieces of homes and snapped trees. Esther McCreedy wept.

Silence Eerie

And suddenly it was over —some say after 90 seconds, others after five full minutes —and now all of Anchorage, it seems, was arrested in an unfamiliar, overwhelmingly complete silence.

And from far out in the agitated ocean came the wave rushing toward the shaken land. As the depth grew shallower, the wave grew higher. Where it hit the land in broad open areas it looked like a broad, suddenly rising tide. Where it had to pass through a narrow passage, as it did at Seward, 130 miles south of Anchorage, it gathered momentum and force and raced forward like a wall of water.

On it rushed toward Seward, a town of 1,900 which in eight days was to celebrate its selection as an "All American City" because of its economic self-improvement. It was now 5:44, eight minutes after the quake hit Seward, and a wall of water 40 feet high rushed through the narrow mountainous passage of Resurrection Bay. It smashed over the new town port, ripped boats loose from the pier, sent everything in its path tumbling forward, including a 60-ton locomotive which ended up six blocks away.

In seconds, it seemed, Seward was left a wasteland of destroyed houses and broken railroad cars all looking like toys angrily smashed by a wanton child. The big fuel tanks near the pier tumbled in the onslaught and oil spread across the water. Suddenly, the water took fire and a wave of flame rushed toward the head of the bay.

Boats Soar

Ahead of the flames, small boats raced for the shore and many, riding the crest of the tidal wave, sailed over trees 30 feet high and ended up on a pasture on the insland side of the woods.

In town, Doug McRae and his family, including a three-week-old baby, climbed to a garage roof and from there stepped across to a house roof. The wave hit, carrying off the garage and part of the house. The roof floated off with the McRaes on it and after about 15 minutes lodged against four tall trees.

There the McRaes shivered for hours. They ripped a hole in the roof, tore out insulation and wrapped themselves in it. The moon was out and they could see dogs floating by and saw their own car tumble past. To them, it seemed that the whole town was afire. Finally the water and fire receded and the McRaes were rescued without serious injury.

Far to the southwest, on Kodiak Island, the quake shook Louis Beaty's ranch house but he and his clairvoyant cattle were safe on high ground. At the narrow head of Shearwater Bay, the great quake opened long fissures, the bay rushed in, the ground snapped shut and towering geysers shot skyward.

Bears Quit Dens

At the town of Kodiak, the quake was less spectacular. It shook houses, tumbled dishes, but somehow Father Bullock's cross clung to the wall. Up in the hills, a later inspection of tracks showed, the quake shook many Kodiak brown bears out of their winter hibernation two weeks early and sent them in huge jumps down toward the shore. For at least two weeks now they must wander without normal food supplies.

Out in the harbor, skipper Bill Cuthbert cursed. He was sure some drunken sailor had bumped into his boat. Cuthbert stormed out on deck and saw masts waving madly all over the bay. He realized at once it was an earthquake and turned his radio to the emergency marine band. Few Alaska seamen need to be told that quakes make waves.

State Trooper Don Church, back in Kodiak only a half hour after a 22-day tour of his district—the entire Aleutian chain where he knows every village and nomadic family—rushed to the police station to sound the alarm over the marine radio: "Expect a tidal wave, get to high ground."

But Bill Cuthbert couldn't; he had a lame engine. With no choice, with his boat tied to the pier, he went to the galley and waited. The first wave came at 6:47 p.m. — gently, a gradual swell followed by a gradual ebb.

Dizzy Whirlpool

It was now dark and the townspeople who had scampered up the hills with flashlights now looked like fireflies, the second wave hit with a roar and in an instant every pile, every anchor, every line, every pier, snapped and broke and the harbor became a dizzy whirlpool.

Cuthbert dashed to the wheelhouse while his two crewmen clung to the rail. They heard a man in a small boat crying for help. They tried to throw him a line but couldn't. They saw his boat carried off crazily in a wild maelstrom of swirling boats and debris.

The Selief and other big boats became mighty battering rams, pounding into the tumbling buildings across Front Street, across Main Street, and when the waves receded, the Selief came to rest, still upright, far up the hill.

Cuthbert waited for the next onslaught. It came 55 minutes latter, with less force but more height. Again, the heavy scow was whirled around and around and battered its way through buildings and came to rest upright on a crushed store.

The third wave, less violent still, refloated the scow and Cuthbert tied a line to a telephone pole. Through the night, just about every 55 minutes, the waves came in weaker each time until the nightmare ended at 3 a.m.

Villages Vanish

Trooper Church, still at his radio, was trying to contact each of the tiny, remote villages on the island. In days to come, he would visit each personally. Some show on maps, others only in the trooper's notebook. How are the Munsens? Church would fly out to see. The Martins? All five of them were missing, no trace of their cattle ranch. Village by village, family by family, he would count them all.

But on this Good Friday night there were two villages he could not reach by radio: Afrognak and Ouzinkie. He dispatched fishing boats to both places. Then he began contacting fishing boats. Most replied. Oothers didn't, ominously. The Selief did.

"Selief, Selief, where are you?"

"It looks," answred Cuthbert, "as though I'm in the back of the Kodiak schoolhouse, five blocks from the shoreline."

Because of Church's radio warnings, most of the people in the village escaped. A few still are missing. But in at least four cases—Afognak, Ouzinkie, Kaguyak and Old Harbor—the destruction was almost complete. Only a handful of houses remained. Timbers of others slapped at the shore and other houses, still intact, were driven miles across the water to distant beaches.

Tots Swept Away

And far away to the south, a great wave rushed up the beach at Newport, Ore., and caught the McKenzie family asleep in their romantic shelter of driftwood and took their four children to their deaths in the sea.

And now suddenly it was over.

The sea became serene again. The roar of the wall of water and tumbling houses and boats was gone.

Throughout the broad earthquake area, Alaskans began picking through the debris in search of bodies. By week's end, the total of known dead and presumed dead was 125.

The figure was astonishingly low. Why? Some explained it in terms of Alaska's sparse population, small towns, broad streets and low buildings. Others found the answer on their knees.

The Vanishing Bracero: Who'll Take His Place?

By BOB DAVIS

A last-ditch fight against plans by the federal government to slam the door on bracero farm workers next Dec. 31 is being fought by Orange County growers.

The program, which imports Mexican nationals to perform farm labor—has been in operation for almost 22 years.

If it ends, says Edward P. Backs, president of Citrus Growers Inc., prices will go up, crops will be wasted and itinerant farm workers will weigh down welfare rolls.

A PRICE increase in some fruits and vegetables will hit Southland housewives, many produce distributors believe. Backs, who office is at 227 N. State College Blvd., Anaheim, said "I believe, and many agree with me, that the bracero program is being stopped because of selfish political and economic reasons."

"Economically, the government is losing a lot of money in the program because the $35 to $40 million paid annually to Mexican nationals is tax free."

* * * *

Backs also charged that many of those congressmen who voted in favor of terminating the program this year did so because they have been expounding the virtues of hiring only American workers to perform American work.

"And being an election year, what better time to play up to the American worker?" he added.

THE CITRUS leader, whose group represents 17 citrus packing companies in the county, said he, too, is in favor of providing employment for the American worker, but that halting the bracero program creates several unique problems.

First of all, he said, the reason braceros were brought into this country was because of the shortage of American farm workers during World War II. When American labor was again plentiful the majority of the workers refused to perform the hard work done by the braceros.

"Today, there is very little domestic labor qualified and willing to replace the bracero and work under similar conditions for similar pay. We have tried to use domestic labor, but most of it is completely unsatisfactory," Backs said.

* * * *

For one thing, the American worker knows he will be paid a certain salary for so many hours, and his attitude generally is "why work like a horse for money I'll get even if I don't produce?", Backs said.

"Then, too, domestic labor doesn't always remain on the job, for the complete season. In fact, less than 30 percent of domestic labor hired ever finishes the season."

Categorically, Backs described the specific problems he felt would exist with the end of the bracero program. They are:

1. Replacing braceros with domestic labor will increase production costs because the domestic will insist upon more money to perform the same work, and will turn to unions, which means strikes and lost time.

2. Domestic labor being untrained as it is means crops cannot be picked as rapidly, and many crops will be picked incorrectly, causing them to be ruined and unsuited for sale to consumers.

3. Braceros are signed up to work in the country from between six weeks to six months—then they return to Mexico. Domestic labor, imported from other areas, means entire families moving into the county.

This means many additional children will be thrust into school systems, which are not prepared to handle thousands of new students. Also, when the picking season ends the men are unemployed. Many will not be able to locate new jobs, and will be forced upon the welfare rolls.

* * * *

"NOT ONLY IS this country benefitting from the good work performed by the braceros, but many of them are returning home with a better outlook on life—because of American dollars—and are helping to raise living standards in their own country," Backs said.

"We would prefer retaining the braceros in specific areas where domestic labor is unable to perform a comparable job at comparable wages," he explained.

"But if the program must end, we would prefer that only 15 or 20 percent of the braceros be replaced at one time over a given period of time. This would permit the hiring and training of domestic labor, which could eliminate a few of the problems we foresee."

Joan Finally Gets Across the Atlantic

Slowed by bad weather and the Brazilian revolution, Long Beach housewife Joan Merriam Smith, 27, arrived in Senegal, Africa, Saturday after a 16-hour transatlantic flight.

The Atlantic crossing on her solo flight around the world took two hours longer than expected. Bad weather delayed her takeoff from Natal, Brazil, Friday and after 160 minutes in the air she lost all radio contact. Because of the revolution, she couldn't get accurate weather information in Brazil.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, landed at Karachi, Pakistan,

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

SEVERAL of my readers have communicated recently their views about El Dorado Park East, along with appeals that this column support the proposal for a woodland-type development there.

Now I make no claims to having influence, but I do agree with those who want the park development to be sort of rough and wild.

It should be a place of woods and meadows rather than neatly manicured lawns and rectangular flower beds. It should be a place of country-like roads and trails rather than black-topped or paved roadways.

This type of development is not so costly as the fancier parks, and the maintenance should be far less. I think that any estimates of maintenance of a wilderness park should be based on a study of what it costs to keep up the eucalyptus grove park at Seventh and Park Ave., rather than an over-all average of park maintenance costs such as people have been talking about. (And statistics on the supject have disagreed fantastically.)

In our intensively urbanized region, we do need some extensive woodland-type public areas, and El Dorado is beautifully suited for such usage and preservation. It has always seemed to me that El Dorado should be financed as a regional park, but if that is not in the cards, local financing should be provided to start the program.

That's what we saved this fine big area for, isn't it?

IT cost Mrs. Rose Wear of Long Beach an extra new lock for her garage, but she's happy to pay for it because she found out about the eager helpfulness of her friends.

The other day Mrs. Wear mentioned to a friend that she had lost the keys to her garage door and the lock would have to be sawed. Quickly the story of her trouble went around her circle of acquaintances.

One man came over and sawed the lock for her, and she replaced it with a new one.

She was away from home that afternoon. When she returned she found the new lock sawed, the work of a neighbor who had heard of her plight, but did not know of the earlier good deed.

"It's great to have helpful friends," said Mrs. Wear. "I didn't mind it a bit when I had to buy a second lock. I guess the word has gotten around now."

SOME time ago I complained in this pillar about trouble I had finding my way through the intersection of the Harbor and San Diego Frwys. when bound toward Long Beach from L.A. I claimed that it was an awkward situation.

Immediately I got several calls from people who scoffed at my report. If I had difficulties, they inferred, it was because of lousy driving, lack of alertness, inability to read, daydreaming, inattention to business, general stupidity.

They backed me down and haven't peeped since. I've even done better getting through the intersection. But it is now with some pleasure that I report that two of my readers have just sent in complaints about that intersection and the same old problem. They assert that it is confusing there, and it is difficult to find one's way into the right lane for coming onto San Diego Frwy. to head for Long Beach.

It is encouraging to me to note that both of these people, with whom I am acquainted, have reputations for intelligence and good driving ability.

So I am emboldened again to suggest that the highway people ought to take another look at the channelization on Harbor Frwy. approaching the San Diego Frwy. and see if some improvements can be made. I know now you don't have to be dumb to make a miscue there.

Book Sleuth Gets Strange Requests

By BILL DUNCAN

At times it contains letters requesting:

A non-drinking husband for a Tennessee widow, a rich wife for a Florida man, a two-year-old copy of a newspaper that advertised a pattern for a two-piece dress, a story book about a boy who teased dogs and cats and got chased off the moon.

Friend, a retired seaman who lives at 737 E. Seventh St., Long Beach, does not conduct a lonely hearts club or a newspaper clipping service.

He is an antiquarian bookseller—one who specializes in finding out-of-print books.

* * * *

HE GETS KOOKY requests from people all over the world who misunderstand his advertisement which, simply enough, states he will locate any book for a finder's fee.

Friend was a seaman in both world wars—in the Navy aboard a destroyer in World War I and as a master of a tanker in the merchant marine during World War II.

In 1923, after his Navy discharge, Friend came to Los Angeles—broke. He saw a sign on a Main Street bookstore: "Strong Young Man Wanted."

* * * *

FRIEND WENT to work. After lifting boxes of books for several days he knew why the sign specified a "strong" man.

From this job he went on to work for book dealers in California and New York, then surrendered again to the call of the sea.

But the scent of the sea did not take away his savor for old books. He decided to be a bookfinder in his retirement.

* * * *

HIS SALES are all handled by mail. He has steady customers in India, New Zealand, Viet Nam, Switzerland, Zanzibar, Honduras, Philippines, Uruguay, Tanganyika and all 50 states.

Generally, he sells books ranging in price from $3 to $350. Three factors make an out-of-print book valuable—desirability, scarcity and literary worth.

He has had only two requests for books from Long Beach collectors—one of these he could not find.

"Once I sold a book to a customer in New York," Friend laughed, "after locating the book at a book dealer's shop—just one block from the customer's address."

Hospital Disaster Plan Aim

The Southland's hospitals should develop comprehensive programs for major emergencies—and Sister Jane Frances will attempt to see that they do it.

She's the new president of the Hospital Council of Southern California, and is the administrator of St. Jude Hospital in Fullerton.

"Disaster planning — to meet the needs of the people in natural or man-made disasters—is in need of better coordination" both within hospitals and among them, Sister Jane Frances declared.

As she sees her job with the Hospital Council, it is to encourage the planning for disasters which may never come. But it is better to be prepared, she reminded.

Over the years, notably recently, hospitals have made "giant strides" in improving their services and in meeting needs of the public—except in disaster planning, Sister Jane Frances said.

UP Revising Schedules of 2 Crack Trains

The Union Pacific Railroad is urging passengers holding reservations on two crack trains, the City of St. Louis and the City of Los Angeles, to contact their nearest ticket offices.

A spokesman for the line said the Interstate Commerce Commission has approved consolidation of the two trains between Los Angeles and Ogden, Utah, necessitating a revision of previous schedules.

The two trains will continue to run beyond Ogden, however, the spokesman added.

BOOSTS CATCH BY 60 PER CENT

Private Air Force Assists Fishermen of Southland

By DICK EMERY

A private air force helps Southland commercial fishermen close in on schools of mackerel, tuna and sardines and, says the top pilot, boosts the catch by 60 to 70 per cent.

The science was brought to Pacific Coast commercial fishing in 1945. At present, the largest group of flying fish spotters working along the Southland coast is the Flying Fishermen, Inc., of 1634 W. 10th St., San Pedro.

The corporation operates planes from Torrance Municipal Airport and from fields near Newport Beach and San Diego to locate schools of marketable fish for commercial seiners.

The company has 14 aircraft. Wide-ranging surveys for commercial, scientific or governmental clients take members of the firm thousands of miles from home.

* * * *

TONY MARINKOVICH, 34, president of Flying Fishermen, Inc., started work as an aerial fish spotter in 1953 after years of commercial fishing in this area.

He flies a small land plane over the fishing grounds, at elevations from 300 to 3,000 feet, traveling as far as 100 miles from shore.

To be able to find and identify fish from the air, a pilot first must be a "fisherman born" and then must have two years of training, according to Marinkovich.

"If he makes a mistake, the boats may run five or six hours to a spot to find the wrong kind of fish. Mistakes like that can ruin fishermen, and such mistakes have put out of business 20 pilots who have tried to work as fish spotters.

* * * *

"IT IS NOT easy. It is dangerous work. One person cannot tell another how to look down from a plane at a fish school and determine whether the fish are tuna, mackerel or sardines—which the fishermen want—or anchovies which the fishermen can't sell, or barracuda or sea bass which are illegal for seiners.

"We tell by the look of the water, by the way the fish act when the school is startled, by the shape and size of the school, by where it is, and by what it does at a certain time of day.

"We help boats by 60 to 70 per cent of their normal catch. There are months when their catch might be nothing at all if it weren't for planes. In this area, we help 30 to 40 boats which have a total catch of 50,000 tons a year."

Seal Beach Police Shoot Visiting Seal

A seal came to Seal Beach Saturday.

So, that's news? It certainly is—it happens only about once a year.

And did they strike up the band and roll out the red carpet? Nope, they shot him dead in his tracks—or flipperprints.

It's not that Seal Beach is a seal-hating city, though. Just that the only seals who visit seem to be the sick ones.

Saturday's visitor looked sick, and seals are known to carry rabies. So the Seal Beach police had no choice. They had to shoot him.

EDITORIAL

Warren Probe

FEARS HAVE BEEN expressed that the Warren Commission, appointed by President Johnson to investigate the assassination of the late President Kennedy, may withhold some of the facts or delay its report for many years.

Even if some members lacked a sensible understanding of their mission and responsibility, the varied and bipartisan nature of the commission would surely rule out any possibility of censorship or delay.

The commission just doesn't have the right to decide whether to withhold information or indefinitely postpone its report. It was selected to uncover and publish the facts, not to suppress them.

When he selected the commission, President Johnson instructed it to satisfy itself that the truth is known as far as it can be discovered, and to report its findings and conclusions to him, "to the American people, and to the world."

Clearly the commission exists only to satisfy the public desire to know all the facts surrounding the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

The public expects a full report, and any intimation that less than a full report is being given will set off an unparalleled explosion of public indignation.

The Warren Commission should, of course, take all the time necessary for full investigation and refuse to be stampeded into making a fragmentary and premature report.

But when all the sources of information have been exhausted—a chore which will take months but certainly not years—the complete facts must be written down and presented to the people.

In view of the fears which have been aroused, by baseless rumor or otherwise, the commission should state its intention of doing so.

Amazing Reaction

LAST WEEK IN THIS SPACE we noted that Congressman Craig Hosmer has received a barrage of hate mail from racial extremists, accusing him of being un-American and pro-Communist for voting for the Civil Rights Act.

We suggested that he deserves praise rather than censure for supporting time-honored American principles which are perpetual planks in the Republican and Democratic platforms.

We were amazed to receive letters charging us with labeling as racial extremists and bigots all people who oppose the civil rights bill, and with trying to silence the voices of dissent.

First, we did not say that all letters against the measure are hate letters. We said hate mail from racial extremists has been received. That is a statement of fact, not of opinion. We are quite sure, however, that many opponents of the Civil Rights Act have written their views with reason and restraint and do not belong in the category of haters and extremists.

As for the expression of dissenting views, this newspaper's columns have been used by citizens on both sides to state their positions; and we encourage citizens to write their congressmen about public matters, though we do suggest they exercise good taste and restraint if, in return, they expect consideration and respect.

Meanwhile, we again commend Rep. Hosmer for his courageous stand in favor of constitutional principles in the face of considerable criticism, some of which has been hateful and abusive.

Brief, Rich Story

FRANK E. COOK, who at the age of 10 first saw the place now called Long Beach, died last week at 92. That gives a clue to the kind of city we live in. One man's life more than spanned its entire history.

In many towns of the East—any place east of western Kansas—there are monuments listing the names of the brave young men who went to the Civil War. That is the extent of the glory of these towns. So many of them are places where only a few stirring things have happened, and where nothing is happening.

Long Beach, on the other hand, has, in a fraction of the same time, gone through a host of lively experiences as an oil capital, a defense capital, a birthplace of jet airplanes, a major port of the world, and the center of a population explosion.

A city's history is not told by the number of years in its history but by the events that take place. Long Beach's history is rich in events; more important, Long Beach is a place where the future, too, will be worth living.

Sen. Soaper Says:

WE ASSUME THAT the forthcoming book, "How Shakespeare Spent the Day," will tell how he would jot down on his "Things to Do Today" pad such reminders as, "Write 'Hamlet.'"

A HUMORIST advises his younger colleagues that they may get away with jokes about mother and the flag, but they had better stay away from kidding J. Edgar Hoover or women drivers.

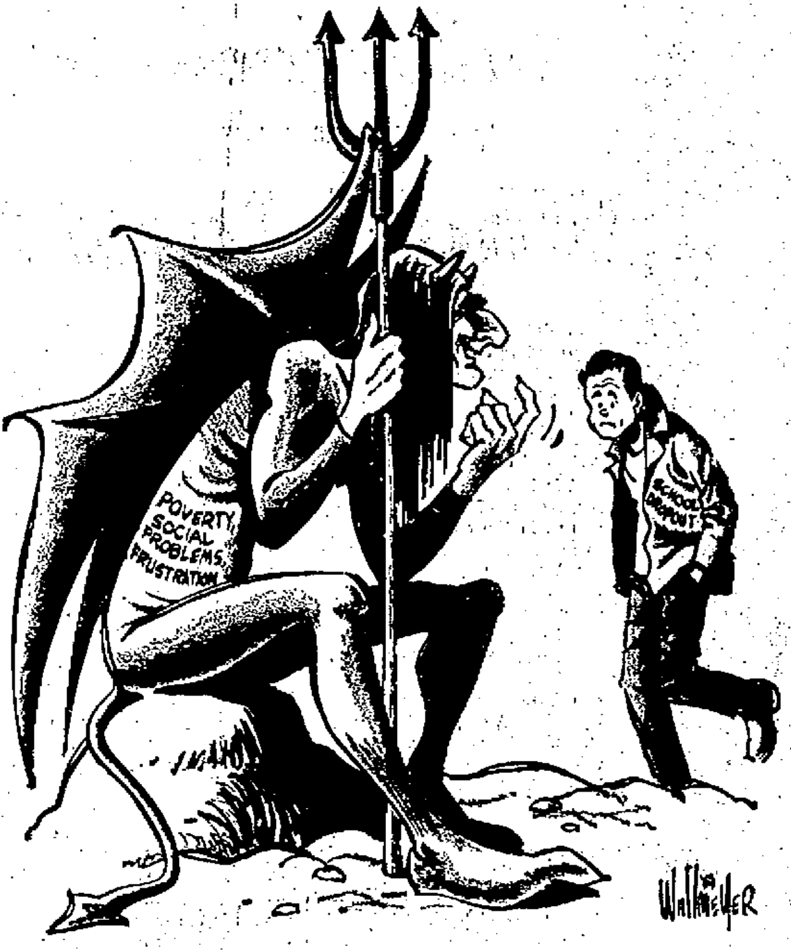
'I've Been Expecting You'



DAVID LAWRENCE

As Years Pass, Ex-Presidents Can Observe: 'I Told You So'

WASHINGTON —Maybe an ex-President has some advantages in political debate—for, as the years go on and he surveys the passing scene, he can always say from personal experience: "I told you so."

Thus, former President Eisenhower, while attending a few days ago a forum in Los Angeles, was reminded of the late President Kennedy's charge in the 1960 campaign that United States "prestige" was low. Mr. Eisenhower was asked how he would appraise our "prestige" now. The former President answered:

LAWRENCE

"I am not going to detail what has happened in the past three years, but the prestige of the United States today is far less than it was in 1960."

The dictionary gives "influence" as a synonym for "prestige." Mr. Kennedy, in a campaign speech in Kansas City on Oct. 22, 1960, amplified what is meant by "influence." He said:

"I define prestige as influence, as an ability to persuade people to accept your point of view. That probably cost us more in the '50's than any other failure or any other decision or any other action."

Speaking a few days later in New York City, Mr. Kennedy declared:

"One of the great problems which now affects the United States, affects our security, affects our leadership, affects our chances of peace, is that the United States in recent years, rather than giving an image of strength and purpose and vitality, has given an image of reaching middle age and beginning to fade as an inspiration and hope to the people all around the globe."

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said only a few days ago virtually the same thing about the present administration's foreign policy.

* * * *

MR. KENNEDY made several speeches in the campaign on the meaning of "prestige." In Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1960, he said:

"By prestige I do not mean popularity. . . . Prestige is important, but if these people upon whom we depend for our security, our support, and ultimately the peace, ever begin to get the idea that we are tired, uncertain, not sure where we are going, without purpose, how can we lead a free alliance?"

But as Americans look around the world today, they wonder who is leading the "free alliance," and whether the difficulty is in the United States or abroad. France has recognized Red China, and the countries of Western Europe continue to ignore American appeals that they curtail their trade with Communist Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, in expressing his belief that American "prestige" had fallen to a very low point, said at Albuquerque, N. M., on Nov. 3:

"You cannot be a citizen of this country, concerned about its future, and not be aware of the decline in influence and prestige of our country, aware of the fact that in 10 countries polled a majority of the people thought by 1970 the Soviet Union would be first in science and in military power."

Maybe Sen. Fulbright, who now calls Castro a "distasteful nuisance" but not a danger, had not read the speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign at Portland, Ore., on Sept. 7, in which he said:

"They (the American people) wonder why America is regarded with so much contempt on the once-friendly island of Cuba, only 90 miles away, that its erratic leader feels free to denounce us with words and threaten us with missiles."

* * * *

BUT IT SO happens that nearly four years have passed since that 1960 campaign, and the Castro government still regards the United States with contempt and there are well-authenticated reports that a military base in Cuba, manned by Soviet "technicians," is still potentially menacing to the American people.

* * * *

YET IN THE last few days, the Chairman of the Foreign Relations committee of the Senate, a prominent Democrat, has called upon his countrymen to "come to terms, at last, with the realities." He gives up on the economic blockade of Cuba. He says it is futile. He insists that the United States cannot persuade its allies to maintain such a blockade.

But nobody has come forth with the basic reason as to why the Western European countries — our own allies—feel they can ignore our pleas and earnestly written diplomatic communications asking them to assist us in an economic boycott of Cuba, from which island a constant campaign of Communist subversion and infiltration is being carried on against the rest of Latin America. It is not American "prestige" that has fallen but actually the prestige of nations which prefer the materialistic gains of "trade" to the ideals for which free nations have made such supreme sacrifices in the past.

JIM M'CAULEY

Letter Campaigns Overrated

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Writing your lawmaker is one of those supersacred rituals of the American process. It is mentioned in Fourth of July speeches in the same hallowed breath as the Bill of Rights, American apple pie and motherhood.

But in Sacramento, write-your-legislator crusades are the most overrated method of influencing lawmaking.

M'CAULEY

The persons who exert genuine power in California are those who help elect politicians at ballot time, not those who scrawl their names on a form-letter petition to a lawmaker.

Publicly, most state officials pay homage to the great American myth on the power of the written letter. But privately, petitions and letter campaigns are scoffed at in this age of the organized form-letter and the huckster.

Some pressure - petition campaigns even may backfire on their energetic backers.

Biggest pressure campaign thus far in the 1964-legislation session has been conducted in behalf of a bid by school administrators and California Teachers Assn. for another $100 million in state school aid.

More than a million petitioners signed we-want-more - aid statements, and huge bundles of the aid requests were parceled out to lawmakers by districts. Sen. Thomas Rees, D-Los Angeles County, was deluged with petitions signed by 337,000 persons.

But by the day the petitions arrived, things started to go badly for the professional school administrators and CTA.

Already, Gov. Brown had proposed a 1964-65 budget which calls for less than half as much new aid as the pressure petitioners wanted.

The tremendous educational lobby pressure for more money — without strings—also started legislators to thinking about school fiscal programs deeply.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, served notice he felt there should be substantial reforms wiping out smaller inefficient school districts before any new aid is voted. Unruh now has before the legislature a bill that would limit new aid to unified districts.

Senate President Pro Tempore Hugh M. Burns subsequently chided professional educators for assuming that all of their problems can be solved by more money. Burns wants educators to suggest constructive changes —such as organizational reforms. In a blistering statement, he also questioned the brains, honesty and competence of professional educational administrators.

Burns said: "What they really need is a whole new set of brains."

One Republican assemblyman from Northern California refused even to thumb through the petitions. He sent the whole batch to Gov. Brown.

The petitions failed to get the usual personal reply from Sen. Rees. "A personal response to these petitions would cost my office almost $30,000," he said.

Instead of answering the petitions, Rees studied the issues more thoroughly.

Rees then came to the same conclusion as Unruh and Burns: "There must be a complete reform of educational financing before major new funds are voted."

The petition blitz also caused legislators to research educational statistics as never before. CTA has been asserting that current state support for schools has dipped below the 50-percent mark.

There has been no constan percentage of support in the past 34 years, according to legislative analyst A. Alan Post. During the past few years the state's share has risen to a little more than 47 per cent of the total burden, says Post. And this doesn't include the millions of dollars appropriated to the State Allocation Board for school construction and multimillion - dollar outlays for colleges.

* * * *

ONE UPSHOT: the petitions of some professional school administrators may have triggered reforms that will cause some professional school administrators to be fired.

That doesn't mean that you shouldn't contact your lawmaker when you feel strongly on the subject of some proposed legislation. But if you allow yourself to become a pawn in some organized campaign, your communication will be discounted by lawmakers.

Lu Engle Conveys Senator's Regrets to State Reporters

WITH ONLY EIGHT WEEKS to go before California's June 2 primary election, U.S. Sen. Clair Engle's insulation from press and public is still airtight.

This was demonstrated in dramatic fashion in Washington a few days ago when a group of about 17 California newsmen were unsuccessful in their efforts to meet the Democratic Senator for a news conference.

MRS. ENGLE

The newsmen, who flew to Washington on a United Air Lines flight inaugurating the line's one-class service, asked for the interview on grounds it would be an ideal device for the convalescing Engle to relay his current and prospective fitness to Californians via California newspapers.

IN THE MORE than seven months since Engle's Aug. 24 brain surgery, his isolation has been rigidly protected. This has been the source of rumor and speculation over his ability to campaign or serve.

Lucretia Engle, his attractive, brown-eyed wife, has served him well by her own lights, if not too wisely in the view of constituents and news media eager to know the truth of the senator's condition.

The only breaks in the protective surveillance around Engle are, however, generally credited to Mrs. Engle's authorization. They include his extensively edited taped television announcement of his candidacy for re-election, a brief and halting telephone greeting to the Long Beach California Democratic Council convention last month, and the still-exclusive face-to-face interview with Bill Broom of the I,P-T Washington Bureau in mid-January.

I talked with Mrs. Engle for about 20 minutes in the course of her hour and a half visit to a reception for the California newsmen, at which she expressed her regrets that the senator would not attend.

She makes two main points in reaction to almost any type of question—her husband's determination and the uncertainty about when he will be able to campaign.

"We have our best talks at about 11 o'clock at night," she said, "when he's most relaxed. And I asked him, 'How do you really feel about it (the re-election campaign)' and he said, 'I, by God, am gonna win!'"

She said the senator becomes impatient but not discouraged, about the rate of his recovery but doggedly works for hours almost daily on physiotherapy and speech therapy, sessions during which he tape records the reading of documents to improve his speech.

HIS REACTION to the invitation to meet with the California reporters, most of them political writers, was, said Mrs. Engle, "Gee, I'd like to go."

She said she did not attempt to influence his decision about meeting them but did say that he was acting under doctor's orders to stay home after his extensive sessions of treatments, mainly because of the cold weather. Engle ended the matter, she said, with, "Tell them hello for me."

Also present at the reception with Mrs. Engle were Assistant Secretary of State Fred Dutton of California, former Postmaster General Ed Day and Orange County Congressman James Utt. Day has delivered a stinging blast against Gov. Pat Brown in defense of Engle's candidacy.

THE ONLY OTHER major Engle contact available to newsmen was Paul Green, his new press secretary. His former aids, Charles Bosley and Fred Asselin, have separated from his staff over friction about certain news releases over Engle's name of which they were not informed.

Green said the senator wants to get in shape for the campaign and that to do so, the doctors say he has to take care of himself. Green made a more positive statement that Engle definitely would come to California before the June 2 primary.

On rumors that Engle might withdraw, Green said, "I am authorized to say it is absolutely not true and that there has never been the slightest question of withdrawing."

A later release put Engle's sentiments in stronger terms—"I am not quitting, withdrawing, surrendering or abdicating. I will not be scared out, talked out, rumored out, pushed out or bought out of running."

Comments on 'Rights' Editorial

Your unfair and unwarranted editorial attack of Sunday March 29, on the right of the people to protest, equating that right with extremist - racist thinking, seems to be the line of attack these days to be used by those in power against the voice of dissent. It appears that no one has the right to speak his mind on any issue —unless of course, he happens to see eye to eye with those on the lofty perch of present authority.

I would think that Congressman Hosmer would be more than grateful for the views of all his constituents, regardless of what those views may be, for how else can we possibly be truly representative of their wishes? Since he is in Washington to represent the will of the people of the 32nd District of California, I fail to see how you have helped Congressman Hosmer in his efforts to be a good Representative.

YOUR PAPER'S Editorial of March 29, 1964 regarding "Civil Rights Act" was most interesting. It does take courage to stand up and be counted for one's convictions these days—though WHY it should I am frank to admit I do not really understand.

The Honorable Craig Hosmer and others are by now used to "hate mail" from extremists, not only on civil rights but on other issues as well. But how often do those who agree with a stand taken bother to sit down and write a "Thanks" letter? Should we not be as busy expressing our appreciation for the courageous stand as willing to express our gratitude for same? Could it be we are all neglecting to do one of the little things that make so much difference?

Let's swamp the Honorable Craig Hosmer with letters of "THANKS" for being courageous in a matter that really shouldn't require courage because it is a demonstration of belief in our Constitution and way of life.

I AM GETTING mighty sick and tired of all these editorials calling everyone a bigot and racial extremist who disagrees with the civil rights bill.

I was one of those who wrote to Craig Hosmer, and I always agreed with his policies, but I told him I could never vote for him since he voted for the civil rights bill.

I never had any animosity towards Negroes as long as they didn't try to integrate. I think that this bill is too extreme and is a dishonest bill. Many of the people who are shouting so loudly for the bill will be the first to cry out against it when it takes effect. History will prove I am right.

Did Gonsalves Just Find Out?

EDITOR:

In regards to Mr. Gonsalves' resolution in the Assembly: Mr. Gonsalves is so shocked about lingerie fashion shows that he is devoting valuable time and taxpayers money because women wear lingerie. Did he just find that out?

Maybe if he went out with the boys once in a while he could also find out about the birds and bees.

I hope that the restaurants that have these fashion shows haven't bruised poor Mr. Gonsalves by dragging him in to their places of corrupt hamburgers.

Don't be jealous "Joe." The husbands that eat at these places are not bothered with indigestion or ulcers and they probably buy their wives some nice lingerie once in a while, but you don't have to be so immoral as to do that.

American Farm Bureau Does Turnabout

WASHINGTON — American Farm Bureau Federation lobbyists, carrying loaves of bread under their arms, have descended on Capitol Hill to woo the big city vote. This is quite a turnabout for the Farm Bureau, never before concerned about the consumer. But today it is all out to defeat the administration's wheat-cotton bill which comes to a vote on the House floor next week.

PEARSON

The bill, already approved by the Senate, is geared to help wheat and cotton farmers. Despite this, Farm Bureau lobbyists are staging a so-called "consumer campaign" to convince city congressmen that a vote for the wheat-cotton bill will be a vote to increase the price of bread. Lined up with the Farm Bureau are the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of manufacturers.

Wheat, which faces a big price drop if the bill doesn't pass, is the nub of the controversy. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and other farm experts maintain that while the price of bread will not be affected, the milling and baking industries certainly will be. They will get a $350 million windfall in lower wheat costs if the bill doesn't pass — a windfall not likely to be passed on to consumers.

If the bill does not pass, Freeman warns that wheat will drop about 70 cents a bushel from about $2 to around $1.30. This means bread plus gravy for the millers and bakers. Officials of bakery corporations have admitted that the windfall would not be passed on to the consumer in lower bread and bakery prices. They noted that the cost of wheat in a 25-cent loaf of bread—about 2.5 cents— is a relatively minor element.

Meanwhile, the farmers share of the retail price of bread grows less and less. It was 2.7 cents in 1954, when a loaf of bread sold for 17.1 cents and wheat was about $2.24 a bushel. Today it is 2.5 cents when bread costs 21.6 cents a loaf and wheat brings around $2 a bushel.

"A windfall of $350 million to the banking and milling industries is just too much to ignore," says Secretary Freeman, "especially when it comes out of the pockets of farmers."

SENS. HUBERT Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic whip, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, the Democratic gadfly, were meeting off-the-record with a group of U. S. ambassadors to Latin America to brief them on American domestic policy and how to get along with Congress.

Humphrey gave the ambasadors this advice: "You should bring into your embassies people from the opposite political parties. Don't just entertain government people who are for us. See what the other side is thinking and doing. Take a leaf from President Johnson. Look at the White House calling list. The President has people coming in to see him all the time who differ with him. That's the way he gets the feel of the country."

After Humphrey sat down, Sen. Morse was called upon to address the American ambassadors.

"I wish to thank Sen. Humphrey for clearing up one matter for me," he said. "For some time I have wondered why I have been invited to the White House so many times during this administration."

IF YOU ARE a gray-haired congressman and want to look younger when you campaign for votes back home, you can step into the House beauty parlor and get your hair touched up. You can even come out a red head, a brunette or blond. An ad in the Roll Call, "the newspaper of Capitol Hill, offers "hair coloring for men available at the House beauty shop."

FREEMAN

The House beauty shop is privately operated under a contract with the architect of the Capitol. It is managed by Mrs. Mabel Solomon who says that so far there has been no repsonse by congressmen to her ad.

Earlier, the beauty shop had received requests from men and Mrs. Solomon made special arrangements, including the hiring of an extra woman employee to handle men patrons.

"But so far no man has made an appointment to have his hair colored or his scalp treated," she said. "I guess it's that way with men, as well as women. When people know they can get something, they don't want it."

I, P-T Washington Bureau

The Rockefeller types report that John Birch Society members and others of similar hue have mounted a major effort to take over the State Central Committee in California.

Under California laws, the leading Republican candidate in each race may name a member to the committee. In an effort to stack the committee with their supporters, the Birch types are running candidates in nearly every Republican primary available, including some that Republicans seldom if ever enter.

There's nothing wrong with such tactics, and in fact, they are commendable and offer about the only way the outs can ever overthrow the ins.

But the Rockefeller people report this activity is hurting the candidacy of Barry Goldwater in the Republican primary. It does so, because many county Republican chairmen resent the Birch activity as an attempt to upset their control. Consequently they are joining the Rockefeller campaign in an effort to stay in power. They are bringing along with them organization and know-how and campaign workers the Rockefeller organization could never secure on its own in the few weeks before the June 2 primary.

A NEW and ingenious campaign strategy has been conceived by the Communist presidential candidate in Chile. Instead of the usual shower of vague promises, Communist candidate Allende makes his promises look real. And here's how he does it.

Whenever he makes one of his frequent speaking tours of a village or hamlet he carries a map of the area and a big red pencil. After vociferating about the imperialist colonialists, he asks each peasant to mark on the land map which piece of land he wants when the Communists take the land away from the feudal lords.

Allende conscientiously circles the section of the map with the red pencil and then equally carefully records the name of the voter in his little black book . . . presumably for future reference.

AUTHOR - PLAYWRIGHT Gore Vidal, former friend of the Kennedys who wrote a devastating article about Robert and Ethel Kennedy last year in Esquire, told a luncheon audience here this past week:

"I'm told that I am prejudiced against Bobby . . . that I don't realize how much he has grown and is growing. I wish him well. But I'm going to vote for someone who is already grown."

Vidal said President Johnson should pick his own vice presidential candidate, but that his own choice was Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. He said the big move in behalf of the Attorney General was due to "sentimental attachment to the name, and that is all there is to it. Heaven help us if we pick our presidential candidates on that basis. If we do, some day we may have Elvis Presley."

Need for Foreign Policy Change Aids Rusk Exit Rumors

WASHINGTON—The speech the other day of Sen. William J. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, called for a new appraisal of American foreign policy. The world, the Senator from Arkansas pointed out with considerable truth, is changing and maybe it would be a good idea to have our foreign policy keep pace with the changes.

RIDDER

The French have an old saying that "the more things change, the more they stay the same," a statement which has won a measure of fame because it is just as untrue as it is true. The world is changing and it is now not quite the way it was before. Nuclear weapons, the new emerging nations, the great confrontation on a world-wide scale between two antagonistic systems of government—all of these are producing a world quite unlike that ever seen before.

American foreign policy as now conducted is essentially the same policy laid down in the immediate post-World War II period. The main lines were laid down by General George C. Marshall when he was Secretary of State and it has varied little since then. What Senator Fulbright was saying in effect was that maybe it's time for a change, that a foreign policy adequate to the needs of 1947 and 1948 is not necessarily adequate for the middle 1960s. This should, of course, be self-evident, but the mills of government grind exceeding slow and Fulbright was trying to hasten along the glacial process of government change.

Whether that change can come about under the present directors of our foreign policy is the question which rather intrigues observers here. One of the great losses involved in the sorry affair of Dallas last November was that President Kennedy appeared to be edging towards new concepts and new ideas of how to live in peace in the presently changing world. Whether he would have succeeded in making successful changes remains one of the might-have-beens of history.

* * * *

AT FIRST glance neither President Johnson nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk appear likely to institute any great changes. The President, at least for the moment, is on rather unfamiliar ground when it comes to foreign policy and he will no doubt move very carefully and cautiously in the international arena. The President, too, is basically a man of action rather than a man of ideas. Whatever changes may come to American foreign policy while he is in the White House will come as a result of specific situations rather than from a new concept—unless that concept comes from some other person.

Rusk does not seem to be a likely candidate for promoter of a new concept. While he is highly articulate, thoughtful and knowledgable, his thinking is hardly of the dynamic type nor do his thoughts run to the new and untried. He is skilled in bureaucracy—so skilled, say many of his critics, that he in incapable of extricating himself from the very bureaucracy in which he operates so skillfully.

* * * *

WITH SOME changes in our foreign policy an obvious necessity and with a President and a Secretary of State unlikely to produce those changes, what will happen? The question is perhaps the prime reason why there are in Washington today so many rumors of a change in the topmost direction of the State Department. Despite the best efforts of the White House and the administration to deny the story, rumors that Rusk is on the way out persist. He will probably remain through the November election, but considerable doubts exist whether he will last long after that.

Several names are being suggested already as his successor, among them McGeorge Bundy, now the President's national security advisor, R. Sargent Shriver, Director of the Peace Corps, and William J. Fulbright. The latter might find himself in the position of having to put into action his own words and act upon his verbal ideas, some of which are fearsomely unpopular among a large segment of the American people.

It will be interesting to see how it all works out.

Stocks Rebound for New Highs

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — The The stock market came down with a case of the post-holiday blues early this week but recovered sufficiently to score two sets of new highs before the final session.

Prices churned narrowly mixed Monday and the only bright spots in the list were tobacco and airline shares. The picture turned darker Tuesday and prices dropped some.

A late rally on Wednesday set the stage for an even better advance on Thursday when prices rose sharply to record highs in both Dow-Jones industrial and rail averages and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index. Trading on Thursday hit 6,840,008 shares—the heaviest volume since last Nov. 26, the first trading day after the assassination of President Kennedy.

DOW-JONES industrial average climbed 7.08 to a new record high of 822.99 while rails advanced 3.30 to 195.46, also a new record high. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index also scored a new high of 79.94 on a gain of 0.75.

Trading totaled 29,689,310 shares compared with the 21,334,064 shares in the prior holiday week and 23,611,104 shares in the same week last year. Of the 1,511 issues traded, 803 advanced, 314 to new 1964 highs while 557 declined, 120 to new lows.

Studebaker topped the market in activity, rising 1⅛ to 8¾ on a turnover of 575,300 shares. The activity in the issue stemmed from a statement by the company president in which he said first quarter earnings would approximate $1 million compared with a net loss of $6.4 million a year earlier.

* * * *

CHRYSLER took second place with a loss of 1⅛ to 44⅞ on 394,000 shares. It was followed in activity by Continental Airlines up 1⅞ to 28¾, Pan American World Airways up 1⅜ to 81, American Tobacco up 3½ to 34¾ and Reynolds Tobacco up 5¼ to 46⅞.

Steels were mostly easier, apparently on profit-taking from last week's sharp run-ups. Lukens was an exception. It rose 8⅛. Jones & Laughlin dropped 1⅞, Allegheny Ludlum ⅞, U.S. Steel 1⅜, Bethlehem ¼, Republic ⅜ and Youngstown Sheet ¼.

Motors were held in the doldrums despite news the industry would turn out more cars this month than it did in the same month of the record 1955 year. Apparently the possibility of tough labor demands at the bargaining table this summer kept buyers away.

General Motors dropped ½, Ford ¼ and American Motors ¼.

* * * *

DUPONT racked up a gain of 3⅛ in a higher chemicals section where Hercules Powder climbed 2¾, Olin Mathieson 2¼ and Witco Chemical 1⅜. Eastman Kodak advanced ⅝, Allied and Union Carbide tacked on ¾.

IBM shot up 10 in an otherwise lower electronics group. Zenith dropped 2⅛, Motorola 3½, Texas Instruments 1¼, Electronic Associates 4⅛ and Control Data 2.

Standard Oil of Indiana rose 2 points, Continental Oil picked up 2⅝, Standard Oil (N.J.) 1⅛, and Texaco 1⅛. Carter Products and Richardson-Merrell rose 2 each but Johnson & Johnson dropped 2½ and Merck lost 2⅞.

Chicago & North Western shot ahead 5½ in the rails where New York Central added 1 and Norfolk & Western picked up 2¾. Missouri Pacific retreated 2¼.

* * * *

Metals attracted some attention but turned mixed toward the end of the week. Reynolds Metals was up 2, Alcoa 3⅝ and American Smelting 3⅝. On the downside were Kennecott off 1¼ and Anaconda off 4¾.

Cement shares were a market feature, rising sharply on forecasts for the building industry plus anticipated demand to repair the damage of the Alaskan earthquake. Lehigh Portland rose 2⅛, Ideal 2⅜, Missouri Portland 2⅛, Giant Portland 1⅞ and General Portland 2¼.

Western Airlines shot up 8 points, Braniff 2⅛, National 4¼ and Trans World 2⅜. Delta backtracked 3⅜. Coca-Cola jumped 6 and Royal Crown Cola advanced 5.

* * * *

MAY Department Stores rose 4. In the last session the directors announced a dividend boost and proposed a 2 for 1 split.

J. I. Case spurted ahead 2⅜. Kern County Land announced Friday it is seeking to acquire Case through the acquisition of both the preferred and common shares. The offer on the common is $14.50 a share for not less than 1.6 million shares on 55 percent of the total outstanding. Case 7 percent prefessered shares soared 18¾ on the news, most of the gain scored in the final session.

American Telephone rose 1⅝ to 140 and placed among the 15 most active stocks of the week. The rights on the company's $1.225 billion stock offering rose 1/16 to 1 32/32 on a turnover of 5,565,500 rights. The right will be sold on a cash basis Monday.

General Electric rose 2, Boeing Aircraft 2⅞, McDonnell Aircraft 2⅛, Corning Glass 3, General Cigar 2¾ and Rohm & Haas 9. Polaroid sank 8 points and Xerox, its glamor twin, retreated 2¼.

Big Swing to Instant Coffee On

By GERALD S. SNYDER

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UPI) — Instant coffee, once just a curiosity item, is now a half billion dollar a year industry, providing one of every five cups of coffee in the United States. Not since American patriots dumped King George's tea into Boston harbor nearly 200 years ago has there been such a noteworthy change in the national drink habit.

Exactly how instant coffee is made — the temperatures, pressures and methods used to preserve the aroma — has been one of the food industry's best kept secrets. This is all the more remarkable, the coffee people say, since never in the food industry's history has any product grown so big so fast—or with so many mistaken notions as to how it is made.

* * * *

INSTANT coffee is actually made by brewing coffee in much the same way the housewife does at home. But with two major processes added.

In the General Foods plant at Hoboken, where both instant and regular coffee are treated, the process begins with millions of odorless and tasteless little green beans from Colombia, Brazil, Guatemala and Africa. El Salvador, Mexico, Panama, Costa Rica and other Latin American and Caribbean countries supply the beans to other plants.

The beans are washed and mixed to form different varieties and then placed in roasters that handle up to 11,000 pounds an hour. Roasting takes 15 minutes.

* * * *

NOW THE coffee is cooled and sent into grinders which cut up the roasted beans. This is where the main process for making regular coffee ends and the process of making instant coffee begins.

A battery of percolators two stories high, looking like giant coffee pots, begin to brew the coffee that's to be turned into instant. Thousands of gallons of water at 300 degrees Fahrenheit are pumped into the percolators up through the coffee.

Droplets of pure coffee extract — exactly like the consumer makes in her percolator at home—are pumped up six floors to an enormous vessel called a spray dryer. Here the extract is piped into an air-stream which goes down through the dryer.

ONLY A FEW months away from Tahiti, where he was a drunkard and begger, Emile Gauguin works on a wood sculpture under the eye of Mme. Josette Giraud, in his Chicago apartment.

ANOTHER GAUGUIN

Artist Gauguin's Son in New Life

(Editor's Note—The author of this article, an artist and journalist, was born in Arles, France, famed for its associations with such artists as Vincent Van Gogh and Paul Gauguin. She has lived in the United States for the past 10 years and tells here the story of the discovery of Gauguin's son.)

By JOSETTE GIRAUD

CHICAGO (AP) — "Give me 10 francs. I am hungry."

That old man, half naked, dirty, crouching under a tree, whose voice stopped me in a street was Emile Gauguin, son of the famed French painter, Paul Gauguin. This was in 1961, in Papeete, Tahiti, and Emile was then 61.

Paul was 51 when his son was born, and had only about four more years to live. The boy's mother was a beautiful 17-year-old Tahitian girl. Emile resembled his father astonishingly. I gave him some money, and I told him he could come to eat at my place any time.

He came, he ate voraciously, without words and without thanks. Then he would leave, and he would come back again.

* * * *

WE CAME slowly to exchange a few words. He had difficulty at the beginning with his French as he was not used to expressing himself.

That illiterate man, rejected by all, was as isolated as a deaf mute. Because he talked with pride about his father, and to help him get out of his isolation, I encouraged him to paint.

From the beginning he started painting with ability, as if he had always painted—strange compositions full of beauty, expressing all his fears and all the thoughts he could not explain.

* * * *

HE WORKED with the simplicity of an artisan, without explaining what he painted and why. But isn't creation the most mysterious process? It was by painting that Emile became conscious of his dignity as a man, and that more than anything else gave him the strength to give up alcohol.

He had been a drunkard, begging on the streets of Papeete. He was a tourist attraction and collected coins by posing for pictures.

When he had completed a small collection of paintings, I took them on a tour of Europe. Emile's first one-man show was in Geneva, last April, and there were shows in London and Paris. Critics, curators and art dealers urged me to continue to encourage him. Now he is getting ready for his first American show next year.

* * * *

KEEPING my promise to Emile, I returned to Tahiti to take him away. He was waiting anxiously. He wanted to go away from the hostility of Tahiti and his unhappy past.

We visited New York, where he was fascinated by the city. Since last November he has lived here, learning the technique of wood carving and sculpting. His apartment, in a tall building, is modest. The floors are bare and he works in the living room, on a rough table. His paintings hang in his bedroom. He enjoys television.

His painting tends to abstraction. But what is more abstract than the simplified forms, stylization and geometric patterns of primitive art?

Some of Emile's creations adapt themselves perfectly to commercialization like printed fabrics and furniture.

* * * *

WE WANT HIM to do what he wants to do. We want him to develop his own inspiration without any influence from anyone.

There are many points in common between Emile's life and that of his father — misery, isolation and alcohol. Each knew little of their fathers, who died while both were very young. Their mothers raised them alone.

Paul Gauguin wrote: "I always had taste for escapes." He qualified himself as "Savage Paul."

Paul Gauguin, to fulfill his destiny, abandoned his family. Emile lived completely alone in spite of his marriages. Both began late to paint. Both knew misery.

* * * *

EMILE'S father pasted posters in the streets of Paris, he was a laborer in Panama, and became a sailor to pay his passage back to Europe in 1888.

He wrote: "Too much misery kills."

In Tahiti at the end of his physical and moral strength, fighting the authorities and the gendarmes, condemned to jail, Paul Gauguin died in 1903.

WHY?

Luana Mills, 20-year-old Long Beach City College student found her lost electric cart Saturday, near where she had to abandon it Thursday at 1600 West 14th St. The cart, left on the sidewalk because it broke down, was gone when Luana, crippled since birth, came back for it Friday morning. Saturday police found the cart. Vandals had made it run—again and again—into brick walls until it was damaged almost beyond repair. Luana, daughter of Mrs. Violet A. Mills, of 2112 E. 11th St., also lost her most precious possession in the cart—her Bible.

SAN PEDRO TEACHER KILLED IN SEPARATE CRASH

2 Die, 6 Hurt on Santa Ana Freeway After Motorist Gets Into Wrong Lanes

Two men died in a three-car smashup on the Santa Ana Freeway in Santa Ana Saturday and a San Pedro school teacher died of injuries suffered when his auto ran off the Harbor Freeway near Rosecrans Ave.

California Highway Patrolmen said the impact of the collision which occured north of 17th Street left all three vehicles a jumble of twisted steel.

Six others were injured in the crash, two reported in critical condition and one hurt seriously.

* * * *

DEAD ARE Cpl. Ernest M. Erickson, 22, of El Toro Marine Corps Base and Billy W. Browning, 39, of 2338 S. Olive St., Santa Ana.

Erickson, riding with three other Marines, died at Santa Ana Community Hospital 35 minutes after the crash which occured at 2:18 a.m. Browning was dead on arrival at Orange County General Hospital.

* * * *

IN CRITICAL condition at the county hospital were Cpl. Vance L. Parnin, 26, and William Whipple, 19, both of El Toro MCAS. Listed as serious was Richard Snyder, 19, of 11791 McDuff St., Garden Grove.

Cpl. Charles W. Abrams, 23, was reported in good condition at Santa Ana Community Hospital. Cpl. Marvin King, 22, of El Toro, and Vance L. Steelman, 18, of 1532 Michelle Lane, Anaheim, were treated at the county hospital and released.

Officers said one of the autos—wreckage was so bad they couldn't tell which was traveling northbound in the southbound lanes and smashed into the other two.

The teacher, William Stuart, 42, of 1207 Paseo Del Mar, was trapped in the wreckage of his auto for more than four hours before a passing motorist saw the car in a drainage ditch around 7 a.m., police said. He died at Central Receiving Hospital at 7:40 a.m.

Officers said Stuart lost control of his auto while driving south on the Harbor Freeway. It shot 100 yards through shrubbery, tore out a wooden barricade and crashed into the 15-foot-deep drainage ditch, shoving the engine into the driver's compartment and trapping Stuart.

Open Lomita Improvement Bids on April 22

HARBOR CITY — Bids on widening and improving a segment of Lomita Boulevard will be opened April 22 by the City Board of Public Works.

The project includes widening the north side of the thoroughfare from Normandie to Frampton avenues, to provide an 80-foot-wide roadway, and remodeling traffic signals and street lights at the Normandie Avenue intersection. The work is being financed by the county.

A SELLOUT

Waiting List for Concerts

The Long Beach Community Concerts organization, swamped by would-be concertgoers, said Saturday it was discontinuing the sale of season tickets for the fall season.

"More than 4,500 persons have bought tickets since the sale started Tuesday, and we just don't have any left," explained Earl Thomas, publicity director for the organization.

Nevertheless, he added, the concert group will be happy to put the names of those still wishing tickets on a waiting list. The concert season starts next fall in Municipal Auditorium.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

GOP CANDIDATE TO SPEAK HERE TUESDAY

Kaiser Calls Demo Senate Hopes 'Tragic Choice'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Republican U.S. Senate candidate Leland M. (Lee) Kaiser comes to Long Beach Tuesday in the wake of heavy blasts against his principal Democratic opponents as a "tragic choice" field.

Kaiser, who will speak at a luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel International Ball Room under sponsorship of his Long Beach committee, included Pierre Salinger, Alan Cranston and incumbent Clair Engle in his attack.

The tragic choice facing Democrats, according to Kaiser:

"On the one hand they have a sick man, Clair Engle, whose health apparently won't permit him to campaign or effectively serve the state in the Senate, and on the other hand they must choose between two eminently unqualified candidates.

"One, Cranston, is so far out in left field that those Democrats who are self-respecting, patriotic Americans can't go for him, and the other (Salinger) is a machine politician with absolutely no business experience whatsoever."

Kaiser said he considers Salinger's candidacy "a rigged deal, coupling (Assembly Speaker) Jesse Unruh's strongarm tactics with Salinger's slick doubletalk."

STASSEN PETITION

Frank C. Finch of Long Beach, chairman of the California Stassen for President Citizens Committee, announced that Republican candidate Harold Stassen has been qualified for the state's June 2 primary with more than 20,000 signatures.

Finch noted that Stassen has entered Indiana's May 5 primary and is opposed there only by Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. He said the Indiana campaign is expected to center on civil rights and foreign policy with Stassen campaigning on "a strong program for peace based on the successful Eisenhower methods along the middle way."

Finch said Stassen is scheduled to come to California this week to organize his state campaign.

He announced that Ben Peery, editor of the California Republican Assembly News, has been appointed chairman of the 21st Congressional District Stassen committee in Los Angeles.

HASTINGS HITS POLL

Willard Hastings, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach-Signal Hill 39th District, Saturday attacked poll results announced by incumbent Republican Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian:

"It would seem," he said, "that our esteemed Republican assemblyman is seeking to justify his undemocratic segregationist-type voting by taking an ex post facto poll regarding the Rumford Fair Housing Law. He has already voted against this bill, AB 1240. Judging by the announced response, it would also seem that the constituents in the small 'representative area' who replied are primarily members of the CREA (California Real Estate Association).

"It is my sincere belief that the people of our district do not wish in any way to discriminate against their fellow Americans. I feel the incumbent is using this poll to take advantage of an emotional situation rather than making an effort to inform his constitutents of all the aspects of the Fair Housing Law."

CULLEN SPEAKS

Michael Cullen, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Long Beach area is 32nd District, will be guest speaker at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ruth Bach Library, 4055 Bellflower Blvd., for the Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club.

President Gertrude Ginsberg said Dick Cartwright will show the film, "For the Rest of Your Life," explaining the King-Anderson Medicare program. The public is invited.

HARBOR GOLDWATER

The Harbor Goldwater Committee announced opening of the headquarters at 816 Avalon Blvd., Wilmington, with some 200 guests attending Saturday. It will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Committee chairman, Mrs. Eleanor Kuehn, announced sponsorship of a "Cruise with Goldwater" May 16, a social and fund-raising outing from Wilmington to Catalina aboard the S. S. Catalina. Sen. Goldwater is scheduled to fly to the island and return with the boat party.

Some 1,800 persons can be accommodated at $10 per person. The committee also is selling $1 and $2 tickets for the Goldwater appearance April 15 in Long Beach Arena.

Bandit Suspect, Shot With Own Gun, 'Fair'

A 19-year-old suspect in a LaMirada holdup was in fair condition Saturday night after being shot in the back with his own gun.

According to Norwalk sheriff's deputies, the youth James Lyle Hessell, of 10920 Gard St, Santa Fe Springs, was shot by a service station attendant who wrenched the gun from his hand after the robbery at 14209 E. Firestone Blvd., at 4:30 a.m.

The attendant, James E. Parks, told detectives that Hessell pulled a gun on him and demanded the money. Parks said he handed over some bills, then grabbed the gun, a .22-caliber revolver.

Parks said the suspect pleaded with him to let him go but that he told Hessell he was calling the sheriff's office. The suspect then turned and ran toward his car.

Deputies said Parks fired one shot which struck Hessell in the back. However, the suspect reached his car and roared away.

Hessell later stopped an unidentified motorist at Florence Avenue and Rosemead Boulevard officers said and asked to be taken to a hospital. The Samaritan drove him to Downey Community Hospital where he later was arrested by Downey police.

Hessell, whose description matches that of a gunman who robbed another service station at 8408 Rosemead Boulevard, Pico Rivera, shortly before 4 a.m., was booked in the prison ward of Los Angeles County General Hospital.

Eye-Fraud Probe Set by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alleged quackery in the treatment of eye troubles will come under Senate investigation in public hearings Monday.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D.-N.J., chairman of a special subcommittee investigating Frauds Against the Elderly, said Food and Drug Administration witnesses would comment, among other things, on testimony he said the subcommittee has received concerning "reports of blindness from the use of contact lenses."

The senator said, however, the hearing's major purpose will be to receive testimony about "the variety of ways in which elderly Americans are being victimized by promoters of worthless products or treatments that make false promises for better vision or correction of eye problems."

TALENTS BRILLIANT

Lakewood Ballet Accorded Praise

By RACHEL MORTON

The dance and drama workshop of the Lakewood Philharmonic Association presented the "Ballet Coppelia" in the Lakewood High School auditorium Friday night before a large audience.

Produced by Norm Kreitzer, the featured stars were Marcia Merritt, Bill Tarpy and Charles Pressey. Valerie Silver was the director-choreographer, and besides her own pupils, there were performers from eight other dance studios.

It always amazes me what Valerie Silver can do with young people from 4 to 20 years of age in the art of ballet. She has a flair for drama as well, and the Coppelia of Friday night compared most favorably with many a professional performance I have seen.

* * * *

THE STAGE settings were very attractive, the lighting excellent and the costumes were lovely. How fortunate we are in Long Beach to have full-length ballet performances given from time to time, and with our own talented young people.

Bill Tarpy's superb dancing was the highlight of the evening. As the young lover Frantz, his dramatic portrayal equalled his dazzling feats of high leaps, fast turns and spins. He was applauded long after he left the stage.

Marcia Merritt was a worthy partner to Tarpy as she danced the role of Swanhilda. Very lovely in appearance, she had a fairy-like grace that was most sympathetic. The pas de deux with Bill Tarpy was very fine and the scene with Dr. Coppelius as the mechanical doll in the second act was full of humor as well as controlled ballet.

In makeup, in acting and in burlesqued dancing, Charles Pressey was outstandingly fine. Christine Mills and Kathy McFadden again achieved a notable success as they danced the "Dance de Fete." They are a duo of very talented young dancers.

* * * *

IN LOVELY tulle ballerina costume of pastel shades, six young girls danced beautifully in the Waltz of the Hours.

It was remarkable how the tiny tots kept immovable as dolls in Dr. Coppelius' workshop. And no less a test of endurance was the act-long immobility of the mechanical doll, Coppelia, played by Shelley Horton. Other solo ballerinas were Hermine Kritzer, who danced "Dawn" and Diane Racek, who gracefully danced "Evening Prayer."

Next to the thrill of the solo dancing were the ensemble groupings and dancing of the little folk, filling the stage in bright red-and-white costumes. What a picture they made as they swirled in intricate patterns of the dance.

Beware, Dodgers—It's Still Angeltown

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.P-T Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS — After futile attempts to stretch it into a seven-game series, the management of the Angels has agreed to go through with next weekend's two-game civil war feud with the Dodgers.

The Angels' reason for seeking a longer series is obvious. Like any other baseball team, the Angels want to open the season with a winning attitude. Against who else could they achieve this goal but the Dodgers?

The city champs have never lost to the world champs in a series dating clear back to 1962 and encompassing three games.

Thus, the Angels, who will spend the final week of spring training playing Hawaii, would have preferred playing seven games in Dodger Stadium, reacquainting themselves with the park while their pitchers developed a winning attitude against competition which has proved less of a challange than the Islanders.

The first time landlord and tenant got together was in the spring of 1962. Some 6,000 sadistic fans fought their way into Palm Springs' ball yard to watch the expansion babes be humiliated. The Angels, however, showed up, put their pants on one leg at a time, let the Dodgers have their fun for eight innings and then calmly pulled it out, 6-5, with the help of Albie Pearson's three-run homer off Johnny Podres in the ninth.

This so unnerved Podres that now, two-years later, he is still having trouble driving.

Last season, Walter O'Malley ordered the series into Dodger Stadium with the thought that 100,000 could watch his club prove what happened one year before was clearly a fluke.

Alas, the Angels were to again provide O'Malley with more trouble than John Holland. The Angels again pulled out the opener in the ninth inning, 4-3, and the next day coasted to a 3-0 victory.

Walter Alston pulled his shocked troops together and finally, in October, they managed to win two games in a row at Dodger Stadium. Which would only prove that Mickey Mantle is no Albie Pearson.

Bill Rigney, however, discovered that two games were not enough to instill the winning attitude. The Angels went from city champs to American League chumps, finishing ninth.

What happened over 162 games does not alter the fact that the Angels would seem to have the Dodger number (they would prefer having the Dodgers' attendance numbers). This point is confirmed by two facts:

The reason Frank Howard wanted to exit this year was because he was afraid of Angel pitching. So concerned are the Dodgers with this three-game losing streak that scout Lefty Phillips, who wrote the "book" on the Yankees, spent last week in Arizona preparing another on the Angels.

Aware of Phillips' presence, Rigney devised special plans for his city series starters, Dean Chance and Bo Belinsky. Chance did not pitch until Saturday after Phillips had re-

Reds, Hutch Working to Bounce Back

'Not Winning, But Getting in Shape' for NL Campaign

By GEORGE LEDERER
I.P-T Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla.—The Big Bear is a little bigger this spring and the pelt on his pate is shaggy, although turning a becoming grey.

Except that he is badly in need of a haircut, Fred Hutchinson looks great. The manager of the Cincinnati Reds says he feels good and you are convinced as his right paw clamps yours: Hutch has lost none of his strength.

You have read that Hutchinson directs the Reds' workouts from a golf cart in order to conserve his strength. You are pleased to see him pace along the sidelines and you are amazed when he sprints to the rival dugout to greet Dodger manager Walter Alston.

* * * *

"WAIT right here, fellas," says Hutch. "I'll be back to talk to you in a couple of minutes.'

As you wait, you wonder. Should you inquire further about his health? Is cancer a forbidden word?

You decide to let Hutch call the shots, as he has for 10 years as a major league manager. As Hutch returns, you grind out your cigarette and button your shirt pocket to resist further temptation.

Doctors have extinguished Hutchinson's smoking lamp, but not his fire.

"I see no reason why we shouldn't bounce back," he said. "We're not winning this spring, but we're getting the club into shape. That's the most important thing."

* * * *

THE REDS did manage to pick up their first victory against National League opposition when they edged the Dodgers, 7-6, Saturday. They had lost nine in a row in NL exhibitions, including 12-2 to the Dodgers Friday.

"I heard all about that one," said Hutch, who did not make the trip to Vero Beach Friday. He heard so much from coach Reggie Otero that a new lineup, all regulars, already was posted in the Reds' dugout when the Dodgers arrived at 11 a.m.

Hutchinson was disappointed in the Reds' fifth-place finish, 13 games behind the Dodgers, last season. Several players disappointed the manager.

Frank Robinson, Gordy Coleman, Joey Jay, Bob Purkey and Bill Henry had sub-par seasons.

"ROBINSON certainly isn't a .259 hitter," said Hutch. "Neither is Jay a 7-win pitcher. Purkey had a sore arm, Coleman was too heavy and Henry was spotty in the bullpen.

"We haven't hit yet this spring, but we're beginning to shape up. If we want to, we can put more speed on the field than anyone. We have a well-balanced club. We're young, and yet we have experience.

"If we have a weakness,

Cowboys Headed for Last Roundup Today

By AL LARSON

The Pacific Indoor Rodeo, referred to in some quarters as "tramp, tramp, tramp the bulls are marching," concludes today at the Long Beach Arena when cowpokes of every size and shape take their last crack at the juicy purse money totaling $19,060.

The bucking stock, which draws its final whifts of the salt air, comes out charging at 2 o'clock.

The fifth largest crowd ever to attend an event in the L.B. Arena, 9,877, cheered Saturday night as the big oxes again stole the spotlight.

Only Lowell James, Rapid City, S.D., clung to his heaving and weaving beast, Tony Lama, for the required eight seconds; 10 boys bit the dust. The box score now reads: Bulls 39, Cowboys 12.

"Hurricane Hank" proved invincible again as he bounced his adversary, Bill Burton, in short order.

"This was the second time I've drawn 'Hank' but I haven't had any luck yet. He's a good, honest bull . . . just rank. He felt good and I got my arm straight. Then he whipped me down."

* * * *

"HANK," WHO was ridden only twice in 61 outings last year, has bucked 10 of 11 riders that have mounted him this season.

Bill Martinelli, who had been one of the pre-rodeo favorites in the saddle bronc, flew head-over-heels when "Heaven Bound" bucked him off. For a moment Bill looked like he was hell-bound.

Tickets Available

General admission seats at $1.50 and reserved seats at $3 and $4 are available for today's final performance at 2 o'clock.

CAMP Pendleton, home of the last cavalry unit of bucking horses in the country, pulled far ahead of the Navy in the service competition.

All three Marines stayed up Saturday night to push their lead to 243-0. The sailors are batting 0-12 after four performances. Bull rider Jerry Lambert was rushed to Pacific Hospital when his bull stomped him in the chest but X-rays on the sailor proved negative.

Blades Belt Denver, Play S.F.

DENVER—The Blades rallied for four goals in the last period Saturday night to take a 5-3 victory over the Denver Invaders that put them in the finals of the Western Hockey League's Lester Patrick Cup playoffs.

The victory closed the best-of-seven semifinal playoff series at four wins to two. Denver won the second and fourth games in the series and dropped a 5-4 overtime decision to the Blades in Los Angeles Friday night.

The Blades move into the first game of the finals against the San Francisco Seals in Los Angeles next Wednesday night.

Stan Maxwell scored two goals and assisted on another in the Blades' triumph Saturday night. He scored the first goal of the game at 16:29 of the first period, then hit the Blades' fourth goal at 8:05 of the final period.

* * * *

THE BLADES trailed, 2-1, going into the last 20 minutes. Then Willie O'Ree connected at 2:09 and Gordon Haworth sent the Blades ahead less than two minutes later.

Denver tallied once more, Lou Jankowski getting his second goal at 10:54, but the Blades clinched it with Leo LaBine's scoring shot at 14:15.

Jankowski tied the score at 1-1 at 17:50 of the first period and Denver moved into the lead within the first minute of the second period on Dick Lamoureaux's goal.

The Blades showed the fatiguing effects of the furious three games of the series played in Los Angeles Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights during the first two periods, but came to life in the final stanza.

A near-capacity crowd of 4,572 was on hand at University of Denver Arena to see the Invaders close their first season in the WHL. Denver won the Governor's Cup going away for its first place finish in the regular season standings.

LONG, CARR SET WORLD MARKS

SHOTPUT: 65-11½

Dallas Long set a new world's record in the shotput Saturday in a track meet between Occidental College and the Pasadena Athletic Association.

Long, a dental student at University of Southern California, hit 65 feet, 11½ inches on his next to last throw. The old record, 65-10½, was set by Long in 1962.

Despite Long's record toss, Occidental went on to sweep the intermediate hurdles, 440 and two-mile run and hand the Pasadena team an 88-56 defeat.

Long said the throw came easy and added that he has always done well at the Occidental pit.

"To tell the truth, all those 65-footers felt just like the 63-footers used to feel," Long said.

220 CURVE: 20.2

Carr's time was 20.2. His listed world standard is 20.3.

Carr's amazing showing came in a dual meet between the Sun Devils and the powerful Southern California Striders.

The 6-foot-3 junior from Detroit, Mich., had little competition in his record effort, pulling away from the field with about 30 yards to go.

Second was the Striders' Adolph Plummer. The former University of New Mexico performer, a world record holder himself in the 440-yard dash, was tied at 20.8. Third was the Striders' Don Webster in 20.9.

Carr was slow out of the blocks but made up for it at the end of the curve.

Flying Wheels Capture 5th National Title

NEW YORK (Special)—Long Beach's Flying Wheels won their fifth consecutive National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament title Saturday, upsetting top-seeded Indianapolis 45-40 in the championship final of the 16th annual tourney.

The Flying Wheels scored nine successive points with eight minutes to play. John Cheves, a six-time wheelchair all-American, scored 18 points for Long Beach, which led at halftime, 23-19. Center Erle Gerard was next with 13 points.

Ninth-ranked Chicago upset the fifth-ranked Pan-Am Jets, 59-38, to defend their consolation championship. It was the Sidewinders' third upset victory in the four-day tournament.

HELP WANTED: TRADE WINDS BLOWING

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Trade winds are blowing again and there's a strong possibility that some major league player transactions will be completed before the season openers next week.

Every club with the possible exception of the New York Yankees needs help at least one position. And even the Yankees are on the lookout for a left-handed pinch hitter.

The Chicago Cubs, unable to come up with a replacement for second baseman Kenny Hubbs, victim of a plane crash last February, tried unsuccessfully to pry loose Dick Tracewski from the Dodgers or Chuck Hiller from the San Francisco Giants.

They had to settle for Joey Amalfitano, purchasing the utility infielder from the Angels.

Oddly enough, the club most sought after for deals is the lowly New York Mets. It seems everybody wants the few worthies the New Yorkers possess.

Philadelphia and Milwaukee covet Al Jackson, the southpaw who won 21 of the 91 games the Mets have won in their first two years.

The Phillies, seeking a righthanded hitting outfielder as well as another starting pitcher, last week offered five players for Jackson and outfielder Frank Thomas. The players offered were pitchers John Boozer, Paul Brown and Dallas Green, rookie outfielder John Herrnstein and third baseman Don Hoak.

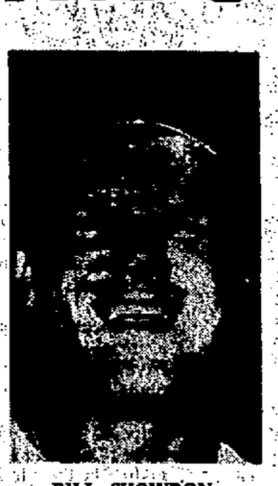
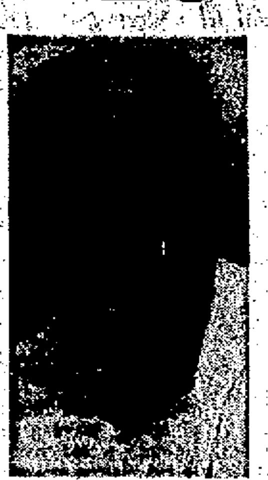
A number of other trade proposals have been made during the spring training season.

DUKE SNIDER

DICK TRACEWSKI



BILL SKOWRON



DEAN CHANCE

—The Minnesota Twins offered center fielder Lennie Green, pitcher Jim Perry and first baseman Don Mincher to the Angels for right-handed pitcher Dean Chance.

—The Twins also offered first baseman Vic Power and third baseman George Banks to the Washington Senators for first baseman Bill Showron.

—The Giants offered outfielder Matty Alou and cash to the Mets for outfielder Duke Snider.

—The Detroit Tigers also want Snider but offer only cash.

The Mets are not unwilling to part with Snider, who, at 37, is expected to see only limited action. But George Weiss, the club president, wants more than the younger brother of Felipe Alou and cash

"Snider would fill our need for a left-handed pinch hitter and part time outfielder," said manager Charlie Dressen of the Tigers. "We'd like to have him but they have asked for Willie Horton, our young outfielder, in return. We regard Horton as a future star."

The Mets are loathe to part with Jackson, whom manager Casey Stengel regards the ace of his staff. It has been reported they have offered Jay Hook, a hight-hander, to the Braves in exchange for the proposed trio but Milwaukee is still holding out for Jackson.

A check of the 20 clubs disclosed the following as their most immediate needs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago—A second baseman.
Cincinnati—A third baseman.
Houston—A shortstop and catcher.
Dodgers—A first string catcher to replace the ailing John Roseboro.
Milwaukee—A fourth starting pitcher.
New York—A third baseman and shortstop.
Philadelphia — A right-handed hitting outfielder.
Pittsburgh—A third baseman.
St. Louis—A left-handed hitting outfielder and second string catcher.
San Francisco — A left-handed relief pitcher.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Baltimore—A second baseman.
Boston—A right-handed hitting catcher.
Chicago—A solid first-string catcher.
Cleveland—A second baseman.
Detroit—A reliable relief pitcher.
Kansas City—A second baseman and two starting pitchers.
Los Angeles—A third baseman and outfielder.
Minnesota—A second-string catcher in support of Earl Battey.
Washington—A third baseman, catcher and two starting pitchers.

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . The mail continues to mount on the controversial issue of pay-television. Most of the correspondents seem to be against it for fear of losing many of their programs now on free TV. Our stand is still in favor of the progressive movement. As far as costs are concerned, I still maintain that NOBODY will be forced to subscribe.

WALTER O'MALLEY
"Pay-TV to Help"

. . . . Interestingly, Walter O'Malley believes that home pay television will HELP the box office. His explanation: "I have figures to show that radio, because it was more or less a teaser and didn't give the listener the whole aspect of the game, helped build patronage. I also have figures to show that free television eliminated customers. Since pay-television is only an extension of the live gate, it will help a lot. Just think real hard what the Dodgers could have made on our three-game pennant-deciding series last year with the Cardinals." (You can wager that Walter is stringing his beads daily praying that such a circumstance happens THIS season.)

. . . Frank (Bud) Furillo, the young, new executive of the L.A. evening paper's sports department, likes the potential move of the Angels to Orange County . . . as he pounded out in this manner the other day: "The potential of Orange County is tremendous. It makes a lot more sense than Long Beach. Let's see how that plays in Hank Hollingworth's typewriter when he gets through fishing off Rainbow Pier." (In response, we might remind Bud that we already have played with our typewriter on the subject and agree that the Angels' Orange County-Disneyland connection is tremendous. Two-for-one always is fun. P.S. I wish I had the time to fish off Rainbow Pier.)

. . . Al Larson is no man to have in your corner during a barroom brawl. Our rodeo expert, after the highly successful event's first night program when the Arena had been cleared of fans, was suddenly encountered by a steer that somehow had sneaked past the guards and was sauntering around the stands. When rodeo boss Lex Connelly spotted the critter he yelled for assistance. Connelly went for the steer, Larson's partner, Bill Sawrey, rushed to aid him and Larson promptly climbed 30 feet up a screen. A cowboy aided Connelly just as the steer was getting set to drill Sawrey into the woodwork. The two experts maneuvered the animal back onto the dirt floor and the boss messed-up his beautiful, expensive Western attire wrestling the steer to the ground. "At least it proved one thing," panted Connelly after the episode, "the old man hasn't lost his touch yet." (It proved another thing, too. Choose Sawrey, not Larson, when the next tag-team affair crops up during those beer drinking beach parties).

NOTE TO PAT AHERN: Did you notice the fine writeups both wire services gave to John Wooden for his extreme sportsmanship during the U.S. Olympic basketball trials? Wooden's first aim wasn't in winning with the team he coached, but with sincerely trying to determine the best players to represent our nation in the upcoming Games. In using reserves 50 per cent of the time, Wooden's predominately UCLA-represented club lost its opener. Wooden's explanation: "I have an obligation to play all the boys an equal amount." The wire services' succint conclusion: Other coaches did not follow suit. (And that included the AAU-coached teams, too, Pat.)

. . . . Last year we wrote that Jacques Grenier's son, Mark, of Millikan High, not only hoped to follow in his father's footsteps as a harness horse driver, trainer and owner, but also to branch out as a race announcer. Mark, who turned 18 Friday, has hit the big time fast: He is the "new" voice you hear announcing the final race daily at Santa Anita's current Western Harness meeting. (Mark even handled an entire program one day when the veteran announcer was ailing.)

. . . "Mark has a tremendous attribute," commented WHRA official Biff Lowry. "He can identify every single horse by its looks, not just its colors in a race." (If you think that's easy, try it. The only horses I can tell apart are coal blacks and strawberry roans.)

ON THE SUBJECT of horses, Press-Telegram handicapper Ernie Mason received a letter from a local teenage miss that he still hasn't got around to answering (and doesn't know how he will). The question: "Are geldings born that way?"

. . . Caliente Future Book operators always report that they are trembling about what will happen to them if certain well-regarded horses win the S'Anita Handicap or the Kentucky Derby. Right now they're shaking in earnest over the prospect of Hill Rise capturing next month's Derby. On the first day they opened their Derby book, the Caliente people hauled-in $15,000 on Hill Rise at odds of 5-1 ($10,000 in one chunk). The colt was lowered to 5-2 on their next listings and should be even-money with them on the day of the race. That's beside the point, though. With little action on other horses, Caliente overall figures to blow 100 grand if Hill Rise nabs the Kentucky classic. I'd shake, too.

. . . Las Vegas bookmakers are getting surprising plays on both the Pirates and Braves (at juicy prices) to nab the N.L. pennant. The theory, they believe, is that the N.L. has produced six different champions in seven years. My conclusion: Forget it. There's a lot of contention in the circuit again, but it's really a three-horse race: The Dodgers, Giants and Cardinals . . . with the Phillies always pesty.

'I'M NO SUPER-STAR'

Wagner Modest on HR Prediction

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

TUCSON —It is unfortunate that Leon Wagner considers himself only an average player. Otherwise, he might completely destroy the American League.

Wagner made the following prediction Saturday:

"With the short fences in Cleveland I'll probably hit 50 home runs this year."

Asked why he wouldn't predict 62 home runs for himself, Wagner replied:

"Man, I'm only an average player. I'm no super-star."

• • • •

WAGNER made his prediction before rain called a halt to the Cleveland-Angels game in the third inning with no score. Thus, it was a cold birthday party thrown by the city of Tucson for Jim Fregosi.

Jupiter Pluvius became the first pitcher to stop Fregosi this spring. Jimmy turned 22 Saturday and turned into the final week of training with a .375 batting average. He leads the Angels in hits, total bases and runs scored. Within the next 48 hours he is expected to establish a first—he will be the first Angel to become a father this spring.

The Angels are still looking for a leftfielder and some pinch-hitting strength, but for Jim Fregosi it has been a productive spring.

• • • •

ANGEL ANGLES: Manager Bill Rigney confirmed Saturday's I. P-T story when he revealed that Bo Belinsky and Dean Chance would pitch next weekend's series with the Dodgers. . . . Belinsky will probably go Saturday night.

Belinsky and Chance showed up for Saturday's contest in resplendent cowboy outfits. . . . Bo, however, is the first cowpoke ever to wear suede shoes. . . . "I've been in this territory so long I feel I should go native," said Belinsky. "I believe in the old saying, when in Rome do as the cowboys do."

Coach Jack Paepke suffered two cracked ribs when he was struck by a line drive off the bat of Paul Pavlack during a workout at Palm Springs Friday. . . . Special assignment scout Joe Gordon has been in Arizona for three days surveying college talent.

Belinsky will be on the mound when the Angels face Hawaii at Palm Springs today. . . . The contest will be color cast by KTLA (5). . . . Chance had not allowed a hit through the first two and two-thirds innings Saturday.

Dick Simpson will probably man centerfield for the remaining exhibition games with Albie Pearson in left. . . . Albie is not too happy with the idea. . . . "I'm a singles hitter," said Pearson. "You can hit singles and play center. If you play left and hit singles you're gone as soon as some power comes along."

HEMUS HIRED AS COACH BY CLEVELAND

Tebbetts suffered a heart attack Wednesday night, and Strickland had been acting as manager since then.

Reds, Hutch Shaping Up for '64 Comeback

it's in our short relief and at third base. I don't want to name the third baseman for a while. Tommy Harper, Chico Ruiz and Steve Boros are fighting for the job."

Boros, guilty of two errors Friday, redeemed himself Saturday with two hits, including a double that enabled the Reds to tie the score at 6-6 in the eighth inning.

Purkey, 6-10 last year, retired the first 13 Dodgers and allowed only a scratch single through five innings. It was obvious he had run out of gas when 10 Dodgers batted against him for four runs in the sixth.

Hutchinson, too, is far ahead in a more serious comeback campaign. He has gained 15 pounds since taking his last x-ray treatment in mid-February and is stepping up his activity daily.

He rubbed his midsection and promised, "I'll take this off as soon as I can work out."

He really doesn't have to. All he needs is a haircut.

• • • •

DIS AND DATA—Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Jim Gilliam homered Saturday to equal the Dodgers' production of 16 previous games. . . . Gilliam connected for three runs and W. Davis for one in the fourth inning against Purkey. . . . T. D. picked on rookie lefthander Ted Davidson with the bases empty in the sixth. . . . Willie, Tommy and Ron Fairly hit the first three Dodger homers. . . . Coleman hit a three-run homer and Vada Pinson hit one with one aboard against Johnny Podres in the fourth. . . . Podres didn't allow a hit until Harper led off the fourth with a single. . . . There were five hits in a row before Podres retired the side.

Jim Brewer, bidding for a relief job, allowed his first earned run in six innings on successive eighth-inning doubles by rookie Art Shamsky and Boros. . . . The loss was charged to Howie Reed, who failed to retire a Red in the ninth. . . . Chico Cardenas led off the ninth with a double, John Edwards was walked intentionally and the bases were filled when Reed threw late to third on Deron Johnson's sacrifice bunt. . . . Pete Rose's single off Dick Nen's glove chased home the winning run.

Great in Pinch, Lynch Homers Twice as Starter

By Associated Press

Jerry Lynch, Pittsburgh's pinch-hitting specialist, took advantage of a starting role, clubbed two homers, a double and a single, drove in four runs and scored four himself as the Pirates crushed Detroit 14-6 in an exhibition baseball game Saturday.

Lynch's 4-for-4 performance led a 20-hit Pittsburgh attack that also included a two-run homer by rookie Gene Alley. Don Demeter hit a homer for the Tigers.

Besides Alley, two other rookies played key roles—Minnesota outfielder Tony Oliva and Joeff Long of the St. Louis Cardinals.

• • • •

OLIVA smashed three doubles while Harmon Killebrew drove in three runs in the Twins' 7-4 victory over Kansas City. Ed Charles kept the A's in the game with a homer and two doubles.

Long collected three hits in a 15-hit Cardinal attack that overwhelmed the New York Mets 10-1.

Four other games turned into long struggles with the New York Yankees edging one half of the Chicago White Sox' split squad 9-8, Cincinnati defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6, Philadelphia beating Houston 9-6 and Boston outlasting the Chicago Cubs 9-7 in 14 innings.

Rookie Archie Moore stroked a two-run single that capped a five-run ninth-inning uprising and won for the Yankees. Clete Boyer homered for New York.

FALL FROM LEAD

Vikings Stunned Twice by Valley

Just about the time Long Beach City College felt like it belonged on the top rung of the Metropolitan Conference baseball ladder, Valley and a case of overconfidence popped up and knocked the Vikings off their perch.

Bill Hatch's charges journeyed to the Monarchs' playground Saturday and were rudely treated to losses of 6-4 and 5-4, the latter in extra innings.

Long Beach jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first game and thought it had Valley on the run when the host contingent started running the bases like crazy. And after seven innings the Vikes found themselves on the short end of a 6-3 deficit.

• • • •

IN THE nightcap Bart Hammer walked, Don Keel singled and walks to John Kalench and Mike Linck gave LBCC a run in the second inning. But Viking errors and subsequent base hits in the second and third frames gave Valley a 4-1 advantage.

Angels Eye Cousins—

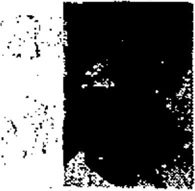
turned to Los Angeles. Belinsky was fed to the Giants' pitcher-devouring attack and the ensuing seven runs in six innings filled Phillips with overconfidence. Little did Lefty know Bo wasn't prepared for this effort. He had met curfew the night before.

This year the Saturday game will be played at night. It is the Angels' home game and general manager Fred Haney doesn't want to embarrass the Dodgers again. In case the Angels pull into the lead he will turn off the lights, allowing the Dodgers to sneak out unnoticed.

Sunday, when the site of the contest shifts from Chavez Ravine to Dodger Stadium, game time will be 1 p.m. And the $250,000 spent this winter on floral landscaping will be bared to the public for the first time. Included among the improvements was the construction of a scaffold and noose in O'Malley private box. If the Dodgers don't get the "hang" of beating the Angels, O'Malley will employ the rope.

There is only one thing that has the Angels worried. Crowds of 35,000 are anticipated for both games. The Angels tend to get nervous before such gatherings. Some 55,000 missed the Angels' final contest at Dodger Stadium last season. The "crowd" totaled 476.

This weekend, there will be that many in O'Malley's box alone.



WYNN

Man to Man

MASON

By JERRY WYNN

A Viking among palm trees, Tommy Mason is the most recent addition to the ranks of famous Long Beach athletes.

A native of Lake Charles, La., and an all-America at Tulane, the strong, swift and stylish (6-2, 200, 9.8 dash time) Mason was singled out by Minnesota as its bonus choice among all collegians when the club was founded in 1961.

Tommy played under the shadow and tutelage of Hugh McElhenny his first pro season, came into his own in 1962 and finished last year as the league's No. 5 runner and No. 1 among halfbacks. Only 24, the Rams and other NFL foes should be chasin' Mason for a long, long time.

What brought you to Long Beach, Tommy?

"George (Hill) kept writing to me what a nice place it is, and I finally decided to give it a try after the Pro Bowl game this year. Those winters in Minnesota were getting too cold for a Southern boy. I like it here very much and love the weather. I'd like to make it my permanent home."

What will make up your mind?

"Finding a good job in the off-season. I'd like to get into public relations or advertising, something I can make a career of when I'm through playing football. I was a pre-dental student at Tulane, but I don't think I'm returning to dental school."

As an eligible bachelor, how do the Long Beach girls compare with the southern belles of Louisiana and the northern queens of Minnesota?

"Good-looking girls are good-looking girls anywhere. They seem to be in abundance in California. I don't care where a girl comes from as long as she's friendly and good looking. But I must be a jinx to my roommates. George is going to be the fifth one to leave me and get married."

Have you thought of rooming with Cliff Livingston, the Rams' perennial bachelor, who lives in Belmont Shore?

"No, but I know Cliff well. He played with the Vikings two seasons ago, and he's a great guy. I thought he was living in Montebello. Where is Belmont Shore?

Back to football, Tommy. LSU has turned out such great backs as Steve Van Buren, Alvin Dark, Y. A. Tittle, Billy Cannon and Jim Taylor and Tulane has only you. What's been holding back the Green Wave?

"Tulane puts more emphasis on academics. You need a B average to get in. LSU is a state school and really emphasizes sports. Football is everything at Baton Rouge. I have no love for LSU, but I'm proud of the school. It's showed the nation how good football is in Louisiana. In the last Pro Bowl, we had seven players from the state—Jim Taylor, Y. A. Tittle, Tommy Davis, Richie Petitbon, Roosevelt Taylor, Willie Davis and myself. What other state can beat that number?"

Are you in training for the 1964 season?

"Yes. I'm working out at the Pacific Coast Club with John Ogden. He is one of the athletic directors there and he trained some of the Rams last year. I'm mostly working with the weights. I want to build my weight up to 210 when I report this season. Last year, I started at 195."

Is Minnesota coach Norm Van Brocklin a tyrant as some reports have indicated?

"No. I have a lot of respect for him. He is a smart coach who wants to win badly and isn't afraid to let you know about it. He doesn't play favorites regardless if you are a star or on the taxi squad. We've got along well."

Will Van Brocklin be able to handle problem-child Hal Bedsole?

"I think so. When you go to the Vikings, there is only one way to do things—Van Brocklin's way. I hear Bedsole has great potential. If he can catch passes, he'll have nothing to worry about. And the kid is lucky. We've got two great quarterbacks in Fran Tarkenton and Ron VanderKelen."

What do you think of the Vikings' chances in the rugged Western Division next season?

"I think we're getting better all the time. We tied for fourth place with Detroit last season even though we lost three games in the last 15 seconds. With a little bit of luck and more experience, we're going to do much better. I'm optimistic."

What do you think of the chances of the Rams?

"Their defensive line is as good as I've played against. Gabriel is getting better and Bass is a great back. But losing their big fullback (Ben Wilson) will really hurt them. The third down is the most important in football. I was all-pro, and there were times I just couldn't make that one yard for a first down. You got to have the big fullback."

What has been your greatest thrill in football?

"Just being part of pro football. It was great to be named all-pro, and I'd certainly like to play on a championship team. Maybe next year."

NBA TITLE QUEST GOES ON TONIGHT

By Associated Press

The National Basketball Association's semifinal playoffs will be resumed today at St. Louis and Cincinnati with the San Francisco Warriors back in the picture and the Boston Celtics attempting to make it a rout.

After viewing films of their opening game loss—a so-called horror film — the Warriors bounced back Friday night with a 120-85 victory over the St. Louis Hawks which tied the best-of-7 game series at 1-1.

The defending champion Boston Celtics are 2-0 over the Cincinnati Royals and need only two more victories to go into the finals.

Canadiens Turn Back Toronto, 4-2

MONTREAL (UPI) — The crippled Montreal Canadiens, coming from behind with a spirited second-period rush, defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday night, 4-2, to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final Stanley Cup hockey series.

The Canadiens, playing without team captain Jean Beliveau and left winger Gilles Tremblay, beat goalie Johnny Bower three times in the middle period to overcome two Toronto leads and move ahead in the bitterly contested playoffs.

Dave Balon, rookie Claude Larose—called up Thursday after Beliveau suffered a crippling knee injury—and Bobby Rousseau were the Montreal scoring heroes. Claude Provost added the fourth goal into the empty Toronto net with 30 seconds to play.

Nicklaus Leader by Three

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus put together three consecutive birdies halfway through the back nine Saturday to shoot a four under par 67 and vault past slumping Sam Snead into a three-shot lead after 54 holes of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament with a 206 total.

Snead, the leader by three shots through each of the first two rounds of the 72-hole tournament, was stunned by a triple bogey 6 on the seventh hole and wound up with 74 to drop to a four-way tie for second at 209.

Defending champion Doug Sanders charged back from a slow start to fire 66.

NICKLAUS, playing here only because snow a week ago prevented him from practicing at home in Columbus, Ohio, for his defense of the Masters title next weekend, had five birdies and one bogey.

"I'm still not hitting the ball real solid, but it's been a little better every day," he said. "My front nine iron play wasn't good, but I got the ball closer to the hole on the back nine. I feel I will be hitting the ball better by the time the Masters opens."

PROS TAB NICKLAUS IN MASTERS TOURNEY

It's Golden Bear vs. Charger

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, the big Golden Bear, and Arnold Palmer, the Charger, renew their battle for No. 1 world golf honors as co-favorites here next weekend in the 28th Masters Tournament.

These two par-shattering sluggers head an elite field of 56 top U. S. pros, 15 U.S. amateurs and 28 foreigners—expected to tee up Thursday in the four-day, 72-hole test over the beautiful but exacting Augusta National course.

It is the year's first major championship — a reawakening of the golf season after the drab winter lull, staged in a carnival atmosphere which brings devotees swarming into this Georgia city by the thousands. No other tournament attracts as many.

Despite a severe winter ice storm and a recent cold wave, the 6,980-yard, par 72 course, designed by the immortal Bob Jones, is lush and flowering. The broad, rolling greens— where the tournament traditionally is won and lost, promise to be smooth as glass and just as slick.

Nicklaus, the bull-strong powerhouse from Columbus, Ohio, who at 24 already has won every major American crown, is seeking to become the first player ever to repeat as Masters champion.

Although there have been multiple winners—Palmer, Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, three each —no man has been able to put titles back to back.

Palmer's three triumphs came in the even-numbered years—1958, 1960 and 1962 —and his bid draws extra support from the fact that this year follows a natural sequence. The 34-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional, the game's all-time leading money winner, consistently plays the Augusta course well, never finishing worse than ninth in the last six years.

JACK NICKLAUS
First to Repeat?

"It is my kind of course —I love it," says Palmer. The same affection for the sprawling, wide-open layout is claimed by young Nicklaus, who consistently hits the ball farther and higher than any player who ever lived.

Nicklaus is rated a 6-1 favorite in an informal poll of the tourning professionals, with Palmer next at 7-1, followed by National Open champion Julius Boros, Tony Lema and Bill Casper, 8-1.

Palmer is rated the favorite at 4-1 in a scratch sheet compiled in a national golf magazine, Golf Digest. Based on records in the last six Masters and current form, the chart pairs Nicklaus and Lema as second choices at 6-1; Gary Player of South Africa, the 1961 winner, at 7-1; Sam Snead and Bill Casper, 8-1.

ARNOLD PALMER
Won in '58, '60, '62

Palmer, who led the 1963 money winning list with a record $128,230 although he failed to win a major title, has been in a mild slump this winter, failing to crash through to a single tour tournament victory. Some contend his game has been dulled by mushrooming business enterprises, but the comeback specialist contends he has shaken off all outside responsibilities to get ready for the Masters test.

The 210-pound Nicklaus contends to press Palmer for the position of No. 1 man in professional golf. Last year, the blond bomber won the Masters and PGA crowns and missed the British Open by only a stroke.

'Big League of Golf' Proposed

At the very top of our list of favorite people in the 31 years we've been writing sports is Howard Capps, the former PGA tournament director who originated and developed the Desert Inn's Tournament of Champions into one of the "big five" classics in the links world.

Howard, who parlayed his golf earnings into real estate in boom areas of California and Nevada, retired January 1 as pro at the Desert Inn Country Club . . . worth over a million dollars.

But they want him to go back to work . . . as the commissioner or "czar" of a new professional golf tournament circuit which Howard himself mapped out several years ago.

HOWARD CAPPS

We contacted him the other day about this and he admitted, "Yes, I've been approached. A number of the touring players put it to me in February at Phoenix. I told them that I was flattered, but . . .

"You know, I enjoy this relaxin' so much, it sort of frightens me. But I would not consider that post under any circumstances at the present time, Dave. When I was the PGA tournament director back in 1950 and '51, I could see then the trouble ahead that is now developing along the tour.

"It was then that I dreamed up my plan. It's 12 years old, but still fits. And I'm sure the pros eventually will have to come around to it.

"I've given it to a number of the players on the tour in detail. And they are definitely interested. I don't want to start any boxing matches with PGA officials, but they are not the answer and couldn't conduct the swing if it is to be successful for many, many reasons."

CAPPS BELIEVES THAT quick and forthright action is necessary to avoid additional conflicts, such as the latest one between sponsors and players over TV revenue, plus the absence of stars needed to attract galleries in many tournaments and also the decorum of some players.

His idea is a radical change from the present format. "The only solution," he points out, "is a Big League of Golf; an operation independent of both the PGA and the present players' committee administration.

"The players obviously don't have time for executive duties, nor is it logical they should be in authority in an endeavor where they also are competitors."

He suggests a high commissioner who would be beyond the influence of the players and therefore able to make logical, unsentimental decisions.

HIS PLAN FOR a Big League of Golf is this: He suggests that the 60 men with the lowest scoring average for a year be signed to contracts to play a tournament schedule cut to 30 dates. This would leave room for such other events as the U.S. Open, Masters, PGA championship, Tournament of Champions, various pro-am events and the various TV exhibition matches.

The players who signed these contracts would be excused from a tournament only because of a genuine emergency, thus guaranteeing that the stars will compete.

"Even the last-place finisher would receive enough money to make expenses," Capps says. "The winners would, of course, enjoy a veritable bonanza. And the winner of the most tournaments would be the true national champion and would receive a substantial bonus."

What would happen to the rest of the players now on the tour? "They would be placed in a minor league, competing for perhaps $25,000 instead of the minimum $50,000 in the Big League," Howard says.

MINOR LEAGUE TOURNAMENTS would be sponsored by the big meet people and played at the same time in adjacent areas. Fringe revenues, including that from TV over which everyone is now fighting, would be used to finance the minor league competition.

At the end of each season, Capps suggests that the 15 leading minor tour players would replace the least successful 15 of the Big League men. This would insure a few different names each year.

This method would insure rookies a chance of breaking in. The present tournament fields are so crowded now that the PGA has revoked 45 playing permits in recent months for lack of ability. These men are foreclosed from learning to play tournament golf the place it can be learned—on the tour.

"With only 60 players, the tour also would find it easier to obtain better courses," Capps points out. "The way it has become on the tour and TV courses, the good putter has as much chance as the truly fine player . . . perhaps more. The emphasis should be returned to shotmaking. The public, I'm sure, would enjoy watching a great player fighting to stay even with par on a tough course.

"However, the quality of courses available for the tour is decreasing every year. Where once the finest, most difficult courses were used, the tournaments more and more are forced to easier and play-worn public links."

HOWARD ALSO DECLARES that the "job of commissioner under my plan would be a dirty one for about a year or two. The man who takes the ball will get a lot of abuse before he and his efforts have proved out and are appreciated. The politics and mud-slinging at first will be really something. After a couple of seasons, though, it should be all white meat and gravy and a smooth operation."

Capps went through this once when he was the PGA tournament director. He took charge of the tour during another period of controversy when the tournaments were marked by actual fisticuffs as well as charges of laxity over playing-rule enforcement and favoritism in pairings and starting times. And he became the outstanding tour chief the PGA has ever had.

Howard produced the tour's first rule book and from then on rulings were in the letter of the law, regardless of the fame of the player. And starting times and pairings were by prescribed formula.

THE PLAYERS QUICKLY discovered, to the surprise of even the most critical, that things worked smoother when they followed the book.

Capps feels sure his plan—run by a strong man with absolute power—would prove to be the "cure-all."

But while Howard is willing to give his plan to the golfers for the asking . . . he wants no part of running it.

"As Satchel Paige once said when an umpire was attempting to hurry him to the mound after he had been called into a game in relief with the bases loaded . . . 'look here, ump, old Satch is in NO hurry to get in NO trouble.'

Troy Spikers Blast WSU; Vikes Routed

Southern California's Trojans, defending national collegiate champions, defeated Washington State's outmanned Cougars 86-59 Saturday in a Big Six Conference dual track and field meet before 857 fans in the L. A. Coliseum.

There were two double winners. The most outstanding were the victories by Cougar John Valiant in the mile in 4:10.7, an event in which he was favored, and then in the 2-mile run. Clocked in 9:10.4, he led his favored teammate, Chris Westman, to the tape.

Southern Cal's Dave Morris won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 and the 220 in 21.6. His star teammate, Dick Cortese, favoring a leg injury, did not compete.

Final score: USC 86, Washington State 59.

Long Beach City College was simply outmanned by a talented USC Frosh track squad Saturday morning at the Coliseum. Verne Wolfe's sophomores - to - be gunned down last year's state junior college champions, 92-40.

Depleted by sickness and injuries, as they have all season, the Vikings entered men where they could and in some cases had them competing in events they'd never before attempted.

Typical of the latter was distance-runner Sam Pinterpe, who took third in the mile (4:46.0) then switched over to win the triple jump (42-5) and get show money in the long jump (20-2¼).

Marines Dust LBSC Despite Dee's 4 Wins

CAMP PENDLETON (Special) — The Marines of Camp Pendleton let Dee Andrews run wild and tamed the rest of Long Beach State College's track team for an 88-57 win Saturday.

Andrews won four events—the 120 high hurdles (14.4), 440 intermediates (53.8), long jump (23-9 ¾) and triple jump (46-9½)—and placed second in the high jump at 5-10, somewhat under teammate John Rambo's 6-8 effort.

In scoring his 23 points, Andrews stretched his own school triple jump record by a half-inch and posted an original mark in the 440 hurdles, where there was no listing.

* * * *

BUT THE featherfooted 49er wasn't asked to match muscles with the Marines, who swept all places in the weight throws. Dave Davis tossed the shot 58-1¼, Ed Kohler sailed the discus 172-3½ and Bill Spordoni fired the javelin 250-3.

Other 49er winners besides Andrews and Rambo were Jim Richarson in the 100 (9.8) and Darryl Taylor in the 880 (1:53.6). Taylor had to run his fastest race to beat Marine Jimmy Parr, who clocked 1:54.3.

Poly Cindermen Romp Along

By BRUCE YOUNG

Power-laden Poly High won 8 of 10 events Saturday to easily outdistance its opposition in winning the Long Beach City College Relays for the eighth consecutive year.

The rapid Rabbits, who have never lost this meet, piled up 77 points, more than triple its nearest opponent. The Hares also won the Bee title, while Millikan was the Cee champ.

Versatile Earl McCullough led the Poly onslaught with 16½ points, but he was not at his best, winning the 100 in 10 flat, the high hurdles in 14.2 and coming in second in the long jump at 22-7.

Marv Motley, always a late starter, moved a step closer to peak form in the long jump, winning with a season best of 23-5½. The smallish senior cleared 24 feet three times in 1963.

The Rabbits easily won the 440 and 880 relays, but needed strong legs by Ron Wilson and Ron Sommer to overtake Jordan to triumph in the mile relay.

Downey's Phil Chidester won the high jump at 6-2½ as Poly Larry Freeman dropped to Bees and won in a record 6-4⅛. Wilson's Larry Laufenberg took the pole vault with a personal and city best of 13-3.

Poly soph shotputter John Hubbell continued to be impressive as he put the 12-pound ball 55 feet, 11 inches. That's the top mark in the city.

Earlier, in a class Bee exhibition, Hubbell hurled the 10-pound shot 60-10—eight inches over the CIF record. Hubbell is a Bee and will compete in that class in the CIF meets.

Poly's Dave Sugano was the top Bee pointmaker with 13, two more than Freeman. Lakewood's Bob Stoughton and Millikan's Greg Ward tied in Cees with 10 points apiece.

Earl McCullough of Poly appears to be pulling on non-existent object to help him in long jump during LBCC Relays Saturday. The Rabbits' ace finished second to teammate Marv Motley.

DUMAS BACK, GOES 7 FEET ON FIRST TRY

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Charlie Dumas of the Striders high jumped 7 feet and George Young, running unattached, turned in a 4:07.1 in other highlights of the Striders-Arizona State track meet here Saturday that saw Henry Carr run his 20.2 (story on page C-1).

Dumas, jumping for the first time in nearly four years, cleared 7 feet on his first try, then quit for the night. He offered no reason for not continuing.

Glenn Winningham led Arizona State field events with a 251-9 effort in the javelin.

TRACK ROUNDUP

Jerome 9.5, 21.3 as Oregon Wins

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Oregon sprinter Harry Jerome, continuing his comeback after a leg injury in 1962 nearly ruined his career, won the 100 and 220-yard dashes plus anchoring the winning sprint relay Saturday as his team edged Stanford 74-71 in their dual track and field meet.

Jerome equalled the meet record of 9.5 seconds in the 100 and ran the 220 in 21.3 for his double victory before 4,000 fans in Stanford Stadium.

Three meet records fell. Oregon's Gerry Moro pole vaulted 15 feet and teammate Les Tipton threw the javelin 243-4½. Stanford's Steve Cortright triple jumped a record 48-3¼. He also won two hurdle races.

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI)—Jerry Siebert of the Santa Clara Youth Village ran a 46.5 leg in the mile relay Saturday to pace his teammates to a 3:09.6 victory in a special track meet honoring the Japanese Olympic team.

Siebert had scratched earlier in the day from the half-mile because of a leg injury. John Garrison of San Jose State, the school sponsoring the meet, won that race in 1:49.6. Both times bettered previous marks set in the United States this year.

May, a silver medal-winner in the 1960 Olympics, captured the 120-yard high hurdles in 0:14.3. Schul coasted to an easy victory in the two-mile run, hitting the tape in 8:47.3.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Fifteen records fell and one was tied as Missouri, speared by the mighty Robin Lingle, who ran a 1:48.1 half-mile and a 4:02.4 mile, dominated the Texas Relays with two records Saturday.

The Missouri two-mile relay team, with Lingle doing his 1:48.1 on the anchor, set a record of 7:22.7.

Karemesines Keeps No. 5 Spot

Chris Karemesines of Chicago held onto his No. 5 national drag rating when Tom McEwen of Long Beach was forced to cut off in the third of their match duels at Lions Drag Strip Saturday night.

The No. 1 junior eliminator race stood at one each between the Heidelberg Special and Boyd-Pennington, defending.

Top eliminator (fuel)—Bill Martin 8.23 seconds and 183.28 mph. Elapsed time (fuel)—Shubert-Herbert 7.99 seconds. Top seeded — Mooneyham-Ferguson-Jackson-Faust 189.06 mph.

Jordan Boy Winner in Big Rifle Match

Jordan High senior George Cameron won the 11th high school invitational small bore rifle meet at UCLA Saturday. Thirty-two schools competed.

Cameron, of 5174 Lincoln St., shot 235, to pace his team to a fourth-place finish. C. Maynard, also of Jordan, was 11th. Pasadena won the meet.

Cal Spikers Easily Sprint Past UCLA

Stocky Jim Blakeney scored 13 points and had a place on the 440-yard relay team to lead California to a 92-53 victory over UCLA Saturday in a Big Six conference dual track meet.

The 182-pound Blakeney, a halfback on the Golden Bear football team, won the 100-yard dash in 9.7, the 220 in 22.2, was the leadoff man in the relay, and placed second in the long jump.

California's Ron Gould was the other double winner at Westwood's Trotter Field, winning the high hurdles in 14.9 and the 330-yard hurdles in 40.4.

UCLA made its best showing in the two-mile run, winning 1-2 with Dick Weeks, timed in 9:09.2, and Bob Day, 9:17.5.

100—Blakeney (C) 9.7, Beaty (C) 9.8, Dodson (UCLA) 9.8.
220—Blakeney (C) 22.2, Brinkworth (C) 22.3, Beaty (C) 22.4.

Jr. Net Favorites Win, Tougher Tests Today

By BOB MARTIN

Southern California's finest young tennis players won opening-day matches without too much difficulty Saturday in the eighth Long Beach Junior Tennis Championships, but the going is sure to get a lot rougher today.

Only three seeded players were beaten Saturday as 136 matches were completed on the Lakewood Country Club and Long Beach City College courts, and they were not among the title threats in their divisions.

In Boys 18 singles, Tom Moeller of Santa Monica ousted seventh-seeded Rick Reed of Glendale, 6-1, 6-2, while in Boys 16 competition Mike Gilfillan of Santa Monica beat sixth-seeded Larry Amador of San Diego, 6-2, 6-4, and Robert Smith of San Diego toppled seventh-seeded Mike Hobson of Fullerton, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

* * * *

BILL DAVIDSON, seeded third in Boys 16, failed to appear and was defaulted.

Long Beach's favorite, Kathy Harter, opened defense of her Girls 18 crown with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Stephanie Grant, a greatly improved young player from Beverly Hills. Kathy Blake of Brentwood, the 1962 champion and runner-up last year, beat Ann Kortlander of Pasadena, 6-1, 6-0.

Steve Derian of Long Beach, seeded No. 2 in Boys 12, drew a bye and then defeated Dick Eisendrath, 6-0, 6-0, in the 12s. Steve also scored a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Richard Harding in the 14s.

SUGAR RAY HELPS TO NAB MURDER SUSPECT

Detective Sgts. C. L. Brown and J. A. Brooks read an article in a magazine that Robinson and a policeman had chased a man in connection with a $4,500 jewelry theft from Robinson's fiancee.

The article said the man, Cecil Hall, 35, had thrown a punch at Robinson and that Robinson had countered with a left hook—with the result that Hall is now in jail.

The detectives sent a telegram to New York and found hat Hall is the same man charged with the Jan. 18 slaying here of Jimmy Perkins, 35.

CELEBRITY GOLF MEET RETURNS TO L.B. LINKS

The sixth annual World Entertainment Golf Championship will be played at the Recreation Park course in Long Beach, May 23-24, general chairman Mazzie Luxford announced Saturday.

The tournament decides the official golfing title of show business. This will mark the third year the event has been contested at Recreation Park.

Luxford expects more than 125 leaders of the entertainment world to contest for the title won by Bob Wilke, screen and TV badman, in 1963. The tournament traditionally attracts a big percentage of the show business favorites.

It is sponsored by Golf Life magazine, with the support of the city of Long Beach.

NATIONAL AAU SWIM

California Kids Set U.S. Records

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) — Don Schollander and Dick Roth, a pair of Santa Clara, Calif., high school students, each broke his second American record Saturday night in the National AAU swimming and diving championships.

Roth, 16, shaved three-tenths of a second off the 200-yard individual medley record to win his event right after Schollander wiped out the 500-yard freestyle standard. Roth's time of 1:58.2 eclipsed the 1:58.5 set last year by Chet Jastremski of Indian. He did not compete this year.

Schollander's record-breaking time wiped out the mark of 4:48.2 by Roy Saari in last year's AAU meet. Saari was second about 12 yards behind Schollander, who was piling up his second victory and assuring himself of 19 points and the meet's outstanding performer trophy.

Southern California easily won the team title with 83 points, followed by Yale with 47 and Indiana's 41. Foothill College had 29 and Navy finished with 15.

* * * *

Bob Bennett of Southern Cal took the backstroke at 53.7, shy of the 53.1 American record he set last week at the NCAA meet.

Ken Sitzberger of Indiana became the first freshman ever to sweep both AAU diving events when he won the three-meter competition with a score of 4:76.3. He won the one-meter Friday night.

100-yard freestyle—Clark (Yale) 47.1, Ilman (Foothill College) 47.5, Austin (Yale) 47.6, Jackman (Santa Clara) 48.6, Marker (Washington State) 48.9, Walls (Michigan) 49.3.

100-yard breaststroke — Craig (USC) 1:00.1, Merten (Los Angeles) 1:00.4, Matsumoto (Japan) 1:00.2, Trethewey (Indiana) 1:00.6, Scheerer Ann Arbor, Mich.) 1:00.7, Nesbit (Dallas) 1:01.4.

100-yard backstroke—Bennett (USC) 53.7, Mann (North Carolina) 53.8, Goettsche (Yale) 54.4, Kinsery (Ann Arbor, Mich.) 54.5, Bartsch (Ann Arbor, Mich.) 54.7.

500-yard freestyle—Schollander (Santa Clara) 4:44.5 (American record), Saari (USC) 4:51.4, Webb (Foothill College) 4:54.8, Ilman (Foothill College) 4:54.5, Wall (Santa Clara) 4:57.0, Diefenderfer (Foothill College) 4:59.5. (Old record: 4:48.2 by Saari, 1963).

200-yard individual medley—Roth (Santa Clara) 1:58.2 (American record), Utley (Indianapolis) 1:59.2, McGeagh (USC) 1:59.9, Hetz (Germany) 2:00.2, Kendrick (Indiana) 2:03.5, Bates (USC Fresh) 2:03.7. (Old record 1:58.5 by Chet Jastremski, Indiana, 1963).

'Bruiser,' Midgets Head Mat Card

Gardena Bows 1-0 in Softball Tourney

Dick Zuccato singled home Lee Owens in the 14th inning Saturday night to give Etiwanda a 1-0 win over Gardena in the Gardena softball tourney. It was the Merchants' first loss in the double-elimination tourney.

McCormick Leads Publinx

Bill McCormick of El Dorado fired a one-under-par 71 at Brookside Park in Pasadena Saturday to take the lead in the So. Calif. Public Links golf championships.

The long-hitting McCormick held a one-stroke margin over Alondra's Peter Kramer and a two-shot edge over Bud Bradley of Rancho, Norm Barck of Western and Neil Burges of La Mirada. Burges is the defending champion.

Play resumes at Los Serranos today. The field, which includes several Long Beach golfers, will be cut to the low 32 and ties following today's play.

Alamitos Opens Thursday

Something to Please Everybody

Perhaps that heading is a rather rash statement, but once you visit the Sportsmen's Show, currently showing at Pan-Pacific Auditorium, you will get the general idea that there is something to please everybody. Whether you fish, hunt, camp, boat, water-ski or just loaf in the back yard, you'll find a booth that will make you stop and pay attention.

Tackle Row is loaded with new fishing equipment of all kinds — Shakespeare, Sevenstrand's Fenwick rods, Harnell, Garcia, Wright and McGill, Sila-Flex, Penn, Truline's new gold-plated guides and tips, Quick reels, Zebco and many others.

Garcia, as usual, has one of the largest booths in the show and is displaying beautiful new reels that have not even reached the market yet. Every reel and rod that Garcia makes are on the backboard of the exhibit.

In the south corner of Garcia's exhibit a midget stove, the Impecco S-200, with a tiny butane cartridge is on display. While not strictly a Garcia product, it has Garcia's blessing and is being marketed through that vast organization.

Over in another aisle, W. K. Klessig Co., Rosemead, is displaying the famous Tilley kerosene-burning heaters and lamps which are creating quite a sensation.

ONE OF THE STRIKING attractions in the boat section is the 20-foot Harbor Hopper, made by Ryan of Gardena and powered with OMC engines of whatever horsepower you want. It's a tricky convertible, with a top that can be taken off, placed on shore and used as a cabana for overnight camping. Yet that same top may be lowered for easy trailering.

Frontier Airlines has a small booth with a pretty stewardess telling the public about Frontier's 30 days of unlimited travel for only $100 per adult and $50 per child, 2 through 21.

That almost unbelievable offer is made by an airline that covers the states of Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Nebraska and Missouri. It's a part of Frontier's great plan to get people air-travel-minded in those states.

There are dozens of booths along Travel Row that will put you in the mood to fly, drive or cruise to distant places for your vacation. While walking through Travel Row on opening night, we chatted with John and Edna Alford, who were putting the Shasta Lake booth in order. They own and operate Bridge Bay Resort on Shasta.

A few booths away I saw W. H. (Cliff) Clifford, owner of Copco Lake, giving away Wobble-Rite lures to adults. Cliff is subdividing the Copco Lake property and planning a resort on the Klamath River below Iron Gate Dam.

UPON ENTERING THE TENTS housing the trailers and campers, it appeared to me that every vehicle of that kind certainly must be in the list of exhibits. There's a camper to suit practically any family and any purse.

Wandering out to the open arena, we saw the "Parade of Outdoor Champions" with the Bell Rocketmen climaxing the show with their jumps of 60 feet into the air. The rockets, worn on their backs, were developed by Textron's Bell Aerosystems Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., for the U.S. Army to lift man into space and transport him over ground in controlled flight.

If the Mariachi group, with its Hootenanny-south-of-the-border style, doesn't have you singing and stomping your feet, you just haven't got any music in your soul.

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW PERSONALS—Drop by the Sevenstrand booth on Tackle Row and ask Ken White or Phil Clock for literature on the Hot Shot Lure Big Fish contest. Eighteen outfits will be given away. The value of each outfit is $74.60. It consists of a Fenwick Feralite FS65 rod, an Orvis 300 reel, one dozen Hot Shot lures and one spool of monofilament line. There are three fishing areas, all along the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada.

Bob Barrett, of Zebco's booth, is exhibiting not only Zebco reels, but also a selection of Realist scopes for .22 rifles and big-game guns, the 80,000-candlelight Dynalite flashlight and the latest Texas reloader for shotgun shells.

Many of the states, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska and even New York are handing out pounds of literature every hour. There's a special reason for New York's participation; it's World Fair year.

Although Thursday's wind threatened to blow down the tents, they held firmly and the crowd was tremendous, considering the weather. A long line of visitors was waiting for the 6 p.m. opening.

DEAN MARTIN PERFORMS AT BANQUET

Another member of the most famous clan in show business — Dean Martin — has got into the act for the seventh annual Baseball Writers' dinner Friday evening.

Martin will team with Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. in a laugh-provoking "clan-bake" for more than 1,100 guests and baseball fans in the Hollywood Palladium.

Open to the public at $20 per person, tickets to the dinner will be available at BBWAA headquarters (1352 Biltmore Hotel) or MAdison 6-2371 until Friday.

Eye New Turnstile Records

By DON HARDIN

The first day of pari-mutuel wagering and legalized quarter horse racing at Los Alamitos was Dec. 4, 1951.

Since then many thousands of quarter-horse race patrons have visited the popular track nestled just across the San Gabriel River bed in Orange County.

In fact, it's the most popular track in America for the sprinters of 540 yards or less.

It opens its 13th spring season Thursday and officials of the track are hopeful of a new attendance record.

* * * *

THE REASONING is simple. Quarter horse racing interest in this territory has mushroomed in the last decade and the Vessels' interests at Los Alamitos have made that track conveniently attractive for fans.

Since its inception, complete new stands, stables and track have been installed to make the Los Alamitos plant one of the finest in the nation.

Work crews have been busy since the start of the year for this spring meeting and some of the best horse-flesh and jockeys will be on the track when the swifties roar down the straightaway at a wink-a-second.

The stakes schedule has been announced by Edward Burke, racing secretary and director of racing. The schedule predicates a profitable meet for the owners and trainers.

STARTING with the Inaugural Thursday for three-year-olds and up for a purse of $2,500, the list goes as follows:

"The Shue Fly" on April 11, for three-year olds and upward for a purse of $5,000; "The Derby Trial" on April 18, for three-year olds for $2,500; "The Miss Princess" for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The P.C.Q.H.R.A. Derby" on April 25, for $15,800 added; "The Barbara B." on April 25 for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The Chicado V." on May 7, for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The Vanetta Dee" on May 6, for three-year-olds and upward for $3,800; "The Los Alamitos Quarter Horse Championship" for three-year-olds and upward for $25,800; "The Juvenile Championship" on May 12 for two year olds for $10,000 and the "Marathon" May 12, for three-year-olds and upward of $5,000.

Honoring the memory of Frank Vessels, Sr., a bronze bust statue will be unveiled on Monday at noon.

The Frank Vessels, Sr. Memorial Foundation was founded by friends and admirers shortly after Mr. Vessels passed away last year and this memorial honors the man who has done so much for quarter horse breeding and racing.

The public is invited to attend the unveiling ceremonies.

Stevenson, Ellik Nab Virginia Sweepstakes

Bartenders Golf

The annual Long Beach Bartenders' golf tournament will be held Monday at Los Alamitos course. Proceeds from entry fees will go to the Benjamin F. Tucker School for exceptional children.

WHICH CAME 1ST?-- RACE, THEN EGG!

MIAMI (AP)—An ostrich outran a camel, a llama and two horses Saturday and captured the Noah's Ark Cup in the Gulfstream Park Florida Derby Festival.

Winner Myrtle ran the furlong in 1:07⅘ and probably would have gone faster if jockey Benney Sorenson had not fallen off five times.

"I thought Myrtle was going to lay an egg, she was so excited," said trained Jonny Rivers of Camdenton, Mo. "She has not laid any all year and she was on the verge, especially when we put her in the starting gate for the first time. If she had squatted, we would have had it."

ONE-HALF HOUR AFTER the race, back in the trailer in which she travels, Myrtle did lay an egg.

Sam, a 12-year-old llama, finished second two lengths behind Myrtle. Rivers had predicted Sam and Ulysses, a guanaco—or camel without a hump—would sit down in the middle of the track.

"They usually do," he said. Chief Plaudit and Steptoe, both Appaloosas horses, were Skittish. Otherwise they would have fared better, Rivers said.

"Steptoe is scared to death of Myrtle."

CHOKER TIES RECORD

Northern Dancer Coasts to Victory

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Northern Dancer, E. P. Taylor's Canadian comet, ran only as fast as needed Saturday to turn back seven rivals in the $116,500 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park and clinch his claim to the Eastern three-year-old championship.

With jockey Willie Shoemaker merely chauffering the chocolate-colored colt, Northern Dancer rolled under the finish line one length in front of Rex Ellsworth's California invader, The Scoundrel. Dandy K. captured third money another two-and-one-half lengths behind.

Northern Dancer was the heavy favorite of the crowd of 30,212, second largest in Gulfstream Park's history. One unidentified bettor pushed $50,000 through the parimutuel machine in the show pool to win $5,000 for his risk.

Northern Dancer paid $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20 across the board for a $2 bet and was the shortest priced Florida Derby winner since Tim Tam paid $2.70 to win in 1958.

The Scoundred paid $4 and $2.20 while Dandy K. returned $2.20 for show.

* * * *

NORTHERN Dancer's time for the mile and one-eighth over a fast track, carrying 122 pounds, was a dull 1:50 4/5, good enough to earn first money of $76,500 and boost Northern Dancer's earnings to a total of $261,365.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mr. Moonlight, a lightly regarded Kentucky Derby candidate, rallied with a strong burst of speed in the stretch at Aqueduct to win the $58,300 Gotham Stakes by a nose.

Mr. Moonlight, running in a stakes race for the first time and quoted at 60 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby future book, moved from far in the rear as he streaked through the stretch to beat Traffic. Those who bet on Mr. Moonlight collected $35.80, $13.60 and $6.20. Traffic paid $6.20 and $3.60, while Mr. Brick paid $2.90.

Mr. Moonlight, winner of four of 10 previous races, carried 114 pounds over the mile in the slow time of 1:37 1/5.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Choker, making his first start of the year, captured the 112th running of the $18,150 Phoenix Handicap at Keeneland, tying the track record for six furlongs.

Choker was clocked in 1:08 3/5 and returned $10.80, $5.20.

TRIPLE TIE FOR 3RD AT GOLDEN GATE

It was the first triple dead heat in Golden Gate's history.

The photo finish camera failed to separate Lottie Marie, Ludian Lark and Aero Space for the show position.

Longflight won and Royal Noor was second in the six furlong sprint.

The crowded tote board couldn't even list Aero Space's $3.20 show pay. But it did Indian Lark's $2.20 and Lottie Marie's $2.80.

Longflight paid $3.40, $3.20 and $2.80 and Royal Noor $6.20 and $3.40.

THE PRICE WAS RIGHT

Ex-Claimer, Outpaces Irwin Paul at 'Anita

By ERNIE MASON

Pole Adios, the mightest claim in harness racing history at $20,000 last summer, brilliantly proved that the price was right by scoring a stunning upset over favored Irvin Paul in the $20,000 California Pace Saturday before 18,410 shocked onlookers at Santa Anita.

Cunningly driven by Lou Rapone, the Greentree gelding shook loose in the final eighth of a mile to zoom by the 6-5 choice and win by a length in a tepid 2:01 1/5 for the mile.

Mr. Budlong and Rusty Range, principals in a classic dead heat last week, were third and fourth in the select field of sidewheelers contesting western harness' climatic event for pacers.

* * * *

POLE ADIOS, winner of the Elks Pace early in the meeting but a distinct outsider Saturday in much more formidable company, rewarded his supporters with a liberal $41.40, $10.80 and $3.60. Irvin Paul paid $3.60 and $2.40 and Mr. Budlong paid $2.40.

Pole Adios sizzled his last half in better than 58 seconds and his final quarter in under :27 3/5 to score the most important triumph of his colorful career.

In a supporting feature to the Californian Pace, the $3,800 Alpha Delta Pi Pace, Tillys Boy, alias Lumber Dream, returned to the wars after a two-year layoff and breezed to a highly impressive victory in 2:01 1/5.

Tillys Boy, one of the most promising sidewheelers ever to race at Santa Anita until minor injuries and an unruly temperament got the best of his abundant ability a few seasons ago, took command at the beginning and raced in front wire-to-wire.

Leading driver Jimmy Cruise retained his one-winner margin over Jim Dennis by scoring with Newport Buell in the third. Dennis won with Volador in the fourth. Cruise now has 17 victories for the season, which concludes on Wednesday.

Sulkies Go Monday

The only Monday racing of the spring harness racing season at Santa Anita will be conducted Monday as Western Harness Racing Assn. launches the final three days of its meeting.

ATLANTA HIS TRACK

Lorenzen Favored in Stock '500' Today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., set himself up Saturday as the man to beat in the Atlanta 500-mile stock car race Sunday by winning a preliminary race of champions over the Atlanta International Raceway.

Lorenzen gunned his Ford to victory at an average of 144.5 miles an hour over the 1½-mile speedway where he already owns the pole position for Sunday's race. He qualified for the pole Wednesday with a speed of 146.470 mph in four laps, a track record.

Lorenzen, who has won the last two 500's and counts over $50,000 in prize money at the AIR, outdistanced Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., in a Dodge, Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., in a Ford, Rex White of Spartanburg, S.C., in a Mercury, Dave Pearson, Spartanburg, in a Dodge and Bobby Johns of Miami in a Pontiac, in that order.

* * * * *

More than 60,000 spectators were expected to watch the fifth annual race Sunday that involves 42 drivers and $63,000 in prize money. The weather forecast was not promising. It called for scattered showers, something that has plagued previous races here.

Motor Sports Slate Big; Cycles Go Today at Ascot

A big weekend of motor sports activity closes today with a wild array of events scheduled on three fronts—Ascot Park, Lions Drag Strip and Orange County Speedway.

J. C. Agajanian has scheduled a big extravaganza at Ascot, in Gardena, with motorcycles going in the popular 15-lap steeplechase. First race is at 2 p.m., and 160 riders are expected.

Then, tonight figure-8 cars hit the Ascot dirt, trying to follow up an successful Easter engagement. First race on the eight-event card starts at 8 p.m.

Lions is hosting another daytime stock car meet, beginning with time trials at 9 a.m. The eliminations go at 1:30 p.m.

Over 200 stockers, including the jazzy AFX factory experimentals, are set to roar up and down the high-speed strip at 223rd and Alameda.

WE'RE SEARCHING THE LONG BEACH AREA FOR A MAN

Frankly, it may take months to find him. But, we're willing to wait . . . the opportunity is that important.

Here's a quick "profile" of the person we're looking for. Chances are he's between 24 and 42. Education . . . college or equivalent. In all likelihood, he's now in a junior-executive position . . . well liked, making good progress. But he has a problem. He knows he's capable of doing better . . . feels "trapped" by a salary structure which is good, but not good enough.

If you fit this general description, we'd be happy to talk to you about this salaried opening in our organization, which will become available in 4 to 6 weeks. It may require several interviews . . . will certainly require exhaustive tests. But should you turn out to be the man we are looking for . . . we can promise it will be well worth your time and trouble.

To pursue the matter further, write us a letter outlining your business experience, age, marital status. (If you prefer, phone 378-4241.)

WE'LL CONTACT YOU AND ARRANGE A MEETING

Write Box No. A-1345 c/o Independent, Press-Telegram.

A Sunday
Car Side Chat
from Ridings Cadillac
Long Beach's only
Authorized Cadillac Dealer

Vacation time is just around the corner and many of you are beginning to get that certain feeling of anticipation. An important part of the preparation for this happy occasion is to be "car ready." Quite often you will find it more practical to buy a later model car than to put more money into your present car.

In shopping for another car be sure to keep this in mind: DON'T BUY just a "USED" car, but DO BUY a thoroughly "RECONDITIONED" car. We have a choice selection of the finest reconditioned "Custom Ready" cars to be found anywhere. We urge you to carefully inspect our cars and to compare them with others . . . THERE IS A DIFFERENCE.

We are closed on Sundays. However, we cordially invite you to visit our lot today and look over our fine RECONDITIONED cars. All are clearly described as to equipment and price.

ON UCLA STAGE

'P.S. 193' Offers Powerful Drama

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

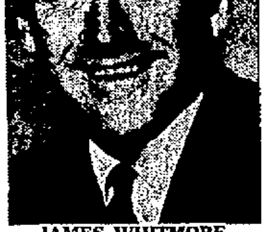
Talented, new playwright David Rayfiel evidently doesn't subscribe to the grand Churchillian doctrine that it is better to have "jaw-jaw" (war of words) than to make the real thing — "wah - wah" (war). Words beget war, Rayfiel contends.

In his play "P.S. 193" smashes through the thin red line of so-called academic (university) freedom to show that even the words "waged" before freshmen in a classroom are indeed the "briefing" for the perilous existence on the battlefield.

Splendidly supported by a UCLA Theater Group production that cannot be topped, "P.S. 193" is rooted in the theme of collective responsibility. Fortunately, it is a rondo of a play rather than the strident note of "am I my brother's keeper?" Its main theme repeats itself in the perfect setting of university Professor Kobitz's (James Whitmore) required freshman philosophy course—"an oasis of free choice in a closed system." In addition, assorted themes linking characters and sub-plots to the central idea keep moving in and out.

* * * *

DIRECTOR Sydney Pollack serves as a fine instrument of interpretation. Whitmore's professor, willowy, alcoholic Cloris Leachman's Mrs. Kobitz and Donnelly Rhodes, as Mario Saccone, the war veteran student with the brutal bullet logic of the Korean battlefield who haunts the Kobitzes in class and at home, score as a playwright's dream "trio" in this sometimes savagely intricate drama.



JAMES WHITMORE
Outstanding

Whitmore is particularly great in shaking off the "friendly ghost" of his existence as the student Saccone taunts him with the memory of the professor's favorite student (Lennie Schwartz) shot down in battle.

With admirable restraint Whitmore recaptures the stature of his own existence "above and beyond words" without spilling another's blood. In the test of wills Cloris Leachman comes through as a powerful actress and Rhodes as a chilling newcomer who looks like Ben Gazarra, buts acts better. Myles Harmon lights the all-purpose set against a black backdrop and some young actors serve creditably as the professor's students and a campus chorus, adding to the fresh, simple appeal of the production.

* * * *

"P.S. 193" continues through May 10 in the Humanities Building, UCLA. The title refers to Professor Kobitz's old high school with the "soft-boiled children" whom he yearns to teach whenever the pressure of reality becomes overbearing.

This is Capucine

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—The nose is long and narrow, and has a slight bump so that in profile the tip seems to float by itself.

Stationed on either side are two enormous Joan Crawfordish, blue-grey eyes, fluttering false eyelashes. The cheek bones are high and press against the flesh.

The teeth are white and even but there is a distinct overbite so that the upper lip protrudes. The chin and jawbone are pronounced and when they move, long tendons on the slender neck perform a dance.

Put these commonplace features together and you have Capucine, a stunning and beautiful woman.

* * * *

PERHAPS women with similar faces and bodies (34-25-36, 5'7", 119 pounds) would think the dream of being a model or a movie star pure folly. Some stars who draw citizens to the boxoffice appear generously endowed in the bosom department. But Capucine insists it is not the decolletage or the degree of pectoral embonpoint that gets eyeballs clicking.

"What is this thing with bosoms among the Americans and British?" asks the slim-lined French star. "Is it supposed to be sexy? It is not.

"To be sexy is to be provocative, not to show 200 pounds of bosom."

* * * *

CAPUCINE, whose real name is Germaine Lefebrvre, at 17 went to Paris, became a model and soon became acquainted with life, as she says.

"I discovered that babies did not grow like cauliflowers," she says. She became romantically entangled with an actor and her family exploded. The result was that she got married. Eight months later, she was divorced.

She has been single, but not necessarily unentangled, since.

* * * *

MAKING THE SWING from modeling to movies meant a complete change of scenery. She moved to New York, equipped with an English vocabulary of about zero, but not without an ability to say no.

First, she worked as a model reaching the zenith of the industry with a fee of $70 an hour. One evening, dining with a friend, she was spotted by a man who asked if she would come to Hollywood for a screen test.

"I thought it was the usual come-on," she says. "But the next day I discovered it was real.

* * * *

"BUT I DECIDED I was going to be an actress and do it by work, not by being a prostitute or having affairs. If I have an affair it is because I want to love, not for a job. I worked very hard."

She first appeared in "Song Without End," and currently is to be seen in the wildly-whacky farce, "The Pink Panther," in which she portrays the sultry, slinky, double-dealing wife of British star Peter Sellers.

Turns Down Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Joe Pasternak says he finally found someone who doesn't want to be in the movies.

Pasternak went to a bank opening in Beverly Hills and spotted a distinguished looking man who was perfect for the part of a department store executive in an upcoming Doris Day movie, "Made In Paris."

"What would my stockholders say if I showed up as an actor?"

Elizabeth Nielsen After-'Shrew' Play Moderator

Dr. Elizabeth Nielsen, of the CSLB English department, will moderate the discussion on Shakepeare's "Taming of the Shrew" at the Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., Wednesday.

The discussion will follow a special performance of the play for students. Curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Student admission is $1. Pat Brown and Robert Quarry, who appear in the play as Kate and Petruchio, will participate in the after-the-show discussion.

'Yum Yum Tree' Auditions Tuesday

Tryouts for "Under the Yum Yum Tree" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave. The show is scheduled to open April 23.

Two men and women, 20 to 30 and 30 to 40, are needed. Pat Brown will direct.

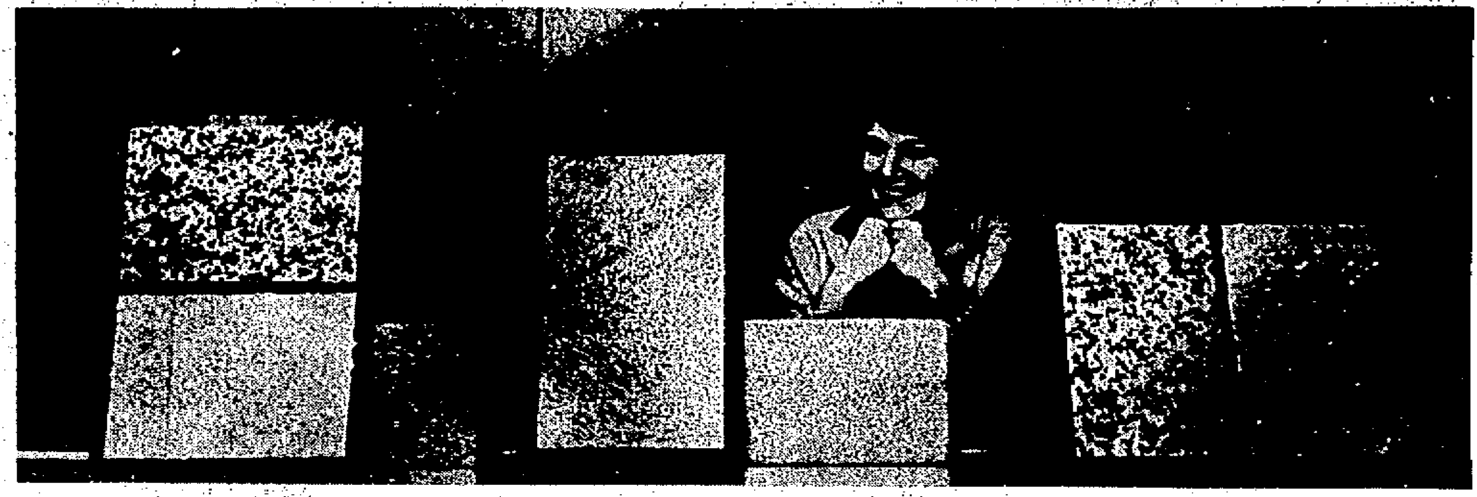
THEY'LL COVER the WORLD in PLASTIC

By KEN CHILCOTE



JANICE CRINNION DREAMS OF A HOME COVERED WITH STUCCO-LIKE PLASTIC AFTER VIEWING VARIOUS SAMPLES

The wonderful world of plastics is getting a real boost this month as a Long Beach plant goes nationwide with its products designed to cover most anything with a substance impervious to wear and weather.

Prep-rite Plastics Inc., 1524 W. 15th St., after more than 10 years of intensive research to develop extremely tough and resistant covering for both exterior and interior surfaces such as floors, walls, roofs and metals that are subjected to extreme conditions, has achieved desired results. And now, through franchised dealers over the nation—and the world—their products should make a big step forward for the plastics industry.

* * * *

IN HOUSING, Prep-rite seems to have the answer for quick construction with a permanent finish. Plastic-coated plywood with a stucco-like rough finish so bonded that the wood has to be shredded to remove it, is certain to draw much interest. Sheets of this finished wall fastened to studding and frames of a structure, complete the construction, stucco work and painting in one process.

That stucco-plywood offering is but one of the many ways Prep-rite is opening new vistas into the wonderful world of plastics.

Using an orthalic resin as its base, the Prep-rite product is presented in formulas mixed to create specific qualities to solve special problems. The product can be made rigid or flexible, flame retardent where required and it can be made to bond to a wide range of materials.

The resultant coating in each instance is non-porous, impervious to most chemicals, including acids, and is claimed to be three times harder than concrete.

* * * *

A CANNERY FLOOR was so pitted from heavy steel carts and the daily cleanings that the concrete had to be replaced, forcing a shutdown for many days. Prep-rite was poured over the surface and in one hour a level, non-porous surface was ready to use. Months later the floor is easily cleaned and has shown no chipping or peeling.

Boats are given complete protection from the ravages of salt water and marine growth; boat decks, loading ramps, sun decks, roofs coated with the products never need recoating, report company officials after lengthy tests. Decks, ramps and flooring can be made non-skid by applying grit in the covering.

Oil and acid tank trucks are coated to provide an interior surface easy to clean. Similar coatings are going onto swimming pools. The bear cages in the San Diego Zoo have Prep-rite surfaces, making them much easier to clean.

Crews are now at work in Detroit resurfacing 200,000 square feet of flooring in a General Motors plant after a test on a 10,000 square foot area showed the floor kept a smooth surface despite industrial wear. A spark plug factory has ordered 180,000 feet covered by Prep-rite material.

Leon Grivel, president of the firm, was a successful Los Angeles contractor when his son, Leon Jr., became interested in plastics in college. The father-son team began their research and test program trying various formulas until they came up with Prep-rite. Reports from Twinnig Laboratories attest the results.

A daughter, Robinette Kirk is the public relations head of the firm and E. L. Dux is the national marketing manager. "Nearly every time our door opens we are confronted with a new challenge," says Mrs. Kirk. "A builder or an industrial plant needs a new bonding agent or a new coating for some material or product. And so far we have come up with the answer nearly every time."

Start Public Golf Course on Irvine Ranch Property

Construction of Orange County's newest public golf course — Rancho San Joaquin on the famed Irvine Ranch property has started with Labor Day targeted as opening date.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were participated in by George M. Holstein III, developer of the golf course; Robert H. Green, president of Far West Financial Corp. and State Mutual Savings & Loan Association, its principal operating subsidiary which is financing construction of the project; Charles Thomas, president of the Irvine Co. and former secretary of the Navy; and Marshall Duffield, former USC football great who will be chairman of the new golf course.

The new links will be located on 170 acres in the University Park area of the future city of Irvine and will be easily accessible from the Santa Ana and Newport Freeways and adjacent to the future San Diego Freeway where Como Road now intersects Lane Road.

* * * *

THE PUBLIC LINKS, designed by golf course designer William F. Bell, Jr., will have two courses, one of 18 holes over 6,400 yards and a nine-hole par-3 course which may be extended in the future.

Greene pointed out at the groundbreaking ceremonies that State Mutual's financing of the $1-million golf course attests to the company's belief in the secure future of this rapidly-growing section of Orange County.

The golf course is the one of the first projects in the Irvine Co.'s master plan for development of an 88,000-acre area that includes a branch of the University of California and the city of Irvine.

Bendix Offices to El Segundo

The Western Regional sales offices and the Western Corporate office of The Bendix Corp. have been moved into new quarters in the new McCulloch Building, 6151 W. Century Blvd., El Segundo.

James P. Buckley, Western Corporate representative, said the move will centralize all of the Bendix sales offices in the Southern California area. He said 16 divisions will maintain space at the new offices.

The move was made to bring the sales offices nearer the aerospace complex at International Airport, he said.

DOWNTOWN IMPROVEMENT

Owners of the Stafford Building, First and Locust Avenue, have completed remodeling the structure to provide the new home for Long Beach Stationers. Major improvements were made on the interior as well as the exterior and now marks another big improvement in the downtown area.

Home Show Will Open Wednesday

Two anniversaries will be celebrated Wednesday through Sunday during the Orange County Home Show at the Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa, according to George Colouris, producer.

The annual show will make special recognition of its own 10th anniversary and of the county's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Contributions made by the building industry to the county's 75 years of progress will be spotlighted throughout the show in displays and by other means.

The Orange County Builders Association has sponsored the Home Show since its inception in 1955. John Backman, who is serving as general chairman of the show for the second time, commented that the Home Show has shown steady increase in both attendance and in the number of exhibits.

Honors to Agent

C. C. "Bob" Bateman of the Long Beach agency at 4270 Long Beach Blvd. has been designated by the American National Insurance Co. as the most outstanding agent during 1963 in one of the company's 11 nation-wide geographical regions.

Building Permits Up

Rebounding from a February slump, Long Beach building activity increased 71 per cent in March to a valuation of $6,164,157 for 2,220 permits.

The February figure was $3,611,355 for 1,898 projects.

Reesidential construction showed an even larger gain —380 per cent. The March valuation was $2,254,700 for 178 family units, against $469,945 for 51 units in February.

* * * *

HOWEVER, LAST MONTH'S volume for building of all types was 31 per cent below the total for March of last year—$8,871,138 for 2,364 permits. Residential construction was down 59 per cent from the comparable figure of $5,528,345 for 685 units.

For the first quarter of this year the building total of $27,906,679 stands 2 per cent below the 1963 quarterly record of $28,429,050.

Plan 17 Apartments for Downtown Area

Plans for the upgrading of the vicinity at Second St. and Cerritos Ave. in Long Beach, have begun with the filing of a tentative condominium map for a 17-unit development there, according to Jack Spahn, vice president of E. L. Pearson and Associates of Hawthorne, civil engineers and condominium consultants.

Spahn said that the construction of the $300,000 project will be preceded by the removal of some 40-year-old buildings and will bring about increased land value to the immediate neighborhood and a better tax value to the city. He added that it represents part of the growing trend to dress up the city—especially that near the ocean.

* * * *

THE THREE-STORY structure will house both one-bedroom and den units as well as two bedroom units and prices are expected to range between $18,000 for the one-bedroom units to $20,500 for the two bedrooms.

Just three blocks from the ocean and near the World's Fair Site, the condominium's construction work will be by C. J. John and J. K. McCall. They anticipate the groundbreaking this month with expected completion in August of this year.

Designed for the utmost in adult living, the condominium structure will feature a roof garden with heated circulatory therapeutic pool, shuffleboard facilities and table tennis. Each unit will have an individual balcony patio.

Kaiser Steel Buys 60 Acres

Kaiser Steel Corp. has purchased the plant and property of Taylor Forge & Pipe Works at Fontana.

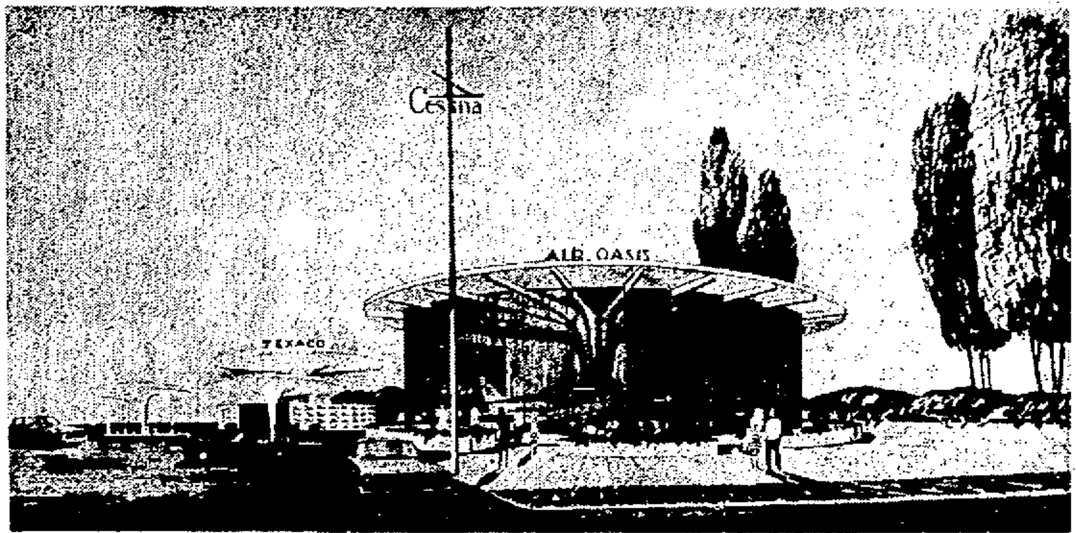
The property was formerly used by Taylor Forge, a Chicago-based firm, for the manufacture of spiral weld pipe, but has not been in production for two years. No plans were annouced for its use, but Kaiser Steel officials pointed out that the property integrates well with the steel plant proper, and was in fact the site of a shell plant operated by Kaiser during the war. No purchase price was revealed.



$250,000 AIR OASIS PROJECT

This new $250,000 aircraft showroom and custom-design auto service station will be built at Long Beach Municipal Airport by Air Oasis Co. City has approved 25-year lease of building site at northwest corner of Lakewood Boulevard and Wardlow Road. Air Oasis is a leading distributor of light planes.

New City Is Rising at Lake Havasu

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

A new city is in the making about 240 air miles east of Long Beach along the Colorado River at the western border of Arizona.

It is called Lake Havasu City and is located along a body of blue water known as Lake Havasu, formed when the river was widened for a 45-mile stretch after Parker Dam was built.

Construction already is well under way in a multi-million-dollar development by McCulloch Properties, Inc., headed by Robert P. McCulloch, Los Angeles industrialist and manufacturer of chain saws and outboard motors.

• • • •

PLANS CALL for creation within the next 20 years of a city with a population of 50,000. Master planner is engineer C. V. Wood Jr., who helped get Disneyland established and has been a key figure in numerous other major developments.

The planned 28 square mile urban complex is 140 miles northwest of Phoenix and 17 miles upstream from Parker Dam.

The lake itself is a western waterfowl flyway and an important wintering place for millions of migratory birds. It is well stocked with fish and popular for water sports.

• • • •

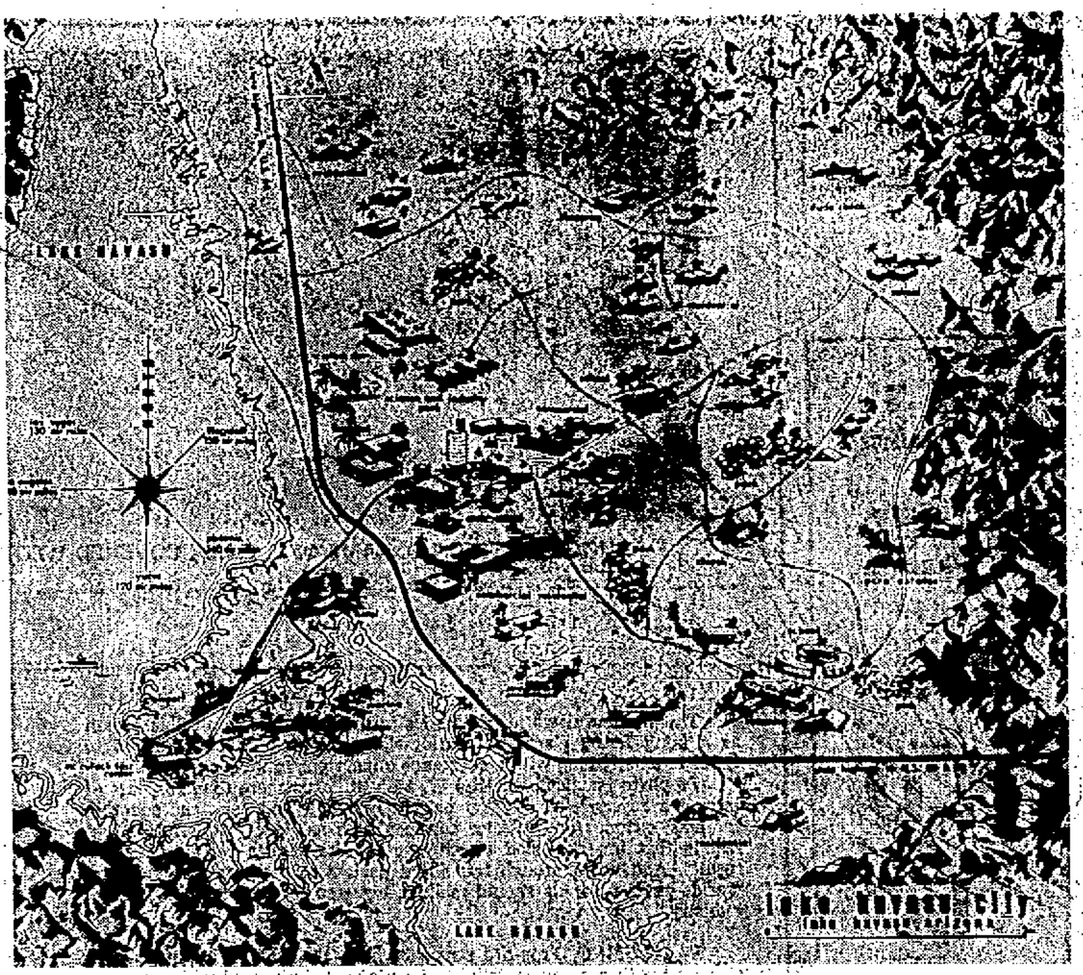
FIRST UNITS of a planned 200 room hotel have been opened, including a restaurant and cocktail lounge; a motel is under construction; work is starting on a McCulloch factory unit; a 6,500 foot airstrip is in use and the company has its own Constellation service; paving of 31 miles of streets is well under way; and houses and other buildings are being built.

Shopping center space has been contracted and more than 11,000 palm trees will be planted, the company has announced. Five deep wells are supplying water.

Some 98 acres are reserved for schools, first of which is due to be built by this fall.

HOTEL NOW OPEN

Already in operation is this Lake Havasu Hotel, although all units have not yet been built. Restaurant and cocktail lounge are in use now.



PROSPECTUS INTO THE FUTURE

Artist's conception looks into future plans for Lake Havasu City, new development on Colorado River 17 miles upstream from Parker Dam. With some facilities already established, McCulloch Properties, Inc., has long-range plans to create a city of 50,000 population. Planning has been done by C. V. Wood Jr., one of Disneyland designers.

Course in Property Management Set Up

Opening of a School of Property Management at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 5513 E. Spring St., Long Beach, has been announced by Moore Realty.

The course will be held for six weeks on Thursday nights, April 9 through May 14. The school will be conducted by E. Tennyson Moore, president of the firm, and T. R. Bradley, head of the company's Property Management and Leasing Division. Reservations may be made by calling HA 1-8481.

T. R. BRADLEY

More termed this an innovation in the field of real estate education and said the course is open to anyone interested.

Tiling Tip

Dry ice can be a great help in removing old flooring tiles, according to housing experts at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. The ice is placed over each tile until the intense cold causes the bonding material to deteriorate. Gloves should be worn in handling the ice to avoid injury.

Will Discuss Home Building

Ray Pacheco, president of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, announced that the speaker for the meeting Wednesday at the Captain's Inn will be Merrill Butler, Jr. who will speak on Home Building in the Free Enterprise System.

The Butler-Harbour Construction Co. of which he is the president, has completed and sold nearly 2,800 homes since 1956 and won the Saturday Evening Posts "Outstanding Home Award" in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

Butler graduated from U.S.C. in 1948 with a bachelor of engineering degree in civil engineering. He was project engineer of Lakewood Park development in 1949 and until his recall to the army during the Korean conflict in 1950.

DOWNEY 'FUTURE UNLIMITED'

Appointment of H. L. Hendrie as branch manager of the Long Beach office of Friden, Inc., was announced recently by S. P. Simmons, vice president, domestic sales, of the worldwide business machines firm.

Hendrie joined Friden as a salesman at Los Angeles in April 1957. He advanced to manager of the Calculator, Adder and Mailroom Equipment Divisions at Los Angeles in July 1960.

H. L. HENDRIE

The new Long Beach manager attended St. Michael's college in Toronto, and is a veteran of the Canadian Army.

Padden Gets New Union Pacific Post

John W. Padden, who recently retired as traffic manager in Southern California for Union Pacific Railroad, has been appointed special representative to the president.

In making the announcement at Los Angeles, Arthur E. Stoddard, Union Pacific president, said Padden's flexible assignment will include a variety of matters of top-level rail and civic interest.

J. W. PADDEN

Padden left the post of traffic manager after 13 years of heading Union Pacific's business operations in Southern California and Southern Nevada. He was a director of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and active in several transportation and other organizations. He has 45 years of service with the railroad.

The Orange County Bank Building, 230 E. 17th St., Costa Mesa, is the newest structure in the Costa Mesa-Newport Miracle Mile. The upper level is devoted to executive suites and offices and offers a unique secretarial pool to be included in the leasing cost. Otis Cranford was the builder-developer.

Error on Bridge Is "Built In"

NEW YORK (AP)—At first glance it looks like a mistake. The two 690-foot steel towers that hold up the Verrazano Narrows Bridge connecting Brooklyn with Staten Island are 1⅝ inches farther apart at the top than at the bottom.

But according to Steel Facts, published by American Iron and Steel Institute, this is deliberate. It was done to compensate for the curvature of the earth. Each tower to be truly vertical must have its axis point to the center of the earth.

Shipping Gain Told

The total amount of general cargo and lumber handled through the harbor during the first eight months of the current fiscal year, he said, has increased 21% over the same period one year ago. The comparison is for the eight months ending February 29.

The tonnage increase was 536,938 tons — raising the 8-monh total from 2,537,463 in 1962-63 to 3,074,401 tons this year.

* * * *

PERRISH attributed the increase in shipments to a general improvement in business and labor conditions and expanding facilities at the harbor which are attracting more foreign trade.

"There is every indication," Perrish said, "that this trend will continue for the rest of the fiscal year. In fact, the month of March, just ending, may prove to be one of the busiest at Los Angeles Harbor."

The lumber and general cargo figures cited include both inbound and outbound shipments, Perrish added.

AN OCEANA UNIT HOME

The receptive response by homeseekers to the last weekend's preview showing of the new Oceana Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach has caused the acceleration of plans for grand opening, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

Bram's observation was accompanied by a prophecy for a rapid sellout just as in the previous unit of the Pacifica Series, which sold out in record time.

A leading factor in the popularity of this development, Bram added is the inclusion of a complete array of built-in appliances by Waste King-Universal, one of the leading appliance firms in the country today.

* * * *

The quality built three and four-bedroom homes with family room and two baths are priced from $18,250. They are offered on terms of no money down to all and all that's needed is $100 total costs.

Additionally, they feature sleek Formica counters, ash cabinets, separate utility rooms, vinyl asbestos floor tile, forced-air heat, sliding glass doors and custom lighting fixtures.

All rooms are planned with the flexibility for varied arrangements of furniture and extra power 100 ampere service is provided. As a bonus feature the rear yards will be fully fenced.

* * * *

THE OCEANA SERIES is located on Edwards Ave. just south of Westminster in Huntington Beach. Vast stretches of beach are but a few minutes distant and shopping, churches and recreational activities are within walking distance.

To reach the homes, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; right to Bolsa and right on Bolsa to Edwards and the models.

New Homes Month Is Being Observed

WASHINGTON — April has been proclaimed New Homes Month by William Blackfield, president of the National Association of Home Builders, to open the show of this year's new homes for sale.

Some 150 communities in which the NAHB has local affiliates will sponsor some showcase event such as a Parade of Homes or Home Show to display to the public the new homes coming onto the market.

Other segments of home building, such as suppliers of products for homes and public utility companies, are lending support in their communities.

* * * *

"TODAY'S HOME BUYER is getting more house for his money," said Mr. Blackfield. "He is getting more space, more conveniences. His home is better designed and is built for better living."

As the Springtime event was launched, Blackfield pointed to several reasons why the home builder is able to provide better housing today at relatively little increase in price despite the pressures of a surging economy.

"Builders today are doing very careful market research," he said. "They are ascertaining what their public wants, needs, and can afford, and they are building precisely to that market.

"Also, in the matter of technology, builders today are making utmost use of new materials and methods of construction. And they are putting into practice the findings of our past three years of research into better and more economical methods of land use.

Many Calories Thrown Away

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From seven to ten per cent of the calories in household food supplies are thrown away, fed to animals or used for non-food purposes, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

According to a USDA survey, the discarded food amounts to about 200 calories per person per day.

Conference On Industrial Relations to Draw Many

More than 500 industrial relations specialists and other executives from business, industrial and labor organizations in the metroplitan area will attend the seventh annual Industrial Relations Conference at the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division Wednesday.

The afternoon-evening conference will open with registration at 4:45 p.m. and includes two major addresses, a conference dinner and a panel discussion and question period.

Speakers will be J. Curtis Counts, corporate director of employe relations at Douglas Aircraft, Inc., Santa Monica, and Richard E. Garner, superintendent of industrial engineering for the Kaiser Steel Corp., Fontana.

* * * *

COUNTS will speak on "The Agency Fee Bargaining Agreement," under which nonunion employes within a bargaining unit may elect not to join a union which is the official bargaining agent. As a condition of employment, under this system, employes must either be union members or may pay an "agency fee" in lieu of membership dues.

Garner's topic will be "Twelve Months of Sharing—Kaiser's Long Range Plan." Not a profit-sharing arrangement, in the usual sense, the much-discussed "Kaiser Plan" involves sharing of cost reductions with the work force as a result of increased departmental or plant-wide efficiency.

Administrator of the new plan since its inception a year ago, Garner also will discuss such other precedent-setting provisions as the "reserve pool" for employes displaced by technological changes.

* * * *

REGISTRATION for the Industrial Relations Conference is $5, including the dinner, with special rates for faculty members and qualified students. A special $1 registration also is available for instructors and students who do not attend the dinner.

Registration forms and complete programs are available at the LBCC Business and Technology Division campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Marina Series Draws Buyers

Introduced to Southern California homebuyers recently the new Dutch Haven Marina Series in Huntington Beach gives every indication of becoming one of the Southland's fastest-selling communities.

Tom Rochelle, sales manager for Dutch Haven communities, attributed the community's tremendous buyer-appeal to several factors — excellent location, moderate price, construction by a nationally known firm and the inclusion of dozens of luxury features normally available only in homes of far greater cost.

* * * *

DESIRABLY located close to the beach, the Marina Series is especially planned to provide those features most needed and preferred by family buyers.

Recreational advantages are unusually abundant within the area.

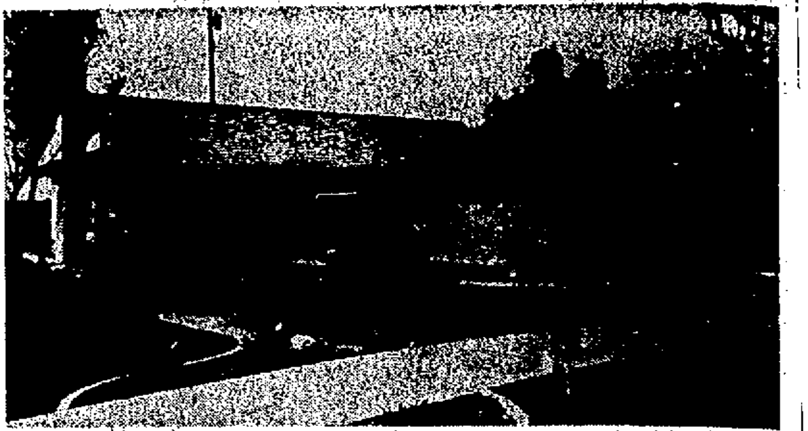
The homes are three to four bedrooms and up to two baths in size. Buyers have a choice of 18 architecturally created exteriors.

* * * *

PRICES START at $18,950. VA, Cal-Vet and FHA financing are available, with a total move-in cost of $95 to Vets. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments.

Luxury-inspired features include complete built-in Medallion kitchens with dishwasher, counter-top range, disposal, oven and range hood with fan and light, family rooms, separate dining areas, decorator fireplaces, custom hardwood paneling, wood shake roofs, forced-air heating, master bedroom suites and complete color coordination.

Model homes are open daily from 10 to 9. To visit the homes drive east on Santa Ana Fwy. to Beach Blvd. turnoff. Go south on Beach to Warner, right to Edwards, then left to furnished models.



HAS CUSTOM LOOK
Interesting roof line, wide wood shakes and decorative sidewall trim of model home at new Dutch Haven Marina Series in Huntington Beach typify the "custom architectural look" being emphasized at the family-planned community. Priced from $18,950, homes at Dutch Haven Marina Series are three to four bedrooms and up to two full baths in size. Total move-in cost to vets is $95.

Bank Group Buys School Bond Issue

A Bank of America N.T. & S.A. underwriting syndicate has purchased the $2,300,000 bond issue of the Fullerton Union High School District, Orange and Los Angeles counties.

The Bank of America group paid a premium of $979 for a combination of 3½%, 3% and 3¼% bonds. Net interest cost to the district was 3.14%.

The bonds were reoffered to investors to yield from 2.30% to a dollar price of par on the 3¼% bonds, according to maturity March 15, 1966-1984.

The issue sold consisted of $1,860,000 of 1960 school bonds and $440,000 of 1963 school bonds. Proceeds will be used for various school purposes.

The district is located in northwestern Orange County and includes about eight square miles of Los Angeles County. The district contains 96% of Fullerton, all of La Habra and 45% of Buena Park. Estimated population is 160,000.

Members of the bank group which purchased the Fullerton bonds were: Goldman, Sachs & Co.; Drexel & Co.; Stroud & Co., Inc.; Kenower, MacArthur & Co.; Stern, Frank, Meyer & Fox.

Only Two-Story Homes in Anaheim Development

Here is one of the varied models of two-story homes offered in the new King Edward Series of Royal Coachline Homes in Anaheim. The homes are priced from $26,800 to $28,900.

The two-story home has proven its popularity in the new King Edward Series of Royal Coachline Homes, states Mark Pitman, developer of the new Anaheim community. "Many of our associates were skeptical about building a subdivision consisting of nothing but two-story homes. However, the excellent response to the new King Edward Series has proven our judgment to be correct," stated Mark Pitman.

Offering 17 exterior designs and four spacious floor plans the new Royal Coachline Homes are two-story three and four bedrooms, all with large family rooms and two baths. The homes are priced from $26,800 to $28,900 and can be purchased on terms of conventional financing. FHA and Cal-Vet terms are also available.

* * * *

AMONG OUTSTANDING features in the new King Edward Series is wall-to-wall carpeting of 100% nylon in the living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, halls and stairways, custom block wall completely fenced rear yard with gate and lawns planted front and sides.

The luxury kitchens of the new series feature built-in gas range and oven with triple rotisserie and exhaust fan over range and are already piped for gas refrigeration, gas dryer and gas log-lighter. These kitchens also include dishwasher and disposal. The large cabinets offer a choice of driftwood, provincial, walnut or birch woods. The bar and sink tops are of self-edged Formica and the flooring is of all-new metallic vinyl asbestos tile.

* * * *

OTHER FEATURES include large pool size lots, oversize garages with plenty of storage space. Baths are roomy, with marble-topped Pullmans, vanity and dressing tables, Mr. and Mrs. sinks with Dreslyn basins. There are entry halls, hardwood paneling, cedar shake and shingle roofs, ornamental iron trim, stone and brick exterior masonry, telephone outlets in most rooms and luminous ceilings.

Peddles Apples at Theater Line

WICHITA (AP)—There was a long line of persons at the ticket window of a Wichita movie house when a well-dressed man walked up with a large paper sack.

"Want to buy an apple?" he asked one of the standees. Then he walked down the line selling apples at 10 cents each.

His impeccable appearance baffled the standees but they bought all the apples he had. Then the man disappeared down the street.

Officers of Credit Unit Reelected

Paul R. McCrery was chosen president of the Long Beach Credit Association for the seventh consecutive year at the annual meeting of the stockholders last week. All officers and directors were reelected: Harry Buffum, chairman of the board, Buffums', vice president; Ike Sukman, president, Columbia, treasurer; B. L. Gibbs, secretary, and K. M. Gibbs, assistant secretary.

PAUL McCRERY

Reelected directors for a two year term were: Paul McCrery, Ike Sukman and B. L. Gibbs. Hold-over directors are Harry Buffum, J. F. Bishop, E. C. Valdes and K. M. Gibbs.

* * * *

McCRERY REPORTED on the progress made in the past year of operation. He stated the merchant-owned association has 800 active members, 750,000 credit reports in file and 60 employes. McCrery further reported in the past year the association had compiled 250,000 credit reports and collected approximately $500,000 in its collection department.

The association, a 49-year-old Long Beach institution, and in its 26th year as a merchant-owned organization, will celebrate its diamond anniversary in 1965. Plans are currently being formulated to commemorate the event.

Dinner at 7:30 o'clock will be preceded by a social hour.

Unemployment Fund Benefits Extended

Extended duration unemployment insurance benefits under the Miller-Collier Act formula beginning April 1 to Californians who exhaust their regular unemployment benefits.

Insured unemployment during the three calendar months of December, 1963, and January and February, 1964, was in excess of the 6 per cent ratio which triggers payment of extended duration benefits, Albert B. Tieburg, director of employment, said today.

* * * *

HE SAID an average of 264,618 weeks of insured unemployment was certified during the three-month priod. This amounted to 6.32 per cent of the statutory base of the average of 4,182,878 employes subject to the state Unemployment Insurance Code in the four calendar quarters that ended Sept. 30, 1963.

The Miller-Collier Act is an amendment to the unemployment insurance law enacted by the 1959 Legislature. It requires the director of employment to make a finding each month of the ratio of unemployment covered by the Unemployment Insurance Code.

The most recent previous extended benefit duration month was September, 1963.

There are only five homes remaining in Regal Homes, popular new Buena Park community, states Tom Sims, builder. Excellent financing is offered with down payments of only $395 which includes all costs and impounds.

Regal Homes are three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. They are priced from $22,900 and have been designed to provide many of the homes with unusually large "King-Size" lots for pools, gardens, etc. Families with an income of $650 monthly can qualify.

The homes feature balanced power and have built-in range and oven with exhaust fan and hood over range, fireplace with log-lighters. The back yards are enclosed with a block wall. Other features include furniture finish birch cabinets, tile stall shower with glass doors, also shower over tub, Del Piso entry floors, spacious master bedroom suites, forced-air heating and other fine features.

LOCATED on Orangethorpe between Valley View and Knott Ave. in the City of Buena Park, Regal Homes are short driving distances from Long Beach, the industrial areas of Fullerton, Anaheim and East Los Angeles. Knott's Berry Farm is but minutes away—the Southland's most famous beaches and Newport Harbor within a 15-minute drive. Regal Homes are also close to schools for all ages. One of the area's largest shopping centers — Buena Park Plaza is less than five minutes away.

Want Pantries

One of the items being demanded with more frequency by female home buyers today is bigger and better pantries, according to housing authorities. In addition to kitchen cabinets, they want more space for cleaning equipment and shallow shelves for canned goods.

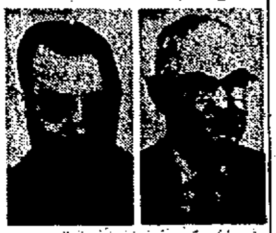
Prompt Action by Firemen

PACIFICA, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Emilene Greer got extra-fast action when she phoned the fire department to report she had stuffed some rags into an oven to dry and they ignited. Responding firemen were led by her husband, Fire Chief Ed Greer.

Honor Two Edison Vets

Two men with combined service of 75 years were honored recently by Southern California Edison Co.

Robert C. Basil, 4231 Ocana Ave., Lakewood, retired from service with the Southland utility after a career that spanned 40 years.

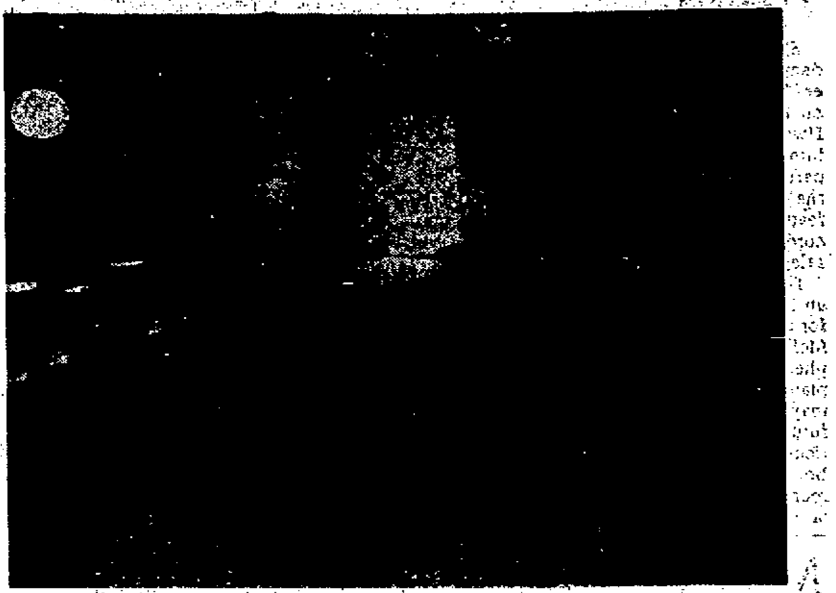


R. C. BASIL C. LAMBERTSON

Basil spent his entire career in the utility's operating department and for the past 20 years has been with Edison's Fullerton division.

Max C. Lambertson, 3820 Chestnut Ave., was honored by the company on his 35th anniversary. Lambertson, who is employed as assistant plant engineer at the company's Alamitos Steam Station, was presented a diamond service pin.

Good Location Stressed in Garden Park Estates



IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Shown is a living room in a furnished model at Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove. One and two-story quality homes are offered with three, four and five bedrooms at moderate prices.

Of particular importance in attracting buyers to a new residential development is a good location, state officials of Garden Park Estates in a walled neighborhood in Garden Grove.

"We feel it's important for today's families to have an address they can be proud of, plus close-in conveniences," a spokesman said.

Garden Park Estates' homes are within a short drive of many large shopping compounds. Good schools surround the area and residents are connected to the entire Southland by nearby major highways and freeways.

Large one and two-story homes with three, four and five bedrooms are now being sold. A favorite is the stately two-story model, the officials pointed out. The home includes five bedrooms, with the master bedroom featuring a fireplace.

* * * *

"THIS DESIGN appeals to the lively family with several youngsters," the spokesman said.

Also included are functional built-in kitchens; fireplaces, some with mantels and gas log liters; forced-air heating with thermostat and summer cooling switch, and colored mosaic tile.

Veterans can move in with nothing down, except costs and impounds with monthly payments from $109.63, including principal and interest. Non-veterans can use lowest FHA down on 30 and 35 year loans. Conventional terms are available and the homes are Cal-Vet approved. Prices start from $19,850.

To see the furnished models from Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave.

WELCOMED AT TRACT

Open Niguel to Private Developers

The 7,000-acre Laguna Niguel development near South Laguna is opening to various private developers, the Orange County Coast Association was told Thursday afternoon at a luncheon at Irvine Coast Country Club.

Pete Vogel, marketing director for Laguna Niguel, said builder John Klug will erect 3,000 Pacesetter homes, to become the largest "outside" builder in the tract. He has 250 under construction now and said all are sold.

OTHER BUILDERS have acquired, or are negotiating for, segments of the hillside properties whose curved streets are laid out to give maximum view benefits, Vogel explained.

Laguna Niguel, once part of the Shoemaker Ranch, ultimately will have a population of 35,000 persons, it was predicted.

Orange County's 75th anniversary observance this year will signal celebrations in which the association will take part.

TED PARKER, historian whose title company has done a booklet of the county's early years, recounted that what is now Orange County was divorced from Los Angeles County in 1889 simply because Los Angeles County Supervisors of that day "didn't want to spend money for roads or other improvements "in the cow county."

First Family Into Chatelain II Home

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Herr have the distinction of being the first owners to move into their beautiful new Chatelain II home in Placentia.

On "moving day" Bill and Claire and their three young children were welcomed by Otis Cranford and Jim Marshall of Cranford Development Co. and sales agent, Kay Neil, and were presented an outdoor barbeque ... a house warming gift to add to the Herr's enjoyment of their new home.

Claire Herr said, "I'm still luxuriating in all this wonderful space. Mr. Cranford and his associates certainly understand how important spaciousness and convenience is to a family with growing youngsters.

"WE ARE NEW to the area, and we love it," Mrs. Herr went on. "We looked around for some time and decided that Placentia with its quiet suburban atmosphere was an ideal place to raise children. My husband is an engineer at Autonetics so the location is perfect for him."

Chatelaine II homes are being offered for as little as $25,950 with 5% down and are located on Carolina Avenue, between Palm and Imperial Hwy. in Placentia.

Finally Learns Room Draped

WICHITA (AP)—State Court Judge James V. Riddel Jr. had been in his office in the new courthouse four years when he decided he should have curtains for the office windows.

Checking for a place to install the curtains, he pulled back a narrow drape at a window and found that draw drapes were already in place, installed when the office was furnished.

New Test Area Near Beaumont

United Ttesting Laboratories Division of United Electro Dynamics, Inc., Pasadena, has leased a site called Jack Rabbit Trail near Beaumont from Lockheeed Propulsion Co. for environmental aerospace testing, it is announced by Donald D. Mallory, vice president and division manager.

Mallory said expansion of the division's facilities will enable the company to substantilly increase its testing capabilities in weapons systems, high-pressure vessels and cryogenic gases.

Three concrete test bays and a remote intstrumentation blockhouse have been constructed.

'Growing Room' Appealing to Showcase Home Buyers

Showcase Homes, a residential development by builder William Krueger located on Hazard Ave. just east of Hwy. 39, has attracted many interested buyers who are particularly impressed with the two-story plans which feature a growing room, according to Frank McFarland, sales agent.

The growing room is truly an innovation in home design for the growing family, stated McFarland. The builder supplies three different blueprint plans so that the purchaser may finish this room in the future best suited for his particular family's needs. It can be used as a spacious one room family activity center or can be finished as a luxury home with five or six bedrooms and three baths.

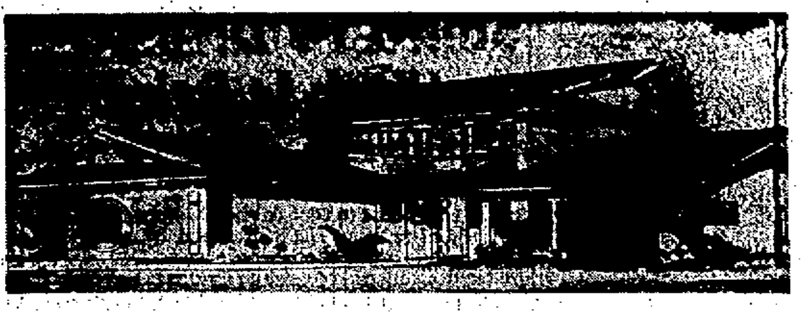
PRICED FROM $22,750, Showcase Homes have three bedrooms, two baths, and family/dining room. The rear yard is completely fenced and the front yard landscaped. Various types of financing are available to fit the particular need of the buyer.

Offering a choice of varied elevations, the exteriors are enhanced with stone, used brick, and colonial brick. The attractive interiors have slate entry halls, wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplace, marble pullmans in baths, ceramic tile in baths, and oversize linen closets.

The ultra modern kitchen is equipped with all-electric built-in range, wide oven, automatic dishwasher, garbage disposer, breakfast bar and ash cabinets. Ceramic tile and many built-ins and storage space are found in this important room.

Furnished model homes are open daily.



IN QUIET NEIGHBORHOOD

Showcase Homes unit 2, a residential development by William Krueger, are located in a quiet residential neighborhood near schools, shopping centers, and close to the new Douglas plant.

Arranging of Flowers

Spring has arrived at Union Federal Savings and the association is again sponsoring the third annual flower arranging exhibition April 9, at the Petroleum Club in Long Beach, according to vice president and Bixby Knolls branch manager Don De Silva.

"This event represents what we feel is of general interest and adds to the betterment of the community as well. The show will not only be instructive but visually beautiful and stimulating," De Silva stated.

The exhibition will start at the club at 3636 Linden Ave. at 7:30 p.m., and will be under direction of Tommy Christensen of the Virginia Patio. It will consist of more than 70 arrangements by a staff of three experts. As the arrangements are created they will be described by Mrs. Gladys Christensen. Free tickets are available at Union Federal office, 4512 Atlantic Ave.

Santa Fe Drilling Outlook Is Bright

SANTA FE SPRINGS—"As an international contract drilling company, we believe Santa Fe is second to none on the basis of revenues and income derived from contract drilling opearations in foreign lands," president Ed. L. Shannon Jr. and board chairman J. D. Robinson told stockholders in the annual report.

"Santa Fe started 1964 with 38 drilling operations in progress in 10 foreign countries and early this year obtained additional new drilling contracts in the North Sea area, Libya and Venezuela," they said.

Gross revenues and net income for the year to Dec. 31, 1963, were both the highest in the company's history. Revenues were $26,194,405 including $1,208,075 from sales of oil and gas from its California properties. Net income was $2,466,504 after taxes, equivalent to $1.64 a share on 1,502,539 capital shares outstanding at the year-end. These figures compare with 1962 revenues of $24,276,291 and net income of $2,195,090 or $1.46 a share on 1,504,389 shares then outstanding. Income from oil and gas sales in the U. S. increased 61 percent over 1962 oil and gas sales of $751,769.

"Income from oil and gas sales is financing our exploration activity," the report states, noting that $1,300,000 has been budgeted for the 1964 domestic oil and gas program. Early in 1964 the company acquired substantial leasehold interests in Ohio and Kentucky acreage where its participation "gives us an opportunity to explore in one of the most active areas in the U.S."

LARGE PRESTIGE HOME

Variety of Financing Terms Offered for Prestige Homes

One of the many reasons for the success of Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach has been the variety of financing available to the potential home buyer: FHA, VA on a few homes, excellent conventional financing, and Cal-Vet. By having all of these available, Prestige Homes has been able to fit the needs of many families that might not otherwise been able to purchase a new home, related Larry Shields of the building firm, Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., with main offices in Anaheim.

Shields said the Prestige Homes' sales force, directed by Dan Mytinger, have been instructed to work closely with every interested family in the selection of financing that best suits the family's pocketbook.

"We can afford to do this," Shields noted, "not only because it helps us to sell Prestige Homes; but because it shows the home purchaser that we are interested and willing to help him through an enjoyable, although trying, period of time when he is buying a new home for his family."

PRESTIGE HOMES are priced from $21,200 and are available in one and two stories, three, four and five bedrooms, with twenty four exterior elevations to choose from. Features include Westinghouse all-electric kitchens with built-in range, oven and dishwasher; color-coordinated wall-to-wall carpeting in the entry, living room, halls and stairways; slate entryways; wardrobes up to 14 feet long, massive fireplaces and individual features in some models such as pantries, "boat doors," master bedrooms with built-in dressers; and many, many others.

The six beautifully decorated model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the Long Beach area, drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West Street, turn right to Edinger Avenue, then right on Edinger to Springdale St., then left a short distance to Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach.

Master Pool Title to Sunset Builders

Sunset Designers and Builders are celebrating their recent appointment as builders of Master Pools with a month-long open house. Master Pool Builders, who number fewer than 100 in the entire pool industry, are selected by the international organization on the basis of business integrity, financial stability and technical and construction excellence.

Sunset for 18 years have beautified homes by adding rooms, building patios, installing fences and block walls, landscaping, and modernizing. Now with the addition of pool building, they offer homeowners the convenience of having one contractor perform all the functions.

Sunset boasts the largest outdoor living display in the Southland. More than an acre of land is devoted to showing the latest in pools, patios, fences, fireplaces and other items.

Sunset will be open daily until 9 p.m. The public is invited to visit their display area at 3626 Long Beach Blvd.

50 reasons why you should live in Sun City

Not only does Sun City offer the major advantages listed below, but Sun City believes in the freedom of individual choice. Sun City does not "package" all kinds of miscellaneous charges and fees into your monthly payment. Why have services which you do not need or want, foisted upon you?

CHECK THESE MAJOR POINTS FOR YOURSELF.
COMPARISON PROVES SUN CITY IS FOR YOU!

		Sun City		OTHER PLACES
		YES	NO	YES	NO
1	Residents own their homes outright, without being involved in some "share ownership" plan. If you are the rugged individualist type that wants to manage your own home costs and affairs without being involved with other people's expenses — a home in Sun City is for you. If you like the share ownership idea, Sun City does have cooperative apartments. Either way, you have the freedom of choice.	✓
2	All community facilities are complete and operating now. Sun City does not offer you promises of something that is going to be built in the future! It is all here for you to enjoy NOW — at sensible prices.	✓
3	The comprehensive medical benefits program is optional. If you have all the insurance protection you need, don't have the cost of your neighbor's insurance buried in your home payment. In Sun City you may have excellent insurance protection if you wish. Again, the freedom of choice is yours!	✓
4	There is a complete shopping center in the community. The Sun City Shopping Center has over 20 different types of shops, stores and services. Every convenience for modern day living needs is here now. Not "coming soon."	✓
5	There is a championship golf course with pay-as-you-play fees not hidden in home payments. If you play golf, Sun City has a Championship Course to really challenge you. If you don't play golf, why have your neighbor's greens fees hidden in your monthly payments?	✓
6	There is a truly wide variety of recreational facilities, workshop and crafts centers. Sun City originated Active Retirement. Sun City was the first to offer complete facilities for purposeful activities. Others have imitated Sun City, but no one has ever equalled it. People come to Sun City to live . . . !	✓
7	Home buyers receive grant deeds and title policies. Your home is your own in Sun City. You own it just like a home anywhere else. You can pay cash if you wish and buy your home outright. Take advantage of substantial cash discounts. Why be locked into paying interest if you don't want to?	✓
8	Down payments are as low as $400. Sun City is for everyone! It doesn't require huge down payments to move into Sun City. After all, not everyone has enough money for a huge down payment.	✓
9	Homes and apartments can be purchased for as little as $10,950. Retirement homes should be sensibly priced! In Sun City you won't find people looking for status symbols. They are only looking for a good time. In Sun City everyone has a good time!	✓
10	There is a guaranteed sales plan to help purchasers sell their former homes. The sale of your present home could be guaranteed if you live in one of the many cities covered by our program. You may be able to move to a Del Webb community for Active Retirement with very little delay or inconvenience.	✓
11	Security and satisfaction is guaranteed by a strong corporation, listed on the New York Stock Exchange and with 30 years experience and more than 12,000 residents in similar communities in 3 states. If someone is trying to sell you promises of what they are going to build in the future, be sure the builder is big enough to back his word. The Del E. Webb Corporation is big enough to build everything before opening day!	✓
12	Houses or apartments are available in Sun City. You don't have to change your preferred manner of living when you move to Sun City. Freedom of choice is extended to your preference for large or small — house or apartment. A "please all tastes" variety of each are available for your choosing.	✓
13	Your Sun City home passes to your estate and your heirs. In Sun City you are not just "living in" your home during your lifetime to have it revert back to the sponsoring organization. Your Sun City home is yours to will to your heirs and becomes a part of your estate. In other words, it's your home. You have the freedom to do with it as you wish.	✓
14 through 50	There really are 50 reasons why you should live in Sun City — but we've flat run out of space. Come out to Sun City today and we'll be happy to discuss the other 36. When you live in Sun City you do what you want when you want! And when you decide to buy your home or apartment in Sun City, no one tries to force you into buying all kinds of services which you really don't want or need. Many L. B. Executives Buy Old Farm Homes

HAS CHARM OF OLD
Spacious family room, rich cabinets, dining area, formal living room and big second-story Bonus Room are the features in the new unit of the Old Farm homes in Fountain Valley. Flexible terms are available at the walled community with prices from $27,500.

With the second unit of the Old Farm community in Fountain Valley well over half sold, the luxury Fountain Valley development is proving to be one of West Orange County's most popular executive communities, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons report.

The big two-story homes are priced from $27,500 and have been designed to create the complete community concept, the builders explained. Entry patios and the varying of design has given the Old Farm community the "custom look" with lavish landscaping adding to the complete neighborhood.

Already the choice of many Long Beach area executives, the current Old Farm unit is offering a wide selection of plans, exteriors and the most flexible of terms, the Holstein organization pointed out.

• • • •

THE WALLED community is less than 15 minutes from Long Beach and only 5 minutes from Huntington Beach state beach. The site is near new schools and the Westmont Park and has been planned to be Fountain Valley's finest new home area, the Old Farm builders explained.

Top feature has been the big second story Bonus Room so ideal for playroom, rumpus area, den or additional bedrooms. Built in luxury kitchens and baths have also found flavor.

To reach the Old Farm from Long Beach, take Garden Grove Freeway to Hwy. 39, then south to Warner and east (left) on Warner to Cannery then south again to the models.

Building Started by Rossmoor

Ground has been broken for the $2.5 million Rossmoor Corp. national headquarters office building in the shopping center area of Rossmoor Leisure World at Laguna Hills, Calif.

Many Orange County civic leaders attended the groundbreaking ceremonies and observed the model of the three-story "jewel box" structure which likely will be considered one of the most striking office buildings in Orange County upon its completion in November of this year.

Hosts for the occasion were Ross W. Cortese, president of the Rossmoor Corp.; Murray Ward, senior vice president in charge of construction of all Leisure World and Rossmoor projects, and Jay Mercer, chief administrative vice president.

• • • •

THE NEW THREE-STORY administrative headquarters building was designed by the Los Angeles architectural firm of Burke, Kober & Nicolais, and measures 85,540 square feet. A curtain-wall of tinted glass extends completely around the rectangular structure from the ground to the roof. The glass curtain-wall is set off by 64 pre-cast concrete columns, three stories high. The pillars end in graceful arches at the roof level, giving the building its appealing classic style in a contemporary manner. Two large reflection pools are located at each end of the structure.

The show piece office building will accommodate more than 200 offices of the Rossmoor Corp. and the National Golden Rain Foundation. The full-basement will contain the corporation's blueprint department, mail room and some parking facilities.

The building will include the executive suites of the corporation, including the offices of President Ross W. Cortese; the offices of the Rossmoor Furniture Co. and the Rossmoor Water Corporation.

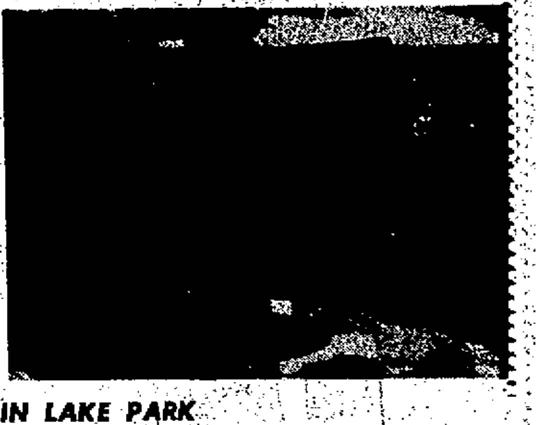
Lake Park Stresses Value at Low Cost



IN LAKE PARK
One of the most popular homes at Lake Park, near Lakewood, is the two-story Huntington with five bedrooms. The community is being built and developed by Larwin Group Companies, one of the nation's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Value of homes at Lake Park, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, is found not only in the economy for buyers' pocketbooks but also in their prime location, according to sales manager Don Hermanson.

Lake Park is close to major employment, recreation and commercial facilities, Hermanson said.

• • • •

AVAILABLE at Lake Park is both low down payment FHA and VA-guaranteed financing programs. Qualified veterans may move in free at some of the models.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold there to date have been two-story models.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson (which becomes Lincoln Boulevard) to the model homes just east of Moody.

Actor Succumbs

More Housing Seen

NEW YORK—Builders expect a 12 per cent gain in housing sales for 1964 over 1963, according to Fortune's semi-annual survey. This would boost nonfarm housing starts for the current year to a total of 1,740,000.

Apartments will again be the star of the housing market this year. Builders answering Fortune's inquiry forecast 635,000 apartments (three units and over) for 1964, against 529,000 actually built in 1963—a 20 per cent rise.

Traditional houses will be built at a 6 per cent higher rate this year than last, the builders expect, while they believe the volume of prefabricated houses will rise 20 per cent from the 200,000 units shipped in 1963.

Some 375 builders throughout the nation replied to Fortune's inquiry.

Buying property is one of the biggest steps most of us ever take. It's important to see that your interests are protected to the maximum, should someone make a claim against your property title. The surest way is to ask for a title insurance policy by T.I.–the company that protects the ownership rights to more California property than any other title firm.

There are good reasons why T.I. is the choice of most escrow officers for swift, dependable, impartial title service. Only T.I. has complete up-to-date land records. Only T.I. has a high-speed data processing system that searches Los Angeles County property tax records, to assure greater speed and accuracy for your title transaction. And only T.I. can offer you the experience of California's longest-established title firm, the strength of America's largest title staff.

LE BAL DU MUSÉE

the Museum Association will evoke the splendor, the brilliance, the gaiety of Paris for its ball April 18 in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel. Baron Louis de Cabrol, consul general of France in Los Angeles, and Baronne de Cabrol will grace the ball as guests of honor.

Do join us. Cocktails at 7:30 p. m. in a Left-Bank promenade on one side of the ballroom. Kiosks, art posters, a 10-foot tall Eiffel Tower, French tri-colors—red, white and blue—on brightly decorated bistro tables. At 9 o'clock, the party will move into the ballroom, with its atmosphere of the Bois de Bologne. There, Ray Noval's orchestra will play for dancing. Mrs. Martin Garron, 1465 La Perla, is taking reservations. My portrait? I inspired CSLB art student Dennis McManus.

Wild Waves Say...

IN ALL degrees of tonsorial splendor—probably un-splendor—men of the Southern California Tuna Club will drive wearily but happily home today after a week-long fishing trip to Lake Mead. Hey, beaver!

Eighty fellows, give or take one or two, made the trek. To insure the operation's success, at least 40 of these served on committees, which just goes to show you how hard men are willing to work to have fun! And what jobs!

Up to something fishy, these two, all week long!

As for those sparkling white, pre-trip aprons, wonder what they look like now after cleaning several hundred pounds of Lake Mead's finest, and with precious little help from avid fishing buddies with other duties.

"Fish Care Warden" was Dr. Mulford Smith. Seems they keep big tanks in the lake in which to dump their catches, live. They release what they can't eat or don't want to bring home from daily limits (amounts brought home are undoubtedly governed by "orders from headquarters" here at home!). Mulford's job—keep finnies well fed.

Weigh Master was Dr. Sterling Pillsbury. Biggest job of all was Bob Joy's that of general chairman. Jim Kuster was alternate general, in case Bob plain wore out.

Pay-off duty was Dr. Chet Moore's. He was head of Global Communications. He took his ham radio equipment and packed it into the camp site, 21 miles into the wilderness from Temple Bar Landing.

The first "global" call for help was received from Chet Tuesday. Latecomers were asked to bring up the stuff forgotten, Official scales, tiki torches, keys to Bob Joy's boat (yep, he left 'em on dresser top), 10 pounds of salt, a case of canned potatoes, etc. Duly delivered.

PARTY SWITCH. There will be a luncheon Tuesday at Pat Horton's with 16 hostesses. Sound big? Well, there will be just six guests! The 16 providing brunch for their outnumbered honorees are members of Assistance League's provisional corps of a couple of years ago. They're entertaining for leaguers who saw them through their year of training.

UP BY THE ROOTS have been pulled the lives of Marjorie and "Brandy" Brandenburg for important transplanting. They left Thursday with eventual destination Brentford, England, where they will live for an indefinite time.

"Brandy" has been promoted to treasurer-director of Firestone Tyre (that's how they spell it in Jolly Olde) and Rubber Co. over there.

They'll spend a month in Akron, Ohio, before going on to New York, where they'll sail to Lisbon on the Greek liner, Olympia, with plans for sightseeing before they report to Brentford on May 30.

A farewell party was given for them by Elfie and Bill Sharp in their Rossmoor home. Good friends present were Betty and Raymond Grobaty, Jackie and Lou Rasch, Dee and Lewis Mahl and "Squid" and Jeff Williamson.

THREE WORDS that really sing are, "It's a boy." The tuneful phrase fell liltingly on the ears of Sherry and Dr. Selden Beebe when they became parents of their first child, Jason Hill Beebe, at Memorial Monday afternoon.

On the paternal side, this gives Joan and Dr. Edson Beebe the right to glow like first time grandparents. Their faces keep behaving like kleig lights, as a matter of fact.

Margaret Harriman Gilbert, the baby's maternal grandmother, is more experienced about this sort of thing with a total of four grandchildren.

In fact, Margaret was so calm about the forthcoming event, she invited Sherry to go on a snow country journey into Chihuahua Valley (near Warner's Hot Springs) for a long weekend. Luckily, Sherry changed her mind because Jason arrived a surprising two weeks early.

FLIGHT DATE . . . last Thursday. Arrival time—Europe in the spring. Bev (Mrs. Joseph) McLaughlin and sister-in-law, Nancy (Mrs. Kenneth) Walker, with Nancy's sisters (one from Washington, D.C. and another from Oakland) are taking a strictly feminine month of travel. They were to fly to London and tour in England first. Then they planned to pick up a car in Munich and drive, on a hop, skip and jump schedule, to various places on the continent including France, Holland, Switzerland and Germany.

WHEREVER SLOPES are winter white you're apt to find them dark-dotted with the skimming, skiing figures of Belinda and Dr. Jack Frishman. Currently, they are on a long weekend trip to Aspen, Colo., with son, Jack Jr. Just a brief time ago the Frishmans Sr. returned from a month in Europe. Primarily they went for Dr. Jack to do research studies in Paris but they also found time to research, test and study ski resorts. Prognosis: General condition great everywhere.

ALTHOUGH THEY won't change the decor of their home to accomplish it, Betsy and George Taubman will, nonetheless, give distinguished houseguests the red carpet treatment next Friday to Saturday.

Guests will be Eva and Allen Seed Jr. of New York. Allen, executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful, will be in town to talk at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored luncheon Friday at the Lafayette. That same afternoon, the Taubmans have bidden about 100 to their home to meet the Seeds at a cocktail party.

Assisting will be Vivian and John Davis, Dorothy and Gustaf Ericson, Mary and Gene Carlton, Jean and Bill Lockett, Marylou and Harry Krusz, Rosemary and Bob Westmyer, Dorothie and Lloyd Mallin, Bess Hudson and Kay Langen.

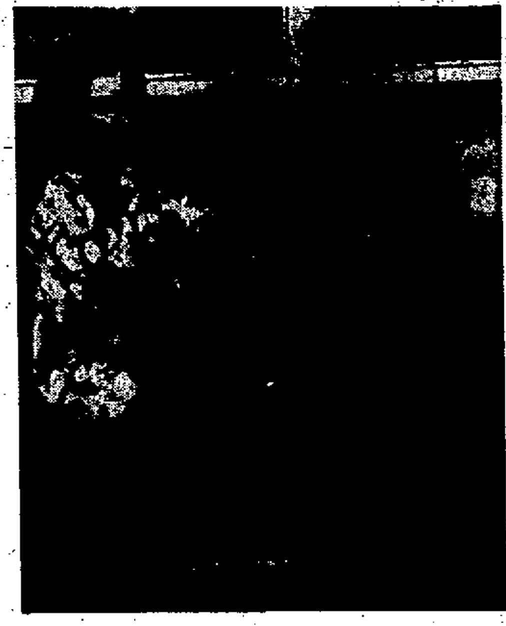
ANY TIME Mardi and Phillip Pelkey's car crosses over the border from Mexico back into the U.S. (which is frequent), you can be sure that little Falcon is loaded with ollas. That's because Mardi is a real dirt farmer, clay pot style, and ollas (Mexican pots) make perfect containers for her gardening.

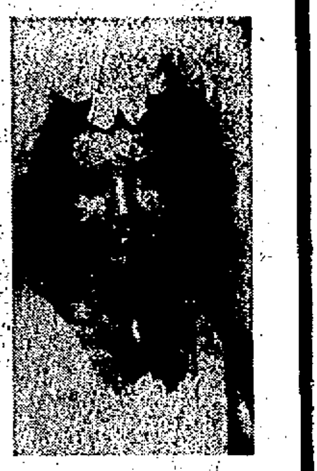
On their last trip, Mardi purchased several, including the large strawberry planter she's pictured with, below. And what is she planting? Succulents, so easy to car for y'know, Strawberries you can buy in the markets!

But what amazed and startled natives on both sides of the border during last trip to Ensenada was the sight of big Phillip (six feet, seven and one half inches tall), plus all the luggage, plus the pots (big ones), plus their two good sized teenagers, plus the farmer, herself, all tucked INSIDE the car. Where there's a will there's a way.



She's real dirt farmer in typical patio style.

McNulty-Collins Families Joined



Mrs. James Michael McNulty

St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church was chosen for the wedding of Judith Ann Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Collins, to James Michael McNulty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. McNulty, Saturday afternoon.

A bridal gown of silk organza with a bell-shaped skirt and appliques of Chantilly lace was worn by the bride. Her four tiered veil fell from a crown of silk organza and lace, trimmed with pearls and sequins.

Mrs. Patrick Rose attended the bride as matron of honor. The bridegroom was served by Richard Rinnella as best man. Rebecca Gates, Mrs. Ronald Schroeder, Mrs. Karl Van Holt, Stephen Murphy, James Morford and Ira Rosenstein were other members of the bridal party.

Does Overdue Bill Need a Reminder?

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem in capital letters—BILL! You see, Bill won't call me. I don't know if it's goodbye or if he is just too lazy to dial a phone.

We have had seven dates but I still don't know if it was serious. He said he was either going to California or into the service and that he'd call me. But—no calls.

I care for him a lot and other fellows don't appeal to me. Shall I wait faithfully by the phone or call him and ask him, "What's up?"—WAITING BY THE PHONE.

DEAR WAITING:

If Bill wanted to talk to you, he would call! Men are like that, you know. I doubt very much if he was ever at all serious about you — he never said so or acted as if he was. I'm afraid you took too much for granted.

I think if you wait by the phone, you are going to have a long, long wait—and it's such a waste of time! Call him, if you like, but I doubt if it will give you much satisfaction.

Go out with other guys (you don't have to be serious about them) and have some fun instead of sitting home "mooning" about Bill. — M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I wonder if you would ask your readers a few important questions.

1. Do any of them have widowed in-laws living with them?

2. If so, how do they like this arrangement?

3. What is their secret for getting along?

4. Can two women remain together all day in the same house?

5. How do you correct children without creating a scene in front of the in-law?

6. How do you arrange expenses for an additional member of the family whom you hitherto had not budgeted for?

Please do see if you can find the answers among your readers who are undergoing the same problem we are. My husband's mother has moved in and, frankly, I'm about out of my mind!—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE:

Sometimes circumstances are such that there's really nothing to do but TRY and grin and bear it.

From my observation it is much better if you can arrange to have elderly and widowed in-laws live separately. It almost never works where there are three generations under one roof—not in this day and age, anyway.

If this simply cannot be done, then sometimes a sort of bed-sitting room can be arranged where at least one can retire for privacy and at least the whole family isn't milling around stepping on toes and frazzling one another's nerves.

Perhaps some of my readers will have some constructive suggestions to offer you. In that case I'll be happy to pass them along.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 21 years old, Catholic, and training to be a nurse. I am in love and live with a man as man and wife. He has no special training and doesn't make much money.

My parents dislike him because of the poor reputation of his family and do not know that we are living together.

What should I do?—URGENT.

DEAR URGENT:

You are 21 years old and your own boss but, from your letter, I'd say you have very poor judgment. If you love the guy, and evidently you do if you are living together, for heaven's sake marry him or move out.

You should be old enough to know your own mind and if your marriage turns out to be a mistake, it won't be any more of a mistake than you are making right now.—M. M.

Ebell Juniors Hail Spring With Gala Dinner Dance

Virginia Country Club will be bright with colorful blossoms when Ebell Juniors of Long Beach presents its annual spring dinner dance on Saturday at 8 p. m. The dance floor will be ringed with giant topiary trees of yellow roses and green leaves, with smaller trees centering the tables.

Floor length gowns will mingle with short evening dresses at the semi-formal affair. Keith Williams' orchestra will provide the music.

NUMEROUS cocktail parties are being planned prior to the event. Mr. and Mrs. James Shirley will entertain in their home, 382 Havana Ave. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Berberet, 441 Daroca Ave., will be a party setting with Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Turner as co-hosts.

Another large group will gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff D. Slosson, 1105 Ramillo Ave., where co-hosts will be Messrs. and Mmes. Dale Drum, E. Lee Shuff, Robert Lindsay and Stephen Mayer. Mr. and Mrs. Audie E. Ashcraft Jr. will serve champagne cocktails at their home, 6070 Belen St., assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDowell Jr.

Versatile Dance Routines Promised at Medal Ball

What are the kids dancing these days? What's really new with the younger set—dancewise?

Are they still "stompin'," or "mashing potatoes?" Has the twist twisted itself out? Aren't there ANY waltzers? What's this slausson we're hearing about?

What are they dancing? EVERYTHING! That is, if thousands of young Long Beach dancers are an example of what's going on in the youth dance world.

Take activities in the local invitational dance clubs, for instance. Here fourth grade children circle hand-in-hand to work a "waltz puzzle" then break into the "hokey-pokey twist." Fifth graders square dance. Sixth grade boys and girls learn the waltz, foxtrot, swing and cha-cha-cha. Junior high school students add the samba, tango, rhumba and polka. Mambo, basso nova and authentic folk dancing round out the program for senior high and college students. But, they're ALL doing the slausson.

* * * *

AN ILLUSTRATION of this versatility in dancing will be seen during the ninth annual Grand Medal Ball being staged by the clubs and presented by Derrall and Chloe Call in Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Here, virtually all ages will be represented in a fast-moving, brilliantly costumed panorama of ballroom dancing, specialty numbers and royal pageantry.

Spiced by the modern jazz and Latin routines choreographed by Steven Peck of Hollywood and the precision teamwork edited by English dance master Peggy Carr, the event promises to reach full-scale production status.

* * * *

HIGH LIGHTING the ball will be the coronation of the newly elected king and queen, Bob Woods and Terri Hofacker. Gary Iseminger and Sue Connelly, prince and princess; Gayle Morton, Linda Pursley, Jim Rowe, Mary Ellen Reeves, Glenn Tate and Susann Chalfa, attendants, will complete the royal court.

More than 300 trophies will be presented dancers who have passed examinations before nationally qualified judges to earn the awards.

General dancing to the music of Manny Harmon and his orchestra will begin at 9:30 p.m. and continue until 11:30. Mrs. John Babrowski is ball chairman. The public is invited.

"WE'LL DANCE LIKE THAT, when we grow up" seems to be the thought of fourth graders Randy Miller and Elizabeth Riggins as they watch Bob Woods and Terri Hofacker execute a tricky dance step. The teen-age "grownups" will reign as king and queen at the ninth annual Grand Medal Ball being staged Saturday in Municipal Auditorium by local invitational dance clubs.

Oswald Jacoby

Optimism Successful

Barbara Wren of Dallas, Tex., has helped with the typing of these articles for several years and I will let her tell the story of today's hand in her own words.

"My partner's two-diamond response to my opening no-trump was the Jacoby transfer bid, and I responded two hearts just as I was supposed to. When he jumped to four hearts, I knew that I should have passed but I did have an absolute maximum 17 high card points with three aces and a five-card suit and I decided to experiment with a slam contract.

"When I saw the dummy, I decided right then and there to give up experimenting, but I still had to struggle along with this effort. I remembered that Mr. Jacoby always says, 'Give the cards a chance and maybe they will come through for you.'

"I took the ace of diamonds and promptly led back the nine spot. West studied a while and covered with the ten. I ruffed in dummy, played three rounds of trumps and took care to win the third lead in my own hand.

* * * *

"THEN I proceeded to do some thinking and worrying. If I could establish two winners in diamonds, I could discard two of dummy's four losing spades. One was going to go on my long club. My problem was whether to lead a low diamond and trust that the queen would have to come up or to play the jack and hope to bump the eight out of the East hand.

"I remembered that West had thought a while before playing the 10 and decided to try the bump. I played my jack. West put on the queen and there was East's eight. Also I had my three spade discards and slam."

It's His Home, After All

DEAR ABBY: My complaint concerns the husband of my next door neighbor. He is an able-bodied, intelligen, recently retired man who seems content to spend his days snoozing on the sofa, reading, or watching TV. His wife is a good friend of mine. When I drop in to have a chat with her, we have a cozy threesome. Nice? Why can't a man understand that his wife needs a little privacy in her own home? Surely there must be something more challenging for a man to do than to sit and wait to be called to his meals three times a day! My husband is approaching retirement age, and if this is retirement—deliver me!—MRS. G.

ABBY

DEAR MRS. G.: The retired gentleman would probably be glad to "deliver" you—to your own home. You are invading HIS home, and he's earned the right to snooze or read or do whatever he pleases in it. If his wife objected to her lack of privacy, she would go to your house for the visits.

DEAR ABBY: I borrowed six eggs from a neighbor. Two of them were rotten. I returned four eggs to her and told her that two of the ones she gave me were no good. She said I borrowed six eggs, not four, and I still owe her two eggs. What do you think?—WAITING FOR ADVICE.

DEAR WAITING: Be a good egg and give her two more.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset I could bawl! My daughter just received a book for her 12th birthday from my sister, who is a 33-year-old school teacher and should have known better. This book is titled, "What is Happening to Me?" It is a facts-of-life-type book for boys and girls between the ages of 12 to 15. I planned to tell my daughter what I felt she should know when I thought she was ready for it. Now I don't know whether I should let her read this book or not. Don't you think my sister had a nerve sending my daughter a book like that without asking me first? What should I do about it?—UPSET.

DEAR UPSET: Simmer down and read the book. If you think your daughter should read it—let her. I have read the book and regard it highly. I am sure your sister meant well.

Mother Hears Alaska News

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

At 5:45 p.m. on Good Friday Mrs. Lee E. Hubbard parked her car outside the College Corner Drug Store in Anchorage while her daughter, Diana, went in to drop off some film.

At that moment the ground began to shake furiously.

"The cars danced, ground rippled, people in hysterics, wires whipping, poles almost broke—the stop sign flipped OVER the other wires . . ." Mrs. Hubbard wrote in a letter to her mother, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, 1074 Obispo Ave.

The letter was written on Tuesday following the disaster. The Hubbards still had no electricity, therefore no heat, but the water had just been turned on.

"Weather is 40 degrees and that's our life saver—oh me, the town is a mess—whole houses, lawns, trees and cars just dropped down in crevasses," Mrs. Hubbard continued.

* * * *

IN A SECOND letter dated March 30 Mrs. Hubbard wrote, "They may dynamite Penney's store and the 14 story L St. apartments today, they are so bad. Penney's main floor dropped clear out of sight. The most awful sights are the chasms with homes down in them."

"It is 8:45 a.m. now," she continued, "and we have had three sharp tremors this a.m." It was reported that by Sunday afternoon 44 follow-up tremors had been recorded since the quake.

"Every single room a mess and things damaged everywhere—but as usual the kitchen took the beating, we couldn't walk through it. Picked up about five BIG bags full of broken dishes. Sure emptied our shelves—then the usual corn-starch, sugar, pepper, pickle juice and a jar of honey spilled on everything."

* * * *

MRS. HUBBARD went on to describe the terrible loss of life and injuries to friends that had taken place during the quake . . . how one couple ran into the street and were swallowed up by a chasm while their home slided over a bluff.

She reports that clean-up and salvage is being hampered by extreme high tides, higher than ever since the quake.

Diversity in Exhibits at LBMA

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Three exhibits open today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., and will remain on display through April 26.

"Contemporary Painting," collected over the years by Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Los Angeles, is a survey of contemporary work, with emphasis on Los Angeles artists.

Designed to appeal to diverse tastes, the collection is not restricted to name artists. Among the works are Dong Kingman's "Williamsburg Bridge," Sam Amato's "Beverly Glen Park," Michio Takeyamo's "The Vine," Michael Frary's "Hurricane Warning," and Oskar Fischinger's "Outward Movement."

Friends of the Museum will host a public reception this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock.

THIRTEEN framed pictures have been added to the Long Beach Public Library's loan collection of color reproductions and original prints, swelling the total to more than 160. They circulate for one month and may be renewed for a second month. There is a small rental fee based on the size of the picture.

This cultural service is used by artists, students and persons who have a temporary need for color and art in the home. Others seeing dozens of pictures in a shop, are sometimes bewildered and find it hard to visualize any of them in the home setting. Trying first one and then another from the loan collection helps these people to make a satisfying selection when they do purchase a picture.

Pictures just received are: "Carnival Night" by Rousseau and "Road at Louveciennes" by Pissaro, both landscapes; "Water Lilies" (detail), by Monet; "Christ and the Fishermen" by Rouault; "Concert" by Raoul Dufy and "Still Life With Casserole" by Picasso, all abstractions.

Seascapes include "Fishing Harbor," Derain; "Ship in the Harbor of Le Havre," Braque; and "Breezing Up," Homer. Figure and portrait paintings are "Fatata Te Miti" (Bathers), Gauguin; "Pinkie," Lawrence; and "Singing Boys," Hals.

The library, a long time member of the Printmakers Society of California, has framed this year's gift print which goes with the membership. It is Thompson's original etching, "October in the Midwest."

GRACE DIMMICK has selected the following award winners in Long Beach Art Association's "Spring Exhibit," now on view at the gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.; best of show, "Spring Comes to Town," Julie Polousky, oil; second, "Broken Kite," Edna Padrick, collage; and third, "Rite of Spring," Joy Nye Elliot, collage. Bernice Ryan, Meleita Artin and Evelyn Cascelli won honorable mentions.

During Public Schools Week, April 20 through 24, LBAA will exhibit work of art students graduating from Long Beach high schools. Two students will be awarded art scholarships to Long Beach City College and California State College at Long Beach.

SOUTHERN California artist-craftsmen are represented in the current exhibition at the museum of contemporary crafts, New York City. They are Philip Barkdull, G. Robert Kinzie and John Scott, of Affiliated Craftsmen, Inc., in Costa Mesa; Martha Pollock, of Beverly Hills, Tom McMillin of El Segundo and David Cressey of Los Angeles.

'FOXY' FROM 'VOLPONE'

Tap, Ballet on Program

A program of diversified dancing will be presented by Dorothea's Dance Studio of Torrance on Monday at 8 p.m. in Municipal Auditorium sponsored by Long Beach Recreation Department.

A group of young dancers from three to 13 years will do tap and ballet numbers. Pamela Undertown will sing old favorite melodies and the evening's highlight will be the "Blue Danube Waltz" featuring the entire group.

Students' Concert Scheduled

A massed piano concert, in which more than 200 students will be presented, will take place next Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Long Beach City College Auditorium, Harvey Way and Clark Ave. It is open to the public.

Sponsored by the Lakewood Music Teachers Association, the young artists will be under the direction of Wayne G. Gard, head of the LBCC music department. Twenty to 25 pianos will be playing at one time.

Several of the music teachers will also play the "Kinder Concerto" by Haydn and "Jamaican Rhumba" by Benjamin.

* * * *

THIS IS the second concert given by this group, and it is hoped to continue concerts every two years.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Lakewood MTA member.

Opera Discussed by Music Council

Rachel Morton, Independent, Press-Telegram music critic, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate already functioning opera companies in Southern California.

* * * *

IN EARLIER discussion, the music council noted the growing interest in opera in Long Beach and considered these forms in which it might be provided:

A professional company, such as the San Francisco Opera, could be invited to perform here.

An individual could come in and try to develop support for a company made up of musicians from surrounding areas.

Established groups concerned with music theater, such as Civic Light Opera, Long Beach Opera Workshop, Long Beach City College and California State College at Long Beach, could develop broader programs.

A separate Long Beach Opera Company could be established, using local resources, including the Long Beach Symphony.

* * * *

LONG BEACH Symphony has produced two operas for children, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and "The Gift of Song." These were enthusiastically received but have proved too expensive for the symphony to provide as part of their free Youth Concert series.

Fred Black, chairman of Long Beach Arts Council, said that resources other than those already contributing to music and art in Long Beach must be found for the support of opera.

* * * *

THE COUNCIL agreed that American composers and singers should be encouraged through a Long Beach Opera Company, with special consideration being given to local composers of merit.

Ronald Patterson

Soloist to Receive Award at Concert

Ronald Patterson, 19, will receive the Furjanick Memorial Award this evening when he appears as violin soloist with Long Beach Symphony Orchestra. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Long Beach City College Auditorium under the direction of Lauris Jones.

Patterson won the award in the recent annual Symphony Competition for Young Artists. He began his musical training at the age of 5 and has studied with Peter Meremblum, Manuel Compinsky and Eudice Shipiro. For several summers he attended Arrowbear Music Camp, directed by Fred Ohlendorf of Long Beach Unified School District.

Scholarships to the Music Academy of the West, the Aspen, Colo., Music School and the University of Southern California have given him opportunities for fine musical training.

* * * *

TONIGHT he will perform Tchaikovsky's "Violin Concerto in D Flat."

Other works on the program will be Haydn's "Symphony No. 104," Barber's "Adagio for Strings," and Brahm's "Academic Festival Overture."

Long Beach Symphonettes will honor Patterson at a reception immediately following the concert. The public is invited.

Concert tickets will be available at the box office after 7 p.m.

WANT TO PARTICIPATE?

Fine Arts Affiliates Is Forming

By BETTY WENTWORTH

"Our state college? I've always intended to run out and look it over. Frankly, where is it exactly?"

"I suppose when the children are older we'll be checking the facilities out at State —I understand it's grown quite a bit in the past few years."

"I've been seriously thinking of going back to school to get my degree. I majored in art, you know. Do you know anything about the teachers at State?"

These are actual questions posed by Long Beachers. Many of the people with whom California State College at Long Beach was discussed were startled to learn that the college is 15 years old, having opened in 1949. And they have honestly meant to go out and "look around." (In regard to the query the college is located at 6101 E. Seventh St., east of Bellflower Blvd.)

Comment Number Two is a masterpiece of understatement, since the "growing quite a bit" adds up to 15,000 students at the last roll call. Comment Three seems to be from a citizen just on the verge of making a profound decision. She'll probably actually go out to the campus.

THUS, BECAUSE our State College at Long Beach has truly become an institution of a size and scope to merit the local citizenry's keen pride and warm interest, a small group of women formed an embryo organization last spring with a two-fold purpose in mind.

First, they felt the public should be made aware of its college. An interested community would and should lend support to the college and its campus cultural program which produces a constant flow of excellent art exhibits, dramatic and musical productions, as well as a variety of instrumental and vocal groups ranging from solo recitals to symphonic and band performances.

Secondly, they felt that the art, drama and music departments should have tangible evidence of support, in the form of audiences and as sponsors of events. When the public is drawn to a campus, a meshing of interests valuable to both, is certain to occur.

* * * *

THE GROUP of women, augmented by heads of the Fine Arts Division at State, is now incorporated under the non-profit laws of the state and is operating under a temporary board. Mrs. Clifford Millspaugh is serving as chairman, pro tem.

Invitations have been sent for a garden party for prospective charter members this afternoon from 3 to 6 in the home and gardens of Mrs. Franklin Waters, 1485 La Perla Ave. Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, college president, Mrs. McIntosh, and faculty members of the Fine Arts Division will be on hand to meet the guests.

The college symphonic band will provide background and incidental music during the gathering. Works of art by students will be displayed, and actors and actresses from forthcoming CSCLB productions will appear in costume.

It is hoped that the organization will be an effective aid to both the public and college. The public is warmly invited and encouraged to join the Fine Arts Affiliates. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Millspaugh, 4040 Pine Ave.

Concerts Scheduled by Choir

Two concerts by the A Cappella Choir of California State College at Long Beach will be presented on April 8 at 8:30 p.m. at Lakewood Presbyterian Church 3955 Studebaker Road, and on April 12 at 6 p.m. at First Baptist Church, Firestone at California Ave., South Gate. There is no admission charge and the public is welcome.

On the program is a selection "Cry Out and Shout" by Frank Pooler, director of the choir. Other works will be "Missa Brevis," Gabrieli; three motets of Distler; "Valse," Ernest Toch; "Thy Years Will Never End," Bruckner; "An Ascription of Praise," Sateren; and eight waltzes, four by Brahms and four by Pfautsch.

The choir is sponsored by the department of music of the college division of fine arts.

Red Balloon Ends Series

Alamitos Branch Library, 1836 E. Third St., will conclude its series of Family Night programs Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. with "The Red Balloon," a color film that has a vast array of awards to its credit. Children and adults, too, love the fantasy of a French boy's unusual pet, a balloon as faithful and alive to him as a puppy. Action takes place on the streets of Menilmontant and Montmartre in Paris.

The second film is "Olympic Elk," story of the Olympic elks' annual trek to and from their summer grazing grounds.

Admission to the film showing is free.

How Opera Is Put Together

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Judging from the keen and lively letters I have received since writing an article on opera in Long Beach, I would say that there is real enthusiasm among our music lovers over the idea. Of course, "wanting" something and "accomplishing" something are two different things. But when a desire is strong enough, it usually becomes a reality: "Where there is a will, there is a way."

Because of a very fine performance of "La Boheme" which I recently heard given by the Pasadena Opera Company in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, I invited the founder and musical director, Allen Jensen, to come and talk to me about how opera is put together.

Born in Provo, Utah, Jensen at the age of 16 was the student conductor of the Provo High School orchestra, winning an AAA rating in a conducting contest. He was a scholarship student at Brigham Young University and later a scholarship student at the Eastman School of Music where he studied flute, violin and brass instruments and graduated with a bachelor of music degree.

Major and Minor Notes

HE BECAME flutist with the Rochester, N. Y., Philharmonic Orchestra and later with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. His orchestral experience began with the Provo Symphony which he founded and conducted with paid musicians and top soloists for five years. So well did he build this orchestra that it was invited by Toscanini to perform on the nationwide NBC "Orchestras of the Nation" series.

The famous Japanese Fujiwara Opera Company made three tours of the United States and Canada under Jensen's direction and he conducted a performance of this opera company over one of the Ed Sullivan shows.

* * * *

OPERA IS now his chief interest and he has conducted most successful performances of "Rigoletto," "Madame Butterfly," "Carmen" and "La Boheme," all sponsored by the Guild of Musical Arts of Pasadena. Equally successful have been his opera series in Santa Barbara to sold-out houses and he has been invited to add "La Traviata" and "Carmen" there next season.

Saturday, Allen Jensen will conduct a performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium with the famous Metropolitan baritone Igor Gorin singing the title role. "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini will be given May 5, 7 and 9 under Jensen's direction at Melodyland Theater featuring Licia Albanese, Brian Sullivan, Mildred Miller and Walter Cassell, all Metropolitan stars.

* * * *

"HOW DO WE go about getting grand opera in Long Beach?" I asked.

"Very easy," replied the affable Jensen. "Reserve a good auditorium, get an active committee working to raise funds. The approximate cost for one production of grand opera is $12,000. Get 12 people to donate $1,000, or 24 people to donate $500. Set the price of tickets at $8.00 top, and $2.50 lowest."

He continued: "There must be money to clear at the start — to cover publicity (which amounted to $2,000 in Pasadena), hall rental in advance, and operating expenses. Plan for a membership campaign in which sums from $10 to $1,000 entitle the donor to have his name in the program and membership privileges."

* * * *

I WAS interested to learn that the ticket sale in Pasadena paid 80 per cent of the cost of production and that the only expense not covered was $2,000 for advertising.

Allen Jensen not only knows his conducting metier; he knows how to select the best opera singers available within his price range, and how to assemble an orchestra. An affable, knowledgeable man in the prime of life, Allen Jensen will do much for the cause of grand opera in Southern California.

Leading Printmakers in Exhibit at CSLB

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

California State College at Long Beach, 6101 E. Seventh Street, is holding its first National Invitational Print Exhibition in the Art Gallery. Due to the significance of this exhibit, which continues through May 3, the gallery will be open Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays in addition to weekday hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Thirty-three of the nation's leading printmakers were invited to enter by Dick Swift, head of printmaking at the college; he has collaborated with gallery director, William Hill, in this exhibit. The 61 prints which are for sale in the show thus come with high recommendation.

* * * *

PRINTMAKING took a new lease on life in this country after World War II. Many of the works in this show are done with a high degree of finesse in traditional methods, but most result from marked departures and limitless experimentation. The only generalization to be made about the show as a whole is this: There is much color — from almost neutral harmonies to slap-bang primaries.

Will Barnett of New York's two entries have an oriental flavor in the flat color of their calligraphic forms. Two works, "Some Figures—" by John Coleman of Los Angeles use three-dimensional space to realize a fullness of form.

* * * *

ONE OF THE most startling works is a triptych, "The Search", by David Driesbach of Athens, Ohio. The three panels in color intaglio are involved, expressionistic, and reflect a strong influence of post-World War I "Neue Sachlichkeit," or "new realism."

The most arresting works are, undoubtedly, the two by Ben Sakoguchi, "Leslie Is Not a Boy," and "The New Bride Dreaming of Her Wedding." Each creates and explores an entire universe of the subconscious.

* * * *

Stevens Honored

Professor Halsey Stevens, chairman of the composition department in the USC School of Music, has received a Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship for musical composition. He intends to spend the academic year 1964-'65 abroad writing several large works.

Chef of the Week

James W. Foasberg

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

He abhors paper napkins! But why shouldn't he—he's in the laundry business.

In fact, James W. Foasberg's family (he's today's Chef of the Week), has been in that business since 1880. It is said to be the oldest laundry plant in the Western United States. Our "Chef" is the third generation.

Born in Huron, S. D., his family moved to Minneapolis, Minn., when he was eight years old. There he remained to complete his education before joining his Dad in business.

IT WAS THERE, also, that he met, and courted his bride, Eleanor. They have two sons, Jim, 21, married and a senior at California State College, Long Beach, and Rick, 17, a senior at St. Anthony's High School. Upon graduation, Jim will be the fourth generation of Foasberg "laundrymen."

He'll find things changed, too, even since his Dad setup his first washing machine in Long Beach in 1937. Just as the collar has now joined the shirt, the hand laundry machine has been replaced by one of automation. The Foasbergs have four locations in Long Beach and Lakewood, which includes dry cleaning facilities and one self-service laundromat.

A MEMBER of the California Laundry and Linen Supply, he served as its president two years ago. He is currently president of the American Institute of Laundrys and a member of its executive committee.

Foasberg also belongs to the Uptown Kiwanis Club, and holds the title of vice prexy.

For relaxation, the Foasbergs, as a family, take-to-the-water. Either their own pool or aboard their 32-foot Chris Craft.

Oh, yes, he enjoys cooking, too, but usually confines himself to the rotisserie. Today he's "doing" a turkey.

TURKEY ON THE ROTISSERIE

One 12 lb. turkey—NOT to be stuffed.

Rub cavity with 1 tablespoon salt, and place a few sprigs of celery tips and parsley tops loosely inside.

Place on spit—truss cavity, making sure the wings and drum sticks are tied securely.

Do not salt outside, as it makes turkey too crisp and may crack; but paint outside generously with the following baste:

6 tblsp. soy sauce
1 tsp. salt
½ cube butter
Pinch of sage, marjoram or basil.

Pour ½ cup white wine key with drippings and wine in gravy pan, and baste turas required to keep skin moist. Add a little water to drippings to keep bottom of pan just covered.

For the first time a team of young adults will compete against experienced adult drivers in this gruelling coast-to-coast test of skill and concentration. Can they hope to win? Why did Chevrolet decide to let them try? You may find the answers interesting and very refreshing!

This year, for the first time in the history of the Mobil Economy Run, teen-agers are being given the chance to compete as a team against experienced adult drivers.

The nine Chevrolet entries will be piloted and navigated from Los Angeles to New York, April 3 to 9, by teams of young persons from all parts of the country.

Chevrolet is giving them this opportunity for one reason: to demonstrate dramatically to other young people that it takes much more skill to drive a car economically than it does to drive it fast. Anyone can stomp and steer, but it takes skill, intelligence and patience to be a good economy driver in national competition.

We believe this may be a good way of arousing the interest of teen-agers everywhere in safer and saner driving habits.

Who are these youngsters who will drive for Chevrolet?

Well, one thing they have in common is that all are members of Junior Achievement. They were selected from hundreds of applicants for this challenging test.

For about the past month a technical training staff has endeavored to teach the Chevy Teen Team something about automobiles, engines, fuel principles and how to drive for maximum economy.

Whether they can make a good showing competing against experts remains to be seen. If effort and enthusiasm can overcome inexperience, they will, we are sure.

More important, we think, are some of the reasons they gave for wanting to compete. Here are their own words:

"It's a fabulous opportunity to learn more about automobiles, safe driving, our country and its people."

"I think I'm a typical teen-ager. I'd like to demonstrate my alertness and capability as a driver."

"To meet new people because I like people."

"It's quite a challenge to prove that we teen-agers can drive safely and sensibly."

"To help raise the image of teen-age drivers. Maybe my experience will influence other teen-agers to drive more safely."

"I am confident that I can fulfill the job entrusted to me by Chevrolet and gain more respect for teen-agers through good example."

Good luck, kids. See you in New York, April 9. Drive carefully.

OUR COVER

Albie Pearson feels a debt of thanks to the Los Angeles Angels baseball club and to Bill Rigney, the manager, for having brought him far along the road of professional and financial success. As he looks forward to a big year with the Angels, he hopes for the kind of individual success that will be some repayment for the club's investment in him. He wielded a big bat for the Angels last season but would be willing to drop many points in his personal average to see the team wind up high in the first division. Pearson thinks there will be a lot more respect for Los Angeles in the American League after the tumult of the 1964 season clears away. For more about Mr. Big of the Angels, turn to Page 8.

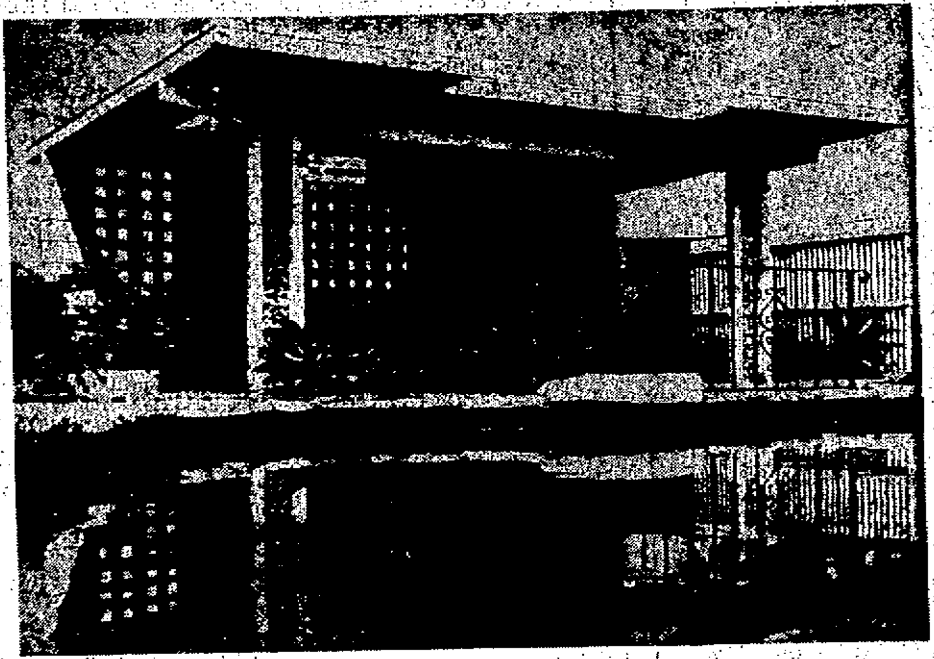
MASTER POOLS



GOOD NEWS FOR POOL BUYERS

Starting our 18th year, this addition of pools is just one more step in the creation of a one-stop shopping center for homeowners. Now for the first time you can have your pool, patio, fencing, decking, etc. all supervised by one contractor who is an expert in the field. Ask anyone who has experienced the task of pool buying, and you'll find out what a wonderful convenience it is to deal with only one contractor. No more calling sub-contractors to finish the iobs you thought were complete.

No more calling a pool man, then a patio company, a decking company or a fence man. Just one call to one reliable concern does it all.

MONTH-LONG OPEN HOUSE STARTS TODAY!

To celebrate our 18th Anniversary and our entry into the pool business, we will hold open house throughout the entire month of April. We will be open 7 days a week until 9 P.M. Why not take this opportunity to visit the largest outdoor living display in the Southland. More than an acre of land is devoted to showing the latest in pools, patios, patio covers, fences, block walls, fireplaces, barbecues and other improvements to give your home that distinguished "Southern California look" so envied in other parts of the country.

We have a staff of consultants on hand to answer your questions on outdoor living or remodeling. They'll show you how a new world of pleasure awaits the homeowner whose home improvements are planned by the professional craftsmen of Sunset Designers and Builders.

VISIT OUR DISPLAY SOON AND REGISTER
IT MAY BE WORTH AS MUCH AS $50 TO YOU
Ask for details when visiting

WHY A MASTER POOL?

Building a pool is a big investment. Naturally, you want to protect that investment by choosing wisely . . . your pool and your builder. When you choose Sunset to build your pool, you are selecting a builder who has a reputation for quality construction at fair prices, a builder who will be here tomorrow to service your needs, a builder who has met the extremely high qualifications necessary to become a builder of Master Pools.

When you choose Master Pools you select a quality pool built to rigid standards of excellence. A pool that reflects your good judgment in the years ahead. Price? Naturally that depends to a great extent on the type of pool you want. Our budget pool starts at $1695 in most areas.

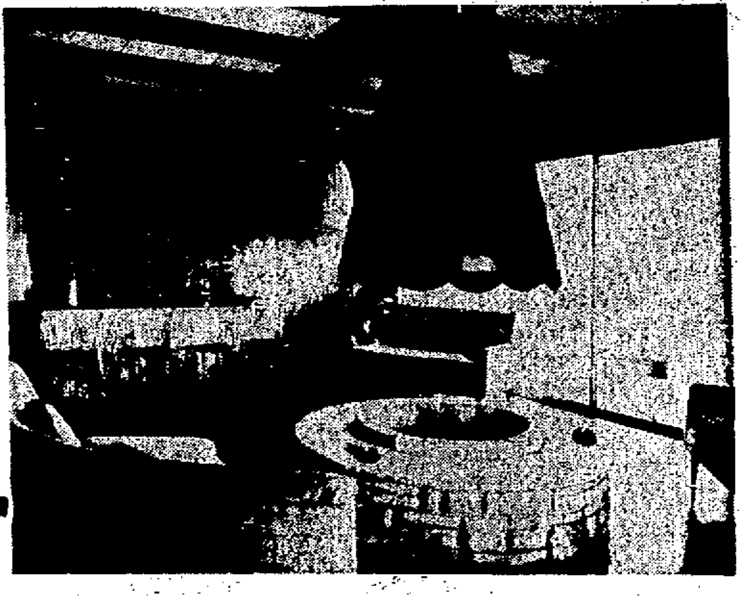
FOR 18 YEARS SUNSET HAS BEEN SATISFYING SOUTHLAND HOMEOWNERS

Expansion of Sunset Designers and Builders into the pool business is a natural one. For 18 years we have enriched and beautified homes by adding rooms, building patios, installing fencing or block walls, landscaping and interior modernizing.

Now, with the addition of pool construction, we can offer the homeowner the convenience of having one builder perform all the functions needed.

NEW FINANCING AVAILABLE

Sunset has arranged new financing through a 7-year bank loan to cover up to $10,000 in home improvements at the low rate of 5% to qualified clients. Under a single contract, the homeowner can build a pool, patio, decking or what have you, now that Sunset can offer a complete outdoor living package.



This is a family room that suited the needs of a particular family. It was built by Sunset to their satisfaction. Perhaps your needs may be different, but one thing remains the same . . . Sunset can do the job the way you want it!

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the genealogy on TIDYMAN.—B. T., Long Beach.

B. T.: TIDYMAN originated with the 13th century English words "Tidi-mann" meaning "prompt and ready follower," referring to the aid to a knight-at-arms. The Tidyman shield, granted to the Tiddeman branch of this family, has a background divided into six equal sections emerging from the center, tinted alternating silver and red. On each section is a ring, colored red on the silver sections, silver on the red sections.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze QUATRONE.—J. J., Garden Grove.

J.J.: QUATRONE is from the Italian word "quattro" meaning "four." Quattro-one, the actual source syllables, are for "large fourth child of fourth son."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please help with genealogy on CASPER.—A. C., Long Beach.

A. C.: CASPER is a variation spelling of the German and Dutch surname Kaspar. This was the title of one of the Three Wise Men or Kings of the Magi who traveled from Persia to present gifts to the Infant Jesus. These three Wise Men, Kaspar, Melchior and Baltasar died in the Holy Land and legends say that their bodies were taken to Europe and buried in the cathedral of Cologne, Germany. Kaspar's name indicated his traditional Biblical role, for it meant "treasure-master."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on GRACE.—R. G., Huntington Beach.

R. G.: GRACE, both English and Irish, is from the old French term "Le Gras" meaning "stout one." The English Grace ancestor was Raymond FitzWalter Le Gras, a 12th century nobleman of Norman-French ancestry. He accompanied English armies in the subjugation of Ireland and was later awarded a large estate, Courtstown, in Wexford, Ireland. This family also owned Grace Castle in Kilkenny, Ireland. Their shield is red, emblazoned with a rampant lion on a gold and silver stripe across the center.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE CORDOVA? —N. D., Lakewood.

N. D.: DE CORDOVA, a celebrated Spanish name, was first used by a man from the ancient city of Cordoba. This place was termed "Corduba" by the Romans, an obscure word believed to mean "place of the cattle hides." Cordoba was the 7th and 8th century capital of the Moorish caliphate which ruled most of Spain. The Cordoba shield has three vertical red stripes emblazoned on a gold background. Francisco de Cordoba, Spanish explorer who died in

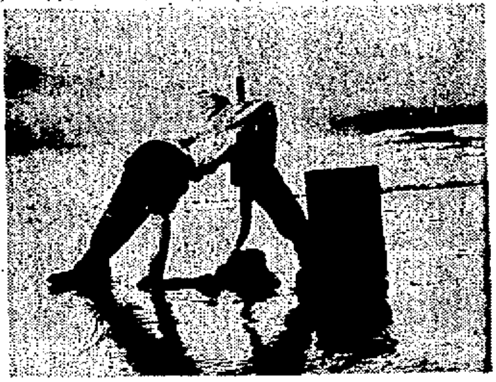
Clamming Is Family Fun



Clam digging—and eating, too—can be a fun event to be enjoyed by the entire family, the kids especially getting a kick out of the excursion. Equipment is simple, apparel rough and ready. Observe seasons, limits and get a license.

By Bob and Jan Young

WHEN DRIVING along California's lovely coasts, if you see men, women, sometimes whole families wildly stamping on the sands at low tide, don't consider them entirely bereft of their senses.

You might say they are doing the surfers' stomp, or perhaps the Triton twist. But no matter the name, they are all clamming. For digging that Gaper or Pismo clam is a family affair. And a good deal of fun.

While the season in the Long Beach area is open year around for Gaper clams and from Sept. 1 to April 30 for Pismo clams (½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour after sunset), you must have a valid fishing license. The best time to search is when the so-called minus tides occur (those that recede farther than the usual low tides). Tidal tables appear in every daily newspaper and tidal charts for the entire year are available in sporting goods stores, where licenses and information may also be obtained.

MOST OF THE smooth, sandy beaches along the Southern California coastline have Gaper clams hidden beneath a few inches of sand, but Alamitos, Newport and Cabrillo Beaches are especially productive. Long considered an exclusive delicacy of the northern coastline, the Pismo clam has been successfully seeded on our southern shores and yearly becomes more numerous. But observe that 4½-inch minimum size when taking Pismos. (From the San Luis Obispo-Monterey Counties' line north, the limit is 5 inches.) There is no size limit on Gapers but for both varieties there is a bag limit of 10 to a fisherman in local waters.

About all the equipment needed is a spading fork or shovel, a gunny sack and some old clothes that you are willing to have soaked. Then for the fun.

CLAMMERS in the area can point out the best spots but lacking that vital information, walk along the beach at the surf's edge stamping the sand, or hitting it with your shovel or fork. If all goes well the clam will react by squirting a small stream of water up through the sand like a whale's spout to pin-point his location. Then you begin digging like Triton himself was after you. The clam changes positions and the incoming surf quickly slaps a foamy hand over the geyser hole.

Sometimes while you're not watching, the ocean belches up a belly-washing wave that will drench or even roll you a bit in the sand and surf.

With these bivalves available locally, clamming is a family affair and a sport which everyone will enjoy, especially when the rewards of your fun are served up as a meal at the end of a healthful day out of doors.

When you have all dug your limits and have donned your spare dry clothes, next comes the preparation.

SPEAKING OF Pismos as an example, use a short, stiff-bladed knife to pry open the shell, inserting the knife about one inch from the hinge. Trim away excess, then split clam down the middle and thoroughly clean, after removing any mushy flesh. The clams can then be batter-fried, made into chowder or even baked. Unless you are an expert don't steam them. After 10 minutes of such cooking, the once luscious clam may be a candidate for a shoe's half sole and that will be about all.

The delights of wading through the refreshing surf while clamming are unforgettable and the eating can be equally memorable.

While the sport may not be the most dignified in the world, it is exciting and fun for the entire family.

Albie Pearson ended last season with a .304 batting average. The 5-foot, five-inch, 140-pounder Mr. Big of the Angels foresees a better year ahead.

At 28, Albie Pearson has reached maturity as a man and player

Mr. Big of the Angels

By Ross Newhan

PALM SPRINGS—It was December 1960 and Albie Pearson was discouraged as he drove home from a round of golf. He had not played well that day, for he found it difficult to divorce his thoughts from his future in baseball.

The American League Rookie of the Year only two seasons before, Albie had been on a downhill toboggan. As he drove, his mind geared itself to baseball.

The picture he conjured was in dull black and white. It found him a member of the Miami Marlins with a future that stretched barely beyond the Fountainbleu. His confidence was ruptured and while Paul Richards (then general manager of the Baltimore Orioles) had promised to recall Pearson soon after spring training began, Albie realized that words are the cheapest commodity in baseball.

As Pearson turned into the driveway of his Riverside home he was greeted by wife, Helen. Her beautiful eyes were streaked with tears but there was a smile on her lips.

"Honey, honey, you've been traded," she laughed. "Let's celebrate."

"I HADN'T actually been traded," recalls Pearson with a grin. "I had been drafted by the newly formed Los Angeles Angels, and boy, did we celebrate. First, Helen unpacked the station wagon which she had used to follow me around the country for eight years and then we drank enough ginger ale to float a battleship."

Thus began Albie Pearson's career with the Los Angeles Angels—to whom he had sent the following telegram a few days before the draft session.

> Dear Mr. Haney:
> My name is Albie Pearson. I am with the Baltimore organization. I am not highly thought of by this organization. I can be had for peanuts. I think I can be of help to your club both on and off the field.
> —ALBIE PEARSON.

On April 13, Albie Pearson will lead the Angels on the field at Washington, D. C., not only as the American League's All-Star centerfielder, but as a prophet as well. Embarking on their fourth year, the Angels' remarkable progress both on and off the field would indeed have been slower had it not been for Pearson.

"I owe a great deal to expension," admitted the 5-5, 140-pound Mr. Big of the Angels. "I cannot say that I would not have been a success with another club, but it would have been strictly as a player. What the Angels have meant to me as a man, and financially, cannot be measured."

He lives in a $75,000 house bordering a fairway of the Jurupa Hills Country Club in Riverside. He is a director of the Albie Pearson Co., Builders, Developers. As such he has supervised the construction of two homes and has two apartment houses on the fire. He owns one-third of the Mighty Mite Corp., which unsuccessfully attempted to sell a new-type golf glove and is now manufacturing hardware and scuba equipment. He collects rent on a Riverside office building which currently leases to seven tenants with room for three more. He is being paid $33,000 by the Angels.

"Baseball, and I mean the Angels, has made it possible for me to do things which would not be possible for a man in another business," said Pearson while relaxing between practice sessions in Palm Springs. "That's why I'll never kill the goose that laid the golden egg. Baseball is my life and when the financial side of Albie Pearson starts to interfere with the baseball side, then the businesses go.

"Unfortunately, the world judges success by financial standards. It's a shame. Some of my best friends are very poor. I think integrity would be a better criteria.

"My father convinced me early that the more successful you become the more humility you must carry in your pocket. If I achieve success it will be with holes in my shoes."

THE SUCCESS which Pearson has already achieved has been rapid.

"When I speak of a player," said Angels manager Bill Rigney, "I speak of a Willie Mays or a Tommy Davis or a Jim Gilliam. In his three years with the Angels, Albie Pearson has become a player."

"Without Mr. Haney and Mr. Rigney I might still have been in baseball, but I certainly wouldn't be on the verge of becoming a high-salaried player confident of the job he can do," said Pearson.

"As a psychologist Rigney is a genius. I was coming apart as a player when I joined the Angels. Rig would pat me on the back, show me how it was to be done and tell me I had the ability to do it.

"He never embarrasses me, and he has the uncanny knack of keeping me going when I'm tired. He deserves success the way he works so hard. To put it in parenthesis, he's just smart. Period."

Albert Gregory Pearson chased the American League batting championship into September last year only to have the long, hot summer finally take its effect on his demitasse of a frame. His final average of .304 was fourth best in the American League. It was his first .300 season in the big leagues.

"I always felt I could hit .300 up here," said Pearson. "Now I'd like to do it again just to prove to some critics it wasn't a fluke. I feel I have room for a 30-point improvement."

PEARSON'S maturity as a player parallels his maturity as a man.

"Five years ago I was only interested in Albie Pearson. But players learn quickly that while baseball is a game of individuals it cannot be won as individuals. Last season I hit .304 and we finished ninth. I'd gladly bat .261 like I did in 1962 if we could finish third again.

"I honestly feel we're a first-division club. This is the first year we've had some youth and depth going for us. Potentially, we have the strongest pitching staff in the league. And this year we have some speed for Dodger Stadium. We've been like quarter horses running the mile in that park."

Now 28, Pearson is on the verge of a ballplayer's most fertile years. When it's all over, he will turn to golf, either as a pro or course owner.

The sand-trapped future which Albie Pearson envisioned in 1960 has certainly become a lush green fairway.

Going through spring training in Palm Springs, Pearson is optimistic in view of Angels' '64 season. "I feel we're a first-division club," he says

Now a State Park

Will Rogers Lived Here

Will Rogers' home, now a state park, is maintained as a memorial to the famous humorist who died in a plane crash in Alaska in 1935. Many things in Rogers' active career have endeared him to the American public.

By Bob Schmidt

"I never met a man I didn't like."

WILL ROGERS said that. He said and wrote a great many other things, too, back in the twenties and thirties, and almost all of the things he said and wrote were considered wonderful examples of wit and wisdom by the millions of peope who held him in affection.

Times change, though, and the people who remember the hold the Cowboy Philosopher had on the American public are fewer each year.

Paul W. Minton, assistant supervisor of Will Rogers State Park in Santa Monica, almost daily runs into a problem which makes him shake his head.

"Folks come here to see where Will Rogers lived," he says, "and frequently they bring their grandchildren.

The 186-acre park, operated by the state since 1944, is one of the lovelier, quieter attractions in the Los Angeles area. It is the location of Will Rogers' home, the one where he, his wife, and their three children were living when Rogers was killed in an Alaskan plane crash in 1935.

"I don't make jokes, I just watch the government and report the facts."

Rogers had many stellar movie credits, among them and one of his most popular was "David Harum," in which characterization he is recalled by photo above.

The house itself is the main attraction, but people also like to visit the nine-acre polo field, the stables, and the spots where Will's two famous horses, Bootlegger and Soapsuds, are buried.

"Nothing has been changed since Mrs. Rogers deeded the home to the State of California in 1944," Minton says, "except that the trees are bigger."

The grounds and the ranch buildings are maintained as they were when the Rogers family lived there. The living room, revealing Will's personality, speaks eloquently of the man who relaxed in it.

The furniture is simple, the floors are covered with Indian rugs, the knickknacks are the kind of things you'd expect a cowboy to have.

Will Rogers was a cowboy. He was proud of that, proud of his ability to ride and to rope. And he was proud of the fact that he had a good deal of Cherokee blood in his veins.

"My folks weren't among those that came over on the Mayflower, but they met the boat when it landed."

About 120,000 people visited Will Rogers State Park in 1963. Actually, many more than that came to the grounds but that number paid 25 cents each to go inside the Rogers house. They got to see the downstairs portion of the splendid, 18-room mansion, the patio where Will did his barbecuing, the children's bedrooms, and the den where Will did his writing.

Picnic baskets are not permitted, but there are huge expanses of grass on which youngsters can romp and on which oldsters can sit down, breathe in the relatively smog-free air, look at the ocean, and relax.

"The United States has never lost a war. Or won a conference."

The state's Division of Beaches and Parks budgeted $85,000 for the park's upkeep in 1963. There are 11 permanent employes under the direction of park supervisor Wendell K. Davis.

There are no rides, no hot dog stands, no vendors hawking balloons, just peace, or tranquility, or serenity, or whatever word you apply to a home where a family lived happily together.

The park is an easy, 45-minute drive from Long Beach. Just take the San Diego Freeway to Santa Monica. Turn off at Sunset Boulevard and head for the ocean. After about 10 or 15 minutes you'll come to a large sign indicating a right turn into the park.

If you visit on Sunday, chances are you'll see the polo field in use. A polo club meets and plays there almost every Sunday, just as Will used to do.

Fewer people go there nowadays than used to go, which is too bad. The wit and wisdom of Will Rogers are genuine Americana. They should be cherished, and the memory of the man who said them should be cherished, too.

"The more you read about politics, you got to admit that each party is worse than the other."

"(Income tax) has made more liars out of the American people than golf."

"There's one thing no nation can accuse us of—that is secret diplomacy. Our foreign dealings are an open book—a checkbook."

WILL ROGERS

Humorist at Work

WILL ROGERS was born Nov. 4, 1879, in the Oklahoma Indian territory near what is now the town of Claremore.

He was always more interested in fun than work, particularly the fun of twirling a rope. He stumbled onto the happy fact that people would pay money to see rope tricks, and left his father's ranch at an early age to travel around the world with "wild west" shows.

Eventually he arrived in New York, and while performing there he stumbled onto another oddity. People had begun laughing at the "asides" he was making while doing his rope tricks.

Eventually, the "asides" became more of an attraction in his act than his tricks. An avaricious reader of newspapers, he took to commenting on the news of the day, and his star rocketed.

He became a Ziegfeld star, a movie star, a lecturer, a newspaper columnist, an author, an after-dinner speaker. He was the most famed and beloved American humorist since Mark Twain.

He bought property in the Pacific Palisades above Santa Monica in 1922, adding to it and building on it until 1928, when he and his family moved there.

In 1935, he was killed in an air crash. His wife died in 1944. The eldest son, Will Jr., was once an actor and a Congressman and is now in business. The second son, James, has a ranch near Bakersfield. The daughter, Mary, lives in the American colony in Tangiers.

She Talks to Horses for Living

By Jerome Hall

IF SHE DIDN'T carry a whip and wear boots she'd be just like most any other pert young career girl, except that she bakes gingerbread for a hobby and talks to horses for a living.

This week Collette again becomes a resident of Long Beach and a businesswoman in Los Alamitos, where she'll teach some of the fastest horses in the world how to run a little faster.

THOUGH Collette is not the only woman in the business of training race horses, there are few men or women who have risen so far so fast. Matched against men who have been in the trade since long before Go Man Go went and even before the Los Alamitos Race Course had electricity, Miss Mask has ranked among the top 10 trainers often at recent meetings and not long ago finished in third place.

She trains both quarter horses — the speedy little things that run only about 500 yards — and thoroughbreds. She prefers quarter horses because "They're more like people. These quarter horses are just like buddies. And you don't have to worry about them as much as thoroughbreds. You can get to understand a quarter horse. I don't think anyone ever understands thoroughbreds."

Collette's best pal is Joe Sherry, a quarter horse with a bright future. Last autumn at Los Alamitos Joe Sherry equalled the best clocking in the nation for a two-year-old, 17.7 seconds for 350 yards, which was just one-tenth of a second off the world record.

"THE FUNNY thing about Joe Sherry," says Collette, "is he's a swayback. A swayback is not supposed to be a runner. But I think Joe just made up his mind to be fast, sort of like any good athlete with an infirmity."

When Joe was just a little fella he must have gotten the horse laugh because of his swayback. But since winning a few races, "he's become awfully cocky."

Collette says it's no more difficult for a young woman to be a race horse trainer than a young man and she can't explain why there are so few. In fact, it might be easier for a girl. She learned long ago that if she had any questions or needed any help, all she had to do was call out and the volunteers came running out of barns from all directions.

Asking questions and calling out for help is the only way to become a trainer, whether boy or girl. "It's a step by step, day by day, proposition," says she. It is a 5 a.m.-to-late-afternoon task.

COLLETTE'S apprenticeship began at age 4 when she took her first solo ride. Her father, mother and her sister all have been racing trainers before her.

She has a dozen horses in her stable for the Los Alamitos spring meeting which opens Thursday. Only two are her own. She admits it takes much confidence for the owner of a multi-thousand dollar horse to entrust it to a snip of a lass of 22.

But Collette believes she has an advantage over the men in the business. She uses motherly instincts and woman's intuition. "Horses have different personalities; they're just like children. Sometimes you have to go some to keep ahead of them."

Collette Mask has a head start.

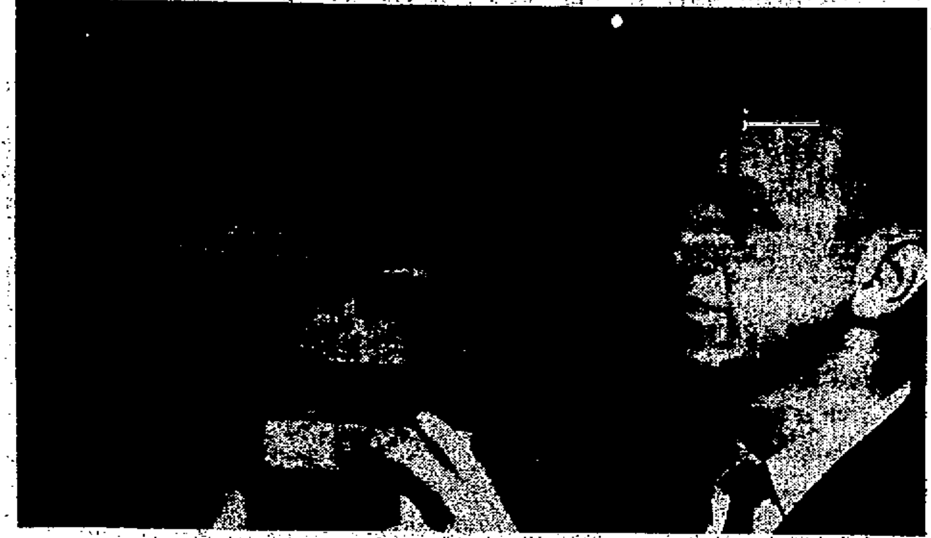
The Wheel Takes a New Turn

By Lou Jobst



Almost frictionless wheel—the slightest touch will set it spinning for hours—is demonstrated by Dr. Hans Bichsel who developed device while doing proton research.

Although the wheel has been one of the base building blocks of human civilization and technology, it has been the victim of troublesome and frustrating friction, drag and inertia.

The Bichsel wheel—discovered by chance while doing proton research—is a stainless steel air-support pulley which has 100 times less friction than conventional wheels.

INSTEAD of mounting his pulley shaft on bearings of wood, steel or sapphire, on which most axles rotate, the USC professor "floats" his wheel on compressed air.

The shaft of Dr. Bichsel's pulley rests in two small cylinders perforated with tiny holes. When air is forced through the holes, the wheel "floats."

Friction is so slight that the lightest touch will set the wheel spinning by itself for hours.

Dr. Bichsel hit upon the idea while doing research to measure the speed of electrified atomic particles in simulated orbit.

"A rough guess is that protons from USC's linear accelerator move with a speed of 46,000 miles per second, or one-fourth the speed of light—they could fly around the world twice per second," says Dr. Bichsel.

"ASTRONAUTS take 10,000 times longer for the same feat."

To measure these incredible speeds, the USC physics professor found conventional laboratory equipment not precise enough for his purposes.

"A huge electromagnet acquired by our nuclear physics laboratory had to be calibrated for this speed measurement and I invented the air-supported pulley to help in these very sensitive measurements," he explains.

The pulley can also be used to measure the acceleration of gravity on as small and light an object as a postage stamp.

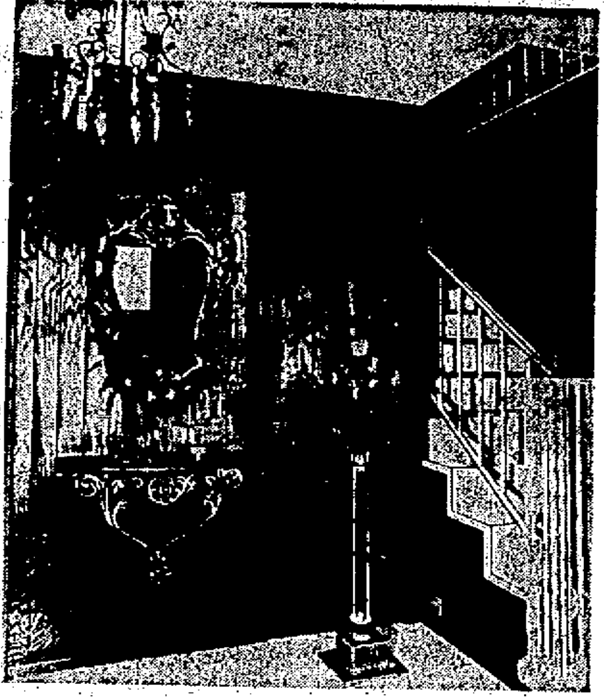
SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Delight, and More,



Unique treatment was given the entrance hall in the home of the Alex Du Bourdieu family, as shown above.

By Stella George

FOUR WHO make their home in a new and delightful two-story home at 371 Winslow Ave. find full contentment in surroundings that meet their every desire in living accommodations. They are Mr. and Mrs. Alex Du Bourdieu and their daughters, Kathy and Donna.

Appointments of the home were selected with an eye for lasting beauty, but also were keyed to the wishes of the family by Edna O'Brien, interior designer.

The front door is at the side of the house and leads to a large entrance hall. Paneling there and in the kitchen and rumpus room is distinctive—while it is walnut-dyed ash, it also appears to have the grain and color of fine oak. The stairway descends to the entry, and there is access to the living room on the right and the family room at the left rear. Directly to the left, glass doors lead to a patio.

The living room and dining room are carpeted in antique white. The only other color used in the entire decorating theme here is pale gold—there is no predominating accent tone. Since this is the case, Mrs. Du Bourdieu can use her own accent color to suit a special occasion, time, or season. For example, in the spring a gay bowl of lavender flowers provides the color touch. In the fall, an arrangement of autumn branches and leaves with orange flowers is in order. Christmas, Valentine Day, St. Patrick's Day all have special colors. The room is one of many faces.

A modernized Louis XVI sofa faces an oversized coffee table with an ornate gold base. Nearby a chair-and-a-half (so called because it is half again as large as an ordinary chair), a Florentine table, and another chair-and-a-half form a conver-

in the Lives of Four

sation grouping. Two low, continental occasional, pull-up chairs are across the way.

THE FAMILY ROOM is everything such a room should be—warm, comfortable, inviting, and very decorative. Persimmon and black are color accents. Oriental tables are jet black. The long sofa has the persimmon tones. The round rug looks like an Oriental import but is actually a domestic rug woven in the accent colors. A fireplace is at the far end of the room. Lamps hang above the sofa.

A door on one side of the fireplace leads to an all-purpose utility room: office, den, workroom. On the other end of the room is a small lavatory.

The kitchen is the epitome of perfection from a housewife's point of view, and attractive from every point of view. There is a cupboard for every need, and work area in abundance.

Upstairs there is the master bedroom suite plus two other large bedrooms. Kathy's room with a four-poster bed is done in rose, Donna's in blue.

Change of pace is pleasantly achieved in the family room which is in contrast to the formality of living and dining rooms. Persimmon and black are the color tones here.

PACIFIC COAST
DRAPERY DECORATORS

NO FREE LABOR

Drapery ads which offer free labor sound great, but they just don't make sense. When you work you want to be paid and so does everyone else. Free labor offers simply mean that you are going to pay more for fabrics or some other drapery service. A hidden cost is still a cost and must be included in your bill if the company is to stay in business.

At Pacific Coast Drapery Designers we do not offer free labor. We do not up the cost of one item to hide the free cost of another. Yet our fine draperies, individually designed for the interior of your home, cost you no more. Total price is what you pay, no matter where you buy. Sprouting Varies

Do you know that even under the best growing conditions different flowers and vegetables sprout in different lengths of time?

From 5 to 7 days is sufficient for seeds of radishes, beans, peas, cucumbers and sweet corn while carrots, beets and parsnips take 10 to 15 days. Parsley seed usually takes 3 weeks to sprout and seeds of columbine, larkspur and forget-me-not take as long as parsley or a few days longer to break through the ground.

He's a Living Fossil

By Betty Hardesty

RHINOS, aptly called today's living fossils, having survived for 60 million years, are now threatened with extinction. In spite of efforts to protect them, there are less than 600 of the most prehistoric-looking mammal today, the Indian rhinoceros.

The Indian rhino has one horn, usually one foot long but sometimes up to 24 inches. He stands six feet at the shoulders and his great body, sometimes 13 feet long, is covered with rivet-like tubercles on a thick skin divided by deep folds into three sections suggestive of armor plate.

From the high grass of the jungles of Nepal and Assam, a few specimens have been transported to the Basel Zoo of Switzerland where Dr. Ernest Lang has successfully bred and raised them. A 1½-year-old baby born there may now be seen at the San Diego Zoo. On his arrival in California last October, he weighed 1,621 pounds but he may grow to 4,500 pounds.

SEEN ALSO at San Diego's moat exhibit areas on the large mammal mesa, are the two-horned black rhino and the square-lipped white. The black brouses, using his prehensile upper lip like a hook to gather thorny acacias and other plants. Ranging throughout most of African scrub country, he has a bad reputation as being highly nervous and apt to charge without warning.

White rhinos are the largest of the species, standing 6½ feet tall, and have a distinctively square mouth. Not actually white, they are lighter in color than the others. Huge heads, carried low, display two horns, the front horn growing to a length of more than five feet. White rhinos are grazers and, according to George H. Pourell, Ph.D., mammal curator of the zoo, are "more timid."

Hands of an Artist

By Olive Breed

LONSFORD (Bill) Williams' hands were smeared from the greasy, dusty motor and recalcitrant fan wheel it powered. As he reached to make an adjustment in the ancient refrigerator, his customer exclaimed, as though he might have stolen them, "You have a musician's hands!"

"I am not a musician," Bill explained patiently. When the motor and fan set up a whirr, he turned, "I'm an artist." A closer view of the hands revealed peeling palms and a couple of nails anchored by band aids.

For his first 18 years, Bill's life was on the farm where his hands developed great strength in the heavy work. He had no formal training, but did some sketching, and dreamed of creating things from wood or clay, things that would give pleasure to people.

In the U. S. Navy, Bill's hands received valuable training as carpenter's mate. Upon being discharged from the service, he added a course in electronics and was ready to open a repair shop, which developed into TV, radio and utilities — everything involving electricity.

ON THE SIDE, Bill started formal instruction in art with such well known Southern California painters as George Barrett and Paul Lauritz, and in the 35 intervening years has kept up his studies, and developed outstanding technique with colors, something that once seen, is remembered.

At present, to all appearances the electronic repair work is full time and all that an ordinary pair of hands could accomplish, but his life as an artist is growing equally fast, and Bill's hands would not be willing to give up either. He lives at 1040 Orange Ave.

Beginning with 1963, Bill took over the Monday night workshop class of the Lakewood Fine Arts Association at Bolivar Park in Lakewood, and with his quiet, understatement manner, has generated so much enthusiasm he has found it necessary to add classes on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Due to the speed and assurance of his work, Bill gets assignments frequently for painting demonstrations. He represented the Lakewood Fine Arts Association at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona by doing a portrait of his daughter Helen. Interested crowds watched in relays, and named it, "The Pink Lady." When finished it was displayed in the Bank of America at Dutch Village. Little Sweden, on East Broadway, owns a number of Bill's paintings, which they have hanging in the restaurant on Broadway and in Seal Beach and Arcadia.

Your Name

1518, discovered the south Mexican peninsula of Yucatan.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on CRIDER.—K.C., Long Beach.

K.C.: CRIDER is a form of the German surname Kreider, derived from "Kreide-handler" meaning "Dealer in chalk or lime." Another source for Crider was the old German term "Kreiter," deciphered as "squabbler."

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on the Slavic name YANCHURA? — J. Y., San Pedro.

J.Y.: YANCHURA is from central Europe. The Slavic root source is conjectural, but is believed to be "Jansch," one of many derivatives of Jan or John, meaning "God is gracious."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on BOOTHROYD. — D.D., Long Beach.

D.D.: BOOTHROYD originated in early Britain as "Buth-rioth" meaning "forest clearing of the herald or royal messenger." Yorkshire records of 1379 list Richard de Botherod, a remote forefather.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain the surname NEW?—C.G., Surfside.

C.C.: NEW is from the old English term "Niwe" meaning "newcomer," used for a new settler in a village in the 1200s. Ancestors include Richard Le Newe of Cambridge and Robert Le Newe of Wiltshire, 1273. The New family coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four sections by an "X"-shaped cross, two sections tinted gold, two red. Overlying the background are four red and gold chaplets (wreaths worn around the head).

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on GAMBOA. —A.G., Norwalk.

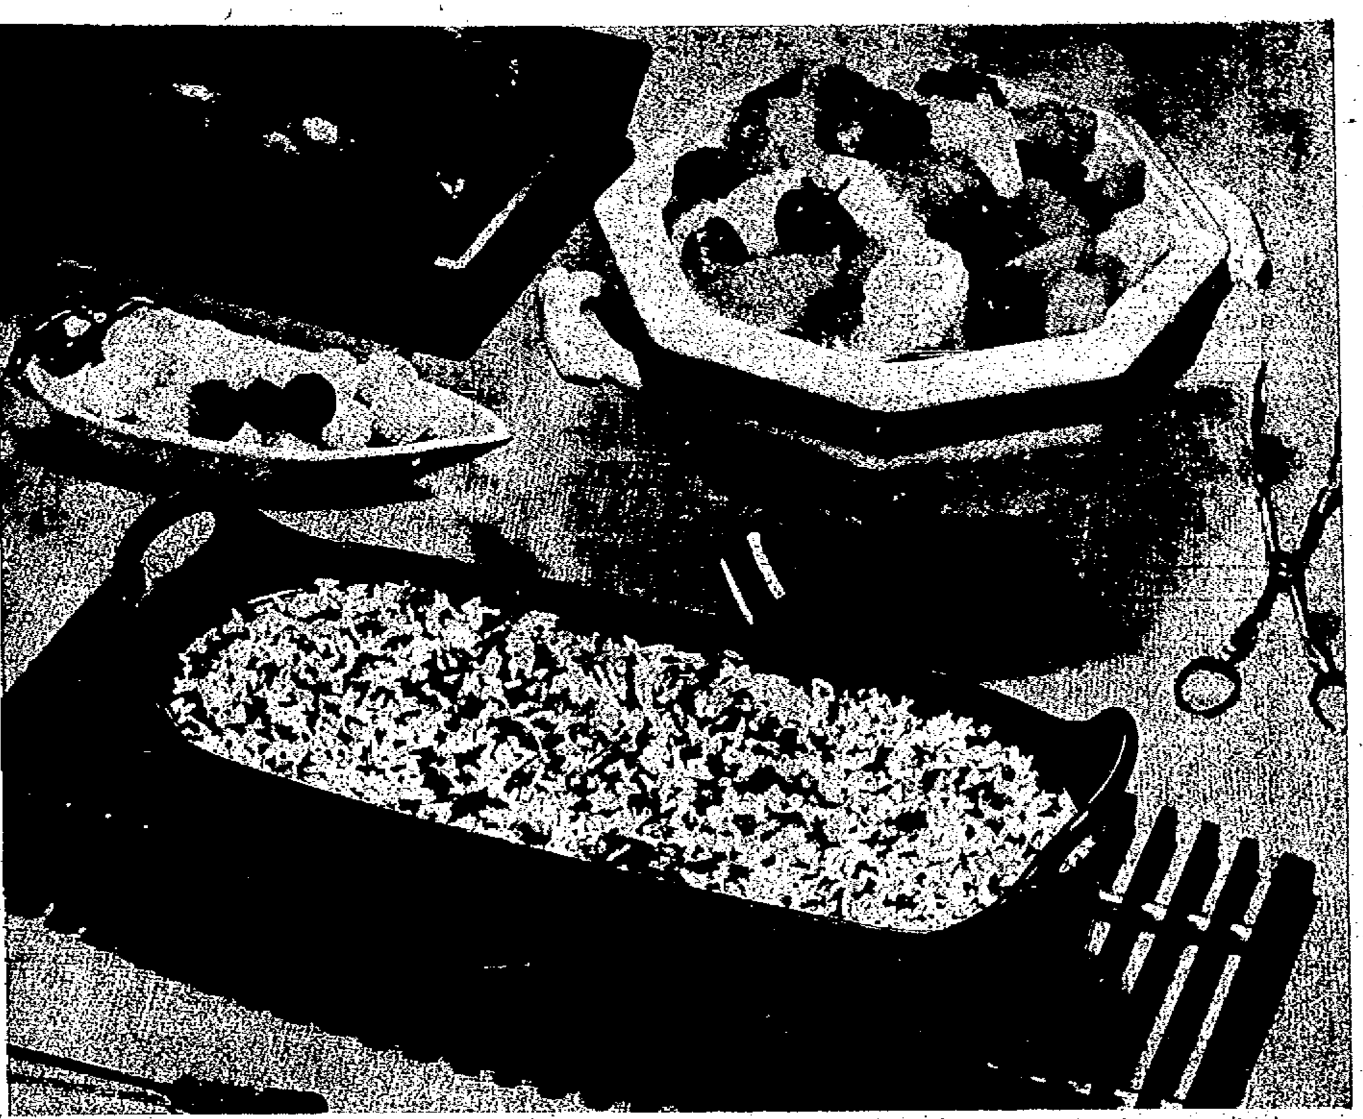
A.G.: GAMBOA is Portuguese. This name means "sweet quince" and was used by a forefather owning a quince orchard in the Middle Ages.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly publish data on REES.—S.W., Artesia.

S.W.: REES is from the old Cymric-Welsh word "Rhys" interpreted as "ardent one." The ancestor was the famous Welsh King Rhys-Ap-Tudor-Mor, who gained the Welsh throne in 1077. The Rees or Rhys shield is silver, emblazoned with a black chevron between three black ravens. John Rees was a land owner at Weymouth, Mass., in 1648.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze LANTZ.—S.M., Long Beach.

S.M.: LANTZ translates from old German as "Lance" or "Spear," portraying a courageous medieval spearman forefather. No coat-of-arms is accessible for this surname.



Green Rice Custard in a red bowl adds color to savor and makes a hearty main dish. Sharp cheese, parsley and green pepper join in zestful combination with the rice, and the pleasant result, above, will brighten any meal. Serve with crusty rolls and fresh fruit.

Color Perks a Rice Custard

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

COLOR adds much to the appeal of food and whets the appetite together with the savor of various dishes. For instance, Green Rice Custard in a red bowl is as flavorful as it is colorful. The hearty rice main dish is well flavored with sharp cheese, parsley, and green pepper.

Green Rice Custard, a casseroled blend of good food, could be the focal point of a luncheon or supper which also includes a medley of fresh fruits—to be used as salad or dessert—and some crusty hard rolls with gay little butter balls.

Cooked rice is the basis of such a hearty casserole, and you couldn't find a more versatile basic casserole food. The rice can be freshly cooked for the dish, or it might be left over from a previous meal (rice never tastes leftover). Or it might even have come from the freezer. Easily cooked rice is just as easily reheated after refrigeration or freezing. Simply add a few drops of water—enough to cover the bottom of the pan in which the rice is to be reheated—and place, covered, over low heat until of the preferred temperature.

Green Rice Custard

3 cups cooked rice
1 cup finely chopped fresh parsley
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 cup grated sharp cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1 can (14 ounces) evaporated milk
½ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. seasoned salt
1 tsp. garlic powder
1 lemon, juice and grated rind
2 tblsps. butter or margarine, melted
Paprika

Combine rice, parsley, green pepper, onion, and cheese. Mix eggs, milk, pepper, salt, garlic powder, lemon juice and rind, and butter. Stir into rice mixture, blending thoroughly. Turn into a greased 2 quart casserole; sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese Rice Souffle

1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli
1 can (10½ oz.) mushroom soup, undiluted
1 jar (8-oz.) pasteurized process cheese spread
4 eggs, separated
½ tsp. salt
Dash of cayenne pepper
2 cups cooked rice

Cook broccoli according to package directions. Drain. Combine soup and cheese spread and blend over heat. Beat egg yolks with a fork and add to cheese mixture. Season with salt and cayenne. Stir in rice and broccoli. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Pour cheese mixture into egg whites. Fold gently with a wooden spoon. Pour into a greased 2-quart casserole and bake for 1 hour at 325 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Sturdy and handsome, this lantern for indoor or outdoor use has a colonial theme. It's a home handyman project.

By Bill Meyerriecks

IF AT ANY TIME you've priced a similar Colonial lantern to the one shown in our photo, you know the worth of our suggestion that you make this early American adaption yourself—the Sketchbook way.

The Sketchbook plan shows you step-by-step and in details how to cut your sheet metal to sizes required, where to solder joints and the exact sizes as well as materials to do the job.

TO OBTAIN colonial lantern plan, specify S-155 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90812.

Table That's Adequate

ADEQUATE for the uses to which it can be put is the bedside table pictured below with NBC's Francine York. It has a top suitable for a lamp, ash trays and things of that kind and it's high enough that the lamp will give a good light for reading. Note, too, the swinging tray for writing or for breakfast and useful in time of illness. After breakfast, the tray swings out of the way. A shelf is provided for magazines or a radio and there's a drawer for medications or other nighttime needs. The bottom shelf is for books, magazines and such items. Tables like this will serve as end tables and the swinging shelves for TV trays—they can be made to swing either way. Any amateur home carpenter can make this table by using a full-size pattern with list of materials, illustrations and detailed instructions. To obtain the pattern, specify No. 344 and send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

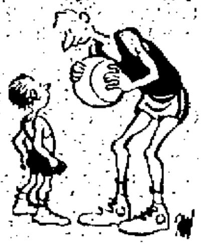
HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

No Time for Nothing

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: According to the old saying, busy hands stay out of trouble. But don't we sometimes tend to keep our kids too busy?

ANSWER: Heavy loads of homework stacked on a student by teachers, plus social and other activities urged upon him by parents, may leave him little time to himself.



Yet, time for doing nothing is important, too.

Says Ronald C. Doll, professor of education, Hunter College:

"Content readily comes into the curriculum, but most of us fight mightily to keep any of it from leaving. We show our young Americans that, like us, they must be busy all the time. Children who come home from school after a day of intense activity have to be hauled away to their music or dancing lessons, to a medical specialist whose services are surely becoming more and more needed, to special language instruction which obstinate school administrators have refused to provide—ad infinitum toward heart attacks and nervous breakdowns. After a while the question arises: When does the child have an opportunity to grow privately, quietly, independently, to be himself?"

QUESTION: Should a child be taught to consider failure a shameful thing?

ANSWER: No. Life is full of failures, some big and some small, for all of us. The only people who don't fail are those who don't really live.

A child should learn to accept failure, to take it in his stride, to find out what caused it, and—forgive the banality—to try again.

QUESTION: My son tries to play basketball and football, but he's too small. I hate to discourage him, but what can we say?

ANSWER: Tell him there's no shame attached to not being constructed for these sports. Few persons actually are. Suggest that there are other sports in which he can compete with a measure of success—swimming, track, table tennis.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Plant Potencies Researched

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

STUDY OF plants of reputed medicinal value has been undertaken by the Oregon State University School of Pharmacy.

The plants are those used by Indians of the Pacific Northwest. Special attention is to be given those plants growing in the Warm Springs Indian reservation.

Among those plants slated for study are wild peony, wild columbine, bitter cherry, ocean spray, creek dogwood, shelf fungus, alum root and poison hemlock.

A three-year $125,700 grant has been awarded by the U. S. Public Health Service for the study.

Researchers will be especially on the lookout for plants with potential usefulness in the treatment of heart and nervous system disorders, those with possible tranquilizing effects, those that appear to have anti-cancer activity and those with antibacterial properties.

PERSONS WHO live in glass houses should watch where they walk, advises the American Medical Association.

The AMA estimates that 40,000 persons each year try to walk through glass doors, glass walls and picture windows. About 6,000 wind up in the hospital and some even die from severe cuts and loss of blood.

More than two-thirds of glass-door injuries occur to males. Children 5 to 14 years account for one-third of these injuries. Major cause of the accidents: hurrying.

One safeguard recommended by the AMA: decals or bright tape attached to the glass at the eye level of both children and adults.

AN IMPROVED test has been devised to determine whether a TB patient has been taking his medicines.

Strips of filter paper are impregnated with oxalic acid and a chemical known as p-dimethylamine benzaldehyde, or DAB for short. The dry strips, white in color, are dipped into a specimen of urine.

If the patient has been taking an anti-TB drug called PAS, the paper strip will become orange-yellow to orange-red after five minutes. If Isoniazid is the drug involved, shades will range from pale rose to reddish sepia.

The DAB test is 10 times more sensitive than the conventional ferric chloride test to detect the use of PAS, according to University of Brazil researchers reporting in the American Review of Respiratory Diseases.

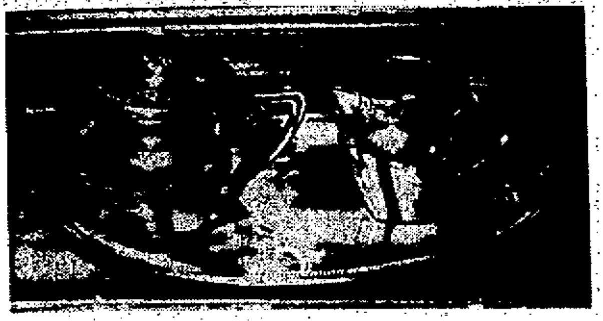
Treasure from a King's Palace



Creamer, sugar bowl and silver tray once were property of Bavarian King Ludwig, a builder of castles, palaces.

By Helen L. Gillum

IN TIMES of war in Europe, countless works of art and other treasures are snatched from shelves and cabinets and sent away or carefully buried in the earth for safe-keeping. After hostilities have ceased and peace reigns again, family valuables and other precious items are retrieved to be loved and enjoyed for another brief period. Many of these objects eventually find their way to the United States, as in the case of some lovely old silver and beautiful amber crystal wine glasses, owned by Mr. and Mrs. James A. Willingham of 310 W. 32nd St.

The silverware — a dainty creamer and sugar bowl on a silver tray—was once the property of the so-called Mad King Ludwig (Louis the II) of Austria and Bavaria. Originally from one of the grandiose palaces built by the 19th-century king, the pieces were buried during the destructive years of World War II, finally winding up in an antique shop in Germany after the war. Both silver and crystalware were purchased by Mrs. Willingham's father while a colonel in the U. S. Air Force in post-war Germany.

ALTHOUGH King Ludwig became violently insane several years before his death in 1886, during his earlier years as king he was a lover of music and beauty. Particularly was he fond of Richard Wagner, the great operatic composer, and particularly did he love building magnificent castles. His extravagances as a builder of these huge structures eventually lead to financial ruin, and perhaps contributed to his mental breakdown and subsequent suicide by drowning.

But the castles remain, and one of his creations, Schloss Herrenschlemese, constructed on an island in a lake in Bavaria, has been compared to the Palace of Versailles, because of its sumptuous decorations, spacious halls and 245-foot-long Gallery of Mirrors. It is from this castle that the silver pieces are believed to have come. The pitcher and bowl bear King Ludwig's crest, an elaborately conceived affair in three sections consisting of two crowns, stars, crossed arrows and the tiny figure of a soldier.

THE EIGHT crystal wine glasses are of a delicate shade of amber, with maple leaves in white enamel just below the rim. They are eight inches high and of an unusual shape. Their origin is uncertain, but to cradle one of these exquisitely designed glasses in the hand, and to hear its soft ringing tones at the slightest touch is a pleasant experience. They, like King Ludwig's silver, echo royal elegance of the past.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Plant Potencies Researched

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

STUDY OF plants of reputed medicinal value has been undertaken by the Oregon State University School of Pharmacy.

The plants are those used by Indians of the Pacific Northwest. Special attention is to be given those plants growing in the Warm Springs Indian reservation.

Among those plants slated for study are wild peony, wild columbine, bitter cherry, ocean spray, creek dogwood, shelf fungus, alum root and poison hemlock.

A three-year $125,700 grant has been awarded by the U. S. Public Health Service for the study.

Researchers will be especially on the lookout for plants with potential usefulness in the treatment of heart and nervous system disorders, those with possible tranquilizing effects, those that appear to have anti-cancer activity and those with antibacterial properties.

PERSONS WHO live in glass houses should watch where they walk, advises the American Medical Association.

The AMA estimates that 40,000 persons each year try to walk through glass doors, glass walls and picture windows. About 6,000 wind up in the hospital and some even die from severe cuts and loss of blood.

More than two-thirds of glass-door injuries occur to males. Children 5 to 14 years account for one-third of these injuries. Major cause of the accidents: hurrying.

One safeguard recommended by the AMA: decals or bright tape attached to the glass at the eye level of both children and adults.

AN IMPROVED test has been devised to determine whether a TB patient has been taking his medicines.

Strips of filter paper are impregnated with oxalic acid and a chemical known as p-dimethylamine benzaldehyde, or DAB for short. The dry strips, white in color, are dipped into a specimen of urine.

If the patient has been taking an anti-TB drug called PAS, the paper strip will become orange-yellow to orange-red after five minutes. If isoniazid is the drug involved, shades will range from pale rose to reddish sepia.

The DAB test is 10 times more sensitive than the conventional ferric chloride test to detect the use of PAS, according to University of Brazil researchers reporting in the American Review of Respiratory Diseases.

Treasure from a King's Palace

Creamer, sugar bowl and silver tray once were property of Bavarian King Ludwig, a builder of castles, palaces.

By Helen L. Gillum

IN TIMES of war in Europe, countless works of art and other treasures are snatched from shelves and cabinets and sent away or carefully buried in the earth for safe-keeping. After hostilities have ceased and peace reigns again, family valuables and other precious items are retrieved to be loved and enjoyed for another brief period. Many of these objects eventually find their way to the United States, as in the case of some lovely old silver and beautiful amber crystal wine glasses, owned by Mr. and Mrs. James A. Willingham of 310 W. 32nd St.

The silverware — a dainty creamer and sugar bowl on a silver tray—was once the property of the so-called Mad King Ludwig (Louis the II) of Austria and Bavaria. Originally from one of the grandiose palaces built by the 19th-century king, the pieces were buried during the destructive years of World War II, finally winding up in an antique shop in Germany after the war. Both silver and crystalware were purchased by Mrs. Willingham's father while a colonel in the U. S. Air Force in post-war Germany.

ALTHOUGH King Ludwig became violently insane several years before his death in 1886, during his earlier years as king he was a lover of music and beauty. Particularly was he fond of Richard Wagner, the great operatic composer, and particularly did he love building magnificent castles. His extravagances as a builder of these huge structures eventually lead to financial ruin, and perhaps contributed to his mental breakdown and subsequent suicide by drowning.

But the castles remain, and one of his creations, Schloss Herrenschiemese, constructed on an island in a lake in Bavaria, has been compared to the Palace of Versailles, because of its sumptuous decorations, spacious halls and 245-foot-long Gallery of Mirrors. It is from this castle that the silver pieces are believed to have come. The pitcher and bowl bear King Ludwig's crest, an elaborately conceived affair in three sections consisting of two crowns, stars, crossed arrows and the tiny figure of a soldier.

THE EIGHT crystal wine glasses are of a delicate shade of amber, with maple leaves in white enamel just below the rim. They are eight inches high and of an unusual shape. Their origin is uncertain, but to cradle one of these exquisitely designed glasses in the hand, and to hear its soft ringing tones at the slightest touch is a pleasant experience. They, like King Ludwig's silver, echo royal elegance of the past.

Ownership Unknown

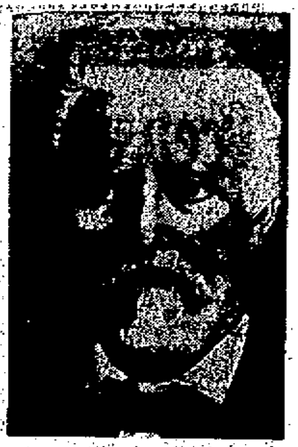
By V. Franklin Limerick

IN THE early days of cattle raising in the United States, from Texas to California, the term "maverick" was used to denote a stray animal with no brand, especially an orphan calf.

Varied stories have been told as to how the word originated but there is no doubt about it actually coming from the name of one of the most honorable citizens in Texas, Samuel A. Maverick.

Maverick was an attorney who took an active part in the politics of his state from 1835 on through his life. He died in 1870. He was one of the signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence, the mayor of San Antonio, a legislator and a congressman.

THIS AMERICAN pioneer had a 385,000-acre ranch but was much too busy to look after it himself. The men he hired ran the place in a haphazard way, allowing the livestock to wander about with the increase unbranded, thus originating the name "maverick" for unmarked cattle.



His name became a byword in the cattle lands, and is still in use. He's Samuel A. Maverick.

In the unfenced, open range days of beef growing, the branding iron was a necessity. Brands were registered and stood up legally in any argument over ownership.

When it came time to market cattle, the shiftless cow hands on the Maverick ranch belatedly bestirred themselves and rounded up animals far and wide. Soon stories began to circulate that they were slightly careless with their branding iron. These rumors cast a shadow on the good name of Maverick and opened the door for a practice that became the blight of the era.

Toutant de Beauregard, a cattleman who lived in the neighborhood, bought the Maverick ranch in 1855. Besides the enormous range, the sale included all the cattle belonging to the place and the registered Maverick brand. Beauregard, being a thrifty man, took advantage of the precedent established by the former ranch crew and sent his men out on the prairies to mark all strays with the Maverick brand. His riders scoured the countryside and covered so much territory that the other ranchers began to protest.

WORD SPREAD about what was taking place. Ambitious cowboys began to start their own herds with "free" cattle —their for the taking. Cow thieves took advantage of the situation and shady operators became known as "mavererickers," men who killed branded cows to claim the orphaned calves.

In the beginning, a stray calf that obviously had no mother, could be legitimately roped and branded by whoever found the little dogie. The honest cattlemen thought nothing of adding orphaned calves to the herd. The initial connotation of the term "maverick" simply meant an open range stray, a homeless animal, until it got completely out of hand.

Finally, the custom of branding "unowned" cattle was abused until the established ranchers had to have laws passed to stop it. The unethical took advantage of the "finder's keepers" rule.

Today, the word maverick is used to mean a "lone wolf," a person who prefers to be alone. But Webster defines it "an unbranded animal, especially a motherless calf, formerly customarily claimed by the first one branding it"

BOOK REVIEWS

The Puzzles of the Hieroglyphs

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

AT SOME POINT in the dim, dim past, the northeastern plateau of Africa became uninhabitable, a desert. A few bold spirits descended into the fertile valley of the Nile. Perhaps their leader was named Geb, or maybe Ab; at any rate it was monosyllabic.

"It is unlikely," says Barbara Mertz in "TEMPLES, TOMBS AND HIEROGLYPHS" (Coward-McCann, $6.95) "that Geb had a sense of destiny. He was looking for a better place in which to live, and he had no idea that the change of habitat would dramatically alter his people's way of life."

What Geb, or Ab, or whoever he was, started, is one of the greatest chapters, as Barbara Mertz puts it, "in the book of man." In her pages we meet "kings and conquerors, poets and inventors," that grand breed who made Egypt glorious.

The author's words, simple but breathing with the life of the times she writes about, give us fresh vignettes of the Pharoahs whose very names speak of mystery and grandeur: Thutmose III; the second Ramses: Akhenaton, the heretic pharaoh; Hapshepsut and many others. The puzzles of the hieroglyphs are made clear, and yes, exciting. The plain people of Egypt, the tiller of the soil, the hewer of stones, are not overlooked. Temples and monuments are vividly described. There are new judgments of the Egyptian rulers, such as the vulgarity of King Tut and his treasures.

FROM THE Garsts of Coon Rapids, Iowa, whose farming know-how amazed Nikita Khrushchev on his United States tour, comes a refutation of the Malthusian theory that world poverty is inevitable because population tends to increase faster than food production.

As the guest of Roswell Garst, Khrushchev saw farming at its best. Garst's brother Jonathan, successful agriculturalist, scientist, government consultant and veteran of trouble-shooting food missions in Scotland, Canada, Latin America, Russia, Romania and Poland, contends that if tested, modern methods of crop-raising are put to use, there is "NO NEED FOR HUNGER" Random House, $3.95).

Jonathan Garst proposes enterprising application of hybrid seed, new fertilizers, cattle feed, scientific irrigation and commercial markets to end malnutrition in the world. He suggests, for example, a U. S. demonstration farm in Brasilia as a practical promotion for the Alliance for Progress.

He argues, too, that hunger and poverty cause the social conditions which result in population explosion; that, conversely, adequate food is conducive to a low birth rate.

"BLOOD FROM THE SKY," by Piotr Rawicz (Harcourt, Brace $4.95) is a Ukranian Jew's first novel. Its author was among the relative handful who survived the extermination by the Nazis of his family and his community. "Blood From the Sky" records, through the mind and words of a highly civilized man, also a Ukrainian Jew, monstrous catastrophe on a gigantic scale, but focuses on the tragic and vain hopes of the victims, the illusions of those doomed to die.

The narrator survives because he has evolved a skillful and artful system of passiveness, and thus he and his girl escape massacre. He ends up as a shell, but an important one, for it is his mission to bear witness to what has gone on, to keep alive the memory of the dead. The novel is savage in its uncompromising truthfulness; savage in the bizarre humor and sharp realism with which the horrors committed by the Nazis are set down.

ALAN SEAGER, professor of English at the University of Michigan, bounced through an eventful youth and young manhood, college in the States, and Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship — and girls, alluring and beautiful and none of them dull.

He did a heap of growing up in the 1920s and '30s and his story, a collection of recollections, is "A FRIEZE OF GIRLS" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95). Most of the chapters have appeared in periodicals but, put together, they are an engrossing portrait of the young Seager, although he subtitles his book, "memoirs as fiction."

Transplanting Tip

When setting out young plants, have the ground moist but not wet. Firm them in well and water so that the soil settles well around the roots. Then for the first few days after planting syringe the tops lightly to help keep the leaves fresh. When you see signs of new growth start your regular garden care.

Recipe of the Week

BREAD CRUMBS and sour milk are basic ingredients of a pudding that wins $5 as best recipe this week for Ralph H. Bormann, 4331 Vermont Ave., Long Beach 90814. The recipe:

Crumb Pudding

1 cup sour milk
1 cup brown or white sugar
½ cup flour
½ tsp. ground cloves
1 tsp. baking soda
1 egg
1 cup dried bread crumbs, rolled fine
¼ cup shortening
½ tsp. ground cinnamon
2 tblsp. dark molasses
¾ cup raisins
¾ cup walnuts

Soak bread crumbs in sour milk half hour before adding other ingreients. Grease a 9x9 pan. Bake at 300 degrees for one hour. Serve with whipped cream topping or hard sauce.

Hard sauce:

⅓ cup butter
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 tsp. vanilla or brandy
Pinch of salt

Work the butter with a spoon or beater until light and creamy. Then add the sugar gradually while continuing to work with a spoon or beat with electric beater. Add the vanilla a little at a time and the salt. Pile lightly in a serving dish and chill until needed. Maybe a sprinkling with cinnamon or nutmeg if desired.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. After a new drug is discovered or developed, how long does it usually take for it to reach the market? V. E.

A. So many factors enter into the development of a new drug that there can be no set time for its appearance on the market.

The process may take from two to ten years. After a potentially useful drug is discovered, it is first tested for safety on animals, then manufactured in quantity. Permission to market it must come from the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The correct dosage must be fixed and the most acceptable form of administering the new drug must be decided upon before it is actually tried out on patients.

Q. Is it legal to address a letter simply to "Occupant" at a certain street address? D. W.

A. Yes. To address mail to a specific street number without addressing the occupant by name, such terms as Postal Patron, Householder, Resident and Occupant may be substituted for the name. The complete address must be given, as usual. Similarly, a letter may be addressed to a post office box number without addressing the boxholder by name.

Q. Please give some information on the old-time baseball pitcher, "Wild Bill" Donovan. C. S.

A. William Edward Donovan was born October 13, 1876, at Lawrence, Mass.; he died December 9, 1923. His big league career started in 1898 with Washington (N.L.); from 1899 to 1902 he pitched for Brooklyn (N.L.) and in 1902 also played at first and second and in the outfield. From 1903 to 1912 Donovan pitched for the Detroit Tigers (A.L.); in 1915 and 1916 was manager-pitcher and in 1917 non-playing manager for the New York Yankees (A.L.); in 1918 he again pitched for Detroit, and in 1921 was non-playing manager for Philadelphia (N.L.).

Q. Please give the words that meant divination by the four elements—fire, air, water and earth in ancient times.—E. J.

A. Divination by fire, pyromancy or pyroscopy; by air, aeromancy; by water, hydromancy; hydratoscopy (rain water), pegomancy (spring or fountain water); earth, geomancy.

Dog World Is Busy

Collies are favorites both for beauty and as working dogs. This one is owned by Marybeth Meacham, Torrance.

By Eleanor Avery Price

HUB POODLE Club has its spring puppy match today at South Park, Compton. Registration is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon, with judging to start at 1 p.m. There will be special classes for the 2-3 month and 3-4 month toys, as entry is usually large in these age groups.

There will be an assistance table at the match to help beginner exhibitors. Anyone interested may attend club meetings on the fourth Thursday of every month at 8 p.m. at El Dorado Park, 2800 Studebaker Road, Long Beach. The club pledge is:

"As a member of the Hub Poodle Club I promise to foster and promote interest in poodles by encouraging their breeding in accordance with the set standard, to the end that such standard and qualities of the breed may be advanced."

Collies breeders may get dogs groomed immediately for the April 12 California Collie Clan match held at Lynwood City Park. And one with a dog entered in the Southeast Obedience Club sanctioned match in the same park on the same day, should do a little more practicing this week.

A BIT MORE about collies, membership in the National Working Collie Association of Southern California membership is also open to owners of other working dogs interested in herding and obedience. Phone TE 4-6552 for further information.

Also on April 12, basset puppies will frolic in the Basset Hound Club of Southern California spring match in Lynwood Park and Escondido Kennel Club has a puppy match in Escondido.

Another club event that should interest every obedience-minded dog owner in Southern California is the April 24 dinner and meeting of Valley Hills Obedience Club at Glen Aire Country Club, 3910 Stanbury Ave., Sherman Oaks. Reservations must be received by April 17, and the dinner tab is $3.75. Call ST 4-4668 or ST 4-3010. This once in a life-time gathering will include four outstanding speakers—Bill Koehler, movie trainer for Disney Studios and one of Southern California's first obedience trainers—a trainer's trainer; Frank Inn, number one supplier of trained animals to movie and TV studios today; Carl Spitz, one of the oldest and most experienced dog educators in the business of movies, war dogs, etc. as well as an AKC obedience trial judge, and Herb Wegner, who has had more than 35 years experience in dog training and producing dog films for TV, and also an AKC trial judge.

Time for Feeding

When the acid loving plants—azealea, camellia and rhododendron — go out of bloom, it is time for the gardener to begin feeding them with an acid fertilizer. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen suggest alternating a balanced fertilizer with liquid fish at monthly intervals after the first feeding right through summer.

All three seem to respond better to this varied diet than to any one fertilizer used exclusively.

of his lady friends was a beautiful campus actress at Michigan who made Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year and married an acquaintance just to get to Greenwich Village where Seager, responding to her urgent invitations, found her alone and starving. Later she entered into a mixed marriage, embraced communism and went off to Russia.

A girl he met in Chicago might have been "The Nicest Girl in Cook County," as billed, had she not also been the cold-blooded sister of the ruling gangster family of that bloody era. And there was the Memphis belle whom he gave two dozen (bargain) roses—without petals; and the middle-aged actress who almost choked on his fraternity house pin.

There was a so-what southern murder; a setback with tuberculosis which brought him back to the States from Oxford; and a roommate who plotted to kill his mother but, instead, indulged expensive tastes by burgling the archives of a church.

Witty and funny, Seager's story is also studded with shockers.

FANS OF ALLAN VAUGHAN ELSTON'S tales of the West will rejoice in "THE LANDSEEKERS" (Lippincott, $3.50), a story of 1879 in Idaho when goldseekers were giving way to landseekers. Elston's novels are based on historical facts. He lives in Santa Ana.

HAVE YOU ever wondered what it would be like to live in Africa? Eyes of the world are turned toward Africa where a revolution is taking place today.

Four talented new South African writers tell what it is like in the "Dark Continent" where they live. Richard Rive, Alex LaGuma, Alf Wannenburgh and James Matthews are co-authors of "QUARTET NEW VOICES FROM SOUTH AFRICA," (Crown, $3.50). The 16 stories are edited by Richard Rive, one of the four authors, with introduction by Alan Paton.

Would you buy a pool from a "price cutter"?

IF YOU DON'T WANT A "DISCOUNT" APPROACH TO BUYING YOUR POOL—DON'T CALL US!

WE'VE BEEN CALLED "PRICE CUTTERS." IT'S TRUE. WE ARE. But we'd rather be called "cost cutters." That's what we have done. We've chosen and engineered pools of the most popular sizes and shapes to fill the needs of the average family. Then we've set up to build them in volume. This enables us to build MEDALLION quality pools at Budget discount prices.

But if you're not interested in finding out how much money we can save you—then there's no need to call.

NO, DON'T CALL MEDALLION-Budget POOLS if you are not interested in a pool designed to last—at a cut-rate price. If you're not interested in a quality-built pool protected by unlimited availability of completion bonds—if you don't want to deal with a low-overhead company with no deep pile carpets or expensive displays—then don't call Medallion-Budget Pools. "No fancy fixtures; no fancy prices." We do have our own construction and service center in your area. We know our terms and prices can't be beat. Call for full information.

WE FEATURE

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglass brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach area.

Cal-Tex has been selected as the exclusive franchised contractor of FLEXON in Southern California. You can obtain free information or have a free home demonstration without obligation. The low cost will surprise you and terms can be arranged to suit your pocket book.

From Rags to Rugs

Quickly, easily crocheted, this woolen throw rug will bring beauty and color, without clashing, in any room.

By Elsa DeBra

WITH the gift-making-for-others season out of the way, Long Beach mothers and grandmothers have more time to fashion something for themselves—a crocheted rag rug, for instance.

Unlike our colonial fore-mothers, we do not have to wait impatiently for members of our families to discard their woolen garments. We simply visit rummage sales, and thrift shops to collect usable clothing, which often may be purchased by the pound. Skirts and coats of wool flannel are best, because the fabric is soft, easy to work with, tears without raveling. We avoid tweeds and diagonal weaves, unless we enjoy spending hours in cutting the one-inch-wide strips for crocheting.

For flower-strewn beauty, and soft, resilient stepping, an easy 'round and round' single crochet throw rug is an enjoyable project.

THRIFTY early American housewives appropriated any color available, but we can afford to be selective.

For the border, use strips left over from the center fields, plus any other tones of red and blue available, combined with various shades of neutral grays (or beiges). This border measures 12 inches. It could be wider. In fact, the whole rug may be 'hit and miss,' if one wants to give the apeparance of an oval bed of wild-flowers!

Procedure: Assemble enough woolen garments—the rug pictured weighs about 9 pounds—cut off belts, zippers, pockets, and other irregularities. Then wash in the machine, and dry in the sun. Press while damp. Now tear into one-inch strips, the longer the better. Sew together on machine (fine stitch) like this: lap over adjoining strips about 1¼ inches, fold over and stitch across, diagonally. Do about 20 strips, then you are ready to start crocheting. It's unwise to wind the sewn strips into a ball as this causes annoying twisting during the crocheting. Use a very large crochet hook. An old-fashioned one, whittled out of wood, is most satisfactory.

For the 36x54-inch rug, chain stitch a length of 18 inches, for the center 'spine.' Make a left turn, putting two single crochet stitches in first stitch, then one single crochet in all the other stitches until you get to the end of the 18-inch length. Then two single crochet stitches again at turn. This increase at turns keeps your work lying flat. As the rug grows you will have to increase more often, and you can do this at any point in the row you're crocheting, but preferably on the curves, or turns.

So, test your work by occasionally spreading the rug on a flat surface. If it ripples, you're increasing too often. If it cups, you're not increasing often enough.

Although rugged and durable, this rug graces a bedroom with pastel blue walls, pink and white dimity curtains, and clashes not at all with the heirloom wedgewood cases on the dresser.

Baird Caves to Open

The famous Baird caves on Lake Shasta in Northern California are finally being opened to the general public, probably around June 1.

Discovered in 1878, the caves up to now could be reached only by people who knew the exact location, and who were willing to make the long, hard climb up the limestone formation.

The caves will continue to be accessible by water only, but you can now come either in a boat operated by the owners or in your own craft. Buses will then take you up the mountain to the cave entrance. Motorists can leave their cars at the dock near O'Brien.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We have never traveled outside the U. S. but would like to start planning for next year. Is there a way to start?"

BEST I've seen for armchair planning is a free booklet called "World Wide Package Plan"—any Pan American or American Express office. Gives you a list of 135 planned package trips in all parts of the world. Car rental rates. Maps of Europe, etc. This will give you a choice of trips and basic costs.

When you have the trip in mind, write the national tourist bureaus of the countries where you want to go. (They're all in the New York phone book yellow section if you don't have a branch in your own city.)

You can start a very useable file. A brown envelope for each country where you are going. (And write the name on the outside with a big, fat marking pen — you may be trying to find the right envelope in a dark airplane.) Basic material in it should be a map and a map of the major city—usually free on airline counters.

You could put in $10 worth of the money of the country —for airport tips and taxis when you land. Then stuff it with clips from travel pages —the things you want to do, places you want to see. Restaurants. Shops. Best buys.

That way you only use the stuff from the country you're in. And you don't get all your information cluttered up. This is the way I do it. And it works for me. (Have the next country envelope in your flight bag en route. That way you get out your map, taxi and tipping money on landing.)

"Can you give us weather conditions in April on the central highway to Mexico City? What insects to beware of. What brands of beer and tequila are most satisfactory?

MEXICO has so many central highways now I'm not sure which one you mean. But on any of them, the weather should be OK. If you are going from Laredo on Highway 1, cross the high mountains starting at Tamazunchale at midday. They are sometimes in clouds morning and late afternoon. You could get it so thick you couldn't drive ahead or turn back.

From the border down to where you start to climb is scorpion country. A very painful bite. They love those tile floors. Don't walk barefoot. And shake out your shoes before you put them on.

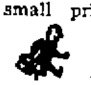
"We plan to travel in France (in order to learn French). Would like any thrifty ideas for we do not have much money."

WELL, you chose the highest priced country in Europe. A red Michelin guide will give you listings in each town of hotels, restaurants and comparative prices. Any book store and most magazine stands.

Camping and youth hotels are cheap. If you are driving, buy a loaf of bread, sandwich meat and a bottle of wine. Eat on the roadside. There are many more picnic spots in France than in the U.S.

The Michelin guide will show you places serving a small prices lunch, usually under some title like "menu touristique." Also, all French restaurants post their dishes and prices outside the restaurant. The French consult these before they go in. And you should, too. If you ask for the "menu" it means a fixed price meal with all courses included. If you want to shop for items, ask for the "carte." The fixed-price dinner is usually the best buy.



"I have heard that you must get a license for your cigaret lighter in Portugal. . ."

THAT'S TRUE if you are a resident. But I never heard of them asking this from a tourist.

SOUTHLAND TRAVELER

In the Driver's Seat

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

THE WISE traveler, before taking off, reads all he can lay hands on about the places he intends to visit. This puts him in the driver's seat, so to speak, because he has picked up many tips on getting there, background and customs of the people, and some knowledge about specific things and places he might otherwise not know about and miss.

Besides, most travel books make fine reading.

"THE CHANGING WORLD OF AUSTRALIA" by R. M. Younger (Franklin Watts, Inc., 575 Lexington Ave., New York 22, N.Y., $6.95): A former director of the Australian News and Information Bureau in New York tells what has made Australia tick, from the early struggles of the people to the Australia of today. An important book for the Down Under gadder.

"TRAVEL ROUTES AROUND THE WORLD" (Harian Publications, Greenlawn, N.Y., paperback $1): This just-published edition describes 700 ways to travel by freighter, including many from Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors.

"YOUR GUIDE TO 32 EUROPEAN CITIES" compiled by J. H. N. Mason (Barnes & Noble, 105 Fifth Ave., New York 3, N.Y., paperback 95c): Much needed info about Europe's most important cities. Moreover, it fits into the traveler's handbag or coat pocket.

"A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO NEW YORK" by Arthur Frommer (Frommer/Pasmantier Pub. Corp., 80 Fourth Ave., New York 3, N.Y., paperback 75c): World's Fair visitors will want this one, a rundown on the Big City's hotels, restaurants, night spots, shopping and sightseeing.

"PACIFIC PATHWAYS" by Stan Delaplane (McGraw-Hill, $5.95): Southland magazine travel columnist gets you started and keeps you charted on your trip into the Pacific —from Hawaii to New Zealand and into Malaysia. Rich in anecdotes and practical information.

"RETIRING TO THE CARIBBEAN" by Wesley Edson (Doubleday, $4.95): A workmanlike but completely fascinating look at the islands of the West Indies for one who might wish to move there, or only take a jaunt there. Edson covers all the bases for the retirees.

"JAPAN ON $5 A DAY," "HAWAII ON $5 AND $10 A DAY," and "ISRAEL ON $5 A DAY" (Arthur Frommer, Inc., 80 Fourth Ave., $1.95 each): Each contains the fact-filled encyclopedic listings and comments for which the "$5 a Day" series is famous: precise data on least expensive forms of transportation, hotels, restaurants and tours.

"NEW ZEALAND," "AUSTRALIA" AND "JAPAN" (Lane Book Co., Menlo Park, Calif., $1.95 each). These new Sunset Travel Books, in text and picture, tell when to go, what to see, where to stay and dine. Each book is a delight to read, as well.

"NEW HORIZONS WORLD GUIDE: Pan Am's Travel Facts About 108 Countries," edited by Gerald W. Whitted (Pan American World Airways, P.O. Box PAA, Idlewild, N.Y., $2): These 640 pocket-size pages contain the greatest accumulation of travel data ever assembled in a single volume. Definitely the best buy, anywhere, in a travel guide.

"FODOR'S GUIDE TO EUROPE: 1964" edited by Eurene Fodor (David McKay Co., $5.95): From planning the trip to getting there and back again—by plane, ship, train, car, bus—this one's the greatest. Thirty-four countries covered in 957 information-packed pages with illustrations; and 19x19-inch full-color map of Europe.

"THE DOLPHIN GUIDE TO CAPE COD, MARTHA'S VINEYARD AND NANTUCKET" by Fran Blake (Doubleday, 95c): What is the charm of Cape Cod and the Islands? More than you ever imagined, if you have never been there and take time to read this informative little book.

"EUROPE '64" (Speak-Easy Language Cards, 155 E. 40th St., New York City 10016, postpaid $2): Brand new pocket-size guide tailored especially to the needs of Americans in Europe and Isreal this year, including money converters. Organized country by country.

"SPAIN" (Carlos S. Pachon, manager, Spanish National Tourist Office, 453 Post St., San Francisco 2, $1.75 postpaid): Contains everything you need to know as a tourist. Profusely illustrated, with many pictures in color.

"COMPLETE GUIDE TO NEW YORK CITY" by Andrew Hepburn (Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y., $1.95): Everything the traveler needs and wants to know, complete with 1964-1965 World's Fair Supplement, maps and photographs.

Alaska Calls Tourists

THE ALASKA earthquake on Good Friday had its principal effect only upon Anchorage and immediate surrounding area, and all travel accommodations in Fairbanks, Juneau, Ketchikan, Skagway, Sitka and Haines, as well as smaller communities are intact, according to a telegram received by the Travel Department of Southland Magazine late last week from Morris Ford, director, Alaska Travel Division.

Ford continued: "All airlines serving Alaska are operating on full schedule. All ports of call served by Alaska's new ferry system, and by all cruise ships, are intact and without any damage whatever. All tour operators have indicated to us that they are proceeding with their original plans for Alaska tours this season. The Alaska Highway through Canada and interior Alaska has not been affected."

The Western Regional American Society of Travel Agents convention, Ford said, has been moved from Anchorage to Fairbanks, but the dates remain unchanged—May 21-23.

The tourist industry ranks third in importance to Alaska's economy. Ford said, "One way the people of America can help Alaska is to visit the state this summer and enjoy the many wonderful things to see."

Wax Plant Goes Well for Cutting

By Joe Littlefield

CHAMAELAUCIUM (Geraldton wax plant) provides attractive cut flowers for indoor decoration, blossoming from January on for several months. The single, small, pink flowers last for a couple of weeks indoors.

Some of the flowers weep a drop of two of sap that will stain table cloths. A special cover such as plastic or another cloth spread beyond the farthermost blossoms protects against such stains.

This shrub grows well in sunny location, prefers to be kept on dry side. This means deep but well-spaced watering.

THE DARK green, inch long plant foliage is needle-like, somewhat like deodar foliage. Shrubs tend to grow leggy unless pruned drastically, each year at the time the flower branches are cut for table decoration, or when the shrub has finished blooming.

"Drastic pruning" means to begin the pruning from the first year plant is set out. The first year pruning is the most ruthless. The upright branches are cut back one-third of the total height of the plant, the side branches one-fourth of their outward spread. Thereafter, each year for the next three years, upright branches should be cut one-third of their current season growth, and one-fourth of their outward spread.

Pruning this shrub thusly, forces it to send out hundreds of new branches throughout, causing it to develop into an attractive fully developed bush.

Glads: Perennial Favorites

GLADIOLUS splashes color in the garden and is a great favorite for cut flowers—in fact, a florist's standby. Easily grown, if a few simple cultural rules are followed, glads are highly rewarding. The color range is exceptionally wide.

For Quick Beauty

Rose plants can be a big help to owners of recently built houses. They offer quick and satisfying results since blooms generally appear the same season in which the rose bush is planted. Together with other shrubs, rose bushes can give the new house an immediate "lived-in look," says the American Association of Nurserymen.

If other activities are likely to leave the new homeowner with little time to get his landscape started in the first year, then he may find it worth while to try a few roses in tubs. These tubs can be put close to the house on either side of the front doorway, or spotted about the property as accent plants.

Improvising in this manner can serve to attract attention away from unsightly bare spots on the property. Once using them the homeowner may want to retain the tubs of roses permanently. They look exceptionally well on a bleak concrete stone or gravel patio.

Tree Roses for Accents

If you wish to attract special attention to any particularly pleasing part of your property, or to dress up and dignify an obscure corner, plant tree roses, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Tree roses are the most stately of all. Even planted in the midst of your rose or other garden they will attract the eye immediately.

What is a tree rose? It is, in effect, a small tree trunk usually three to four feet in height with what looks like a lovely bouquet of roses growing at the top. The kind of flowers may be hybrid tea, floribunda, grandiflora or climber. The kind of flowers is determined by the type which the growth "buds" to the trunk.

Tree roses are wonderful accent plants because of the sharp contrast between the flowers, which sometimes seem to be a beautiful bouquet of roses suspended in space, depending on how and where the plant is set out. Tree roses in pots or tubs especially do marvels in beautifying a garden patio, porch or any other area used for dining and entertainment. They probably will cause more comments from guests than almost any other flowers. Tree roses usually are available only from nurserymen, including quality garden centers.

DISCOVER NEW LAWN BEAUTY WITH Burpee GRASS SEED

Now's the time to plant! Burpee's famous grass seed is "climate-blended" to grow in the soil and sun of this area. Whether you're looking for fine lawn luxury or rugged resistance to traffic, you can select from 9 different types in Burpee's "long green line" of favorite lawn seed:

LUXURY—for the ultimate in enduring lawn beauty
SUNNYBROOK®—for beauty combined with wearability
ALL PURPOSE—for solid durability in heavy traffic areas
SHADY NOOK—for lush beauty and growth in shady areas
NEWPORT KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS—the best of the bluegrasses
SEASIDE BENTGRASS—ideal for a good lawn by the sea
U-3 BERMUDA—thick, rugged, does well in drought conditions
WHITE DUTCH CLOVER—adds richer, dark green growth
MICRONORA—finest quality, for thick, "carefree" lawns

BURPEE'S BONANZA ZINNIA
New 1964 All-America Winner!
Beautiful new F-1 hybrid is fully double, glowing light golden-orange. Huge blooms 6 inches across on long, sturdy 2-ft. stems. Plants are vigorous, bushy—yet neat and compact.

Garden Club

Rose expert, Mrs. Ralph Boggs, will speak and officers will be elected at a meeting of Belmont Heights Garden Club at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Boggs requested those having roses in bloom to bring a few flowers to the meeting. Mrs. Josephine Woods will preside and tea hostesses will be Mmes. Nannie Wood, Cora Bovyer, Ethel Anderson, Jo Ibbotson, Julia Morris and Miss Mildred Morris. Visitors will be welcome.

"Species as Greenhouse Companions for Orchid Hybrids" will be the topic of Emerson (Doc) Charles of Costa Mesa in a talk before the Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park clubhouse, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue, Long Beach. The public is invited and admission is free. Orchid plants in bloom will be on display.

"Fuchsia Culture" will be the subject of C. W. Eipper of Lomita in a talk before the Long Beach Fuchsia Society Thursday evening in Machinist Hall, 728 Elm Ave. A jitney potluck dinner is planned at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Pinching out terminal growth of bushy plants leads to more and showier blooms.

A regular garden spray program will asure you of a more beautiful, healthy, insect-free garden.

Plant dahlias now. They want the best soil you can provide. Perfect drainage and staking. Plant the stake first, then put the neck of the dahlia carefully near its base.

Set out annuals and perennials from nursery flats. The more the merrier.

If we hit a period of a week without rain, start using the hose. In the spring particularly it is essential to keep plants growing lustily.

Seed Intrigue

There's something really fascinating about starting plants from seed. True, it may be more practical to use seedlings from the nursery for most things, but do try some seed for the fun of watching the full plant life cycle.

Godetias, candytuft, alyssum, calendulas, sweetpeas, radishes, parsley are excellent to try because they are pretty surefire. Kids love the experience of planting seed. However, get snail and slug bait from the C. A. N. nurseryman before the seedlings emerge so you don't have them eaten overnight.

ROSE BASS

Anniversary Treats

THIS IS a love story. It all began 15½ years ago when Rose Matz and a neighbor woman went to a Baltimore, Md., theater and saw the movie "Johnny Belinda."

As they strolled through the lobby afterward, the neighbor met a cheerful, dark-eyed friend named Jack Bass. She introduced him to Rose and the three went to a nearby cafe for coffee and an hour of bright conversation. Jack was so enchanted by the lively personality of Rose that he began dating her. Some time later, when her doctor sent Rose to Miami, Fla., to recuperate from a nagging illness, Jack found that he missed her very much. He took the next plane to Florida where his presence quickly helped Rose regain her strength.

They were married five months after their chance meeting in that Baltimore theater. A few years later they came to Long Beach and went into the restaurant business. In 1955 they opened Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. 2nd St., Naples. Working very hard, they turned it into one of the city's finest restaurants, making friends by the score with their congeniality and the high quality of their prime rib au jus and charcoal-broiled steaks.

This Wednesday night Jack and Rose will have a double celebration marking their 15th wedding anniversary and their 9th year as owners of the Corsican. They will share their fun with their guests by including marvelous Emerald dry wine and anniversary cake with all dinners. Adding to the gaiety will be entertainment by pianist Franz Steininger, supported by the voices of many professional singers who will drop in to serenade Jack and Rose.

The 8-year-old boy had gone back to get a second plate of macaroni and had it in his hands when, suddenly, the floor "started swimming."

It was March 10, 1933, and Long Beach was hit by the worst earthquake in its history.

The 8-year-old boy was Donald O'Connor who, with his family, had been doubling in vaudeville that day at the Strand and State Theaters here.

He had gone with his mother to an Ocean Blvd. cafeteria for lunch when the earthquake hit.

DONALD O'CONNOR HOSTS 'HOLLYWOOD PALACE' SATURDAY

"It was just like waves," he said. "I looked out the window and I saw a building tumbling down."

* * * *

THE WOMAN in front of him started running and the boy ran after her. He heard his mother call and he stopped.

"A second later the front of the cafeteria building we were in came crashing down," he said.

Neither Donald nor his mother was hurt. His older brother, Jack, however, was injured in a bingo parlor in the amusement zone.

When the earthquake hit, the bingo patrons rushed to get outdoors and Jack was pushed through the plate-glass door. He was badly cut, but not permanently injured.

* * * *

LOOKING back to that day, Donald still remembers one thing vividly—a fork.

"I don't know what happened to the dish of macaroni," he said, "but I hung on to the fork.

"I kept it with me for a week—even when I was sleeping. Don't ask me why, because I don't know why."

He grinned and added:

"I still like macaroni, but I eat it with a knife now."

Without the macaroni and the knife, Donald makes his second appearance as guest host of "The Hollywood Palace" at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, channel 7.

He is the only host that has been brought back for a second time on the popular variety show.

Donald, in fact, has been asked by the show's producers to take over as permanent host.

He was tempted because, for him, "it's like getting back home to vaudeville."

* * * *

HE OVERCAME the temptation for a practical reason—money. He makes more of it doing personal-appearance tours. The way he has the tours organized also permits him more time with his family.

If he committed himself as Palace host—a live show—it would drastically curtail his personal-appearance tours.

Besides, Donald is still rankled about his latest ex-

With Soupy Sales playing his agent, Donald had put together the pilot of a series based on "Letters From a Hoofer to His Mom," a best-selling book by former vaudevillian Jack Donahue.

"The show was so completely different that I think it scared a lot of people," said Donald.

* * * *

"THE PATTERN today is fall in line with the same show and sell it over and over and over again.

"If a situation comedy called 'She Loves Me in December' is a hit, you can bet next season there'll be a 'She Loves Me in January' too."

Donald's situation-comedy series, although it was "completely different," almost made it for next fall.

A sponsor liked it and a network liked it. But the sponsor didn't like the time-slot the network offered so the deal fell through.

Donald may be rankled, but he's not defeated.

With the TV series out of the picture, he's hoping to do a movie. Currently he's negotiating for purchase of the musical rights to a book he thinks would make an excellent motion-picture. He didn't name the book.

And, from his receptions on his personal-appearance tours, he's convinced of one thing.

"Hoofing hasn't gone off the market," he said.

One of the prime hoofers in the market-place is still a guy named O'Connor.

"THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH ME, DOC! EVERY TV SHOW I LIKE IS BEING DISCONTINUED!"

WANDERING VIDEO MINSTREL

His fellow performers, attendant technicians and others who accompany him on the road are indebted to Perry Como for getting them a working vacation in such places as San Francisco, Hollywood and New Orleans.

Perry's wanderlust is the result of a unique television schedule for this season, a total of seven appearances in as many cities. Besides the aforementioned cities, Perry has done, or will do, shows in Dallas, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Minneapolis (the latter city is the site for Como's show 10 p.m. Thursday, channel 4.)

Asked about his travels, Perry spoke of the need for a television performer to get away from home base, be it Hollywood or New York. Perry has the wanderlust.

PERRY COMO

* * * *

"IT WAS an idea I had," he said. "I think all of us tend to get stale in our own stages. We get so involved and impressed with our own inventiveness. Who cares about a blue balustrade (a row of Roman-type columns)? Stick a camera out there and let the people perform."

Most of Perry's traveling in recent years has been between his Long Island home and Manhattan where he did all his shows. He welcomed the change in geography and frequency of appearances. The handsome singer cut down his appearances from 30 to 7 this season.

"I have found that it's a chore doing 30," said Perry, who'll be 52 years old this May. "Let's face it, I can't sing for an hour for 30 weeks and get away with it. Nobody can.

"I'LL TELL you what it's done," he said, referring to his current career as a wandering video minstrel. "It's given us a lot of fun. I hadn't been out of New York working in 15 years. It's a lot of traveling, more than I've done in 20 years."

Como's plans for next season are incomplete. An associate says, "He waits until the last minute."

His sponsors are going over all the pertinent data needed for decision-making in television. So is Perry, but there's one difference. His intelligence service includes a complete rundown of the nation's top winter golf courses.

SPECIAL

MORMON CONFERENCE—90-year-old David O. McKay, president, presides over the 134th annual general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, live from the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City at 9 a.m., ch. 11. Featured is the 375-voice Tabernacle Choir and organ.

ANGEL BY THE HAND—Actor Marvin Miller is narrator for a first-run showing of a color film explaining adoption through a modern agency, from the anguish of the natural parent's parting from the child to the satisfaction of the adoptive family. Show marks the time shift of "Survey '64" to 6:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4, and deals also with the difficulty of finding homes for children of minority races or with medical problems.

THE CELEBRITY GAME—Premiere. Carl Reiner is moderator for a new series at 9 p.m., ch. 2, in which Hollywood stars register pro and con votes in provocative, light-hearted questions (chiefly love and marriage) as three contestants try to guess their vote. Dr. Joyce Brothers is series consultant, with William Bendix, James Darren, Troy Donahue and bride Suzanne Pleshette, Eartha Kitt, Dorothy Malone, Robert Morse, Agnes Moorehead and Cliff Robertson, the nine guest celebrities on opener.

MADE IN AMERICA—Premiere. Hans Conried hosts a new panel series in which all contestants are millionaires at 9:30 p.m., ch. 2. Jan Sterling, Walter Slezak and Don Murray are panelists for the opener, charged with identifying the three millionaires and determining how each made his fortune. Cash prizes go to the contestants' pet charities.

Where's the Basketball?

UCLA's current championship basketball team, the only one in the university's history to go through the regular season undefeated, will be featured in a 90-minute special on channel 5 starting at 4 p.m. today (Sunday).

It will include highlights of the National Collegiate Championship games in Kansas City. There will be films of the team's victory at the NCAA Western Regional Finals in Corvallis, Ore.

The program will also show the arrival of the champions at Los Angeles International Airport, including their excited welcome from admiring fans.

Fred Hessler, who narrates for the special, will interview Coach Johnny Wooden and his assistant, Jerry Norman. The pair will give their post-victory opinions of the championship tourney.

* * * *

It was aired by channel 5 prior to the team's winning at the NCAA Western Regional Finals.

During this repeat portion, Wooden is visited at his home. He discusses his philosophy of coaching and speaks of the men who have influenced his life.

Another highlight of the repeat segment features action shots from UCLA's final game with USC.

SPECIAL

THE ESTABLISHMENT — Hour-long revue of acid commentaries, ranging from heterosexuality to politics, is at 9 p.m., ch. 11. Written by Peter Cook, the all-new production features Peter Bellwood, Francis Bethencourt, Alexandra Berlin, Roddy Maude-Roxby and Carole Simpson, plus the accompaniment of the Marian McPartland Trio. (Hour will be repeated next Sunday at 9 p.m.)

EAST SIDE/WEST SIDE— The highly-acclaimed, award-winning (but canceled) series, which will be cited by the L.A. County Employes Ass'n during today's "Panorama Pacific" (8 a.m., ch. 2), repeats at 10 p.m. a segment with which it hopes to bid for an Emmy nomination. Diana Sands and James Earl Jones star in a poignant love story of a young Negro couple whose baby falls victim to the filth of the Harlem slums in which they live. Episode, whose choice to represent the U.S. was questioned, struck out at the Monte Carlo Film Festival awards.

DIANE LIBBY, Miss KTTV, signs in to remind you that channel 11 spent a good portion of last weekend joining the COLOR brigade. With KTTV's colorful entry, all of Southern California's seven stations are now represented on the tint parade.

Pan and Fan Mail

Last Wednesday I stayed home from an important meeting and made it a point to watch "Ben Casey," which I never do.

The reason was that I'm a student of Indian lore and your log said there would be a rare Apache sun dance during a dream sequence.

Well, there was a brief portion of a burial dance at the beginning of the program. There wasn't any more sun dance than a man in the moon.

Mrs. Peggy Pollach, Long Beach.

The public relations man who forwarded the logging information about the Indian sun dance is a student of cowboy lore.

* * * *

I am replying to your request last week from Mrs. S. Dahl about Lori March who was a clairvoyant on the Perry Mason Show.

Lori did not graduate from Wilson High in Long Beach, but, rather, is a graduate of Beverly Hills High School.

Her real name is Lori Von Eltz.

She had leads in many school productions and was a very charming friend. I graduated the same year, 1940.

Another now successful alum of that vintage at BHHS was Betty White (now Mrs. Allen Ludden).

Lori can be seen almost daily in the daytime serial, "Secret Storm," channel 2

Mrs. John Graham, Long Beach.

Thanks, and what Eltz is new?

Ever notice that in the TV commercials on beer and wine, of which there are many, not a single one shows anyone actually guzzling the stuff?

Pictures show the happy fluid being poured—but never quaffed. Wonder why?

J. Paul Gleason, Long Beach

The National Assn. of Broadcasters, who oversees the content of commercials, frowns on quaffing on screen. I want to emphasize, though, J. Paul, that the NAB has no negative provision with regards to providing the Little Old Winemaker with new trousers.

* * * *

Who played the lead role in the "Tightrope" television series?

Donald Pettijohn, Long Beach.

Mike Connors, not David Janssen.

BACKACHE & NERVE TENSION
SECONDARY TO KIDNEY IRRITATION
After 21, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast.

SUNDAY

PRINCE AND THE PAUPER—5 p.m. on channel 9. An excellent 1937 movie starring Errol Flynn, Claude Rains and the Mauch Twins. The skillful adaptation of Mark Twain's story is about a beggar who changes places with a prince.

ROCK AROUND THE WORLD—6 p.m. on channel 7. A 1957 movie starring Tommy Steele. The "rock" is the kind that goes with roll.

INDISCREET — 7:30 p.m. on channel 9 in COLOR. Stars Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman. Romantic comedy about an American diplomat and an European actress who believe in love, but not necessarily marriage. A 1958 production.

THE SABOTEUR — 11:15 p.m. on channel 2. Excellent Hitchcock suspenser about fifth columnists in the U.S. The spy story, a 1942 production, stars Robert Cummings, Priscilla Lane

COVER GIRL—11:30 p.m. on channel 4. Pretty good 1944 musical about a chorus girl and the dancer she loves. Stars Rita Hayworth, Gene Kelly and Phil Silvers.

MONDAY

THE VIRGIN QUEEN — 7:30 p.m. on channel 4 in COLOR. A 1955 release starring Bette Davis, Richard Todd and Joan Collins. About the romance between aging Queen Elizabeth I and handsome young Sir Walter Raleigh.

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME — 8 p.m. and nightly on channel 9. Produced in France, the 1956 movie stars Gina Lollobrigida and Anthony Quinn. Adaptation of Victor Hugo's classic about the love of a hunchbacked bellringer for a beautous gypsy girl.

WEDNESDAY

CONFIDENTIAL AGENT—10 p.m. on channel 9. Pretty good adventure story with the Spanish Civil War as the background. A 1945 production starring Charles Boyer and Lauren Bacall.

FRIDAY

CARBINE WILLIAMS — 7 p.m. on channel 11. Stars James Stewart in a 1952 release. It's about the personal life of the man who invented the carbine rifle for use by the armed forces.

SATURDAY

THE TREASURE OF THE SIERRA MADRE—8:30 p.m. on channel 11. Excellent movie about men who strike gold, then combat bandits and each other. A 1948 production starring Humphrey Bogart and Walter Huston. It's the winner of three Academy Awards, including one of Walter Huston as best supporting actor.

RED BALL EXPRESS—10:30 p.m. on channel 7. Story of an Army transportation corps efforts to get supplies through to stalled tanks at the front. A 1952 movie starring Jeff Chandler, Sidney Poitier and Hugh O'Brien.

BORN YESTERDAY—11:15 p.m. on channel 2. Judy Holliday won an Academy Award as best actress for this one. She plays an ex-chorus girl linked with a millionaire junk dealer. Co-stars Broderick Crawford and William Holden. A 1950 production.

TV MOVIE TIPS

YOU MIGHT NOT BELIEVE IT from this scene with Juliette Greco and Errol Flynn, but the 1958 movie "The Roots of Heaven" is principally about African elephants. It airs 8:30 p. m. Thursday on channel 5 in COLOR.

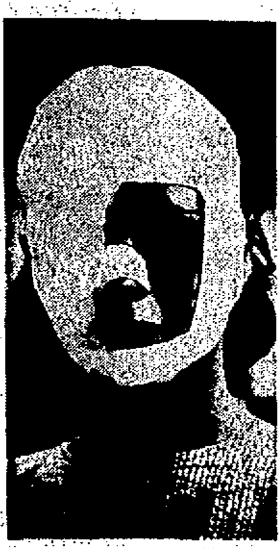
Jana Taylor's Bad Luck Is Good



KEPT UNDER WRAPS

SHATTERING EXPERIENCE FOR JANA TAYLOR

UNWRAPPED

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

For more than a year, Miss Taylor has been the Number One patient on the ABC-TV show. In her case, it pays to be sick. It has paid her thousands of dollars during the past year.

Jana plays the part of "Angie Costello" on the show, a half-hour serial which runs five days a week on the network.

"I must have done close to 150 of the shows," the 20-year-old actress said.

Jana started out on the series as an unfortunate girl who was seriously injured in an automobile accident. Her injuries left a horrible scar on the young lady's face. It took more than a year for the show's doctor star, former baseball player John Berardino to patch her up.

"IT'S BEEN VERY INTERESTING, very challenging," Jana said. "You have a lot of emotion to deal with in a role like that, and that's the challenge—to produce it. It's not just an ingenue role. I don't like straight ingenue work. If I had to do that I wouldn't stay in this business."

In the year since Jana was packed into "General Hospital" to be treated for her injuries, the young actress has been a ready source of hospital-type emotion. If the doctors run out of diseases, they can always practice surgery on Miss Taylor's face.

However, all things must come to an end, even Jana's confinement in the hospital. She has been released, but continued for a while as an out-patient.

JANA IS NOT the only patient on the show. There are others without whom the series could not survive. After all, what good is a hospital if nobody is sick?

For instance, there's somebody on the show who plays a malaria victim. That's good because it takes years to cure such a disease.

Ralph also is an ill character, and therefore always available for an emotional scene.

It appears as if other patients might have to carry the medical case load on "Hospital" now that Jana has been cured. Other things are planned for her.

Jana's father on the show is expected to buy a pizza parlor in which she'll be a waitress. The place will be located near the hospital, of course.

And there's always a chance Jana might become a patient if she gets burned by a roll of hot pizza dough.

SPECIAL

PERRY COMO — For his sixth show of the season, Como goes to the campus of the University of Minnesota, at Minneapolis, presenting singer Keely Smith, comedian Bob Newhart in a salute to the opening of the baseball season, pianist Peter Nero and the University's Men's Glee Club at 10 p.m., cha. 4. Como winds up his season May 28 with an hour from Chicago, returning in the fall with seven more specials in the same time slot, again alternating with "Suspense Theatre."

RICHARD BURTON and the Bard—Playbill editor Walter Wager and ABC's Bob Young interview the actor at a "Hamlet" cast party held last Friday in Boston, exploring the impact of Shakespeare on drama, culture and language on the 400th anniversary of his birth. The 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, program also shows scenes of today's opening night crowds on Broadway where "Hamlet" begins at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre.

BOOT-LICKING BOB

'Obnoxious Lt. Carpenter' Nice Guy's Video Role

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

Hastings plays the role of "Lt. Elroy Carpenter," the boot-licking naval officer on ABC-TV's "McHale's Navy." Bob's role is that of an obnoxious aide to Joe Flynn, the show's grouchy "Capt. Binghamton" who is always trying to get Ernest "McHale" Borgnine tossed out of the Navy.

BOB HASTINGS

It's a rather nasty role that Bob plays. Nobody likes him, not even the contentious captain he's trying to impress.

Personally, Hastings is a nice guy, not at all the status-seeking brass-hat he plays on screen. Bob took the job in "McHale's" expecting that it would be only for one episode.

"I came in the second show for one shot and stayed," he said. "They decided to make me the captain's aide. Nobody takes the beating I do on television. I'm sure the people enjoy watching the 'yes man' get booted."

Hastings said his character of "Lt. Carpenter," albeit a momma's boy, is necessary to the show because "he's somebody the captain can talk to. Everybody else is the captain's enemy.

"Carpenter isn't a dope. He knows the Navy. And he's fallen into the captain's pattern of wanting McHale thrown out off the post. And he resents a man so un-Navy as McHale getting medals.

WHAT STARTED out to be a one-shot part for Hastings appears to be a job that could last four or five years. The show is in its second season now and has been renewed for a third.

Bob has been in the acting business 28 years, starting out as a kid singer on radio's National Barn Dance. When he's not working on "McHale's" Bob appears on other shows.

The "Lt. Carpenter" character is the first time Hastings has played a role other than one which he describes as "everybody's buddy."

"I've always played the fast-talking guy," he said. "We have a great time working on this show. A lot of times when I get hit with something I don't even expect, it's because I haven't been to rehearsal."

Hit is the word. It's not unusual for the irate captain to whack his hapless lieutenant on the head.

California World's Fair

A 15-minute progress report on the 1967-68 California World's Fair in Long Beach will be aired on radio station KFOX (1280) at 5:30 p.m. today (Sunday).

Glenn Watson, executive vice president and general manager for the fair, will present the report, including his outlook on future expectations.

The report will be the first in a series of monthly messages. Various individual leaders associated with the multi-million dollar international project will be featured.

SPECIAL

TENNESSEE ERNIE FORD

A comedy-variety color hour is set against a tax-deductible Sunday barbecue when Ern is advised by his "tax consultant" Jack Benny to entertain some deductible acquaintances. So Ern picks up Andy Williams in a rehearsal hall, Annette Funicello in her rumpus room, and Dorothy Provine in a wardrobe department, and they all join in the backyard fiesta where the ol' Pea Picker sings "16 Tons" and all join in the finale hymn, "How Great Thou Art."

ZSA ZSA GABOR guests on "The Jack Paar Program" at 10 p.m. Friday, channel 4 in COLOR.

Sports Today

NBA BASKETBALL, 8:30 p.m., ch. 9, has the fifth game of the western division playoff, live from the Cow Palace, as the S.F. Warriors host the St. Louis Hawks.

FIGHT OF WEEK, 10 p.m., ch. 7, is a 15-round title bout from New Orleans, with Gregorio Peralta challenging Willie Pastrano for the light-heavyweight crown.

MAKE THAT SPARE, 10:45 p.m., ch. 7, finds last week's Fazio-Weber winner challenged by Bud Hodgson.

BLACK MOMENTS OF REALITY

True Violence on TV Screen Influences Viewer to Avoid Brutal Fiction Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Though Congress may investigate television violence again, it is likely that real-life error on the home screen in recent years is having more effect on the viewer mood than the fiction.

It may not be too far-fetched to suggest that from seeing these black moments of reality, some good is emerging in merely making the vast audience of televiewers more sensitive to the horrors of violence and hate in an edgy world.

Consider some of the events of these years that have been seen in living rooms across the nation:

There was the night that a televised boxing match ended with one of the participants, Benny (Kid) Paret, being fatally injured.

There was the killing of President Kennedy, which, while not telecast nationally at the moment the shooting occurred, was quickly aired in reconstructed film form.

There was the fatal shooting of Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee Oswald, by Jack Ruby.

There was the televised verdict of death at Ruby's trial.

ONE OF OUR LAWYER friends thinks that the harsh verdicts in the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnaping and Ruby cases may well stem partly from a modern-era reaction by citizens against fear of bodily harm. In short, that the uneasiness of current life—including the bomb—has made possible bodily offense a more personal matter.

Be that as it may, there is no question that present and future network entertainment schedules contain a good deal less violence than in the past—and congressional investigations of fiction are by no means the only reason any more.

Violence, of course, is always around, often in legitimate dramatic form. But few serious parties pay attention to the nonsensical arguments that since Shakespeare and other great writers employed violence, the often crude video handlers should therefore be considered in the same light.

IT IS PROBABLY no accident that the highest-rated western on the air, "Bonanza," is relatively light on violence, and that the majority of most-watched shows are comedies. There will be even more laughers on the networks in the fall.

The National Association of Broadcasters recently toughened its guidelines for commercials about warlike toys. Boxing, which once had three weekly network programs, will soon have none. On April 28, David Brinkley will narrate a special called "Boxing's Last Round."

These, of course, are only items—as was Gary Cooper's lament, shortly before he died, about the over-emphasis in western fiction on cowboy punks. The prime fact is that neither do-gooders nor reformers can move the public like a first-hand look at the true face of violence itself.

'Mr. Broadway'

Broadway playwright-director Garson Kahn. ("Born Yesterday") has discovered television and is under contract to David Susskind of Talent Associates to provide two pilot scripts for prospective series for next fall. One is an hour show called "Mr. Broadway," about a press agent, and the other is a half-hour idea entitled "Missie," dealing with the adventures of a small-town girl in New York.

Walter Scott's

Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy could have easily survived the wound from his assassin's first bullet, but that the third bullet, allegedly fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, really did him in? I've read so many conflicting reports about the shooting. Is there an authoritative autopsy report or something?—A.T., Arlington, Tex.

A. The autopsy report given to the Secret Service and the Warren Commission reveals that Kennedy was struck first in the upper part of the right back shoulder. The bullet caused a hematoma, a swelling containing blood, inside the neck and shoulder muscles. Physicians believe the President might easily have recovered from that wound. The second bullet to hit the late President, thought to have been the third shot fired by the assassin, hit Kennedy in the lower right back side of the head. It caused such immediate and violent destruction to his head as to be "completely incompatible with life." That bullet destroyed considerable brain tissue, severely damaged the forehead, and a fragment from that bullet exited through the throat. The throat wound, first observed by Dallas physicians who tried to save the President, gave rise to the speculation that two assassins might have been involved in the murder, one shooting from the front and one from the rear. The autopsy report proves conclusively, however, that the shots which killed the President were fired from behind. The Dallas doctors who treated him at Parkland Memorial Hospital were unaware that the President had been first shot in the shoulder since he was on his back at all times while at the hospital. An autopsy was performed on the late President's body on November 22, 1963, at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Q. Will Dolores del Rio (r.) ever see 60 again?—Diane Home, El Paso, Tex.

A. Never.

Q. Will Mrs. J. D. Tippit of Dallas pay income tax on the more than $600,000 in gifts she's received?—Mrs. D. Gregory, Portland, Ore.

A. No.

Q. Ernest Hemingway left an estate valued at more than a million bucks. My question is, how much of the estate was in stocks and bonds? — K. Peters, Sun Valley, Ida.

A. The estate included $418,933 in stocks and bonds; $801,766 in real estate; $189,611 in notes, cash and mortgages. Stocks held by Hemingway included 304 shares of Eastman Kodak, 504 shares of General Motors, 280 shares of American Tobacco, 240 shares of Bethlehem Steel and 336 shares of AT&T.

Q. On what grounds did Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Jackie Kennedy, receive an annulment of her 1953 marriage to Michael Canfield? — Leon Guterman, Miami, Fla.

A. The annulment was granted on a charge that Canfield, a non-Catholic, had entered the marriage with no intention of having children.

Q. Does the Austrian police force consist of Nazis? Is that why they roughed up our Olympic stars at Innsbruck? — Heidi Gunther, Oakland, Calif.

A. Says sportscaster Tom Harmon, who covered the Winter Olympics: "It was a brutal mish-mash. Some of the Austrian police reminded me of the Storm Troopers in Hitler Germany. They are completely totalitarian. Their dislikes were not confined to Americans, but included everyone visiting there. They set the tourist trade in Austria back 10 years."

Q. How old is Lana Turner? Does she drink?—Ina Kurtz, Columbia, S.C.

A. Miss Turner, 44, has been known to indulge.

Q. Why has the press consistently refused to tell the story of Father Donald Runkle?—T.R.S., Washington, D.C.

A. The press has carried the story of how Father Runkle, 50, was ordered by a Chicago judge to pay damages to 38-year-old Robert McArdle for alienating the affections of Mrs. McArdle, 36. She was the organist at Father Runkle's church and was divorced last summer because of an affair with the priest from 1958 to 1962. After doing penance, Father Runkle was transferred from Chicago to Odessa, Tex.

Q. How long has* Gunsmoke *been on the air? Is it true that Jim Arness and Amanda Blake have been made millionaires by the show?—Chuck Adams, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Gunsmoke has been on the air 11 years. Both Arness and Blake as a result are in the millionaire class or soon will be.

Q. Does Zsa Zsa Gabor have any ability as an actress—I mean as a serious actress?—Elaine Hammer, Jersey City, N.J.

A. Practically none.

Q. Is Frank Costello still the leader of the Mafia in this country?—Dino Landi, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Police authorities believe the leader still to be Vito Genovese.

Q. Which one of these is the most disliked actor in Hollywood: Glenn Ford, Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas?—Lou Oliver, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Douglas insists he's the most disliked.

Q. One of the British Beatles, Paul McCartney, dated actress Jill Haworth in New York and Miami. Is this serious or just publicity? Isn't Jill the girl friend of Sal Mineo?—Dolores Finch, Hempstead, N.Y.

A. Jill and Paul are friends. The Beatles don't need any more publicity. Jill and Sal are not as close as they once were.

Q. Is the David Susskind marriage breaking up?—G.T., Swampscott, Mass.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me if the State of New York pays Governor Rockefeller his full salary while he's running around the country? —R.W. Wales, Syracuse, N.Y.

A. Yes. Potential Presidential candidates are not taken off salary because they aspire to higher office.

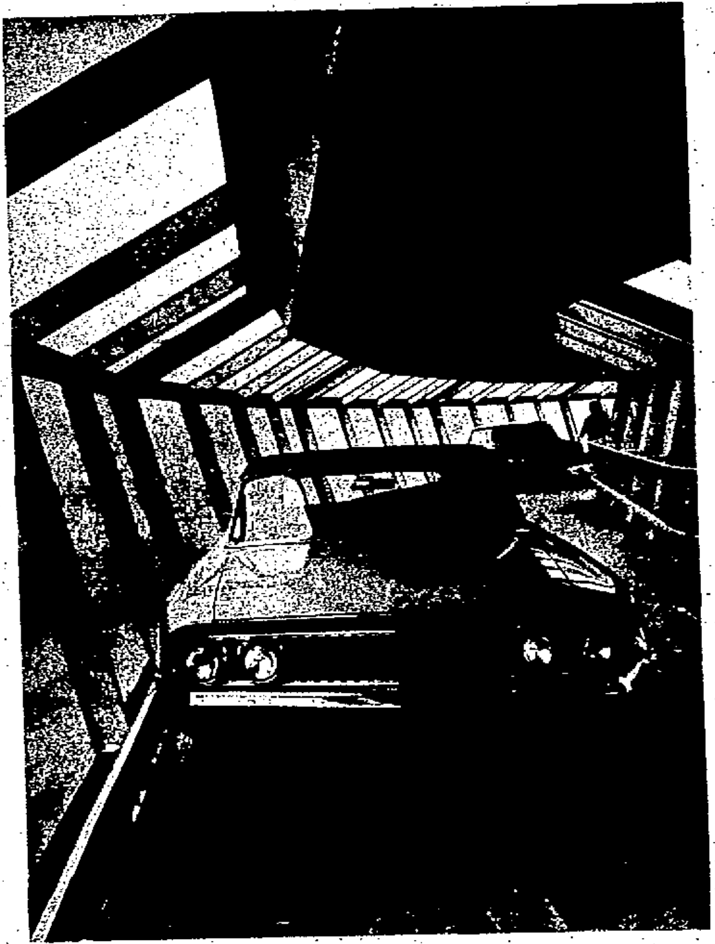
1964's BIG SHOW

HERE'S YOUR PREVIEW OF THE WORLD'S FAIR • by NEAL ASHBY



Ford's "Magic Skyway" ride in convertibles begins with ascent up plastic tunnel overlooking Fair. Cars move inside Ford Pavilion, seem to speed through time and arrive at the "dawn of life on earth." Disney-developed electronic cavemen wave and speak. Ride moves on to coming Space Age. Passengers wear seat belts.

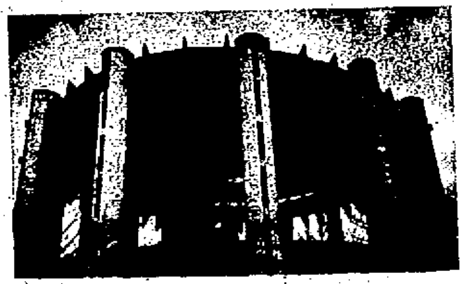
Monorail, 40 feet up, carries 40 passengers per car around amusement area. The ride lasts 7 minutes.

Hawaiian beauties in leis, native costumes, will dance a hula six times a day inside Hawaii's Pavilion.



Tent of Tomorrow, built by New York state, will house fashion shows, programs. Roof is multicolored.

The gates to New York's billion-dollar 1964-65 World's Fair swing open on April 22. Awaiting visiting throngs inside will be 150 exhibit pavilions of every color and shape, every kind of show the entertainment world can produce, the earth's greatest treasures and achievements on display. The Fair-goer can check a child, get a free shoeshine, appear on color television.

Where does he start? A book couldn't tell you everything about the Fair. But to simplify matters, the Fair site at Flushing Meadow Park is divided into 5 principal areas. Why not begin in the area that promises to hold the highest interest for you? Here are the areas and some of their highlights:

TRANSPORTATION. America's auto manufacturers will have major exhibits. General Motors is prepared to send off 70,000 persons a day on its Futurama ride. They'll see man as GM thinks he will function in a variety of future earthly and space settings.

On 5 bridge-connected islands in an artificial lake, Chrysler Corp. will demonstrate such facets of its operation as engineering, production and styling. One feature will be a walk-through "engine." Ford will usher guests into convertibles which will carry them through lifelike scenes of prehistoric times, then of a yet-to-come era when Space has been conquered. Walt Disney-created animated electronic figures will perform.

INDUSTRIAL. Under a transparent dome inside its big pavilion, General Electric will produce nuclear fusion. A tremendous electrical current will super-heat plasma of deuterium gas. A flash of light, a rush of sound, and deuterium nuclei will fuse and produce a small burst of energy.

In the 17,000-seat Singer Bowl, events like Olympic trials and folk dancing will take place. Visitors to the IBM Pavilion will ascend on moving chairs into a giant egg where they will attend a computer program.

LAKE AMUSEMENT. Sleek, two-car monorail trains will circle over this reservation of dance, song and thrills (80¢ for a 7-minute ride). The entertainments down below will include Michael Todd, Jr.'s modern minstrel show aboard a Mississippi River showboat on Meadow Lake, an all-new Wax Museum.

INTERNATIONAL. Classic statuary created in the pre-Christian period will be arrayed in the Greek Pavilion. Hawaii's presentation will include hula dancing, Spain's performances by renowned concert artists, the Caribbean its own distinctive foods and music.

FEDERAL AND STATE. Beneath the multicolored dome of New York's Tent of Tomorrow, daily fashion shows and other special programs will be staged. The 11 many-sided sections of the Minnesota Pavilion make it one of the Fair's most far-out architectural concepts.

Fully 80 per cent of all Fair exhibits are free. Admission to the grounds is $2 for adults and $1 for children. Greyhound is supplying transportation in 3 types of vehicles at fares from 25¢ to $9 an hour.

There are 111 restaurants. Prices range from 30¢ for a hot dog at one of the 25 Brass Rail refreshment centers to $6.25 for a steak, à la carte, at the Top of the Fair restaurant. Rest rooms are provided at every refreshment center, every pavilion. There is parking space for 20,000 cars ($1.50).

How long will it take to get a reasonable look at everything? Twelve 8-hour days!

YOUR TRIP TO THE WORLD'S FAIR

These two pages of PARADE guarantee you a perfect summer vacation. With PARADE's special World's Fair offer at left, and the special trip prepared with the assistance of the American Automobile Association at right, you and your family—no matter where you live—can drive to and from the top travel attraction of 1964 and get the most out of every mile. You'll know what routes to take, where to stop and what to see as you go. It adds up to the ultimate in economy, enjoyment and family fun.

To plan your family's trip, consult the map for the point closest to your home, then pick up the trip from there. Trips are planned in a loop, and you can begin and end the loop at any point and still see plenty of America. You can also shorten the trip if you wish. The summary below tells you cost, distance to be covered each day, places to stop, what to see.

Note that costs are based on overnight stays in hotels or motels, and all meals taken in restaurants. You can save considerably by camping, or by planning picnic meals.

TRIP FROM THE WEST

Beginning from Las Vegas, Nev., trip lasts 31 days, covers 6,018 miles round trip. Basic cost for couple: $864, including $330 for overnight lodging, $315 for meals, $75 for tips and miscellaneous and $144 for gas and oil, based on 15 miles to the gallon. Extras should be added for admissions, garage parking in New York, tolls, souvenirs. If children are going, add $225 per child to the basic cost.

1st DAY: Las Vegas to the Grand Canyon, via Williams, Ariz., about 230 miles. One of the nation's most spectacular attractions; stay overnight. (Reserve ahead.) Permit to enter the park is $1.

2nd DAY: Grand Canyon to Albuquerque, N. Mex., 357 miles. Near Flagstaff, Ariz., on U.S. 66, visit Meteor Crater, formed 50,000 years ago when a mammoth meteor struck earth. You'll cross the Painted Desert, can also see the Petrified Forest, still arrive in Albuquerque in time for dinner in a Mexican restaurant in Old Town.

3rd DAY: Albuquerque to Santa Fe, 60 miles. An intriguing town for a day's sight-seeing. See the Palace of the Governors, first building in the country put up for governmental use, and used until 1910. Good place to stay is the LaFonda Hotel.

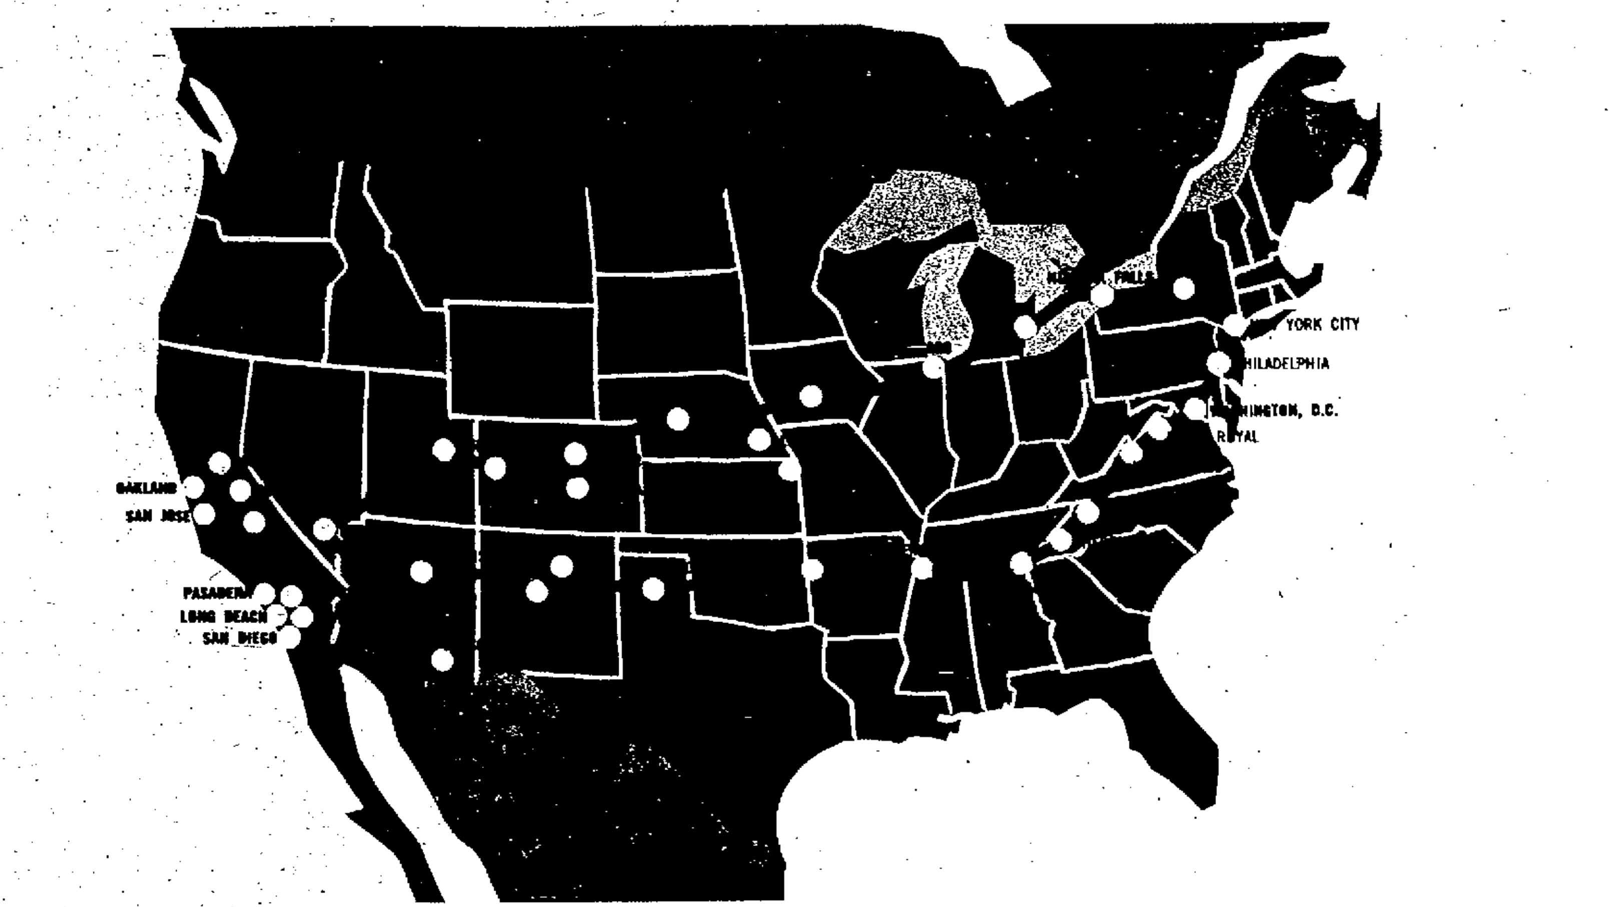
5th DAY: Amarillo to Fort Smith, Ark., about 462 miles. A driving day.

6th DAY: Fort Smith to Memphis, Tenn., about 300 miles. Route takes you through the beautiful Ozark Mountains. In Memphis, visit one of the jazz houses on Beale Street, see the colorful Cotton Exchange. You'll also enjoy Chucalissa, a prehistoric Indian village now being reconstructed after extensive archeological excavations.



7th DAY: Memphis to Chattanooga, about 310 miles. This is TVA country; you'll see spectacular Muscle Shoals, Wheeler and Wilson dams. At Chattanooga, visit Lookout Mountain (go by inclined railway), tour the Chattanooga-Chickamauga battlefields, scenes of critical fighting in the Civil War.

8th DAY: Chattanooga to Great Smokies, about 190 miles. You'll come in via the homespun settlement of Cades Cove. Then stop in Gatlinburg for lunch and to shop for souvenirs and mountain honey. Cross through the park; you might spend the night at Cherokee, N.C., where there's a restored Cherokee tribal village and museum. From June to September, the Mountainside Theater presents Unto These Hills, a historical drama of the Cherokees. Write in advance for reservations.

9th DAY: Cherokee to Blowing Rock, N.C., about 150 miles. At Asheville, visit the famous Biltmore Estate, built by George Vanderbilt, then enter the Blue Ridge Parkway, one of the world's most scenic drives, for a 99-mile trip to mountaintop Blowing Rock. You might include a side trip up Mount Mitchell, highest peak in the East. Be sure to make motel reservations for Blowing Rock.

10th DAY: Blowing Rock to Waynesboro, Va., about 267 miles. You'll spend most of the day on the road—9 to 10 hours because of winding parkway.

11th DAY: Waynesboro to Front Royal, Va., about 132 miles. Route follows the majestic Skyline Drive through Shenandoah National Park. Take your time; stop often at overlooks. A side trip to Luray Caverns is well worth it.

13th DAY: In Washington. Since your driving was so brief on the 12th day, you'll have 2 full days to enjoy the nation's capital, with its aura of excitement as the center of government activities, its foreign embassies, its beautiful parks and avenues. Musts to see are the White House, the Capitol, the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and Jefferson Memorial; if you have time, stroll along Massachusetts Avenue's Embassy Row, see the Washington Cathedral and Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, two magnificent houses of worship. Visitors this year will also want to see the John F. Kennedy grave in Arlington National Cemetery, overlooking the Potomac.

14th DAY: Washington to New York, 250 miles. With an early start, you can include a short side trip to Philadelphia.

19th DAY: New York to Utica, 270 miles. Leave New York via the New York Thruway. At Central Valley Interchange, take a side trip to West Point and the U.S. Military Academy. (If you wish, you can eat or even stay overnight at the U.S.-owned, AAA-approved Hotel Thayer, right on the Academy grounds.) Return to the Thruway at Newburgh, continue to Utica, entrance to the Adirondack Mountains and the Thousand Islands.

20th DAY: From Utica to Niagara, 225 miles. You should arrive in time to go aboard the Maid of the Mist, or take an elevator trip below the Falls. Cross to the Canadian side for a view of the Falls from the new Seagram Tower, to shop in the duty-free shops or, at night, for a look at the Falls under special illumination. An excellent hotel on the U.S. side is the Sheraton Block, where many rooms overlook the Falls. Because of the popularity of Niagara, however, you should write well in advance for reservations.

21st DAY: Niagara Falls to Detroit, about 260 miles. Start early and you can visit the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, an excellent museum of Americana at Dearborn.

22nd DAY: Detroit to Chicago, 300 miles.

23rd DAY: In Chicago. See the Art Institute; Merchandise Mart, one of the largest office buildings in the world; Museum of Science and Industry; Union Stock Yards, the Lincoln Park Zoo and the suburban Brookfield Zoo.

25th DAY: Des Moines to North Platte, Kans., 400 miles. A driving day.

26th DAY: North Platte to Denver, 260 miles. Of interest: the Civic Center, with its statues of Kit Carson and the Bucking Bronco; the Art Museum; the Museum of Natural History. Visit the Mint—but write ahead to make arrangements. Children under 8 are not admitted.

27th DAY: Denver and vicinity. Visit Rocky Mountain National Park, where 59 peaks are over 12,000 feet high, including the granddaddy, Longs Peak, 14,256 feet.

CLOSE TO HOME

28th DAY: Denver to Colorado Springs, 67 miles. For a taste of luxury, stop at the world-famous resort, Hotel Broadmoor. Also drive up Pikes Peak (road opens May 1), visit the Air Force Academy.

29th DAY: Colorado Springs to Grand Junction, Colo., 300 miles. En route, at Canon City, see the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River, with its sheer cliffs rising 1,200 feet. A suspension bridge spans the river at 1,053 feet.

31st DAY: Price to Las Vegas, Nev., approximately 415 miles. A driving day.

[illegible] MAJORS IN COURAGE

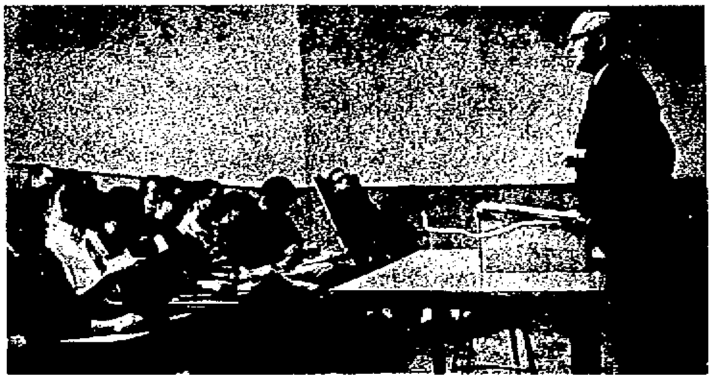
Helped by brother Ron, polio victim Ed Roberts goes to classes.

Homework in the horizontal: with book propped before him, Ed turns pages with wand held in his teeth. Below, he attends political science lecture. Ed hopes eventually to enter politics.



BERKELEY, CALIF.

Students at the University of California here have grown used to seeing senior Ed Roberts attending classes, and they have come to regard him with the special awe usually reserved for a hero.

For Edward Verne Roberts is a hero. With little to sustain him but a burning determination and lots of heart, he has overcome tremendous odds: he has bulbar polio—the worst kind—and it has not stopped him.

Few people thought there was any sense in his trying to go to college after polio struck at the end of his sophomore year in high school.

"Not go to college? It never entered my mind," he protests, his voice growing hard and firm as he adds: "I am determined to go as far as I can. I don't see any closed doors."

Keeping those doors open requires the discipline to stick to a rigid and rigorous schedule. Ed uses special forced breathing techniques that must be repeated constantly and consciously controlled. He can't walk and is confined to a wheelchair. He turns book pages with a wand held in his teeth; the book itself is propped before him on a rack. The wand is also used to operate a tape recorder so he can keep audio notes and play them back at any time.

He needs constant help. His brother Ron, also a student at the University, gets him up in the morning, helps him eat breakfast and for the rest of the morning wheels him to and from classes scattered widely around the hilly campus.

After lunch they return to the University infirmary where Ed lives, and most of the afternoon is spent doing homework and resting.

At 5:30 P.M., an orderly arrives to help take care of him. The orderly feeds and bathes Ed, and remains near by through the night in case of any emergency. Roberts' former orderly, Charles Buff, who had experience tending polio victims while at high school, says that Ed Roberts was a special case for him. "Even if the job paid nothing, working with Ed would have been compensation enough."

NIGHT IN AN IRON LUNG

At 7:30 Ed goes into an iron lung for 12 hours, so that when he sleeps, the machine controls his breathing for him.

Before polio struck, Ed Roberts had been an active, athletic youth. The disease was so severe that had it not been for the medical discoveries of the past dozen years, doctors say, he would have died.

Instead, he recovered sufficiently to attend some classes as a high school senior. That in itself was a major step, because during the intervening two years, he had been getting his instruction via an intercom set up between his home and the school.

Ed decided to go to San Mateo Junior College to continue his education. But the possibility of entering a full-time university was still up in the air. He could not even bring himself to consider the Berkeley campus at first. It was too hilly, and he knew nobody he could ask for help.

However, Dr. Henry B. Bruhn, director of the student health service at Berkeley, encouraged him.

So did his late father, a diesel engineer with the Southern Pacific Company, and his mother, a part-time religious education director for the Unitarian Church.

And at the University infirmary, according to Dr. Bruhn, Ed is an inspiration to the healthy as well as the handicapped. "He is in sharp contrast to the average person who has to face such a disastrous disability and usually retreats into a vegetable existence. But Ed Roberts does the best with what he has, and he has a fine mind."

Ed Roberts' intent is not to stop when he finishes college, although his plans currently have not jelled. He is a "B" student, a political science major and will be graduated next June. Law school, he says, may follow. But, what then?

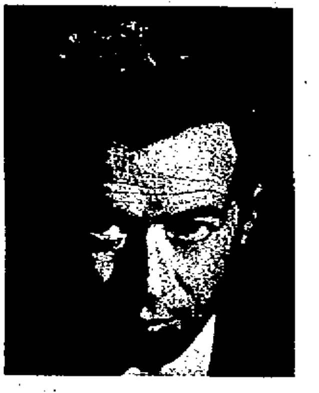
He may teach law in college, or may go into practice.

But his face lights up as he says he "may seek public office, eventually. I would like to go into politics. But this is a dream. Perhaps it isn't too far from reality. All of us must have dreams. I think I know how people feel and what they need. If I'm in the legislature, perhaps I can help people with their problems."

I'LL MAKE YOU A MENTAL WIZARD IN ONE EVENING!

Yes! Here at last is your chance to gain the THINKING-MACHINE MIND you've dreamed about . . . so easily and quickly you'll be astounded . . . and do it without risking a penny!

By HARRY LORAYNE



Let me explain! I don't care how poorly organized your mental powers are today — how difficult it is for you to concentrate . . . how bad your memory may be . . . how much a prisoner you are of crippling mental habits . . . how long it takes you each morning to get your mind going with adding-machine speed and certainty!

I BELIEVE THAT YOUR MIND IS WORKING TODAY AT ONLY 5% TO 10% OF ITS TRUE POWER—SIMPLY BECAUSE YOU DON'T KNOW THE RIGHT WAY TO FEED IT DIRECTIONS!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind problems — so clearly and logically that those problems half-solve themselves before you even touch them!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind facts, figures and names and faces — so they burn themselves into that mind in such picture-form that you remember them forever!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind a FULL CHARGE OF ENTHUSIASM — so that it revs up instantly every morning . . . so that it operates at full power, not for just a few brief minutes each day, BUT FOR 10 HOURS AT A STRETCH!

Mind Power Is A Trick! I'll Teach It To You In One Weekend!

Yes! Problem-solving is a trick! Concentration is a trick! Memory is a trick! Habit-breaking is a trick! And, above all, generating the will power that means success IS A TRICK! Mind power can be made to order — you don't have to be born with it! The secret of a fast-acting, full-power, THINKING MACHINE MIND is as simple as tying your shoelace! And I'm willing to prove it to you without your risking a penny! Here's how!

All I ask from you is this. Let me send you — at my risk — one of the most fascinating books you have ever read. When this book arrives, set aside a few moments each day from the following weekend. Glance through just one chapter. And get ready for one of the most thrilling weekends of accomplishment in your entire life!

The Very First Hour After You Pick Up This Book, You Will Perform A Feat Of Mind Power That Will Astound Your Friends!

What you are going to do in that very first hour you receive the book, is this. Turn to page 144. Read three short pages — no more! And then, put down the book. Review in your mind the one simple secret I've shown you — how to feed facts into your mind so that they stay there, permanently, as long as you wish!

Then put this simple trick to work for you — that very same hour!

Call in your family or friends. Ask them to make a list of any TWELVE facts, names or objects they wish, as fast as they wish. Have them write down the list so they won't forget it! But, as they give you each fact, YOU are going to perform a simple mental trick on that fact, that will burn it into your mind, IN PERFECT ORDER, as long as you wish!

And then — INSTANTLY AND AUTOMATICALLY — you are going to repeat that list, backwards and forwards, in perfect order, exactly as if you were reading that list in your friend's hand! And you are going to have one of the most exciting moments of your life, as you watch the expression on those people's faces as you reel off those facts as though they were flashing on a screen on the inside of your memory!

Thrilling? Yes! But also one of the most profitable secrets you will ever learn. For that list of twelve facts can just as easily be an appointment schedule—with each appointment flashing automatically into your mind at just the right time and place that you need it! Or a shopping list — or the outline of a speech — or a sales presentation — or the highlights of an important article — or a list of things that have to be done in perfect order!

Any one of them — they flash into your mind automatically, as though you pressed a button! And this astonishing mental gift — which will serve you every day for the rest of your life — is yours from the very first hour that you pick up this book!

And yet it's only the beginning!

Which Areas Of Your Mind Do You Want To Strengthen In A Single Weekend? Concentration, Will-Power, Self-Confidence, Habit-Breaking!

Yes! From this moment on, in less than one thrilling hour a day, you begin testing the wonder-working techniques of Automatic Organization on every untrained corner of your mind! You begin breaking through mental barriers — mental limitations that have been blocking you for years!

You begin tapping the buried powers of your own mind . . . powers that you have glimpsed before in brief flashes . . . now brought to the surface — organized with simple formulas to double their potency — and placed forever at your beck and call, ready to go to work for you at the blink of an eyelash!

For example —

DO YOU WANT TO DEVELOP "STEEL-SHUTTER CONCENTRATION" — OVERNIGHT?

Then turn to page 85 . . . master one simple exercise . . . and thrill to your ability to absorb huge amounts of information — easily and swiftly — even in a room filled with half a dozen howling children!

DO YOU WANT TO DEVELOP "X-RAY EYES" — POWERS OF OBSERVATION THAT AMAZE YOUR FRIENDS?

Then turn to page 136 . . . play three fascinating games . . . and then startle your friends, time and time again, by your ability to spot revealing details — put together hidden pieces of evidence — that they never even dreamed were there at all!

DO YOU WANT TO SEE HOW EASY IT IS TO REPLACE BAD HABITS WITH HABITS YOU CAN BE PROUD OF?

Then get ready for the revelation of your life on page 103 . . . that replaces agony with fun . . . that actually lets your bad habits break themselves without your hardly touching your will power.

YES! AND DO YOU WANT TO GENERATE ENTHUSIASM . . . FRIENDLINESS . . . PERSONALITY AT AN INSTANT COMMAND?

Then read every word starting on page 165! Learn how to overcome shyness and fear, automatically . . . make anyone like you . . . dissolve opposition with as little as a single word . . . earn both trust and respect from everyone you meet — and keep them — for good!

Read It For Ten Days — Entirely At Our Risk

And this still is just the beginning!

What Harry Lorayne has described to you on this page is just a small sampling of the information packed into his amazing new book, SECRETS OF MIND POWER — now available only through this article!

Here at last is a practical, fascinating, easy-to-read book on improving the powers of your mind that really works! Its author, Harry Lorayne, has been called by experts "the man with the most phenomenal memory in the world!" He has already shown over 250,000 men and women, all over America, how they can achieve startling improvements in their memories overnight, with just a few minutes work!

But this fabulous Push-Button Memory Technique is only one small part of Harry Lorayne's great new book! Here — in addition to Memory — are complete "Push-Button Sections" on Observation, Concentration, Enthusiasm, Will-Power, Idea-Creating, Rapid-Learning, Time-Saving, Clear-Thinking, Personality, Friend-Making, Public-Speaking, Worry-Control, Conquest of Fear, and many more!

Yes! Here are dozens of simple techniques that enable you to overcome crippling emotions, and keep your thoughts headed straight for each goal! Showing you how to think clearly and effectively in any situation — make decisions without agonizing delays — learn vital facts and figures at a glance — work at full mental power, all day long, for weeks and even months on end!

Here are tested, and proven "Thought-Stimulators" that streamline your mind — develop your creative imagination — increase your daily output — help you make time for everything you have to do!

Here are "Confidence-Generators," that let you laugh off worries and fears — make your own good luck — keep other people from taking advantage of you — turn bad breaks into opportunities — yes, even sharpen your sense of humor and improve your ability to speak well, whether in private conversation or before a crowd of hundreds!

It Must Work For You — Or You Don't Pay A Penny

The price of this giant, one-volume Mind-Power Encyclopedia is $4.98 — far less than similar books that do not do its job as well! And it is yours to read without risking a penny! You prove it to yourself at our risk for ten full days! It must do everything we say — you must be amazed and delighted — or simply return it at the end of that time for every cent of your money back immediately! Send in the No-Risk Coupon — TODAY!

NEW FROM SARA LEE

The freshest caramel pecan rolls you never baked

{Just warm and enjoy}

Where can you find completely baked caramel pecan rolls that taste like they're right out of the oven? In your grocer's freezer! The new ones from Sara Lee.

Sara Lee freezes them the moment they're popped out of the oven—"stopping the clock" on flavor and freshness until you warm them and serve them at home.

Completely baked. In your grocer's freezer.

Freezing also lets Sara Lee use lots of fresh butter and eggs and whole milk—with no artificial preservatives.

Try some tomorrow morning. Sara Lee Caramel Pecan Rolls. Put them on your breakfast table all fresh and warm and covered with rich caramel and crisp pecans.

Great day in the morning!

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BAKER & KERR. The senator who most influenced Bobby Baker in his take-care-of-yourself-first attitude was the late Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, one of the sharpest, shrewdest, trickiest wheeler-dealers Washington has ever seen. Kerr, often called the uncrowned king of the Senate, was born in a log cabin in Indian territory before it became the state of Oklahoma. He built up an industrial empire (Kerr-McGee Industries) in oil, banking and mining worth $200,000,000. When he died in January 1963, his personal fortune was estimated at $50,000,000. Kerr was chairman of the powerful Space Committee and he saw to it that Oklahoma got plenty of space contracts. A month after North American decided to erect a gigantic plant in Tulsa to build $900,000,000 worth of equipment for the Apollo Project, Fred Black, a lobbyist for North American, and Bobby Baker both borrowed money from Kerr's bank for their vending company. Baker and Kerr were thicker than thieves, and the full truth of their relationship will probably never be known. Senator Kerr, for example, was fanatically opposed to the late President Kennedy's Medicare bill. This bill was defeated by one vote at the time Bobby Baker, as secretary to the Democratic majority, was a key man in that extremely close legislative battle.

THE LATE SEN. ROBERT KERR AND BOBBY BAKER.

YOUTH REGAINED. Dr. Tiberius Reiter, 61, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, recently announced in London a new method of injecting testosterone, a key male hormone, into the bodies of old men, thereby restoring their virility. Reiter injects testosterone pellets into the muscle in the buttocks, and these pellets release a small amount of testosterone into the blood stream each day. Full details of Reiter's work have been forwarded to the American Geriatrics Society.

CONTRACEPTIVE MARKET. The market for oral contraceptives in this country is growing so rapidly that most of the major pharmaceutical houses want part of it. At the moment, two companies, Johnson & Johnson and G. D. Searle & Co., have the lion's share. But Upjohn, Syntex, Parke Davis, Mead Johnson, Eli Lilly and Wyeth Laboratories are all preparing to compete.

PERSONALIZED AIR CONDITIONING. A personal air conditioner, 12 inches long and weighing only 6 ounces, has been developed at the Savannah River Laboratories in Aiken, S.C. The device, which delivers cold air via plastic tubes to various parts of the body, was developed for use by chemical and atomic workers who labor in hot or contaminated air.

BEST-SELLING PLAY. The Deputy, controversial drama by Rolf Hochhuth, dealing with the refusal of Pope Pius XII to denounce the Nazi mass murder of the Jews, may well become the best-selling play in published form of the 1960s. Grove Press, publishers of the drama in this country, reports that it sold 40,000 copies less than one week after the play opened in New York. More than 250,000 copies of The Deputy have already been sold throughout Europe.

POPE PIUS XII AND PLAYWRIGHT ROLF HOCHHUTH.

FOR UNHAPPY GIRLS. The British are experimenting with homes for teenage girls who do not get on with their parents. The first has just been opened in Birmingham. Residents are girls who have "a drunken father or a stepmother they can't get on with, or find that for some other reason conditions at home are unbearable. It is usually circumstances like these," says one of the home's officials, "that lead to girls succumbing to temptation and getting into trouble."

SOFT DRINKS. According to a Commerce Department forecast, Americans will guzzle more soft drinks this year than ever before -- approximately 222 eight-ounce bottles apiece. Last year each of us drank 217 such drinks.

READING DELINQUENCY. From 20 to 30% of the children in a typical American classroom eventually learn to hate school. One reason, claims Morton Botel, national reading expert, is this: "Up to 15 million children are so seriously retarded in reading that they cannot understand their textbooks."

Pillsbury

The Vienn-easiest

One for New Vienna Style White Cake

One for the Fluffy White Frosting

Until just recently, tortes were for kings and such. Now Pillsbury brings you a velvety-new white cake that's ideal for tortes or regular two-layer cakes. It bakes up brimming with delicate sour cream flavor. Comes out of the oven so tall and moist it's easy to slice the two layers in half to make four. Then frost between layers and crown with peaks and swirls. It's elegant but easy. And very inexpensive. How about a little foreign intrigue at your house tonight?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Larry Wilde, one of the fastest-rising night club comedians in the business, is a product of Jersey City, the Marine Corps and the University of Miami in Coral Gables. Wilde, born in Jersey City, got his first taste of show business in the Marines, where, as a member of the Special Services Branch, he wrote, directed and produced variety shows. After two years of service, he enrolled at the University of Miami, majoring in speech and drama. Since graduation Larry has performed as a comedian in more than 400 cities throughout the world. He has appeared with such top attractions as Martha Raye, the Kingston Trio, Andy Williams and Roberta Sherwood, telling such jokes as these:

I was in a book store last week and overheard a man say to the salesgirl: "Where will I find a copy of the book, Man—Master of the Home?"

"Sir," she replied, "the fiction department is two aisles over."

I once worked with six chorus girls who led rather unusual lives. Five of them married very wealthy men—millionaires. The sixth one married a musician who was broke. And just to show you the queer twist of fate, the girl who married the poor musician turned out to be the only one who was unhappy.

My neighbor's stockbroker advised him to buy stock in a company called United Uranium. So he bought the stock, and it went down. His broker said, "Don't worry, it's going to go up, buy more!" So he bought more, but it continued to go down.

In desperation my neighbor went to a fortuneteller who said, "Don't buy United Uranium, buy Amalgamated Metal." So he bought Amalgamated Metal, and the stock went up. He was furious with his broker. He called him and said, "You told me to buy United Uranium, and it went down. My fortuneteller told me to buy Amalgamated Metal, and it went up!"

"Don't blame me," answered the broker. "My fortuneteller said United Uranium!"

They have some wonderful toys for the kids nowadays. I saw one the other day called an "educational toy." It's designed so that the child can adjust to the world as he finds it. No matter how he puts the toy together—it's wrong.

The AMA has just announced a new development in surgery. They say that surgeons can now remove the top of a man's skull and replace it with the lid from a pressure cooker. That's so he can whistle before he blows his top!

A scientist in Boston just came up with a new discovery. He tried to pour five quarts of water into a three-quart container. Naturally, he couldn't do it. So he proved that you cannot put more into something than it will hold.

Just then, his wife walked in wearing slacks—and shot the whole theory right out the window!

Wiss* English Pattern shears cut 5 miles of hedge and still keep their edge
(MY WORD!)

Best bloomin' shears around? If not, the chaps who cut hedges professionally are making a big mistake.

Why do they choose Wiss English Pattern Shears? Balance, for one thing (some hedge shears are so blade-heavy you can hardly stand up straight when you use them).

The patented neoprene shock absorber, for another. It takes the jolt, not your arms.

And, of course, there's the quality of the blades themselves—we use a hot-drop-forged steel. Smashing stuff to cut with. Keeps its edge long after cut-rate shears have called it quits.

Incidentally, it's not required that you be a professional hedge cutter to use these shears. The only credentials you need at your hardware, department or garden supply store is the required sum of money.

We're very democratic.

SUGGESTIONS FROM
MRS. DAN GERBER

Signs of self-feeding starting to show? Finger foods, like Gerber Meat or Chicken Sticks are helpful for practicing hand-to-mouth coordination. Tasty ways to do it, too.

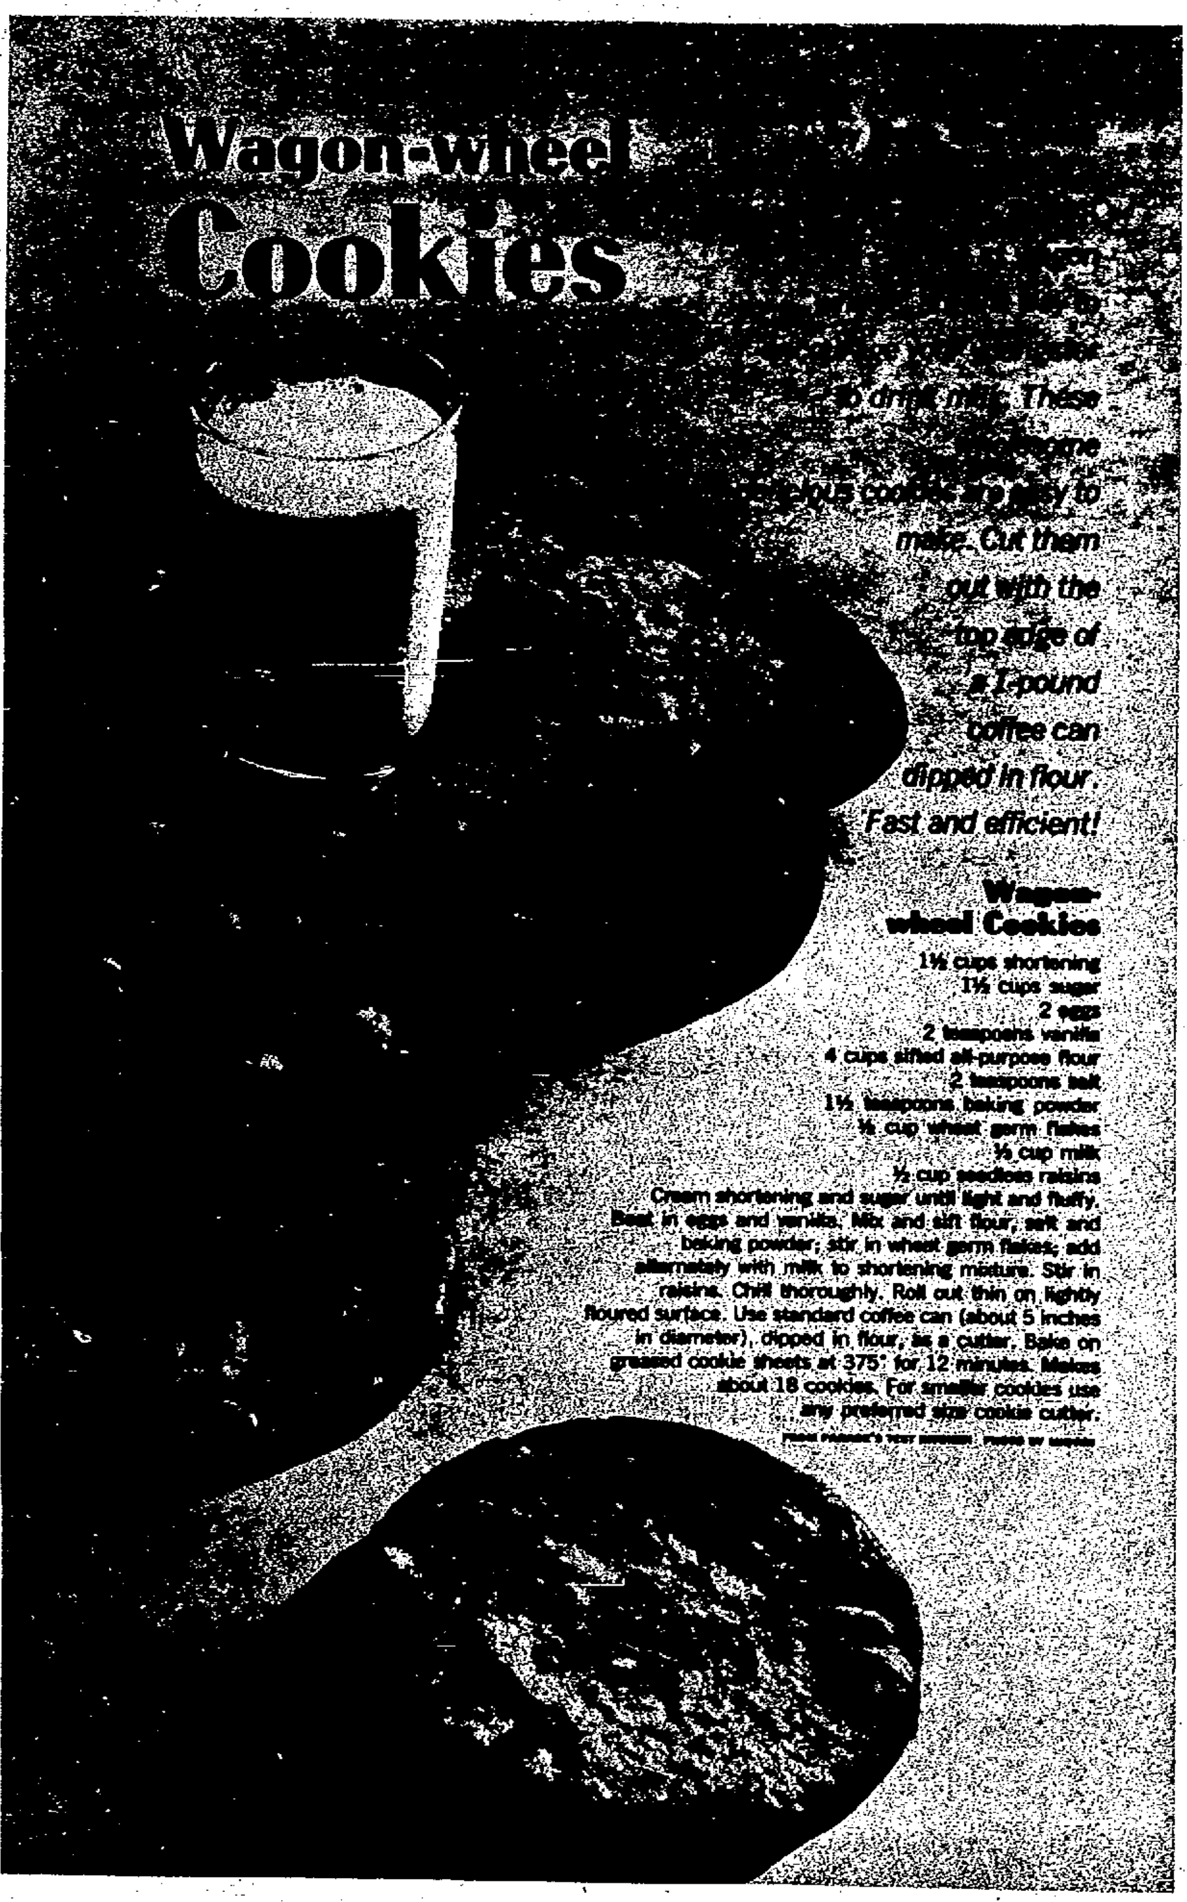
The Meat Sticks are made from lean pork and beef—the Chicken Sticks from juicy poultry . . . all specially selected by Armour. Both have added nonfat dry milk for extra protein. Both are suitably seasoned to pamper a toddler's palate.

Breakfast bonanza. Nothing like a tasty, toasty, nut-like flavor to win a baby's favor. And Gerber High Protein Cereal is just the thing to titillate an appetite. In addition to being pleasantly flavorful, it has a 35% protein content to help promote baby's growth. And, like all Gerber Cereals, it's enriched with iron to help build good red blood . . . calcium for strong bones and teeth and important B-vitamins which contribute to appetite and growth.

Added attraction. A topping of baby's favorite fruit adds a special fillip of flavor to any Gerber Cereal.

Variety review. Now there are nine refreshing Gerber Juices to give added pleasure to baby's "juice breaks." The sipping delights include Orange Juice, Apple Juice, Orange-Apple, Orange-Apricot, Orange-Pineapple, Pineapple-Grapefruit, Apple-Cherry and the two newest Gerber offerings: Mixed Fruit Juice and Prune-Orange. All luscious—all equally rich in the vitamin C your darling needs for sound gums and body tissues.

Wagon-wheel Cookies



[illegible] to drink milk. These [illegible] [illegible] cookies are easy to make. Cut them out with the top edge of a 1-pound coffee can dipped in flour. Fast and efficient!

Wagon-wheel Cookies

1½ cups shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup wheat germ flakes
½ cup milk
½ cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder; stir in wheat germ flakes; add alternately with milk to shortening mixture. Stir in raisins. Chill thoroughly. Roll out thin on lightly floured surface. Use standard coffee can (about 5 inches in diameter), dipped in flour, as a cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheets at 375° for 12 minutes. Makes about 18 cookies. For smaller cookies use any preferred size cookie cutter.

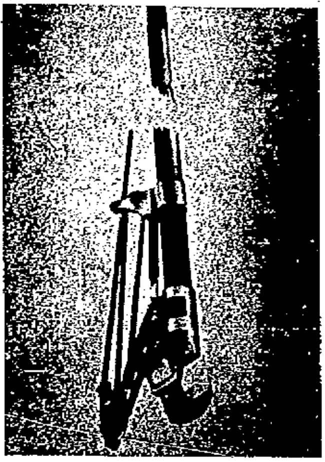
Make life easier—take a look at these new ideas for your home and family ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

Sliding door closer



Tree trimmer

Tree trimmer: This one (left) has a triple-power, ball-bearing pulley system that provides compound leverage to enable you to cut extra tough branches with little effort. It works on branches up to 1 inch in diameter, reaches to 15 feet, comes in two sections for easy storage. $16.45. Extra 4-foot extension: $3.85 each. Pruning attachment: $5.45. Roycraft Industries, Dept. PP, 222 W. 39th St., Kansas City, Mo. 64111.

Automatic bailer: A new boat bailer needs no complicated installation — and works automatically without electricity, gas, any type of fuel. Gentle rocking of a boat in water activates the 6" x 8" x 9" pump, which takes bilge through a filtered inlet hose, discharges it through an outlet hose you hang over the side. It can bail 5 gallons an hour, is especially useful if you're a weekend enthusiast and your boat remains in the water and weather all week without use. $39.95. Details: E & R Lab Service, Dept. PP, 7413 W. Florissant, St. Louis, Mo. 63136.

Convertible fish lure: If you're an angler who believes in the theory, "change your color, change your luck," a new lure could be of interest. It comes with 100 different colored metallic inserts—and you can switch from one to another in 3 seconds. The inserts simulate patterns of frogs, shrimp, minnows, perch, etc. $4.95. National Dynamics, Dept. PP, 220 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

New bottom for garbage can: If you have a can with a rusted-out bottom but otherwise in good condition, a new plastic replacement bottom will extend its life. It fits household 20-gallon cans—and automatically locks inside. $1.25. Classic Enterprises, Dept. PP, Box 11492, Tampa, Fla. 33610.

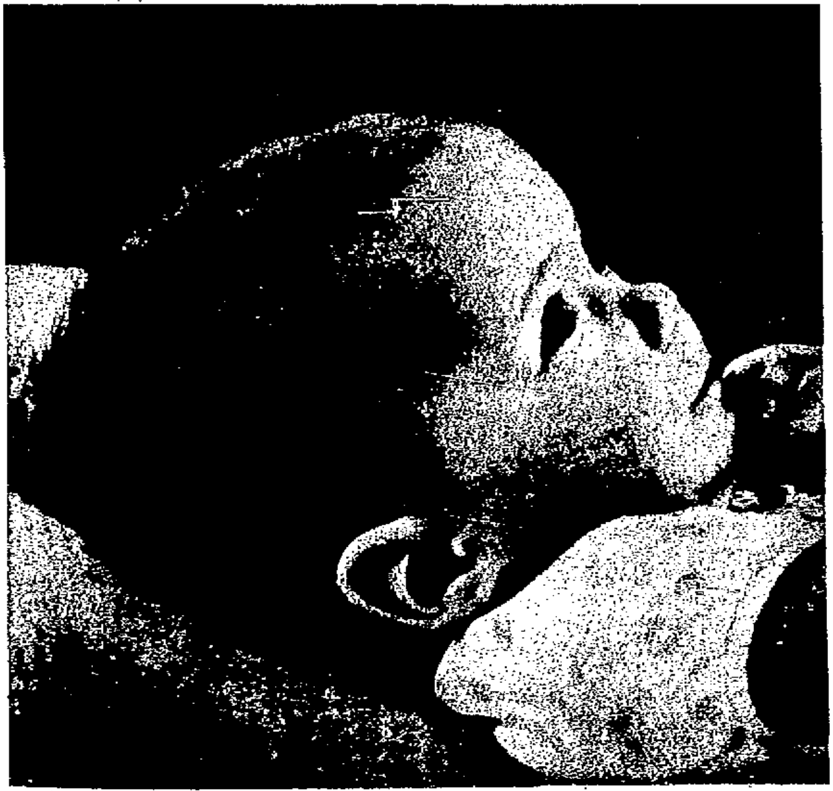
BRINGING UP BABY,®
HINTS COLLECTED
BY MRS. DAN GERBER,
MOTHER OF FIVE



A "taste of life" for your little one

Why is it that everything from fingers to toes, toys to clothes, eventually finds its way into the eager mouth of a baby? Strangely enough, it's a natural desire to learn and the mouth is one of the earliest and ablest "teachers." Through it your baby comes to know the satisfaction of food, the pleasures of flavor variety. Mouthing also teaches texture, shape and size. Finally, nibbling and gnawing are "beginners' courses" in chewing.

A taste of lusciousness. Babies take naturally to the natural goodness of Gerber Strained Fruits. And for good reason! The colors literally sing . . . the flavors are naturally good. Due in part to the fact that Gerber Fruits are flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to preserve the utmost in flavor and color . . . to say nothing of precious vitamin values. Ten happy choices.

Notable, too, for superior colors and flavors are Gerber Strained Vegetables. Made from selected, inspected produce, they're individually "custom-cooked" to bring out the best of everything in each particular variety.

Rule of thumb. To most babies, nothing seems to taste as good as that little old thumb. Thumbsucking, once much frowned upon, is now regarded as perfectly normal and rarely, if ever, harmful to young babies. On the plus side, it usually satisfies a need with a minimum of fuss.

Dept. of reassurance. Thumbsucking often stems from the fact that baby may not have had enough feeding time at breast or bottle. Minor discomfort, boredom and fatigue are also factors. Once you understand the reasons why, you'll stop worrying about the importance of thumbsucking and handle the situation according to its cause.

Dept. of information. Do you know why we stress the importance of using Gerber Baby Cereals throughout babyhood? It's because they contain several nutrients your baby needs from the infant stage right through the toddler age. Iron, a strong factor in building good red blood. Calcium, a contributor to strong bones and teeth. B-vitamins to help promote growth. All captured in the most delicate cereal forms imaginable.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"®

THE FIRST LADY'S ADVICE ON RAISING TEENAGERS

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

With a rare tenderness, Lady Bird Johnson has reared two beguiling daughters in the white glare of the public spotlight. She is frank to admit that she dreaded seeing them become teenagers. Yet she has kept them fresh and unspoiled; they betray none of the brattishness so often found in children of prominent parents. The experience has taught the First Lady a few things about teenagers which she has agreed to share with PARADE readers.

She has achieved a warm and gentle relationship with her daughters. They are affectionate and demonstrative toward one another, not the least inhibited about confessing how much they love each other. Lady Bird has a habit of ending her phone talks with her daughters with some tender remark like "You are loved" or "I have faith in you." And there is no doubt in the minds of Lynda Bird, 20, or Luci Baines, 16, that their mother means it.

When they are away from home, they have what Lynda describes as "moral togetherness." "We know," she says, "that Mother is always thinking of us." The First Lady explains: "I let them know they are trusted as to judgment and character and leave them considerable leeway. Children are likely to live up to what you believe of them."

She tries to let her daughters make their own decisions. She approaches their problems with this usual opener: "Let's discuss this and decide what's best." Then she outlines the pros and cons, gently guiding their thinking. This has led President Johnson, who sometimes listens with amused approval, to call her "The Judge." He describes her approach as that of a judge permitting the daughters to be their own jury.

The First Lady doesn't hesitate to put her foot down, though ever so softly, when discipline is needed. "I think discipline," she says, "is something children want. They feel cherished because of it and would feel lonely and abandoned if they were not disciplined."

One January night, a daughter—Mrs. Johnson won't say which one—didn't get home from a dance until 2 A.M., 90 minutes past her deadline. "She and her date opened the door to find me in my dressing gown with a glint in my eye," recalls the First Lady. "And if I'm not very much mistaken, she was glad as well as a little frightened to see me. It showed I cared. We simply sat down, and they had a very reasonable explanation." (They had taken another couple home who had been unable to hail a taxi, had also been slowed by slippery roads.)

Lady Bird's reprimands are gentle. ("Mother always plays it cool," says Lynda.) But a quiet reproach from her can strike the girls deeper than a sharp scolding from anyone else. Then the sisters, who have their occasional spats, will rally to one another's defense. "Don't pick on my little sister," Lynda will say petulantly.

Mrs. Johnson has always taught her daughters more by example than exhortation. She compares her technique to floating messages out to sea in bottles and hoping they'll come back eventually. "It has been my greatest satisfaction," she says, "to see the lessons I had tried to implant—and that had fallen, I thought, on arid fields—later blossom forth in one of the children."

THOUGHTFUL ACTS

She is most pleased when the girls show thoughtfulness. The sweetly pensive Luci lavishes affection on people and pets, makes bedside visits to the animal hospital when a pet becomes sick. After President Kennedy's assassination, Mrs. Johnson tried to reach Lynda, was warmed to learn she had gone to be with the children of wounded Texas Gov. John Connally.

Lynda carefully prepares for her duties as the President's daughter, another habit she has picked up from watching her mother. "Lynda has shown such a willingness to learn about countries and to have the proper background of knowledge before meeting foreign dignitaries," says Mrs. Johnson proudly.

Not long ago, the First Lady was too sick to keep her appointments for the day. Lynda came to her bedside, whispered lovingly: "Don't worry, Mother, I'll take over." She substituted for her mother with poise, boned up on the theater so she could chat intelligently with a sophisticated group from the New York-Washington theater world.

When the girls are beckoned to a microphone by their father to make an impromptu speech, Lady Bird confesses: "I hold my breath in terror. But they always come through with something sensible." She has not tried to shield the girls from the spotlight; rather, she has cautioned them only: "It's just the job Daddy holds that is important, not you or me." Result: the girls are totally at ease, but never precocious, in famous company.

The key to Lady Bird's success with her daughters is companionship. "Our teenagers have been two of the most interesting companions I have had," she says. Her advice to other parents is to "enjoy, enjoy" their children. With just a trace of a catch in her voice, she pleads:

"You may not believe it when you are tugging fat little legs into a snowsuit for the third time in one afternoon, or warming a 2 A.M. bottle, or feeling your heart flop over when you look at the thermometer and it says your child has 104 degrees. But you will find that the years pass all too swiftly.

"My first suggestion is to know what your children are doing—and share their interest in it—whether it is composing a poem for a family Thanksgiving dinner or making a batch of cookies to take to a friend on her birthday. Then try to broaden their field of interest into whatever you know—housekeeping, archeology, traveling—whatever in your life you may have loved."

The busy First Lady is never too rushed to take time for her daughters, to listen patiently to their woes and wishes. She tries to clear her desk by 5:30 P.M., when the girls flounce in from school, so she can spend the evenings with them. The best way to reach teenagers, she urgently believes, is to hear them out.

She urges parents: "When one of your children wants to talk to you—not always at a convenient time for a busy mother—listen. Whatever she has on her mind—school, beaus or general philosophy—listen. Clamp down on that impulse to say, 'Oh, dear, I have to take those run-down loafers and get new heels on them,' or 'If I don't get those letters signed and off my desk now, they'll have to hold over until tomorrow.'

"A good friend of mine once told me that the only time to talk to your 10-year-old daughter is when she is 10 years old. So if you really want to understand, to share and perhaps to formulate the lives of your teenagers—listen to them."

'TEENAGERS ARE CONCERNED'

Though she has no sons, Mrs. Johnson suspects girls are easier to raise. "I believe from hearing from my friends," she says, "that girls are more pliable and amenable to teaching and have less of the necessity for rebellion."

She believes today's teenagers are "more aware of and concerned about their place in the world and the dawning tomorrow" than past generations ever have been. "I think they are living in the most important period of mankind's life on this planet," she adds, "with more potential for good on the one hand and a lowering cloud of Armageddon on the other."

The First Lady has a word, too, for the teenagers. "I don't discount," she says, "the tensions and strains posed by two forces affecting young people these days: one, the escalated accent on education which some very fine young people simply cannot measure up to, and two, the drive of automation on our lives which makes it difficult for many of the school dropouts to find jobs. But somewhere along the way in your education find a tool or a skill that you enjoy, that you are reasonably good at. There is nothing better than the feeling of independence of knowing that you can make your own living." ■

FESS PARKER: SECOND TIME AROUND

Ten years ago Walt Disney signed Fess Parker, a 29-year-old Texas giant, to star as Davy Crockett at $500 a week.

Because multimillionaire Disney is a generous tycoon, he assigned Parker a share of the tie-up royalties on Davy Crockett products — coonskin hats, T-shirts, comic books, toys, guns, etc.

In the years 1954-56 of the Crockett boom, more than $100,000,000 worth of derivative products were sold under the Disney license. Fess Parker became the number-one screen hero of the nation's children, and his share of the royalty bonanza mounted to $350,000 before taxes.

"I took most of what was left after taxes," Fess now recalls sheepishly, "and I gambled it in oil, in wildcatting. Most of the holes we dug were dry, but we did hit enough pay dirt to keep me going when, after six pictures, Mr. Disney decided I had had it."

Today Fess Parker is back in business at the same old frontier stand. With musket and coonskin hat, he has just finished an hour-long pilot for a new TV series, Daniel Boone. NBC plans to schedule it on Thursday nights from 7:30 to 8:30, hoping that Parker, like lightning, will strike twice.

"There's a new generation of kids in the land," says one NBC executive, "and there's no reason why Fess shouldn't appeal to this crop as well as he did to the last one."

FOUR FOR THE MONEY

The Daniel Boone series is a four-way deal, Parker, NBC, 20th Century-Fox and the show's producer, Aaron Rosenberg, each owning 25 per cent of the package. In addition, Fess gets a salary of $7,500 a week.

"To tell you the truth," Parker admits,

The Benjamin Thomas family, Levittown, N.Y. lines up for hot Quaker Oats: Shawn 4, David 8, Gail 11, Benjamin Jr. 13, Mother and Father

What other cereal sustains and satisfies like good hot Quaker Oats! It provides food elements children need for growth—and grown-ups need for energy. In protein, alone, whole grain oats is richer than any other leading cereal. Brings 27 other essential nutrients to breakfast, too (even though oatmeal is the most economical cereal in the store). Hot Quaker Oats lights up a nice warm glow inside . . . makes the day look brighter—in a minute.

Cooks in just one minute... costs less than 2 cents a serving!

by LLOYD SHEARER

"there's no difference between playing Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett. Matter of fact, we were going to call the series More of Davy Crockett, but NBC was afraid it might infringe on some of Mr. Disney's property rights, so we simply switched to calling it Daniel Boone. I sure hope it goes across, not just because of the money, but because I'd like to become a hero again in the eyes of the kids.

"I guess I miss that feeling of being looked up to and admired more than anything else. I've got a little boy of my own now—he's 3, Fess Parker the Third—and when he throws his arms around me and hugs me, I'm telling you, it's a big thrill. Having the love and respect of children is a soul-satisfying responsibility, and I welcome it.

"Playing Daniel Boone 10 years after Davy Crockett—that's not progress insofar as my acting career is concerned, but if I've learned anything after 15 years out here, I've learned how to take things in stride, the ups and downs, the peaks and valleys.

"After all," Fess declares, "I sort of started in at the top. There was only one direction I could go from there."

RUSTIC INTELLECTUAL

Because he is tall—6 feet 5—slow talking, tousle-haired and rustic-looking, Fess Parker does not appear to be the intellectual he is.

Born in Ft. Worth, raised in San Angelo, a graduate of the University of Texas, class of '50 (major: history), a graduate student of the University of Southern California in drama, Fess Parker, like others of his breed — Gary Cooper, Henry Fonda, James Stewart, to name a few—is basically a serious sophisticate who assuages his ambition in a Western drawl.

Parker wants eagerly to become a major motion picture star—"sort of like Jimmy Stewart or Gary Cooper"—and is frustrated by the fact that in Hollywood he is cast exclusively as the action man of the early American frontier.

What he wants most is a lead role in Mr. Roberts or Twelve Angry Men or any of the roles a producer would judge worthy of Henry Fonda. Parker also possesses a fine baritone voice, and last summer toured the country playing Curly in Oklahoma.

In 1960, after Paramount had cast him in three "adventure-type lemons"—The Hangman, The Jayhawkers and Hell Is for Heroes—Fess moved out of Hollywood, 100 miles north to Santa Barbara.

Ten years on the frontier: Above, star Fess Parker greets enthusiastic young fans in his original role as Davy Crockett. Below, he appears as Daniel Boone in TV series.

"I decided," he says, "to change the pattern of my life, then to come back to Hollywood a changed man, a more worldly and versatile personality whose new style would impress the powers that be."

First, at the age of 35, Fess married Marcy Rinehart, secretary of Doris Day's husband, Marty Melcher. He took Marcy to live in fashionable Santa Barbara, learned to fly and bought a plane, bought a string of horses, learned to play polo, then invested his life's savings in a snazzy 50-acre trailer camp called Rancho Santa Barbara which today is worth $1,500,000.

After his son, Fess Elisha Parker III, was born in 1961—"He's the first in four generations of my family to be born outside of Texas"—Fess decided to show Hollywood his new look. He bought a foreign sports car, some custom-tailored clothes, showed up in Hollywood looking like a hayseed Anthony Eden.

After one modern comedy guest shot on TV with Bob Newhart, he was offered the role of Sen. Eugene Smith in the TV series Mr. Smith Goes to Washington. It lasted 26 weeks, then was canceled.

"In terms of my acting career," says Parker of this period, "I finally joined the 20th century, but somehow, it seemed, the 20th century didn't want me."

So back to Santa Barbara went old Fess. There he concentrated on building up his swank trailer camp until a few weeks ago, when he got a call from 20th Century-Fox asking if he'd be interested in playing Davy Crockett on TV.

Never a man to turn down an honest dollar, Fess said he was more than interested. After a few conferences with the studio legal department, writer Borden Chase changed Davy Crockett into Daniel Boone, and Fess Parker found himself back on the cinematic American frontier exactly where he started 10 years ago.

If hay fever lasted only 3 or 4 hours you wouldn't need Contac®

It doesn't, so you do.

Hay fever discomforts are with you around the clock—that's why you need Contac. Just one Contac capsule keeps working up to 12 full hours.

Unlike specialized allergy tablets that wear off in 3 or 4 hours, Contac has over 600 tiny "time pills" that stay in continuous action against sneezes, sniffles and itchy, watery eyes. With Contac, your hay fever symptoms don't return to spoil your day or to wake you during the night. With Contac, you're always ahead of hay fever.

It's today's largest-selling cold and hay fever product. At your pharmacy.

When you get hurt and can't work!

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Only 50¢ A MONTH

Independent Press-Telegram

Provided as a Reader Service

HERE IS WHAT YOU CAN COLLECT

In accordance with policy terms

MINOR ACCIDENTS — When there is no disability, policy covers four doctor bill expenses up to $75.00 (limit $3.00 per visit); plus X-ray expenses up to $10.00.

DISABLING ACCIDENTS include HOSPITAL EXPENSE — For most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. Disability Benefits up to $[illegible] at $[illegible] per month; X-ray expenses up to $10.00; Ambulance expenses up to $10.00; PLUS Hospital Benefits to $[illegible] at $5.00 per day. Maximum total $[illegible].

For Auto and Pedestrian Accidents: maximum total increased to $[illegible]; for other Specified Travel Accidents, maximum $[illegible].

FATAL ACCIDENTS — $[illegible] for most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. $1,[illegible] for Auto, Pedestrian, certain specified Travel accidents. Up to $[illegible] for other specified Travel accidents.

MONTHLY INCREASE — Important Death Benefits increase 1% each month you are insured—up to 50% maximum.

ELIGIBILITY — Issued to men, women and children between ages 1 and 79—except those who have lost both hands or feet or sight of both eyes.

EXCEPTIONS — Benefits paid in accordance with terms of policy form HM 7624 UA which is renewable at option of Company. Does not cover accidents in a mine, in railroad yard or train except as fare-paying passenger; warfare; auto races; expense items paid under Compensation insurance.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident — any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy — at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

Take advantage of this great Reader Service — the personal accident insurance that brings you cash when you need it most! Send in your application today!

THE UNFUNNIEST THING IN THE WORLD IS A RIDDLE MADE UP BY A GERM STOMPER.

No Radioactive Leaks but Toppled Nikes Dented

QUAKE UPSETS A-MISSILES

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Star said in a copyrighted story Saturday night that the March 27 earthquake in Alaska toppled and damaged a number of Nike-Hercules missiles containing nuclear warheads at an Army base adjoining Anchorage.

There were no casualties and no radioactive material contaminated the area, the Star said.

The Defense Department subsequently said in response to questions that several of the missiles had suffered some damage during the earthquake but that there had been no fire, no explosion and no release of radioactive material. The department also disclosed some nuclear weapons in storage at Kodiak Island had been submerged in seawater for a brief time due to the tidal wave and may have to be replaced.

The Star story in its Sunday editions said:

While the damage apparently was confined to the casings, or skins of the warheads, a number of specialists were flown to Alaska to disassemble the warheads and put them back together.

The accident occurred in Battery A of a missile batallion at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

That is what happened, the Star said:

When the earthquake, one of the most intense ever recorded, struck at 5:36 p.m. on March 27, it knocked the missiles off their launchers to the ground. The number of missiles involved is classified information.

An emergency procedure to deal with such cases was followed immediately. In checking the missiles, the damage was reported to range from slight indentation to considerable. Specialists from the Missile Command headquarters at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, and from the Picatinny Arsenal in Dover, N.J., were dispatched immediately.

A Defense Department spokesman, asked about the story, said:

"During the recent earthquake in Alaska several of the U.S. Army Nike-Hercules air-defense missiles at Fort Richardson were subjected to severe shock during the quake and were damaged to varying degrees. These missiles, containing nuclear warheads, were dislodged from their launchers by ground shock, fell to the ground and suffered damage ranging from slight indentations to significant damage to the missile bodies.

"There was no fire, no explosion and no radioactive contamination involved in these incidents. However, the accident did require immediate corrective steps to insure availability of replacement missiles and warheads. These air-defense capabilities in Alaska have now been restored."

The Pentagon statement also said certain other U.S. nuclear weapons in storage at Kodiak Island, were submerged in seawater for a short time due to the tidal wave. These weapons may also require replacement after inspection is complete. The Department of Defense indicated that all safety devices functioned as designed.

Terror in Alaska

Editor's note: As the dust settles after the most violent earthquake ever recorded in the Northern Hemisphere, the full picture of its enormity begins to emerge. Here two reporters who covered it now weave together the details of the panoramic convulsion and its path of human terror.

By SAUL PETT and JULES LOH
Associated Press Newsfeature Writers

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — That afternoon, Louis Beaty noticed something strange.

His 200 head of cattle were grazing quietly at his ranch on Narrow Cape, a lovely finger of land washed by the Gulf of Alaska, about 50 miles southeast of here on the Gulf of Kodiak.

About three o'clock that afternoon the cattle turned and began to move away from their low-lying grazing land to higher ground. They had never done this before so early in the day.

Louis Beaty frowned. The sky was sunny and blue. The mountains behind him stood serenely in their skirts of snow. The wind blowing in from the turquoise sea was gentle.

Vague Sensation

Beaty vaguely sensed that the cattle had sensed something. But what?

What, indeed? The mood of Alaska on this Good Friday, March 27, 1964, was benign. Spring was coming, the temperature was rising. People were already betting on when the ice would break up in the rivers. Even in this age of flight, the ice breakup remains symbolic to Alaskans. The winter feeling of isolation was about to yield to the friendliness of spring, like opening a window onto "the Outside," onto the rest of the United States.

Down deep under the earth's crust, more than 50 miles down, in an eternal darkness without season, it is thought that a huge river of slowly swirling, boiling pitch-like substance rings the great iron core of the earth.

Fluid in Motion

Just what was happening down there on this Good Friday no man on earth could say with certainty and cows make unreliable seismologists. One theory is that this huge river by its constant and opposing currents wears and strains the earth's crust. Where the crust is weak, it may crack. Alaska is known to lie on a relatively weak layer of crust.

At her tidy frame home in Anchorage, Joan Groom couldn't have cared less about the mysterious forces grinding and straining the earth beneath. Of more immediate concern were the visible forces that could at any moment wreck her living room and nervous system.

Pink Cake, Candles

The children, at last, were in their places; the pink cake with its cover of coconut was on the table, her daughter Claudia had made her wish and was now ready to blow out the four pink candles. Ten young critics, four of them her brothers and sisters, were yelling she couldn't do it in one puff.

Downtown, Harry Groom, a photographer, was starting home. Recalling his daughter's party, he decided on one quick fortification against the inevitable chaos. He pulled up at the "Highland Fling," where they sell two drinks for the price of one between 5 and 6 o'clock, went inside and ordered bourbon.

Out in the quiet suburb called "Turnagain," a well-birched subdivision of ranch and split-level houses, Esther McCreedy was finishing a ham with brown sugar and pineapple rings. Her husband was due home for supper in about 20 minutes.

Far to the south, across the alabaster peaks and sparkling sea, 250 miles from Claudia Groom's birthday party and 50 miles northwest of Louis Beaty's curiously acting cattle, Bill Cuthbert, a leathery and grizzled fisherman, was sitting down to supper in the galley of his 86-foot scow, the "Selief." The boat was tied to its slip in Kodiak harbor, a picturesque horseshoe at the foot of the mountains. In the hold were $3,000 worth of Alaska king crabs, ready to be unloaded next morning at the cannery.

Atop the hill above the harbor, in the sanctuary of St. James the Fisherman Episcopal Church, carpenter Louis Horn was hanging a new Cross above the altar. It was now 5:20 p.m. Horn selected two small eyebolts to suspend the heavy Cross from the ceiling.

"Do you think these will hold it, Louis?" asked the Rev. Donald Bullock.

"Sure, Father."

"What if we have an earthquake?" the father chuckled.

"Even in an earthquake," laughed the carpenter.

Warm, Springlike

By Alaska standards, it was warm, about 35 degrees in Kodiak and Anchorage and the infrequent towns and remote villages in between. But 1,500 miles down the rim of the great Pacific basin, at Newport, Ore., it was much warmer and Monte and Rita McKenzie and their four children had gone to the shore on a camping trip.

They found a cozy spot for the night, a driftwood shelter on the beach north of Newport. The sea glowed in the light of a full moon. The McKenzie family, clustered tightly together, soon fell asleep. After seven months, the pain of their nine-year-old daughter's death had begun to ebb.

Pressure Erupts

And in the serenity that bathed the moonlit beach in Oregon, the gentle harbor in Kodiak and the quiet going-home time in Anchorage, the earth crust under Alaska could no longer endure the strain of the inexorable forces below. It let go at 5:36 p.m., Anchorage time.

And across more than 600 miles of mountains and towns and spruce forests and icy streams and secluded coves and great expanses of snow broken only by animal tracks, the earth strained and groaned and shook.

And in untold hundreds of places it cracked open and in scores of places it buckled and toppled buildings and swayed trees and poles in wild dizzy arcs

Signal Hill Undercover Man Talks

Legion's Judges Hear of Racist Speech by Gale

By GEORGE ROBESON

The witness, who first gave his name as "Jim Stewart" and later, under defense cross-examination, said his real name is Sam Isaacs, testified he went to the Signal Hill post on March 19, 1963, to hear a speech by Col. William P. Gale, leader of a group called the California Rangers. He said Gale told the audience that the NAACP is controlled by about 25 Jews and that Jews are "a mongrel race."

• • • •

ISAACS WAS the third witness called by the California Department of the American Legion to support Legion charges that Signal Hill post has spread racial hatred. The department is represented by Alex Kahanowicz, the defense by Bertrand L. Comparet.

Under cross-examination by Comparet, a San Diego attorney, Isaacs was asked if he entered the meeting as a spy.

• • • •

"THOSE ARE your words," the witness answered. But he admitted a moment later that he had acted as an agent for the ADL and later submitted a

M'Arthur Gradually Weakening

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur fought silently for life Saturday night but doctors feared his stubborn heart was giving up.

A terse report issued at 5:30 p.m., EST, by Lt. Gen. Leonard B. Heaton, Army surgeon general, said MacArthur was "resting quietly" under constant care. He said it was becoming harder for MacArthur's heart to keep up the struggle.

From the time of Heaton's bulletin until almost midnight there was no apparent change in MacArthur's condition.

Heaton earlier had refused to say the 84-year-old general was dying. But he reported that MacArthur had fallen into deeper coma and that his heart, pulse and blood pressure continued to fail.

The morning medical bulletin at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said the general "continues in a peaceful coma which is gradually deepening . . . the other major vital functions are becoming increasingly difficult to sustain."

AFTER PANIC, THE TEARS

Mrs. Margaret Feria of Harbor City reaches tearfully for her 8-year-old son, Robbie Kauffman, as they are reunited after a frantic two-hour search through the district's storm drain system where he and three other youngsters were believed lost.

AFTERNOON OF FEAR

Tots Spur Frantic Storm Drain Hunt

By ANDY PARK

Fear gripped a Harbor City neighborhood Saturday and launched a two-hour search by police and firemen—above and below the ground—when it was believed four young children had disappeared into a storm drain system.

All the youngsters later turned up safely.

It began with a frantic call to a telephone operator from a neighbor of Mrs. Margaret Feria of 1273 W. Anaheim St. Mrs. Feria, too frozen with fear to act, was sobbing that her 8-year-old son was lost in a storm drain.

• • • •

WHEN FOUR squad cars from the Harbor Division of the Los Angeles Police Department and two units from the fire department arrived at the row of seven apartment buildings, scores of neighbors were already swarming over a two-acre backwash of the Bixby Slough west of Harbor Park, searching for any sign of Mrs. Feria's son, Robbie Kauffman.

At noon, Theodore Vandervert, manager of the apartment complex, was crossing between two buildings when he saw four children playing near a manhole cover.

"Robbie was prying up the cover with a piece of iron," Vandervert said later. "I didn't think much of it. The kids often went down the drains. They had a 'little club' that meets down there."

• • • •

"MRS. CAMPBELL, she lives in the front apartment, she told me that there were two other boys with Robbie and his girl friend, Tammy."

"I thought it best to tell Mrs. Feria," Vandervert said.

Firemen wearing masks descended into two separate networks of drains under orders of Battalion Chief E. M. Culp while officers and detectives began a house-to-house canvass.

School Falls, 40 Die, 128 Hurt

BOMBAY, India (AP) — A girls' high school collapsed in the south Indian textile town of Madurai Saturday and rescue workers reported 40 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage. Fifty girls were taken to hospitals with serious injuries.

About 250 girls were attending Saraswathi School at the time of the tragedy. Officials said the dead included 38 girl students and 2 teachers, including a man. The total number of injured was 125.

Hot-Rod Bit Not for LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday he is unaware he has ever driven above 70 miles an hour while acting as his own chauffeur.

He also said he intends to keep on driving from time to time.

A newsman reminded Johnson of stories that the President had driven at speeds of perhaps up to 90 miles an hour in a 70-mile-an-hour zone while spending the Easter holidays on his Texas ranch.

"Some people have expressed concern that you are putting yourself into danger," the inquirer said. "Do you intend to perhaps drive more slowly, or are you concerned about your own safety?"

Johnson replied: "I am unaware that I have ever driven past 70."

Another newsman told Johnson that along with expressions of concern during the past week about his driving an automobile,

'64 Good Year for Party too

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday 1964 will be a prosperous year for the American people and "a good year for the Democrats from the political standpoint."

Asked at another of his Saturday afternoon news conferences whether it would be a good year for him, Johnson replied:

"The Democrats, I said. That means all Democrats."

Johnson, who all but announced his bid for re-election with that statement, was in a generally bouyant mood as he surveyed the world for newsmen clustered around him at the coffin-shaped table of the Cabinet Room.

• • • •

SPEAKING of recent events in Panama and Brazil, the President said:

"I would say that this has been a good week for this hemisphere."

Johnson reported he is "encouraged by the developments in Panama," which agreed Friday to resume diplomatic relations with the United States and proceed with talks aimed at solving long-standing difficulties over the Canal Zone.

He announced that the new U.S. ambassador to Panama will be Jack Hood Vaughn, the Peace Corps' director for Latin America.

• • • •

AS FOR Brazil, Johnson said he is glad constitutional processes were observed in the overthrow of former President Joao Goulart and added, "We expect and look forward to brighter hopes there."

On another optimistic note, the President announced "very good news" about the nation's persistent balance-of-payments problems. He said preliminary figures indicate that in the January-March quarter, the U.S. payments deficit — the amount of money leaving the country balanced against the amount coming in — was almost eliminated.

The 50 or 60 newsmen who gathered at the White

L.A.C. Says:

May Craig Has Her Say

Millions of Americans have watched May Craig and listened to her Maine accent as she asks questions on "Meet the Press." Now she is stating some of her own views in a U. S. News report. She is greatly disturbed over the lowering of our morality in dealing with domestic and world affairs. She says: "Unless there is a change, deep down, in the American people—a genuine crusade against self-indulgence, immorality, public and private—then we will witness the decline and fall of the American Republic."

As examples Mrs. Craig gives, "death on the highways—a pack a day, cheating from top to bottom in our society, reckless debt, break-up of the family and a faltering foreign policy." Why, she asks, should we think we can take that path and change history? Around the world they can take our money with one hand and slap us in the face with the other. We talk of our "leadership" but we are apparently incapable of giving leadership.

She goes on to remind us that Red China is close to being admitted to the United Nations. This is at a time when our men are dying in jungles—killed by Red Chinese weapons and their trained guerrilla fighters. We are opposed to Communists, but seem to think Khrushchev is not so bad as we sell him our subsidized wheat and thus save him from a breakdown of the system we say we oppose.

Mrs. Craig apparently is a conservative, and therefore suspect to many who object to these observations. But they are vital reminders of the faltering policies we have been following. She refers to the Cuban Bay of Pigs debacle where we failed to support the 1961 force of Cubans we had trained to overthrow Castro. It made us appear weak in the eyes of most of the world. The result is, today Cuba is the base for Communist attacks on Latin-America, and a nuclear menace to our own nation.

The Bobby Baker scandal is apparently to be glossed over to avoid embarrassment to the President and senators during this election year. Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are drawing great crowds to view them in "Cleopatra." Frank Sinatra continues to be a favorite entertainer, even though he was kicked out of his Nevada enterprises because of his association with hoodlums.

Mrs. Craig says: "The United Nations itself should be forced into financial honesty by the U. S. refusing to keep on paying the bills while many nations get a free ride while outvoting us. The idea of letting in a small nation of fewer than a half million people—utterly inexperienced in governing itself—within a few days of its establishment, is an example. We might at least insist on a period of probation."

She concludes her article with: "Nobody respects a fumbler—a weak man, a wobbler in policy or deeds. First, every one of us has to clean out weakness and selfishness and immorality of all types. Then chosen leaders with strength and principal will lead us to where we can have self-respect and respect of others. Would we elect such a man if he campaigned on such a platform?"

It is quite an analysis of present-day problems. It should cause each of us to ask, How do I measure up? It will give added interest to the appearance of May Craig in her next Meet the Press panel. It reminds us of Bernard Baruch's remark that the American people had lost their capacity for indignation.—L.A.C.

Tenth of Labor in Defense Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate labor subcommittee reported Saturday that almost a tenth of the U.S. labor force works in defense-related industries and that scientists and engineers would be hardest-hit by any decline in military spending.

It said the engineers and scientists would "find their jobs conditions somewhat altered as they move into civilian enterprise. They will command lower salaries and be required to design products which meet far different specifications than in defense."

President Predicts Good '64

House on a hunch that Johnson might have an impromptu news conference bombarded him with questions about foreign affairs.

At one point, the President expressed hope that one potential cause of East-West friction, overflights of East Germany by U. S. military planes, has been eliminated.

Attributing such incidents to faulty instruments or crew error, he said, "I have issued instructions calculated to avoid any such errors in the future that are humanly possible to avoid."

Asked to assess the ideological battle between Moscow and Peking, Johnson said the Soviet Union and Communist China "are fighting for support" among the Communist parties in other countries. He said the matter concerns them and "I do not see that there is anything I can say that would contribute to it."

One reporter asked whether the actions of French President Charles De Gaulle are splitting the Western Alliance.

"No," the chief executive responded, "I do not believe that the Western Alliance is being split. I think we have differences . . . from time to time between countries and between spokesmen and leaders."

• • • •

BUT THE President added that "when the chips are down," the alliance will stand together and "effectively defend freedom wherever it is challenged."

The mention of the November election came when a newsman asked Johnson if he knows of any incumbent President failing of re-election in times of prosperity.

Grinning, Johnson said he didn't think Democrats had any mortgage on prosperity. But he added that he thought Democratic policies were more likely to achieve it.

• • • •

WITHOUT directly alluding to his own chances of election in November, Johnson said:

"I think this will be a good year for the American people in the economic sense and a good year for the Democrats in the political sense."

WISHES HE'D BEHAVED AS WELL

LBJ Lauds Youth Morals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Saturday gave his two daughters an "A" for conduct and hinted a bit ruefully that he wished he had been as good when he was their age.

In fact, he thought pretty highly of all of today's youth.

"From my observation, there has been an improvement in morals since my day," he reflected, drawing a laugh from reporters who had been called into his office for a news conference.

Johnson left home after he graduated from high school and roamed through the Far West picking up construction and farm jobs before he decided to enter college.

"I think I would have made my parents happier if, at 16 or 18 or even 20, I had conducted myself to the same high standards of morals as my daughters apply to themselves now," he mused.

Johnson was speaking of his daughters Lynda Bird, 20, and Luci Baines, 16, and their friends. He acknowledged that, as President, he may be seeing "a little different type of youngster."

But he added that in watching young people of his daughters' ages, "I am very proud of their morals and their intense interest in the finer things in life and in their general conduct."

The President affirmed his faith in America's young despite current problems of unemployment and school dropouts, which he said "contribute to situations that are not too pleasing."

Johnson's reflections came after one reporter asked him what he thought of published reports of "the loosening of morals" among America's youth.

U.S. Ups Domestic Purchases of Beef

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson said Saturday the Defense Department has decided to buy an additional 3 million pounds of meat in the United States each month to send to installations overseas.

He said this will reduce meat imports by 8 or 10 percent and help the U. S. balance of payments problem, which he predicted "could be almost balanced off" in the first three months of 1964.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara already has issued orders for the new meat-buying policy, Johnson told a news conference, and informed the President just Saturday.

At current domestic prices, such meat purchases were not expected to have a great effect on the annual balance of trade deficit, last reported running at an annual rate of $2 billion. Even so, government officials argue that "every little bit helps" to reduce the gap between U. S. sales and purchases overseas.

Assuming the Defense Department buys domestic beef at current market prices, it would pay about $1.6 million a month for three million pounds.

Instead, the new policy was viewed more as part of a determined administration effort to help boost domestic cattle prices and take the heat off demands in Congress for stiff new meat import quotas.

Hot-Rodding Not for Me, Says LBJ

there have been suggestions that he leave the driving to a chauffeur.

"Would you give us your reaction to that or tell us whether you plan to continue driving?" he was asked.

"Yes," Johnson replied, "I will drive from time to time.

"I ride very little and drive very little, but I will be going from the bottom of the hill on the ranch to the top of the hill, and I may actually, every three or four months, go over to a neighbor's place. I would want to feel free to do that."

Johnson Appoints Envoy to Panama

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson named a new amabassador to Panama Saturday, promised help to Brazil and declared with obvious satisfaction: "This has been a good week for this hemisphere."

The Panamanian assignment went to the Latin Ameriucan director of the Peace Corps, Jack Hood Vaughn, 43, who has had considerable experience in foreign aid work in Latin America and once served in Panama.

Johnson said Vaughn would go to Panama "just as soon as he can be confirmed by the Senate." The ambassadorial post has been vacant since last August. Johnson praised Vaughn as a man who knows personally about as many Panamanians as any U. S. citizen does.

• • • •

The notes reopening diplomatic ties cleared away the last obstacle to the U. S.-Panamanian agreement concluded Friday to negotiate for a "just and fair" solution of their differences over the 1963 treaty which gives the U. S. absolute and perpetual control of the Canal Zone. Panama is demanding a share in control.

• • • •

THE PANAMANIAN settlement formula was reached just one day after the new government was established in Brazil following the ouster of President Joao Goulart,

ANOTHER witness, Rodney King, 32, of Long Beach, said he, too submitted a report to the ADL after he attended a Signal Hill post meeting in February of 1961. He said he chatted in the lobby of Signal Hill City Hall, where the post's meetings are held, with Victor Marshall, a past commander of the post.

He said Marshall told him that Jews were "pushing integration" for Negroes, that former President Eisenhower is a Swedish Jew and that the members of Eisenhower's cabinet were Jewish. King said Marshall supplied him with several pieces of anti-Semitic literature.

• • • •

THE PROSECUTION called six witnesses Saturday, and is expected to bring two more to the stand today. Then the defense, which has filed a list of 56 possible witnesses, will open its case.

At a recess in the trial, Marshall denied to newsmen that he had made the statements attributed to him or handed out race-hate literature.

The public was barred from the hearing room at Hollywood Post 43, but many Legionnaires were admitted. About 150 spectators sat through the first day's session and another 50 or more sat outside the hearing room. Among those outside and inside the room were members of a group calling themselves the "Christian Defense League," who had come to offer support to the Signal Hill post.

Some of the CDL members said they were a "security force" to protect Signal Hill post members "in case there is trouble."

• • • •

ONE OF THE MEN, who carried a pistol under his coat, sat in the hearing room and kept in touch with another man outside the room by walkie-talkie radio. He was ordered to shut off the radio, but was not disarmed because he presented credentials identifying him as a reserve sheriff's deputy, Legion officials said.

But there were no incidents, although there had been rumors earlier that a group might stage a demonstration at the trial.

• • • •

THE HEARING will resume at 9 a.m. today and end later today or tonight. But there will be no verdict until June when the executive committee of the Legion's California Department meets in Sacramento to consider the recommendation of the three-man trial board. State court proceedings were followed almost entirely.

If the Signal Hill post is found guilty of charges that it spread "anti-Semitic, anti-Negro and other hate literature and propaganda" in or immediately after its business meetings, its charter could be revoked.

Kidnaping Suspects in Custody

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two men charged with shooting a policeman as he directed rush-hour traffic in downtown Los Angeles and kidnaping two motorists were returned here Saturday from Barstow, Calif., where they were captured.

Police said Earl Halstead, 40, of Orange, Calif., and formerly of Detroit, Mich., and William F. Andruss, 21, of San Jose, Calif., had admitted robbing a downtown Los Angeles pawnshop and stealing a car, but none of the other charges.

CATCHES SWOONING BRIDE

Big John Wayne Is 'Wedding Hero'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Movie hero John Wayne dashed up the aisle and caught his daughter as she fainted Saturday at her wedding.

Melinda Ann Wayne, 23, and Gregory Robert Munoz, 26, a Los Angeles County deputy district attorney, were married in the Roman Catholic Blessed Sacrament Church.

WITH WAYNE HOLDING her on one side and the kneeling bridegroom on the other, the pretty, brunette bride soon recovered.

A priest brought a chair and she sat through the rest of the Mass.

Wayne said afterward: "I don't know whether it was the right procedure, but she's my baby and so I dashed up there."

Melinda fainted about three-quarters of the way through the 95-minute proceedings.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Donald La Cava, who was matron of honor, said later that Melinda has fainted at others' weddings and does so when she smells incense.

Tots Spur Frantic Storm Drain Hunt

dreau. "We've got to assume that the kids are in the drains. We've got to search until we find them."

• • • •

FOR MORE than two hours searchers probed the winding pathways of the concrete catacombs still under construction in the 1300-block of west Anaheim St.

More children were missed.

"Where is Bradley Darrah?" a woman asked. "I haven't seen Bradley. He's always playing down there."

"Skipper Johnson isn't home," a juvenile officer reported to Sgt. Gendreau.

• • • •

"DOES ANYBODY know this 'Tammy's' last name?" a policeman asked.

"Let me go down there after him. He's my brother. Let me go," screamed 15-year-old Ken Kauffman at policemen who were shaking their heads.

The radio on a hook-and-ladder truck parked near the scene blared:

"We have a map of both the abandoned drain system and the new one being put in. However, this map doesn't show manhole covers. It's Saturday, and we can't raise anyone at the Public Works office. Do you want this map?"

The Chief radioed back: "Send it over."

• • • •

FOR ANOTHER hour the search went on. Voices reverberated from the underground caverns.

There was a break: The missing Bradley Darrah, Skipper Johnson and Tammy Kaufman were located. Whether or not they had been in the drain couldn't be quickly determined.

At 5:59 p.m., a minute short of six hours since the children were last seen, a tousled, blond boy bounced into the midst of a crowd now numbering more than 100.

"Hey, what's going on? I saw you from where I was playing over near a tree."

Robbie Kauffman had been found.

"We came out a few minutes after we went in," he told his mother.

Car's Wreck Pins Driver for an Hour

An Artesia man, pinned for more than an hour in his small sports car, was in critical condition late Saturday at Community Hospital. His car swerved out of control at 8 p.m. and hit another vehicle head on just east of the intersection of Bellflower Boulevard and Spring Street.

A passenger in the sports car and a man and wife in the other car were admitted to the hospital in serious condition.

Undergoing emergency surgery for extensive head injuries was Jesse D. May Jr., 25, of 1228 E. 216th St., Artesia.

Also injured were James F. Hause, 29, of 20806 Gridley Road, Artesia, a passenger in the car with May; Jack Walter Taylor, 32, and his wife, Yvonne, 35, of 15321 Rushmore Lane, Huntington Beach.

Two units from the fire department worked over the small vehicle for an hour before they were able to extricate May from the twisted wreckage.

Cyprus Scuttles Turk Pact

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—President Makarios of Cyprus announced Saturday night he has unilaterally abrogated the treaty that gave Turkey the right to maintain 650 troops on this strategic Mediterranean island.

A short time later reports of new fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots reached the capital from the northwestern section of the island. British U.N. troops in the area came under fire for the second straight day but there were no indications of British casualties.

However, the reports said one Greek Cypriot was killed and at least six others wounded in some fighting between the villages of Kokkina and Pakyyammos.

• • • •

A U.N. spokesman said Greek Cypriot irregulars in home-made armored cars launched a two-pronged assault against the Turk Cypriot village of Mansoura near Kokkina.

There were few details of the fighting but U. N. truce team went into the area in an attempt to arrange a cease-fire.

The spokesman said the British troops came under fire from both sides. He said the Greek Cypriots were armed with automatic weapons and used armored bulldozers in the assault.

A spokesman said Makarios told Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey in a note that he was abrogating the treaty because Turkish troops on the island refused orders to return to their barracks.

Probers Suspect Lie-Detector Abuse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee reported Saturday the federal government gave lie-detector—polygraph—tests to at least 23,122 persons last year.

Actually the figure is higher, since the Central Intelligence Agency refused to say how many it gave.

The subcommittee said "... Serious questions have been raised ... regarding the reliability of the device and the propriety of its use."

The committee found most of the supposedly scientific tests were administered by military men, some of whom had only five days' training and most of whom were required to have only a high school diploma.

Further, the House Committee on Government Operations reported the polygraph was found to be only 72-percent accurate in judging falsehoods.

All federal courts and many state tribunals refuse to admit results of a polygraph test into evidence.

The preliminary report was prepared for the full committee by the foreign operations and government information subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif. Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., heads the full committee. Public hearings on the use of the polygraph will begin Tuesday.

The Army was reported by the committee to be the most frequent user of the lie detector. It administered 12,494 tests in 1963—8,034 for security reasons.

Oddly, the Army employed an E-5 sergeant for the security tests while using a warrant officer in criminal cases.

The committee found the Navy required only five days' training for lie-detector operations, while the Army gave a seven-week course.

As for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the committee reported it gave 2,314 tests last year and had the stiffest requirements for operators—a two-week academic course and a year's on-the-job training with an expert.

In all, the committee said the government owned 525 polygraphs and spent $4.5 million in 1963 on their operation.

Beyond all this, the committee reported, there was almost no supervision, especially in the military, of the test operators by higher authority or of the questions asked.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF FOUR-STORY LONG BEACH NAVAL HOSPITAL

First Phase of Naval Hospital Construction Gets Under Way

First phase of construction on the 350-bed, $7,500,000 Long Beach Naval Hospital at Carson Street and the San Gabriel Freeway is under way.

The pile-driving contract has been let and the construction area is being staked. This foundation phase of the operation should be completed in 120 days.

Plans for the four-story structure to be built on a completely landscaped 30.5-acre site were prepared by the firm of Hugh Gibbs & Donald Gibbs, Long Beach architects.

• • • •

THE COMPLETELY air-conditioned hospital building will provide facilities that include nursing units for the various divisions of surgery, medicine, psychiatry, intensive care and pediatrics.

Bed-patient and out-patient clinics are to be provided for medicine, surgery, allergy, eye, ear, nose and throat, dentistry, orthopedics and pediatrics.

The following adjunct facilities normal to a general hospital of this size—210,500 square feet—will be included: radiology and surgery departments, laboratories, central sterile supply, occupational therapy, physical therapy, admitting and emergency department and administration. A Patient Welfare and Recreation Department is included and, applicable primarily to a military hospital, will provide recreational and educational opportunities for long term patients.

• • • •

THE HOSPITAL will face Carson Street and have separate entrances and parking facilities for each major department.

The piling-foundation contract was let to the firm of J. Putnam Hench. Officer in charge of construction is Rear Adm. L. C. Coxe, director of the Southwest Division of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. His on-site representative is Comdr. R. E. Dunnells, resident officer in charge of construction, Long Beach area.

New Water Plan Seeks North States' Surplus

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A plan for bringing surplus water from northern states to Southern California and Arizona was announced Saturday by California water agencies.

It is intended to be a substitute for a similar plan proposed by the Department of Interior.

The new concept, which is to be explained to California's congressional delegation early next week, envisions use of surplus water from rivers such as the Columbia, Snake, Yellowstone and from areas in northern California.

The plan, in the form of a bill sponsors hope will be introduced in Congress, was conceived by California water agencies that benefit from Colorado River water.

The bill would require the secretary of the Interior to make feasibility studies of all sources of water that could be delivered to the Colorado River basin. The secretary would also be required to study how water taken from the north could be replaced if needed.

Heretofore, northern interests, particularly in Idaho, have objected to any suggestions that water be shipped south.

Top Lawyers Defend Rights Bill's Legality

By BILL BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A panel of the nation's leading lawyers, including Long Beach attorney Joseph A. Ball, defended the civil rights bill Saturday against attacks on its constitutionality.

Ball is a past president of the California Bar Association.

They issued a statement in response to a request from the bill's bipartisan floor managers in the Senate, Majority Whip Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.

Well-financed attacks on the measure's constitutionality and false warnings of how it might affect business and working conditions have been publicized in recent weeks in full-page newspaper advertisements. These have brought an outpouring of enough apprehensive mail to Northern and Western senators to worry them.

In part, this response affected the course of debate on the bill during its first week in the Senate.

The bill's supporters decided at a mid-week strategy session to spend six days in a careful and lengthy exposition of each provision of the bill which would include a rebuttal to many of the attacks. Meanwhile, Southern opponents of civil rights received few opportunities to challenge or to speak.

Humphrey and Kuchel said the lawyer's statement on the constitutionality of the public accommodations and equal employment opportunity titles of the bill "utterly destroys the argument of those who have claimed that Congress lacks constitutional power in these areas."

The statement said Congress has constitutional rights under the commerce clause and the 14th Amendment to legislate in public accommodations and employment and that these rights have been upheld many times in the courts. It was signed by 22 of the nation's most prominent attorneys, including three former U.S. attorneys general, four past presidents of the American Bar Association and the deans of Harvard, Yale, Minnesota and Vanderbilt Law Schools.

Session on Rights Collapses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first Saturday session of the Senate's formal civil rights bill debate collapsed Saturday when embarrassed administration forces failed to muster enough members to do business.

Only 41 senators appeared on the floor in a quorum call. That was 10 less than required to conduct business.

The Senate had no choice but to quit. It gave up after 40 minutes and voted, 27-14, to recess until 10 a.m. Monday.

• • • •

SOUTHERN FOES of the bill thus won a moral victory—and a day of rest—through the unsuccessful quorum call, one of their own favorite delaying tactics. Their amusement over the situation was heightened by the fact that several "team captains" appointed by the bipartisan leadership for the debate never showed up.

Among them were Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.; Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., all specifically assigned to be on hand.

Also absent was Senate GOP whip Thomas Kuchel, Calif., comanager of the House-passed bill with Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., had a speech all ready, calling the bill "good and moderate," but never had a chance to make it. He will do so Monday.

Integrators Picket Fair, 30 Arrested

A spokesman said the demonstration was aimed at drawing attention to city school integration problems.

The Rev. Milton Galamison and 29 others were taken to police headquarters in patrol wagons after they had lain in a street to block passage of trucks hauling material for last-minute work at the fair, scheduled to open April 22.

One picket chained a truck to a fence to tie up traffic leading into the exposition site. The 30 arrested were paroled for a hearing on disorderly conduct charges.

More than 100 persons took part in the demonstration, which lasted more than an hour.

Rear Adm. Donohue Dies at Age of 78

The coroner's office said Robert Donohue, 78, apparently died from natural causes at his home, 3404 Via Oporto. He had been a patient in the U.S. Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton.

Shotgun Blast Fatal to Builder

The young owner of a construction company who was "just horsing around" with a 12-gauge shotgun when it exploded into his stomach Thursday, died at 3:47 p.m. Saturday in Community Hospital.

Donald J. Hill, 22, of 1735 Coronado Ave., owner of Hill and Hill Construction Co., had undergone surgery Thursday night.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Rocky's Brother Vies in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, declaring that Arkansans are tired of one-party politics, announced Saturday as a candidate for governor.

Several hours later, the chairman of the Arkansas GOP accused Rockefeller of whimsical domination of the party, and said the GOP here is dead.

WINTHROP ROCKEFELLER
Wants F. us's Job

Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, said he got into the race because of "tremendous encouragement" from all sections of the state.

His most likely opponent is Gov. Orval E. Faubus, a five-term Democrat who is expected to announce for reelection this week.

William L. Spicer, GOP chairman in Arkansas, said Rockefeller will "absolutely not" have a united party behind him, and that "in view of the split, the chance of Rockefeller beating Faubus is not good." He said the party was split wide open.

Communists Plan Showdown for Fall

MOSCOW (UPI) — Tass disclosed Saturday that world communism's showdown meeting about Red China is planned for fall.

This gives plenty of time for all parties to take a position and for Premier Khrushchev to marshal his strength for the climatic test of strength with Mao Tse-tung.

The Tass disclosure came in a dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, reporting that the Bulgarian Communist Party was "shoulder to shoulder" with Moscow in the fight with Peking.

Soviets Launch 'Cosmos' Satellite

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday launched the 28th unmanned satellite in its "Cosmos" series in an apparent new effort to press its study of the effects on man of prolonged space flights.

The launching followed the April 2 rocketing of a flying laboratory, "Zond-1," into space to test on improved rocket booster and take scientific measurements.

Closed Casino Quickly Reopens

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Gambling at the Silver Slipper casino on the Las Vegas strip resumed early Saturday, only a few hours after state gaming agents halted play there because of alleged cheating.

The Nevada Gaming Commission issued an emergency order against the club at 9 p.m. Friday alleging the Silver Slipper had been caught using crooked dice on one of its tables.

The club reopened its 10 table games and 105 slot machines at 1:45 a.m.

Deposed Goulart Arrives in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Joao Goulart, deposed as Brazilian president by a military-political revolt aimed at throttling communism, arrived here Saturday to take up political exile. He refused to comment on Brazilian politics.

Goulart's private plane arrived at 3:35 p.m. EST from his Sao Borja, Brazil, ranch, ending a two-day mystery as to his whereabouts.

Solon Accuses Celler

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Michael Feighan, D-Ohio, has accused Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of blocking an "uninhibited" investigation of U.S. immigration policies, including charges some congressmen have taken maney to "fix" immigration cases.

Feighan made the statement during an appearance before a House appropriations subcommittee March 20. In his testimony, made public Saturday, he asked for $160,000 to hire a staff for a long-dormant House-Senate immigration policy committee he heads.

Tornado's Aftermath

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—Thousands of airmen and civilians searched on hands and knees Saturday for anything worth saving from the debris left by the towering tornado that crushed through northwest Wichita Falls, killing seven and injuring 113.

Civilians poked among smashed, sodden homes in two subdivisions—Sunset Terrace and Lincoln Heights.

Airmen worked in orderly formations to clean up Sheppard Air Force Base.

Damage to civilian property was estimated by various disaster officials at about $3 million.

Fire Kills Baby, Mother Faces Homicide Trial

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Brooklyn mother of five was charged with homicide Saturday after her one-year-old daughter burned to death in a fire that swept the family apartment.

Police said the mother, Mrs. Jean McCord, a 28-year-old widow, left her five children—the oldest 11—and another child unattended while she went out with friends at 1 a.m.

Two of the children admitted playing with matches and setting their bed afire, police said. Neighbors rescued five of the children, but the infant, Kim, perished.

This was the 27th case this year in which children, left unattended by their parents, perished in fires, police said.

Bruce Jailed Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Comedian Lenny Bruce appeared in Manhattan Criminal Court Saturday on a charge of using obscene language and was released in $1,500 bail for a hearing April 23. He had spent the night in jail.

Bruce previously has been arrested in Chicago and Los Angeles on similar charges.

AUTOMATION INSTITUTE OF AMERICA

DR. VERNON D. PATTERSON, former Noted educator, executive of Manpower, Inc. is national president of Automation Institute of America

ANNOUNCES OPEN HOUSE

THURSDAY, APRIL 9th • 100 E. OCEAN JERGINS BLDG.

OF 50th AFFILIATED SCHOOL . . .

AUTOMATION INSTITUTE IN LONG BEACH

AUTOMATION IS HERE TO STAY

Payrolls, bank statements, book club accounts, utility bills, aerospace programs — all have entered the realm of Automation. And here in our expanding Long Beach market, the multi-faceted business of data processing is finding a fertile ground for expansion.

HARRY E. WHITE
School Director
AUTOMATION INSTITUTE

It all started after the war when Data Processing began moving into banks, businesses and industries — until now the demand for trained personnel in Data Processing is timely for a school devoted to the complete spectrum of data processing from Card Punching through Computers.

So on January 27th the Automation Institute of Long Beach & Orange County began classes in the well-known Jergins Building at 100 East Ocean Blvd., and according to its president, Harry E. White, Automation Institutes are our nation's largest independent Schools for Business Automation training.

This Automation Institute in Long Beach is a branch of the Automation Institute of America that started out in 1956 in San Francisco.

At Automation Institute there are morning, afternoon and evening classes for students who are at least high school graduates and who pass an aptitude test. The basic course in Card Punching and Verifier training runs 60 hours and classes are limited to eight students.

Mr. White stated that academic and administrative staff of Automation Institute are prepared to meet the increasing need in our market area for many more well-qualified personnel skilled in using automated office equipment.

Charles E. Wolff has been named as vice president and educational director. He will supervise educational administration and academic policies. Wolff will also acquaint our local schools, teaching staffs and students of the growing need for young people in the field of data processing in our area. A color movie, "Careers in Business Automation," is now available by Automation Institute for showing in schools, and before interested groups. Mr. Wolff has had experience as a college and university instructor, school director and formerly with the Small Business Administration. He is currently an Associate Professor of Marketing at Long Beach State College.

Evert Carroll, long time resident and city employee of Long Beach, is Registrar. Mr. Carroll holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from Pacific Coast University of Law. He stated that interested persons may contact him now for further information on the various Data Processing courses.

Robert McEwan is the institute's supervisory instructor. He has had 23 years experience with several large companies operating, installing and supervising many types of IBM Business Machines equipment. Mr. McEwan was most recently with Citrus College where he taught a number of data processing courses.

Mrs. Betty Hansmann has been appointed the school's Placement Director. She points out that Automation Institute provides all of its students a valuable free nationwide placement service upon successful completion of their chosen courses of instruction. Mrs. Hansmann most recently was with the Long Beach City College placement office.

School Director Harry E. White invites all interested persons to visit the completely remodeled Automation Institute during the school's OPEN HOUSE on Thursday, April 9th, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and talk with the staff and faculty, and visit the modern classrooms and IBM Business Machines practice rooms. Refreshments will be served.

HE'S ONE OF 80 STARTING A NEW LIFE

For Little Ki Sun Kim, New Home in Artesia Will Be Dream Fulfilled

By JACK BALDWIN

When a fully-loaded four-engine chartered plane returns to the Southland on May 1 with 41 American couples bringing back 80 Korean waifs there will be one youngster arriving with more of a handicap than just being an orphan.

He is 10-year-old Ki Sun Kim, who learned to beg when he was 4 after his mother abandoned him and his brother. One morning Ki, asleep on a pile of rags, awakened to discover his brother gone—apparently on an early forage for food. He never saw him again.

Alone in a strange village, Ki attempted to return to his home village by catching a ride on a moving train. Too small and weak to pull himself up, Ki was dragged along the rough roadbed until his foot was literally worn away by the rocks and splintered ties. His leg was amputated below the knee.

* * * *

ORPHANED AND hobbling on crutches, Ki held little hope that a "Mama San and Papa San from Stateside" would ever come to adopt him.

Then one day John Filbeck, of Artesia, an assembler at Douglas Aircraft plant in Long Beach, and his wife Mary, a former school teacher, read about Ki's plight in a newsletter from Harry Holt, founder of an orphanage near Il San in South Korea.

The Filbecks, who live on a farm at 17222 Clarkdale St., already have two Korean children adopted when one was 4½ months and the other 35 days old. Rhonda Denice is 5 and next month Ruth Darlene will be 4.

* * * *

ON APRIL 24 the Filbecks will board the chartered Flying Tiger Constellation along with 40 other couples, including several from Compton, Anaheim, Garden Grove and Los Alamitos, and make the 6,000-mile flight to Korea. The special trip is the second arranged by Mrs. Ray Proxmire of 632 S. Los Angeles St., Anaheim, herself the foster mother of three Korean orphan girls.

HARRY HOLT
Wrote Newsletter

The flight, costing the group approximately $40,000 plus living and incidental expenses, is necessitated by federal and state laws requiring prospective parents to see the children they intend to adopt before or during adoption proceedings.

"Last week my husband slaughtered 40 pigs he raises for our friends and members of the Evangelicalist Center Church," Mrs. Filbeck said. "The money from their sale will help pay our expenses to Korea."

* * * *

IN KOREA, Ki is being "briefed" for life in America by John Steensma, a director of a rehabilitation center who understands what it is to be handicapped. A missionary of the Christian Reform Church, he has lost both his arms. His wife Juliana, also of Artesia, helps her husband in working with the handicapped.

Most of the children to be adopted will come from among the 800 abandoned boys and girls being cared for at the Holt Orphanage. Holt, 59, a former Oregon millionaire-farmer who adopted eight Koreans before deciding to found the orphanage, was in the Long Beach area earlier this week attempting to obtain a surplus or obsolete transport plane.

"We could bring in a lot more babies and children if the cost of getting them to the States were not so great," Holt said. "On the return trip we could take supplies, food and clothing. And with the savings in transportation costs our hospital project would move along much faster."

* * * *

HOLT VISITED the Proxmire home for a few days' rest earlier this week after a month-long trip through South America to arrange for adoptions by prospective parents there. He visited his own family in Creswell, Ore., before returning to Korea.

Among area families making the trip are:

Mr. and Mrs. William Eskew, 1608 Orchard St., Compton, who will bring back two girls, 8 and 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robieson, 1126 Weatherby Road, Los Alamitos. They will adopt a 5-year-old girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Sauder, 1928 Robert Lane, Anaheim. They will adopt a 9-year-old girl and her 5-year-old brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Fast, 12892 Gilbert St., Garden Grove, who have six children of their own and will bring back a 2-year-old girl and a 6-month-old girl.

While many of the parents, who will be from states as far away as Wisconsin, Minnesota and Virginia, will be wondering how their adopted children will adapt, the Filbecks have a special "worry."

"Kim Ki, as we are going to rename him, has been fitted with an artificial leg," said Mrs. Filbeck. "We just wonder if he will be able to ride the Shetland pony we got for him."

Pope Sends $10,000, Blessings to Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaskan earthquake victims received a $10,000 check and the blessings Saturday from Pope Paul VI.

The Pope's personal representative, The Most Rev. Archbishop Egidio Nagnozzi, gave the check to Bishop Dermot O'Flanagan of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Juneau before leaving a tour of quake-shattered areas.

Snow Hits Wyoming, Colorado

By United Press International

A late-season snowstorm buried Wyoming and Colorado under as much as two feet of snow Saturday and hazardous driving warnings were posted as far east as Iowa.

Laramie and Casper—two of Wyoming's largest cities—were practically isolated. Traffic was slowed to a crawl over much of Colorado.

Wheatland, Wyo., received 26 inches of snow Friday and Saturday before the storm pushed eastward. Twenty inches fell at Fraser, Colo., and 10 inches at Denver.

* * * *

HIGHWAYS to the west and north of Laramie were blocked by heavy drifting snow and Casper was cut off to the west and south. Roads also were closed in the Cheyenne, Wyo., area.

Casper and Laramie received more than a foot of snow. The storm Friday knocked out telephone service at numerous Wyoming and Colorado communities.

Colorado's agriculture commissioner termed the storm a million-dollar snowfall. Paul Swisher said the storm was "the best of winter" and worth millions of dollars to farmers and ranchers in Colorado's drought-hit plains.

Snow also fell throughout northern New Mexico.

TRIPS, PRIZES PILE UP FOR WINNER

First Miss Long Beach Hopeful Signs

Two things guarantee that Spring is just around the corner; boys start playing baseball in the streets and bathing beauties begin trying to measure up to fame.

Friday night, the Long Beach Police Department answered its first complaint about a ballgame in the street. ("We chewed them out and sent them home.")

And Saturday, the first entrant for the 1964 Miss Long Beach Contest signed on the dotted line.

* * * *

THE CONTEST, sponsored by the Junior Chamer of Commerce, officially opened April 1 with a new format and a list of prizes that promises to attract entrants in large numbers.

The contest, to select a representative for the city and port, has taken on added importance, according to chairman Eddie Cardenas, because of events slated for this summer.

"The 1964 Miss Long Beach will be sent overseas as a goodwill ambassador," Cardenas said. "She will also be official hostess for the International Convention of the American Newspaper Guild here in July, hostess for the International Beauty Congress will appear on network television and will preside at the Olympic trials here in August."

* * * *

CARDENAS, along with Purvis Naick, chairman of contestants for the contest, announced that prizes worth more than $3,000 will be lavished upon the winner.

The International Beauty Congress is sending Miss Long Beach to Japan the week of July 4, along with Miss American Beauty and Miss California, to attend the finals of the Japanese IBC contest.

"She will take part in officials visits to four cities in Japan," Cardenas said, "representing the Port and City of Long Beach."

* * * *

THE WINNER will receive a cash honorarium of $250 plus transportation and all other expenses for the Japanese trip.

Other prizes include a $300 wardrobe, a diamond wrist watch, cash and other merchandise."

The Jaycees will stage an elimination contest May 23 at Alamitos Bay near the lifeguard station, with finals to be held at the Elks Club June 4.

Committee heads emphasized that more prizes for the 1964 Miss Long Beach are being added to the list.

* * * *

"WE ARE working on a trip to New York, movie tests and many radio and TV appearances," Cardenas said.

Entry blanks for the competition are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 121 Linden Ave., or will be mailed to applicants if they will phone the Jaycee office.

Contestants must be 18 to 29 years of age, must have been a resident of Long Beach for six months or be a resident student at a local college; be unmarried and agree to remain single until the susseccor is selected next year.

Deadline for applications is May 20.

BRAINS AND BEAUTY mark the first entrant in the 1964 Miss Long Beach contest as Tincher Elementary School teacher Helen Minton, 27, signs up with contest chairman Eddie Cardenas, left, and Jaycee Purvis Naick. Miss Minton will vie for more than $3,000 in prizes, including a weeklong trip to Japan, that go with the Miss Long Beach crown.

3 Survive Air Crash in Sierra

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Three injured men who weathered a stormy Sierra night in the wreckage of their light plane were rescued by helicopter Saturday and flown to warmth, food and medical attention in a Reno hospital.

Jack Roys, 40, of Reno, the pilot, and Jack Copple, 48, of San Jose, Calif., president of Copple Construction Co., were the most seriously injured.

Ralph A. Weaver, 45, of San Jose, vice president of Pacific Delta Gas Co., said he was lucky to escape with a scalp cut and bruised ribs. "The Lord must have been looking out for us this time," Weaver said.

* * * *

A NURSING supervisor at Reno's Washoe Medical Center said Roys was being treated for head and leg injuries and Copple for a back injury.

Roys was believed to have suffered a concussion, but was conscious when transferred on a stretcher from a plane to an ambulance.

The three men were on a business trip from San Jose to Tonopah, Nev., in the single-engine plane owned by Pacific Delta Gas when the craft stalled into a boulder-strewn mountainside at more than 11,000 feet in the High Sierra east of Yosemite National Park.

Food Costs Drop In Long Beach

We all agree with President Johnson, that something should be done about rising food prices. Rex Welch not only agrees, but is doing something about it. Patrons of Welch's Restaurant are enjoying a lower food cost, due to the rollback in menu prices. A survey shows where a family of four are saving $2.60 or 26½% drop in their dining out cost at Welch's. This family had grilled Swordfish Steak (formerly $2.50) now $1.75 on the dinner, Chicken Fried Steak (formerly $2.75) is now $1.95, Roast Turkey dinner (formerly $2.25) is now $1.95 and the chopped Sirloin Steak, served with two Vegetables and Onion Rings (formerly $2.25) is now $1.50. These are just four of the twenty high quality dinners that have been reduced.

Artificial Magnetic Field for Use in Spacecraft Under Study

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space is a place where, if weightlessness doesn't get you, magnetic fieldlessness may.

Scientists have long pondered the desirability of supplying spacecraft crews with artificial gravity to offset the presumably debilitating effects of prolonged weightlessness.

Now they think it may be adviseable to provide astronauts on long jaunts in space with an artificial magnetic field to compensate in part for the one they left behind.

SINCE LIFE began evolving on earth some three billion years ago it has been continuously subjected to the pull of gravity and to the less obvious effects of the earth's magnetic lines of force.

It appears likely that over the ages the structure and function of plants and animals have been profoundly influenced by gravity. Just recently scientists have found evidence that the creatures of earth also are subtly regulated by the earth's magnetic field.

In orbit a spacecraft is essentially weightless because its speed offsets whatever gravitational forces may be operating upon it. Interplanetary space is permeated by magnetic fields, but they are extremely weak compared to the earth's.

SO, IN addition to weightlessness, space travelers on long journeys must be able to adjust to what amounts to magnetic fieldlessness.

Gravity can be imitated by rotation. In a large space station, say, this would create a pull on astronauts in the rim something like the tug to which they were accustomed on earth. An artificial magnetic field also could be created by electrical means.

Little is known about the importance of the earth's magnetic field to man. But information is accumulating.

For example, recent experiments showed the men who spent two weeks in a laboratory chamber without a magnetic field suffered some impairment of vision. They recovered quickly when returned to a normal environment. Research is continuing.

Szilard Joins Salk Institute

LA JOLLA (UPI)—Dr. Leo Szilard, internationally known biophysicist from the University of Chicago, has joined the staff of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

A co-winner with Dr. Eugene P. Wigner of the Atoms For Peace Award in 1959, Dr. Szilard is credited with assisting in the design of the chain reaction of uranium and graphite used in the atomic pile. He also has achieved fame in theoretical and nuclear physics.

Gemini Test Turning Point

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

Launch of the first Gemini spacecraft from Cape Kennedy Tuesday will be a giant step toward getting America out of the flyweight class in manned space flight.

The first two Gemini test vehicles will be unmanned. But if all goes well with them, two American astronauts will ride together into space for the first time late next fall in a craft twice the size of the pioneering Mercury capsules.

Gemini will also be this nation's first spacecraft to be actually "flown" by its occupants.

The original concept in manned Mercury flights was that the astronaut would go along only as an observer because his capabilities in space were unknown at that time.

Although he could exercise some manual control, his spaceship was designed essentially as a fully automatic machine.

However, the pilot proved himself during Project Mercury.

For example, if John Glenn had not been able to take over the controls in his flight when the automatic control system malfunctioned, there would have been insufficient fuel to complete his mission.

There were several other instances during the program when the astronauts demonstrated their ability to contribute toward mission success.

Therefore, Gemini has been designed as a true pilot-controlled operational spacecraft, with decisions made by humans rather than by electronic boxes.

And there will be decisions aplenty for them to make.

The pilot will decide whether to abort a mission during the boost phase. He will also separate the spacecraft from the booster, steer the craft from one orbit to another, rendezvous with another satellite, decide when and where to re-enter the earth's atmosphere and then control the re-entry before guiding the spacecraft to a safe landing.

Unique feature of Gemini, as compared to Mercury, will be its ability to change orbits.

Mercury spacecraft were restricted like trains to a single orbital "track" while Gemini will have a selection of space "highways" to choose from.

Glenn and his mates could twist their ships under manual control. They could turn, tip and tilt them . . . but the Mercury capsules remained in their fixed orbital path until retro rockets were fired to begin re-entry.

Miners Vote to Continue Coal Tie-up

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Hopes for an immediate end to a walkout of coal miners in six states vanished Saturday when a hard core of recalcitrant workers voted unanimously to continue a strike in protest to a new contract.

United Mine Workers Local 6321, representing 1,250 men at the huge Robena Complex of U.S. Steel Corp. at Carmichaels in southwestern Pennsylvania, held a meeting at Masontown. About 1,000 workers voted to extend the strike. The local's next meeting is scheduled for next Saturday.

Representatives from nine other locals in West Virginia and Ohio attended the meeting in Italian Hall. During the two-hour session, local leaders emphatically reaffirmed their opposition to the contract signed by the union's international officers.

Solons Get Petitions for Prayer Law

Petitions bearing 120,000 signatures have gone out from Long Beach to 35 congressmen in support of a proposed constitutional amendment permitting voluntary prayers in public schools.

Vice Mayor James A. Hayes mailed the bulky stacks of petitions in boxes and big envelopes to 22 members of Congress from California and 13 from other states.

A volunteer corps of circulators collected the signatures during a five-month campaign following the Long Beach City Council's adoption of a resolution last Sept. 17 endorsing the amendment.

The volunteers also sorted the petition forms by cities and areas represented on the signatures. Thus each of the Congressmen is getting an appeal from his own home town.

• • • • •

IN A covering letter Hayes urged the legislators to vote for discharge of the House joint resolution from the Judiciary Committee, a move to send the amendment to the floor for debate.

The biggest batch of petitions went to Rep. Craig Hosmer of Long Beach, but there were also sizable mailings to Congressmen from as far away as New England and the Deep South.

From Long Beach the movement spread to distant localities by a procedure which had not been expected to produce such massive results, Hayes said.

Volunteers left blank forms for signing in popular tourist centers of Southern California. Visitors asked for more of the forms to take back home. Then they organized their own campaigns and mailed the petitions to Hayes for forwarding to Congress.

The petitions refer to the Long Beach council's resolution. They specify that the amendment should permit rather than compel the local school authorities to authorize prayers.

Laos Prince Phouma Confers With Chou

TOKYO (AP)—Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier of Laos, conferred with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China in Peking Saturday, the New China News Agency reported in a broadcast heard here.

It said they had a "friendly talk," then went to a banquet at which Chou declared "U.S. imperialists ... tried hard to disrupt the unity of the three political forces (rightist, neutralist and leftist) in Laos and ceaselessly created tension there."

Spies Convicted

TOKYO (AP)—Seven South Vietnamese have been convicted of espionage by a North Vietnamese court, Radio Hanoi said Saturday. One was sentenced to death, one to life imprisonment and the other five to prison terms ranging from 4 to 20 years, the broadcast said.

Britain Gets Snow, Chill Sets Record

LONDON (UPI)—Snow fell in many parts of Britain Saturday, capping the chilliest three-day spell in 93 years for this time of year.

Weather Bureau officials said Britons are experiencing their coldest April since records started in 1871. The midafternoon temperature in London was 37 degrees Fahrenheit.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Apply "light touch." Hold off on major decisions. There are changes in the works. Don't commit yourself—wait for all the facts. Career, business matters spotlighted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Key is greater faith, includes faith in one "far away." Realize that minor delay in communication will not be a major catastrophe. Utilize common sense. Be mature, patient.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Important to be surrounded by beauty today. Includes beautiful relationships, thoughts, ideas. Strive for full development as an individual. Seek the best. Stick to principles.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Take personal survey. Rely only upon your own judgment, conclusions. Others may mean well ... but are not aware of your specific needs, desires. Continue to take your time.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Not so good for relying upon friends. There is a conflict indicated—between one who is older and one who is youthful. Your best course sees you obtaining greater privacy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Time to fulfill emotional requirements. Strive for greater understanding. Realize that friendship is a two-way street. Be willing to speak frankly. Attend church of your choice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Find out the why of current happenings. Then take steps to insure greater security. Especially applies to home, family affairs. Recent let-down was really minor. You'll be fleet.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep up with the times! Read, absorb knowledge. Fine for attending lectures. Exercise intellectual curiosity. Highlight original approach. Say yes to exciting challenge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Make effort to stabilize peace. Includes "steadying" of budget. Start planning for future. Be more specific about hopes, wishes. Strive toward greater self-understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): No time for impulsive actions. Many "in-between" major obstacles. Utilize wonderful ability to perceive, analyze moods. Avoid heavy reliance on intuition. Utilize your knowledge!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Be ready for changes. Analyze statements made by one close to you. Don't be caught off guard. Review alternative methods. May be necessary to take short journey. If so, proceed with confidence.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20): Quiet evening with friends advocated. Fine ideas can emerge as result of stimulating conversation. Entertain and be entertained. Earlier: attend church of your choice.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY... you are not easy to pin down. You don't fit into any pigeonhole. It is this individuality which makes you particularly attractive to members of the opposite sex.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Capricorn. Special word to Leo: You gain most through policy of moderation.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY—

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Generate good will. Show appreciation to friends who have proven loyal. Break out of rut. Day for creative thinking. Fine for hobbies, special interests. Highlight adventure, experimentation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Self-discipline required. Don't "let yourself go." Make sure you give your best—results will be rewarding. Fine for advancing career. Do so by making specific decisions, suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): You may attempt to go too far afield. Remember: Answer is not at a distance. Perhaps it is within your own family circle. Highlight practical approach. Gain indicated through written word.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Don't ignore "hunch" concerning money matter. Follow through. Investigate—check details. Applies especially where partnership agreements enter picture. Take time to be thorough.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Excellent for bringing achievements, ambitions to attention. Don't expect success to be dropped into your lap. But maintain attitude of confidence. Others want to test your "staying power."

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Need is for aiding loved ones. Give your time to help those who request it. Don't use budget as an excuse. You are capable of taking step to insure domestic harmony. Do so!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Strive toward fulfilling emotional goal. You require love, understanding. This is day to move toward fulfillment. You can do so by giving of yourself. Keep mind and heart open.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't be discouraged by minor obstacles. You can now rise to new heights. But first take stock. Remember past resolutions. Ask aid of one with more experience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Avoid scattering your forces. Finish one thing at a time. Tendency is to try expanding in too many directions. Obtain solid support before making major move. Catch up on correspondence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Be careful observer. Information gained today could prove of immense value! Piece together bits of information. Facts now closer to the surface. Come up with complete story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Cycle high. Spotlight on personal appearances, abilities. Get past the secretary today and see the boss. Means don't waste time with intermediaries. State case "at top."

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20): Emphasize ideas which make use of current possessions. Economize—avoid waste. Highlight quality rather than flash. Be ready to cooperate with family member.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY... you have great sense of rhythm; you love lyrics and will fight to help any who are oppressed.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Aquarius, Pisces, Aries. Special word to Virgo: You gain most through soft sell approach.

Michelangelo's Pieta in Naples for U.S. Trip

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Michelangelo's Pieta, wrapped in three tons of plastic, wood, asbestos and steel, arrived here Saturday night for its voyage to the United States.

The statue reached Naples over wet roads most of the way on a slow, eight-hour truck trip from Rome.

The priceless statue of Mary with the dead Christ was to be placed aboard the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo here today. Its destination is the New York World's Fair.

WHO FIGURES YOUR INCOME TAX

When you pay Block's modest fee for preparing your income tax return, you are spending . . . and SAVING . . . money wisely.

It takes the average taxpayer hours of worry and confusion to figure his tax at home. His time is valuable . . . much more valuable than the few cents for each hour saved that it would cost him to take his tax to Block.

FUND NEED URGENT

Disasters Strike in U.S.

Earthquakes and tidal wave disasters in Alaska and Crescent City dominated thoughts of Long Beach Red Cross workers in the current fund campaign for $387,974.

Area chairmen reported collections of $195,000 to date. Mrs. Betty Benwell made the first report from the women's residential division, collection of $21, 558.

Direct contributions to earthquake disaster victims were reported as $200, one a check from a local physician, others in amounts of $1 to $10.00.

Chairmen reported that campaign contribution made since the disasters a week ago have increased in amounts. Blood banks, stimulated by disaster needs, were larger than usual.

• • • •

JAMES A. Willimgham, fund chairman of the local Red Cross campaign, emphasized that major disasters can hit any, time and any place. "Our campaign budgets, local and national, are geared to meet these vital needs," he said. "We must meet our local goal to insure our own possible disaster needs as well as daily needs. Our campaign will continue until the job is done."

• • • •

MORE THAN 1,000 families affected by earthquake and tidal waves will require Red Cross assistance in repair and rebuilding of homes, replacement of household goods, and filling other esentials of living. Teams of Red Cross disaster specialists are providing care at all affected points.

Final costs of Red Cross current disaster services in this latest tragedy also in 111 counties affected in the Ohio river floods, will reach $2 million.

Tribute was paid to local volunteers who worked night and day to handle over 600 calls to learn about the fate of relatives in earthquake-stricken areas.

ALLEN H. SEED JR.
Speaker

Seed Speaks on City Beautifying

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of "Keep America Beautiful," will speak at noon Thursday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Seed's topic will be "Beauty is Good Business."

The luncheon meeting is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber's Women's Division.

Seed has been with "Keep America Beautiful" since 1959. He is a former president of the National Association of Civic Secretaries and a former national director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He served as president of the New York Jaycees. He has devoted himself to civic causes for about 30 years after retiring after a career in advertising and sales promotion.

Babs Hutton Slated to Wed No. 7 Soon

JIUTEPEC, Mexico (UPI)—Celso Castrjon, mayor of this village, said Saturday he has been asked to be prepared to conduct a marriage ceremony for dime store heiress Barbara Hutton and Vietnamese Prince Pierre Raymond Doan Vinh "at any moment" between now and next Wednesday.

It would make the seventh wedding for Miss Hutton. She and her fiance have been secluded at her Japanese-style estate here five miles from Cuernavaca.

Civil Defense Conference Set

Civil defense leaders, scientists and public officials will meet in Long Beach May 21-22 for the annual regional conference of the United States Civil Defense Council.

Several hundred delegates, most of them professionals in defense and disaster preparedness, will bear addresses by Dr. Edward Teller and others. The region encompasses five Southwestern states.

Dr. Teller, nuclear physicist sometimes called the father of the hydrogen bomb, will speak at a May 21 dinner meeting. All sessions will take place in the Edgewater Inn.

Other scheduled speakers are Dr. Charles F. Richter, professor of seismology at Caltech; William Durke, deputy assistant secretary of defense for civil defense; Gen. Carl Aulick, regional director of civil defense; John Gaffney, director of the California Disaster Office.

• • • •

STILL OTHERS are Dr. Albert Hibbs, senior staff consultant of Jet Propulsion Laboratories; Col. L.I. Stefen, USAF; Leonard A. Skubal, Robert Winsor, Len Grassman and Edward A. McDermott of the Office of Energy Planning; Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk; former Sen. William Knowland, and William Benedon and Charles MacBeth, executives in record management for Lockheed and Hughes Aircraft, respectively.

Joining in the event is the California Civil Defense and Disaster Association. The Los Angeles County Division of the League of California Cities also has urged its members to attend.

Long Beach's assistant director of civil defense, Evar Peterson, is general chairman. His office in the city hall is accepting reservations on behalf of the U.S. Civil Defense Council.

U.N. Plans 20th Anniversary in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The United Nations General Assembly will meet in San Francisco in 1965, it was announced Saturday.

The special session will be held to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the signing of the United Nations Charter here on June 26, 1945.

U.N. Secretary General U Thant and United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson met with Mayor John F. Shelley and other civic leaders Friday to discuss plans for the celebration.

Jubilee Review at CC Meeting

Reflections of the lustrous 75th anniversary Long Beach observance will set the tone at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce annual membership meeting April 23, in the International Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, Broadway and Linden Avenue.

A stylized review of the Diamond Judilee activity of 1963, will highlight entertainment privided by personalities from the Long Beach Civic Light Opera Association and Community Playhouse.

Bob Pierce arrangements committee chairman for the meeting, said more than 600 persons are expected to attend the function.

Dr. Orville W. Cole, immediate past president of the Chamber, will preside.

On the arrangements committee are Warren Mitchell, Russ Maurer, Glenn Conway, Paul Randall, Bill Boyd, Marvin Cloyd, Harvey Waggoner and Ralph Davidson.

Negro Qualifies for Georgia Race

ATLANTA (AP)—A Negro attorney from Albany, C. B. King, qualified Saturday as a candidate for the 2nd District congress race—the first Negro in Georgia history to run for Congress.

King, 40, who has practiced law for eight years, has long been active in the Albany integration movement.

The Week's Recreation Schedule

Attention camera fans! This year's All-City Camera Day is June 7. You are asked to turn your winning pictures in now to your favorite camera dealer as judging will take from April 15 to May 15. Every park playground is holding May Festival rehearsals featuring folk dancing. Each area will represent a different country.

Houghton Park asks interested boys and girls to preregister for the summer soft ball program. Their folk dance rehearsals are Friday and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. Scherer Park announces a new hour called "Ladies Incorporated". Every Monday at 10:45 beginning April 13, this group will have fun with whatever activity they have selected. Call Roberta Weinstein for further information.

Silverado Park offers beginning tennis to women every Thursday at 10 a.m. At the same hour a tiny tot rhythm class meets in the clubhouse. Tennis classes for both men and women are scheduled Saturday at 10 a.m. Tuesday at 3:30 is the tennis time for teen-agers. Social dance instruction for grades five and six is given Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. The junior high dance club meets Wednesday at 6 p.m. and the senior highs at 7:30. Veterans Park has a children's tennis class Tuesday, 3:30 for elementary and junior high ages. Instruction for adults in tennis, Friday at 1 p.m.

Saline Plant Being Shipped to Guantanamo

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The dismantled Point Loma saline plant, which converts salt water to fresh, was loaded aboard a cargo ship Saturday for shipment to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The plant was ordered shipped there after Fidel Castro cut off the water supply to the U.S. Navy's Guantanamo base.

The vessel, the President Grant, was expected to leave Sunday night. A spokesman for Westinghouse Corp., prime contractor for the transfer operation, said the ship should reach Cuba within 10 days.

The shipment includes eight massive evaporator vessels weighing 65 tons each.

Cambodian Red Visit

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Cambodian military delegation headed by Lt. Gen. Lon Nol arrived in Moscow Saturday on a 10-day official visit.

Alaska Terror: a Panoramic Convulsion

and heaved up pavement and snapped bridges and sheared avalanches of snow and dirt and stone from mountain tops. Out in the sea it raised a mighty wave.

Birthday Chaos

In Anchorage, Joan Groom's house quivered, then shook with increasing force. The chimney crashed onto the roof and the birthday cake smashed on the floor. Screaming with fright, the children toppled over in their chairs. Joan Groom lost her balance and pitched to the floor in a litter of flying books and glass and overturned furniture.

Again and again the house shook, sometimes gently, sometimes violently. Then suddenly it ended. Somehow, no one was injured. White with horror, Joan Groom began to sing a song the children had memorized. Slowly, one by one, they stopped crying and began singing:

"The little bookshelf
"Is wiggling itself
"And the books are falling down.
"The fairytales and fables
"Are tumbling over chairs and tables.
"Mother Goose is running loose.
"She is marching into

At the Highland Fling, Harry Groom felt the first tremor and smiled. "Oh," he said flippantly, "another earthquake." Others at the bar smiled. After many years of gentle tremors and no real quake, Alaskans had come to regard the subject with nonchalance.

But this tremor refused to stop, and the bar fell quiet and then the whole room rocked with new force. Bottles pitched to the floor, glasses smashed, women screamed. People tried to rush to the door but the floor was billowing like insane Jello and they fell and they crawled. Harry Groom finally made it to the street, still holding, for no reason he remembered, the two-for-one glasses, unbroken. Like husbands everywhere in town, he was trying to get home to his family.

Outside, on Fourth Avenue, the pavement was billowing and people were falling and cars were bouncing and one whole block of stores sank—just sank — 20 feet into a huge crack of the convulsed earth. The marquee of the Denali movie theater, which was to open in a half hour for the evening show, sank to the level of the sidewalk.

A block away, the five-story J. C. Penney building swayed out over the street, swayed back and then one end sank in a roar of crumbling masonry and glass. Elsewhere, a new six-story apartment, not yet occupied, collapsed in thunder and in many places earth fissures snaked right through living rooms.

Almost Trapped

At the 14-story Mt. McKinley Apartments, one of Anchorage's two tallest buildings, Delphine Haley was riding the elevator near the eighth floor. The elevator quivered and stopped. Then it began bouncing up and down, up and down, and Delphine Haley screamed in terror. The whole world, it seemed to her, was screaming.

The elevator stopped bouncing momentarily between floors and she squeezed through a 10-inch opening in the doors and climbed to the floor above. She made her way to the stairwell and in the darkness, in the incredible shaking and swaying, she became hysterical. Crying, she pitched herself headlong down each flight, crawled across the landing, and pitching and crawling finally made her way to the ground floor and out. She looked back and saw others crawling groggily out of the building. Up the entire face of the structure the apartment was scarred by a series of zigzagging cracks.

When Esther McCreedy's ham pitched from the stove, she knew it was no ordinary tremor and hurried out. Near the door she was thrown down by a violent new shudder. And just outside the door, she turned and watched her home sink "as if in slow motion" up to the roof level in a huge crevasse.

Beyond, where 100 homes had stood, she saw an eerie expanse of ruin. The bluff overlooking Cook Inlet had fallen away 300 yards inland, taking with it houses snapped in two and three pieces into deep gorges. The area looked like a vast brown sea of motionless waves, peaked with pieces of homes and snapped trees. Esther McCreedy wept.

Silence Eerie

And suddenly it was over—some say after 90 seconds, others after five full minutes—and now all of Anchorage, it seems, was arrested in an unfamiliar, overwhelmingly complete silence.

And from far out in the agitated ocean came the wave rushing toward the shaken land. As the depth grew shallower, the wave grew higher. Where it hit the land in broad open areas it looked like a broad, suddenly rising tide. Where it had to pass through a narrow passage, as it did at Seward, 130 miles south of Anchorage, it gathered momentum and force and raced forward like a wall of water.

On it rushed toward Seward, a town of 1,900 which in eight days was to celebrate its selection as an "All American City", because of its economic self-improvement. It was now 5:44, eight minutes after the quake hit Seward, and a wall of water 40 feet high rushed through the narrow mountainous passage of Resurrection Bay. It smashed over the new town port, ripped boats loose from the pier, sent everything in its path tumbling forward, including a 60-ton locomotive which ended up six blocks away.

In seconds, it seemed, Seward was left a wasteland of destroyed houses and broken railroad cars all looking like toys angrily smashed by a wanton child. The big fuel tanks near the pier tumbled in the onslaught and oil spread across the water. Suddenly, the water took fire and a wave of flame rushed toward the head of the bay.

Boats Soar

Ahead of the flames, small boats raced for the shore and many, riding the crest of the tidal wave, sailed over trees 30 feet high and ended up on a pasture on the inland side of the woods.

In town, Doug McRae and his family, including a three-week-old baby, climbed to a garage roof and from there stepped across to a house roof. The wave hit, carrying off the garage and part of the house. The roof floated off with the McRaes on it and after about 15 minutes lodged against four tall trees.

There the McRaes shivered for hours. They ripped a hole in the roof, tore out insulation and wrapped themselves in it. The moon was out and they could see dogs floating by and saw their own car tumble past. To them, it seemed that the whole town was afire. Finally the water and fire receded and the McRaes were rescued without serious injury.

Far to the southwest, on Kodiak Island, the quake shook Louis Beaty's ranch house but he and his clairvoyant cattle were safe on high ground. At the narrow head of Shearwater Bay, the great quake opened long fissures, the bay rushed in, the ground snapped shut and towering geysers shot skyward.

Bears Quit Dens

At the town of Kodiak, the quake was less spectacular. It shook houses, tumbled dishes, but somehow Father Bullock's cross clung to the wall. Up in the hills, a later inspection of tracks showed, the quake shook many Kodiak brown bears out of their winter hibernation two weeks early and sent them in huge jumps down toward the shore. For at least two weeks now they must wander without normal food supplies.

Out in the harbor, skipper Bill Cuthbert cursed. He was sure some drunken sailor had bumped into his boat. Cuthbert stormed out on deck and saw masts waving madly all over the bay. He realized at once it was an earthquake and turned his radio to the emergency marine band. Few Alaska seamen need to be told that quakes make waves.

State Trooper Don Church, back in Kodiak only a half hour after a 22-day tour of his district—the entire Aleutian chain where he knows every village and nomadic family—rushed to the police station to sound the alarm over the marine radio: "Expect a tidal wave, get to high ground."

But Bill Cuthbert couldn't; he had a lame engine. With no choice, with his boat tied to the pier, he went to the galley and waited. The first wave came at 6:47 p.m. — gently, a gradual swell followed by a gradual ebb.

Dizzy Whirlpool

It was now dark and the townspeople who had scampered up the hills with flashlights now looked like fireflies, the second wave hit with a roar and in an instant every pile, every anchor, every line, every pier, snapped and broke and the harbor became a dizzy whirlpool.

Cuthbert dashed to the wheelhouse while his two crewmen clung to the rail. They heard a man in a small boat crying for help. They tried to throw him a line but couldn't. They saw his boat carried off crazily in a wild maelstrom of swirling boats and debris.

The Selief and other big boats became mighty battering rams, pounding into the tumbling buildings across Front Street, across Main Street, and when the waves receded, the Selief came to rest, still upright, far up the hill.

Cuthbert waited for the next onslaught. It came 55 minutes latter, with less force but more height. Again, the heavy scow was whirled around and around and battered its way through buildings and came to rest upright on a crushed store.

The third wave, less violent still, refloated the scow and Cuthbert tied a line to a telephone pole. Through the night, just about every 55 minutes, the waves came in weaker each time until the nightmare ended at 3 a.m.

Villages Vanish

Trooper Church, still at his radio, was trying to contact each of the tiny, remote villages on the island. In days to come, he would visit each personally. Some show on maps, others only in the trooper's notebook. How are the Munsens? Church would fly out to see. The Martins? All five of them were missing, no trace of their cattle ranch. Village by village, family by family, he would count them all.

But on this Good Friday night there were two villages he could not reach by radio: Afrognak and Ouzinkie. He dispatched fishing boats to both places. Then he began contacting fishing boats. Most replied. Oothers didn't, ominously. The Selief did.

"Selief, Selief, where are you?"

"It looks," answered Cuthbert, "as though I'm in the back of the Kodiak schoolhouse, five blocks from the shoreline."

Because of Church's radio warnings, most of the people in the village escaped. A few still are missing. But in at least four cases—Afognak, Ouzinkie, Kaguyak and Old Harbor—the destruction was almost complete. Only a handful of houses remained. Timbers of others slapped at the shore and other houses, still intact, were driven miles across the water to distant beaches.

Tots Swept Away

And far away to the south, a great wave rushed up the beach at Newport, Ore., and caught the McKenzie family asleep in their romantic shelter of driftwood, and took their four children to their deaths in the sea.

And now suddenly it was over.

The sea became serene again. The roar of the wall of water, and tumbling houses and boats was gone.

Throughout the broad earthquake area, Alaskans began picking through the debris in search of bodies. By week's end, the total of known dead and presumed dead was [illegible].

The figure was astonishingly low. Why? Some explained it in terms of Alaska's sparse population, small towns, broad streets and low buildings. Others found the answer on their knees.

The Vanishing Bracero: Who'll Take His Place?

By BOB DAVIS

A last-ditch fight against plans by the federal government to slam the door on bracero farm workers next Dec. 31 is being fought by Orange County growers.

The program, which imports Mexican nationals to perform farm labor—has been in operation for almost 22 years.

If it ends, says Edward P. Backs, president of Citrus Growers Inc., prices will go up, crops will be wasted and itinerant farm workers will weigh down welfare rolls.

A PRICE increase in some fruits and vegetables will hit Southland housewives, many produce distributors believe. Backs, who office is at 227 N. State College Blvd., Anaheim, said "I believe, and many agree with me, that the bracero program is being stopped because of selfish political and economic reasons."

"Economically, the government is losing a lot of money in the program because the $35 to $40 million paid annually to Mexican nationals is tax free."

• • • •

Backs also charged that many of those congressmen who voted in favor of terminating the program this year did so because they have been expounding the virtues of hiring only American workers to perform American work.

"And being an election year, what better time to play up to the American worker?" he added.

THE CITRUS leader, whose group represents 17 citrus packing companies in the county, said he, too, is in favor of providing employment for the American worker, but that halting the bracero program creates several unique problems.

First of all, he said, the reason braceros were brought into this country was because of the shortage of American farm workers during World War II. When American labor was again plentiful the majority of the workers refused to perform the hard work done by the braceros.

"Today, there is very little domestic labor qualified and willing to replace the bracero and work under similar conditions for similar pay. We have tried to use domestic labor, but most of it is completely unsatisfactory," Backs said.

• • • •

For one thing, the American worker knows he will be paid a certain salary, for so many hours, and his attitude generally is "why work like a horse for money I'll get even if I don't produce?", Backs said.

"Then, too, domestic labor doesn't always remain on the job, for the complete season. In fact, less than 30 percent of domestic labor hired ever finishes the season."

Categorically, Backs described the specific problems he felt would exist with the end of the bracero program. They are:

1. Replacing braceros with domestic labor will increase production costs because the domestic will insist upon more money to perform the same work, and will turn to unions, which means strikes and lost time.

2. Domestic labor being untrained as it is means crops cannot be picked as rapidly, and many crops will be picked incorrectly, causing them to be ruined and unsuited for sale to consumers.

3. Braceros are signed up to work in the country from between six weeks to six months—then they return to Mexico. Domestic labor, imported from other areas, means entire families moving into the county.

This means many additional children will be thrust into school systems, which are not prepared to handle thousands of new students. Also, when the picking season ends the men are unemployed. Many will not be able to locate new jobs, and will be forced upon the welfare rolls.

• • • •

"NOT ONLY IS this country benefitting from the good work performed by the braceros, but many of them are returning home with a better outlook on life—because of American dollars—and are helping to raise living standards in their own country," Backs said.

"We would prefer retaining the braceros in specific areas where domestic labor is unable to perform a comparable job at comparable wages," he explained.

"But if the program must end, we would prefer that only 15 or 20 percent of the braceros be replaced at one time over a given period of time. This would permit the hiring and training of domestic labor, which could eliminate a few of the problems we foresee."

Joan Finally Gets Across the Atlantic

Slowed by bad weather and the Brazilian revolution, Long Beach housewife Joan Merriam Smith, 27, arrived in Senegal, Africa, Saturday after a 16-hour transatlantic flight.

The Atlantic crossing on her solo flight around the world took two hours longer than expected. Bad weather delayed her takeoff from Natal, Brazil, Friday and after 160 minutes in the air she lost all radio contact. Because of the revolution, she couldn't get accurate weather information in Brazil.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, landed at Karachi, Pakistan.

Beach Combing

With Malcolm Epley

SEVERAL of my readers have communicated recently their views about El Dorado Park East, along with appeals that this column support the proposal for a woodland-type development there.

Now I make no claims to having influence, but I do agree with those who want the park development to be sort of rough and wild.

It should be a place of woods and meadows rather than neatly manicured lawns and rectangular flower beds. It should be a place of country-like roads and trails rather than black-topped or paved roadways.

This type of development is not so costly as the fancier parks, and the maintenance should be far less. I think that any estimates of maintenance of a wilderness park should be based on a study of what it costs to keep up the eucalyptus grove park at Seventh and Park Ave., rather than an over-all average of park maintenance costs such as people have been talking about. (And statistics on the subject have disagreed fantastically.)

In our intensively urbanized region, we do need some extensive woodland-type public areas, and El Dorado is beautifully suited for such usage and preservation. It has always seemed to me that El Dorado should be financed as a regional park, but if that is not in the cards, local financing should be provided to start the program.

That's what we saved this fine big area for, isn't it?

IT cost Mrs. Rose Wear of Long Beach an extra new lock for her garage, but she's happy to pay for it because she found out about the eager helpfulness of her friends.

The other day Mrs. Wear mentioned to a friend that she had lost the keys to her garage door and the lock would have to be sawed. Quickly the story of her trouble went around her circle of acquaintances.

One man came over and sawed the lock for her, and she replaced it with a new one.

She was away from home that afternoon. When she returned she found the new lock sawed, the work of a neighbor who had heard of her plight, but did not know of the earlier good deed.

"It's great to have helpful friends," said Mrs. Wear. "I didn't mind it a bit when I had to buy a second lock. I guess the word has gotten around now."

SOME time ago I complained in this pillar about trouble I had finding my way through the intersection of the Harbor and San Diego Frwys. when bound toward Long Beach from L.A. I claimed that it was an awkward situation.

Immediately I got several calls from people who scoffed at my report. If I had difficulties, they inferred, it was because of lousy driving, lack of alertness, inability to read, daydreaming, inattention to business, general stupidity.

They backed me down and haven't peeped since. I've even done better getting through the intersection. But it is now with some pleasure that I report that two of my readers have just sent in complaints about that intersection and the same old problem. They assert that it is confusing there, and it is difficult to find one's way into the right lane for coming onto San Diego Frwy. to head for Long Beach.

It is encouraging to me to note that both of these people, with whom I am acquainted, have reputations for intelligence and good driving ability.

So I am emboldened again to suggest that the highway people ought to take another look at the channelization on Harbor Frwy, approaching the San Diego Frwy. and see if some improvements can be made. I know now you don't have to be dumb to make a miscue there.

Book Sleuth Gets Strange Requests

By BILL DUNCAN

When John Friend picks up his daily mail, he's never quite sure what it will bring.

At times it contains letters requesting:

A non-drinking husband for a Tennessee widow, a rich wife for a Florida man, a two-year-old copy of a newspaper that advertised a pattern for a two-piece dress, a story book about a boy who teased dogs and cats and got chased off the moon.

Friend, a retired seaman who lives at 737 E. Seventh St., Long Beach, does not conduct a lonely hearts club or a newspaper clipping service.

He is an antiquarian bookseller—one who specializes in finding out-of-print books.

• • • •

HE GETS KOOKY requests from people all over the world who misunderstand his advertisement which, simply enough, states he will locate any book for a finder's fee.

Friend was a seaman in both world wars—in the Navy aboard a destroyer in World War I and as a master of a tanker in the merchant marine during World War II.

In 1923, after his Navy discharge, Friend came to Los Angeles—broke. He saw a sign on a Main Street bookstore: "Strong Young Man Wanted."

• • • •

FRIEND WENT to work. After lifting boxes of books for several days he knew why the sign specified a "strong" man.

From this job he went on to work for book dealers in California and New York, then surrendered again to the call of the sea.

But the scent of the sea did not take away his savor for old books. He decided to be a bookfinder in his retirement.

• • • •

HIS SALES are all handled by mail. He has steady customers in India, New Zealand, Viet Nam, Switzerland, Zanzibar, Honduras, Philippines, Uruguay, Tanganyika and all 50 states.

Generally, he sells books ranging in price from $3 to $350. Three factors make an out-of-print book valuable—desirability, scarcity and literary worth.

He has had only two requests for books from Long Beach collectors—one of these he could not find.

"Once I sold a book to a customer in New York," Friend laughed, "after locating the book at a book dealer's shop—just one block from the customer's address."

SISTER JANE FRANCES
Preparedness Urged

Hospital Disaster Plan Aim

The Southland's hospitals should develop comprehensive programs for major emergencies—and Sister Jane Frances will attempt to see that they do it.

She's the new president of the Hospital Council of Southern California, and is the administrator of St. Jude Hospital in Fullerton.

"Disaster planning — to meet the needs of the people in natural or man-made disasters—is in need of better coordination", both within hospitals and among them, Sister Jane Frances declared.

As she sees her job with the Hospital Council, it is to encourage the planning for disasters which may never come. But it is better to be prepared, she reminded.

Over the years, notably recently, hospitals have made "giant strides" in improving their services and in meeting needs of the public—except in disaster planning, Sister Jane Frances said.

She succeeded Henry X. Jackson, of Valley Presbyterian Hospital in San Fernando Valley, as president of the Hospital Council.

UP Revising Schedules of 2 Crack Trains

The Union Pacific Railroad is urging passengers holding reservations on two crack trains, the City of St. Louis and the City of Los Angeles, to contact their nearest ticket offices.

A spokesman for the line said the Interstate Commerce Commission has approved consolidation of the two trains between Los Angeles and Ogden, Utah, necessitating a revision of previous schedules.

The two trains will continue to run beyond Ogden, however, the spokesman added.

BOOSTS CATCH BY 60 PER CENT

Private Air Force Assists Fishermen of Southland

By DICK EMERY

A private air force helps Southland commercial fishermen close in on schools of mackerel, tuna and sardines and, says the top pilot, boosts the catch by 60 to 70 per cent.

A virtually unknown facet of commercial fishing, aerial fish spotting dates back to scientific surveys started in 1919.

The science was brought to Pacific Coast commercial fishing in 1945. At present, the largest group of flying fish spotters working along the Southland coast is the Flying Fishermen, Inc., of 1634 W. 10th St., San Pedro.

The corporation operates planes from Torrance Municipal Airport and from fields near Newport Beach and San Diego to locate schools of marketable fish for commercial seiners.

The company has 14 aircraft. Wide-ranging surveys for commercial, scientific or governmental clients take members of the firm thousands of miles from home.

• • • •

TONY MARINKOVICH, 34, president of Flying Fishermen, Inc., started work as an aerial fish spotter in 1953 after years of commercial fishing in this area.

He flies a small land plane over the fishing grounds, at elevations from 300 to 3,000 feet, traveling as far as 100 miles from shore.

To be able to find and identify fish from the air, a pilot first must be a "fisherman born" and then must have two years of training, according to Marinkovich.

"If he makes a mistake, the boats may run five or six hours to a spot to find the wrong kind of fish. Mistakes like that can ruin fishermen, and such mistakes have put out of business 20 pilots who have tried to work as fish spotters.

• • • •

"IT IS NOT easy. It is dangerous work. One person cannot tell another how to look down from a plane at a fish school and determine whether the fish are tuna, mackerel or sardines—which the fishermen want—or anchovies which the fishermen can't sell, or barracuda or sea bass which are illegal for seiners.

"We tell by the look of the water, by the way the fish act when the school is startled, by the shape and size of the school, by where it is, and by what it does at a certain time of day.

"We help boats by 60 to 70 per cent of their normal catch. There are months when their catch might be nothing at all if it weren't for planes. In this area, we help 30 to 40 boats which have a total catch of 50,000 tons a year."

Seal Beach Police Shoot Visiting Seal

A seal came to Seal Beach Saturday.

So, that's news? It certainly is—it happens only about once a year.

And did they strike up the band and roll out the red carpet? Nope, they shot him dead in his tracks—or flipperprints.

It's not that Seal Beach is a seal-hating city, though. Just that the only seals who visit seem to be the sick ones.

Saturday's visitor looked sick, and seals are known to carry rabies. So the Seal Beach police had no choice. They had to shoot him.

EDITORIAL

Warren Probe

FEARS HAVE BEEN expressed that the Warren Commission, appointed by President Johnson to investigate the assassination of the late President Kennedy, may withhold some of the facts or delay its report for many years.

Even if some members lacked a sensible understanding of their mission and responsibility, the varied and bipartisan nature of the commission would surely rule out any possibility of censorship or delay.

The commission just doesn't have the right to decide whether to withhold information or indefinitely postpone its report. It was selected to uncover and publish the facts, not to suppress them.

When he selected the commission, President Johnson instructed it to satisfy itself that the truth is known as far as it can be discovered, and to report its findings and conclusions to him, "to the American people, and to the world."

Clearly the commission exists only to satisfy the public desire to know all the facts surrounding the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

The public expects a full report, and any intimation that less than a full report is being given will set off an unparalleled explosion of public indignation.

The Warren Commission should, of course, take all the time necessary for full investigation and refuse to be stampeded into making a fragmentary and premature report.

But when all the sources of information have been exhausted—a chore which will take months but certainly not years—the complete facts must be written down and presented to the people.

In view of the fears which have been aroused, by baseless rumor or otherwise, the commission should state its intention of doing so.

Amazing Reaction

LAST WEEK IN THIS SPACE we noted that Congressman Craig Hosmer has received a barrage of hate mail from racial extremists, accusing him of being un-American and pro-Communist for voting for the Civil Rights Act.

We suggested that he deserves praise rather than censure for supporting time-honored American principles which are perpetual planks in the Republican and Democratic platforms.

We were amazed to receive letters charging us with labeling as racial extremists and bigots all people who oppose the civil rights bill, and with trying to silence the voices of dissent.

First, we did not say that all letters against the measure are hate letters. We said hate mail from racial extremists has been received. That is a statement of fact, not of opinion. We are quite sure, however, that many opponents of the Civil Rights Act have written their views with reason and restraint and do not belong in the category of haters and extremists.

As for the expression of dissenting views, this newspaper's columns have been used by citizens on both sides to state their positions; and we encourage citizens to write their congressmen about public matters, though we do suggest they exercise good taste and restraint if, in return, they expect consideration and respect.

Meanwhile, we again commend Rep. Hosmer for his courageous stand in favor of constitutional principles in the face of considerable criticism, some of which has been hateful and abusive.

Brief, Rich Story

FRANK E. COOK, who at the age of 10 first saw the place now called Long Beach, died last week at 92. That gives a clue to the kind of city we live in. One man's life more than spanned its entire history.

In many towns of the East—any place east of western Kansas—there are monuments listing the names of the brave young men who went to the Civil War. That is the extent of the glory of these towns. So many of them are places where only a few stirring things have happened, and where nothing is happening.

Long Beach, on the other hand, has, in a fraction of the same time, gone through a host of lively experiences as an oil capital, a defense capital, a birthplace of jet airplanes, a major port of the world, and the center of a population explosion.

A city's history is not told by the number of years in its history but by the events that take place. Long Beach's history is rich in events; more important, Long Beach is a place where the future, too, will be worth living.

WE ASSUME THAT the forthcoming book, "How Shakespeare Spent the Day," will tell how he would jot down on his "Things to Do Today" pad such reminders as, "Write 'Hamlet.'"

A HUMORIST advises his younger colleagues that they may get away with jokes about mother and the flag, but they had better stay away from kidding J. Edgar Hoover or women drivers.

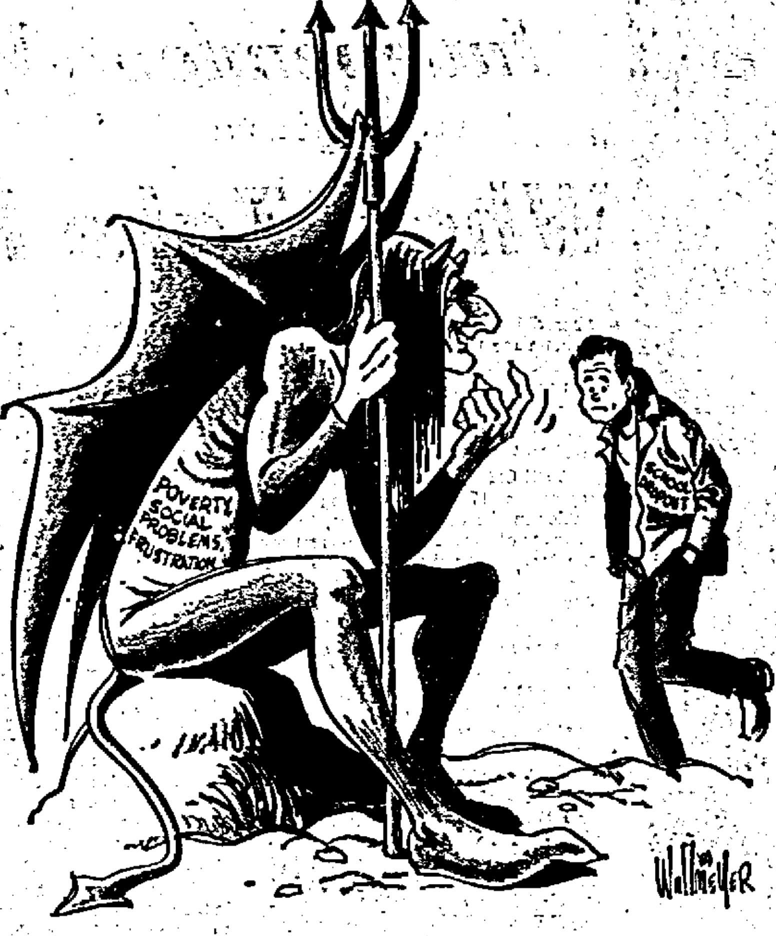
'I've Been Expecting You'



DAVID LAWRENCE

As Years Pass, Ex-Presidents Can Observe: 'I Told You So'

WASHINGTON —Maybe an ex-President has some advantages in political debate—for, as the years go on and he surveys the passing scene, he can always say from personal experience: "I told you so."

Thus, former President Eisenhower, while attending a few days ago a forum in Los Angeles, was reminded of the late President Kennedy's charge in the 1960 campaign that United States "prestige" was low. Mr. Eisenhower was asked how he would appraise our "prestige" now. The former President answered:

LAWRENCE

"I am not going to detail what has happened in the past three years, but the prestige of the United States today is far less than it was in 1960."

The dictionary gives "influence" as a synonym for "prestige." Mr. Kennedy, in a campaign speech in Kansas City on Oct. 22, 1960, amplified what is meant by "influence." He said:

"I define prestige as influence, as an ability to persuade people to accept your point of view. That probably cost us more in the '50's than any other failure or any other decision or any other action."

Speaking a few days later in New York City, Mr. Kennedy declared:

"One of the great problems which now affects the United States, affects our security, affects our leadership, affects our chances of peace, is that the United States in recent years, rather than giving an image of strength and purpose and vitality, has given an image of reaching middle age and beginning to fade as an inspiration and hope to the people all around the globe."

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said only a few days ago virtually the same thing about the present administration's foreign policy.

• • • •

MR. KENNEDY made several speeches in the campaign on the meaning of "prestige." In Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1960, he said:

"By prestige I do not mean popularity. . . . Prestige is important, but if these people upon whom we depend for our security, our support, and ultimately the peace, ever begin to get the idea that we are tired, uncertain, not sure where we are going, without purpose, how can we lead a free alliance?"

But as Americans look around the world today, they wonder who is leading the "free alliance," and whether the difficulty is in the United States or abroad. France has recognized Red China, and the countries of Western Europe continue to ignore American appeals that they curtail their trade with Communist Cuba.

Mr. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, in expressing his belief that American "prestige" had fallen to a very low point, said at Albuquerque, N. M., on Nov. 3:

"You cannot be a citizen of this country, concerned about its future, and not be aware of the decline in influence and prestige of our country, aware of the fact that in 10 countries polled a majority of the people thought by 1970 the Soviet Union would be first in science and in military power."

Maybe Sen. Fulbright, who now calls Castro a "distasteful nuisance" but not a danger, had not read the speech by Sen. John F. Kennedy during the 1960 campaign at Portland, Ore., on Sept. 7, in which he said:

"They (the American people) wonder why America is regarded with so much contempt on the once-friendly island of Cuba, only 90 miles away, that its erratic leader feels free to denounce us with words and threaten us with missiles."

• • • •

BUT IT SO happens that nearly four years have passed since that 1960 campaign, and the Castro government still regards the United States with contempt and there are well-authenticated reports that a military base in Cuba, manned by Soviet "technicians," is still potentially menacing to the American people.

• • • •

YET IN THE last few days, the Chairman of the Foreign Relations committee of the Senate, a prominent Democrat, has called upon his countrymen to "come to terms, at last, with the realities." He gives up on the economic blockade of Cuba. He says it is futile. He insists that the United States cannot persuade its allies to maintain such a blockade.

But nobody has come forth with the basic reason as to why the Western European countries — our own allies—feel they can ignore our pleas and earnestly written diplomatic communications asking them to assist us in an economic boycott of Cuba, from which island a constant campaign of Communist subversion and infiltration is being carried on against the rest of Latin America. It is not American "prestige" that has fallen but actually the prestige of nations which prefer the materialistic gains of "trade" to the ideals for which free nations have made such supreme sacrifices in the past.

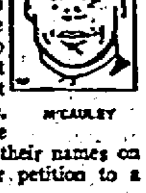
JIM M'CAULEY

Letter Campaigns Overrated

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Writing your lawmaker is one of those supersacred rituals of the American process. It is mentioned in Fourth of July speeches in the same hallowed breath as the Bill of Rights, American apple pie and motherhood.

But in Sacramento, write-your-legislator crusades are the most overrated method of influencing lawmaking.



M'CAULEY

The persons who exert genuine power in California are those who help elect politicians at ballot time, not those who scrawl their names on a form-letter petition to a lawmaker.

Publicly, most state officials pay homage to the great American myth on the power of the written letter. But privately, petitions and letter campaigns are scoffed at in this age of the organized form-letter and the huckster.

Some pressure - petition campaigns even may backfire on their energetic backers.

Biggest pressure campaign thus far in the 1964 legislation session has been conducted in behalf of a bid by school administrators and California Teachers Assn. for another $100 million in state school aid.

More than a million petitioners signed we-want-more - aid statements, and huge bundles of the aid requests were parceled out to lawmakers by districts. Sen. Thomas Rees, D-Los Angeles County, was deluged with petitions signed by 337,000 persons.

But by the day the petitions arrived, things started to go badly for the professional school administrators and CTA.

Already, Gov. Brown had proposed a 1964-65 budget which calls for less than half as much new aid as the pressure petitioners wanted.

The tremendous educational lobby pressure for more money — without strings—also started legislators to thinking about school fiscal programs deeply.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, served notice he felt there should be substantial reforms wiping out smaller inefficient school districts before any new aid is voted. Unruh now has before the legislature a bill that would limit new aid to unified districts.

Senate President Pro Tempore Hugh M. Burns subsequently chided professional educators for assuming that all of their problems can be solved by more money. Burns wants educators to suggest constructive changes —such as organizational reforms. In a blistering statement, he also questioned the brains, honesty and competence of professional educational administrators.

Burns said: "What they really need is a whole new set of brains."

One Republican assemblyman from Northern California refused even to thumb through the petitions. He sent the whole batch to Gov. Brown.

The petitions failed to get the usual personal reply from Sen. Rees. "A personal response to these petitions would cost my office almost $30,000," he said.

Instead of answering the petitions, Rees studied the issues more thoroughly.

Rees then came to the same conclusion as Unruh and Burns: "There must be a complete reform of educational financing before major new funds are voted."

The petition blitz also caused legislators to research educational statistics as never before. CTA has been asserting that current state support for schools has dipped below the 50-percent mark.

There has been no constan percentage of support in the past 34 years, according to legislative analyst A. Alan Post. During the past few years the state's share has risen to a little more than 47 per cent of the total burden, says Post. And this doesn't include the millions of dollars appropriated to the State Allocation Board for school construction and multimillion - dollar outlays for colleges.

• • • •

ONE UPSHOT: the petitions of some professional school administrators may have triggered reforms that will cause some professional school administrators to be fired.

That doesn't mean that you shouldn't contact your lawmaker when you feel strongly on the subject of some proposed legislation. But if you allow yourself to become a pawn in some organized campaign, your communication will be discounted by lawmakers.

Lu Engle Conveys Senator's Regrets to State Reporters

WITH ONLY EIGHT WEEKS to go before California's June 2 primary election, U.S. Sen. Clair Engle's insulation from press and public is still airtight.

This was demonstrated in dramatic fashion in Washington a few days ago when a group of about 17 California newsmen were unsuccessful in their efforts to meet the Democratic Senator for a news conference.

MRS. ENGLE

The newsmen, who flew to Washington on a United Air Lines flight inaugurating the line's one-class service, asked for the interview on grounds it would be an ideal device for the convalescing Engle to relay his current and prospective fitness to Californians via California newspapers.

IN THE MORE than seven months since Engle's Aug. 24 brain surgery, his isolation has been rigidly protected. This has been the source of rumor and speculation over his ability to campaign or serve.

Lucretia Engle, his attractive, brown-eyed wife, has served him well by her own lights, if not too wisely in the view of constituents and news media eager to know the truth of the senator's condition.

The only breaks in the protective surveillance around Engle are, however, generally credited to Mrs. Engle's authorization. They include his extensively edited taped television announcement of his candidacy for re-election, a brief and halting telephone greeting to the Long Beach California Democratic Council convention last month, and the still-exclusive face-to-face interview with Bill Broom of the I.P-T Washington Bureau in mid-January.

I talked with Mrs. Engle for about 20 minutes in the course of her hour and a half visit to a reception for the California newsmen, at which she expressed her regrets that the senator would not attend.

She makes two main points in reaction to almost any type of question—her husband's determination and the uncertainty about when he will be able to campaign.

"We have our best talks at about 11 o'clock at night," she said, "when he's most relaxed. And I asked him, 'How do you really feel about it (the re-election campaign)' and he said, 'I, by God, am gonna win!'"

She said the senator becomes impatient but not discouraged, about the rate of his recovery but doggedly works for hours almost daily on physiotherapy and speech therapy sessions during which he tape records the reading of documents to improve his speech.

HIS REACTION to the invitation to meet with the California reporters, most of them political writers, was, said Mrs. Engle, "Gee, I'd like to go."

She said she did not attempt to influence his decision about meeting them but did say that he was acting under doctor's orders to stay home after his extensive sessions of treatments, mainly because of the cold weather. Engle ended the matter, she said, with, "Tell them hello for me."

Also present at the reception with Mrs. Engle were Assistant Secretary of State Fred Dutton of California, former Postmaster General Ed Day and Orange County Congressman James Utt. Day has delivered a stinging blast against Gov. Pat Brown in defense of Engle's candidacy.

THE ONLY OTHER major Engle contact available to newsmen was Paul Green, his new press secretary. His former aids, Charles Bosley and Fred Asselin, have separated from his staff over friction about certain news releases over Engle's name of which they were not informed.

Green said the senator wants to get in shape for the campaign and that to do so, the doctors say he has to take care of himself. Green made a more positive statement that Engle definitely would come to California before the June 2 primary.

On rumors that Engle might withdraw, Green said, "I am authorized to say it is absolutely not true and that there has never been the slightest question of withdrawing."

A later release put Engle's sentiments in stronger terms—"I am not quitting, withdrawing, surrendering or abdicating. I will not be scared out, talked out, rumored out, pushed out or bought out of running."

Comments on 'Rights' Editorial

Your unfair and unwarranted editorial attack of Sunday March 29, on the right of the people to protest, equating that right with extremist - racist thinking, seems to be the line of attack these days to be used by those in power against the voice of dissent. It appears that no one has the right to speak his mind on any issue —unless of course, he happens to see eye to eye with those on the lofty perch of present authority.

I would think that Congressman Hosmer would be more than grateful for the views of all his constituents, regardless of what those views may be, for how else can we possibly be truly representative of their wishes? Since he is in Washington to represent the will of the people of the 32nd District of California, I fail to see how you have helped Congressman Hosmer in his efforts to be a good Representative.

YOUR PAPER'S Editorial of March 29, 1964 regarding "Civil Rights Act" was most interesting. It does take courage to stand up and be counted for one's convictions these days—though WHY it should I am frank to admit I do not really understand.

The Honorable Craig Hosmer and others are by now used to "hate mail" from extremists, not only on civil rights but on other issues as well. But how often do those who agree with a stand taken bother to sit down and write a "Thanks" letter? Should we not be as busy expressing our appreciation for the courageous stand as willing to express our gratitude for same? Could it be we are all neglecting to do one of the little things that make so much difference?

Let's swamp the Honorable Craig Hosmer with letters of "THANKS" for being courageous in a matter that really shouldn't require courage because it is a demonstration of belief in our Constitution and way of life.

I AM GETTING mighty sick and tired of all these editorials calling everyone a bigot and racial extremist who disagrees with the civil rights bill.

I was one of those who wrote to Craig Hosmer, and I always agreed with his policies, but I told him I could never vote for him since he voted for the civil rights bill.

I never had any animosity towards Negroes as long as they didn't try to integrate. I think that this bill is too extreme and is a dishonest bill. Many of the people who are shouting so loudly for the bill will be the first to cry out against it when it takes effect. History will prove I am right.

Did Gonsalves Just Find Out?

EDITOR:

In regards to Mr. Gonsalves' resolution in the Assembly: Mr. Gonsalves is so shocked about lingerie fashion shows that he is devoting valuable time and taxpayers money because women wear lingerie. Did he just find that out?

Maybe if he went out with the boys once in a while he could also find out about the birds and bees.

I hope that the restaurants that have these fashion shows haven't bruised poor Mr. Gonsalves by dragging him in to their places of corrupt hamburgers.

Don't be jealous "Joe." The husbands that eat at these places are not bothered with indigestion or ulcers and they probably buy their wives some nice lingerie once in a while, but you don't have to be so immoral as to do that.

American Farm Bureau Does Turnabout

WASHINGTON — American Farm Bureau Federation lobbyists, carrying loaves of bread under their arms, have descended on Capitol Hill to woo the big city vote. This is quite a turnabout for the Farm Bureau, never before concerned about the consumer. But today it is all out to defeat the administration's wheat-cotton bill which comes to a vote on the House floor next week.

PEARSON

The bill, already approved by the Senate, is geared to help wheat and cotton farmers. Despite this, Farm Bureau lobbyists are staging a so-called "consumer campaign" to convince city congressmen that a vote for the wheat-cotton bill will be a vote to increase the price of bread. Lined up with the Farm Bureau are the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of manufacturers.

Wheat, which faces a big price drop if the bill doesn't pass, is the nub of the controversy. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman and other farm experts maintain that while the price of bread will not be affected, the milling and baking industries certainly will be. They will get a $350 million windfall in lower wheat costs if the bill doesn't pass — a windfall not likely to be passed on to consumers.

If the bill does not pass, Freeman warns that wheat will drop about 70 cents a bushel from about $2 to around $1.30. This means bread plus gravy for the millers and bakers. Officials of bakery corporations have admitted that the windfall would not be passed on to the consumer in lower bread and bakery prices. They noted that the cost of wheat in a 25-cent loaf of bread—about 2.5 cents— is a relatively minor element.

Meanwhile, the farmers share of the retail price of bread grows less and less. It was 2.7 cents in 1954, when a loaf of bread sold for 17.1 cents and wheat was about $2.24 a bushel. Today it is 2.5 cents when bread costs 21.6 cents a loaf and wheat brings around $2 a bushel.

Despite this, lobbyists for the Farm Bureau, carrying bread under their arms, are hard at work trying to persuade city congressmen to vote against the farmer.

"A windfall of $350 million to the banking and milling industries is just too much to ignore," says Secretary Freeman, "especially when it comes out of the pockets of farmers."

SENS. HUBERT Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic whip, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, the Democratic gadfly, were meeting off-the-record with a group of U. S. ambassadors to Latin America to brief them on American domestic policy and how to get along with Congress.

Humphrey gave the ambasadors this advice: "You should bring into your embassies people from the opposite political parties. Don't just entertain government people who are for us. See what the other side is thinking and doing. Take a leaf from President Johnson. Look at the White House calling list. The President has people coming in to see him all the time who differ with him. That's the way he gets the feel of the country."

After Humphrey sat down, Sen. Morse was called upon to address the American ambassadors.

"I wish to thank Sen. Humphrey for clearing up one matter for me," he said. "For some time I have wondered why I have been invited to the White House so many times during this administration."

IF YOU ARE a gray-haired congressman and want to look younger when you campaign for votes back home, you can step into the House beauty parlor and get your hair touched up. You can even come out a red head, a brunette or blond. An ad in the Roll Call, "the newspaper of Capitol Hill, offers "hair coloring for men available at the House beauty shop."

FREEMAN

The House beauty shop is privately operated under a contract with the architect of the Capitol. It is managed by Mrs. Mabel Solomon who says that so far there has been no repsonse by congressmen to her ad.

Earlier, the beauty shop had received requests from men and Mrs. Solomon made special arrangements, including the hiring of an extra woman employee to handle men patrons.

"But so far no man has made an appointment to have his hair colored or his scalp treated," she said. "I guess it's that way with men, as well as women. When people know they can get something, they don't want it."

Rocky Fans Say Birch Try for GOP Power Hurts Barry

I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rockefeller operatives have returned here from scouting expeditions to the West Coast with some hair-raising reports to party moderates in other states.

The Rockefeller types report that John Birch Society members and others of similar hue have mounted a major effort to take over the State Central Committee in California.

Under California laws, the leading Republican candidate in each race may name a member to the committee. In an effort to stack the committee with their supporters, the Birch types are running candidates in nearly every Republican primary available, including some that Republicans seldom if ever enter.

There's nothing wrong with such tactics, and in fact, they are commendable and offer about the only way the outs can ever overthrow the ins.

But the Rockefeller people report this activity is hurting the candidacy of Barry Goldwater in the Republican primary. It does so, because many county Republican chairmen resent the Birch activity as an attempt to upset their control. Consequently they are joining the Rockefeller campaign in an effort to stay in power. They are bringing along with them organization and know-how and campaign workers the Rockefeller organization could never secure on its own in the few weeks before the June 2 primary.

A NEW and ingenious campaign strategy has been conceived by the Communist presidential candidate in Chile. Instead of the usual shower of vague promises, Communist candidate Allende makes his promises look real. And here's how he does it.

Whenever he makes one of his frequent speaking tours of a village or hamlet he carries a map of the area and a big red pencil. After vociferating about the imperialist colonialists, he asks each peasant to mark on the land map which piece of land he wants when the Communists take the land away from the feudal lords.

Allende conscientiously circles the section of the map with the red pencil and then equally carefully records the name of the voter in his little black book . . . presumably for future reference.

AUTHOR - PLAYWRIGHT Gore Vidal, former friend of the Kennedys who wrote a devastating article about Robert and Ethel Kennedy last year in Esquire, told a luncheon audience here this past week:

"I'm told that I am prejudiced against Bobby . . . that I don't realize how much he has grown and is growing. I wish him well. But I'm going to vote for someone who is already grown."

Vidal said President Johnson should pick his own vice presidential candidate, but that his own choice was Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. He said the big move in behalf of the Attorney General was due to "sentimental attachment to the name, and that is all there is to it. Heaven help us if we pick our presidential candidates on that basis. If we do, some day we may have Elvis Presley."

Need for Foreign Policy Change Aids Rusk Exit Rumors

WASHINGTON—The speech the other day of Sen. William J. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, called for a new appraisal of American foreign policy. The world, the Senator from Arkansas pointed out with considerable truth, is changing and maybe it would be a good idea to have our foreign policy keep pace with the changes.

RIDDER

The French have an old saying that "the more things change, the more they stay the same," a statement which has won a measure of fame because it is just as untrue as it is true. The world is changing and it is now not quite the way it was before. Nuclear weapons, the new emerging nations, the great confrontation on a world-wide scale between two antagonistic systems of government—all of these are producing a world quite unlike that ever seen before.

American foreign policy as now conducted is essentially the same policy laid down in the immediate post-World War II period. The main lines were laid down by General George C. Marshall when he was Secretary of State and it has varied little since then. What Senator Fulbright was saying in effect was that maybe it's time for a change, that a foreign policy adequate to the needs of 1947 and 1948 is not necessarily adequate for the middle 1950s. This should, of course, be self-evident, but the mills of government grind exceeding slow and Fulbright was trying to hasten along the glacial process of government change.

Whether that change can come about under the present directors of our foreign policy is the question which rather intrigues observers here. One of the great losses involved in the sorry affair of Dallas last November was that President Kennedy appeared to be edging towards new concepts and new ideas of how to live in peace in the presently changing world. Whether he would have succeeded in making successful changes remains one of the might-have-beens of history.

• • • •

AT FIRST glance neither President Johnson nor Secretary of State Dean Rusk appear likely to institute any great changes. The President, at least for the moment, is on rather unfamiliar ground when it comes to foreign policy and he will no doubt move very carefully and cautiously in the international arena. The President, too, is basically a man of action rather than a man of ideas. Whatever changes may come to American foreign policy while he is in the White House will come as a result of specific situations rather than from a new concept—unless that concept comes from some other person.

Rusk does not seem to be a likely candidate for promoter of a new concept. While he is highly articulate, thoughtful and knowledgable, his thinking is hardly of the dynamic type nor do his thoughts run to the new and untried. He is skilled in bureaucracy—so skilled, say many of his critics, that he in incapable of extricating himself from the very bureaucracy in which he operates so skillfully.

• • • •

WITH SOME changes in our foreign policy an obvious necessity and with a President and a Secretary of State unlikely to produce those changes, what will happen? The question is perhaps the prime reason why there are in Washington today so many rumors of a change in the topmost direction of the State Department. Despite the best efforts of the White House and the administration to deny the story, rumors that Rusk is on the way out persist. He will probably remain through the November election, but considerable doubts exist whether he will last long after that.

Several names are being suggested already as his successor, among them McGeorge Bundy, now the President's national security advisor, R. Sargent Shriver, Director of the Peace Corps, and William J. Fulbright. The latter might find himself in the position of having to put into action his own words and act upon his verbal ideas, some of which are fearsomely unpopular among a large segment of the American people.

It will be interesting to see how it all works out.

Stocks Rebound for New Highs

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market came down with a case of the post-holiday blues early this week but recovered sufficiently to score two sets of new highs before the final session.

Prices churned narrowly mixed Monday and the only bright spots in the list were tobacco and airline shares. The picture turned darker Tuesday and prices dropped some.

A late rally on Wednesday set the stage for an even better advance on Thursday when prices rose sharply to record highs in both Dow-Jones industrial and rail averages and Standard & Poor's 500 stock index. Trading on Thursday hit 6,840,008 shares—the heaviest volume since last Nov. 26, the first trading day after the assassination of President Kennedy.

The economic outlook continued bright and market sages keep predicting that the brighter the picture gets the more prices will advance.

* * * *

DOW-JONES industrial average climbed 7.08 to a new record high of 822.99 while rails advanced 3.30 to 193.46, also a new record high. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index also scored a new high of 79.94 on a gain of 0.75.

Trading totaled 29,659,310 shares compared with the 21,334,064 shares in the prior holiday week and 23,611,104 shares in the same week last year. Of the 1,511 issues traded, 803 advanced, 314 to new 1964 highs while 557 declined, 120 to new lows.

Studebaker topped the market in activity, rising 1⅛ to 8¾ on a turnover of 575,300 shares. The activity in the issue stemmed from a statement by the company president in which he said first quarter earnings would approximate $1 million compared with a net loss of $6.4 million a year earlier.

* * * *

CHRYSLER took second place with a loss of 1⅛ to 44⅞ on 394,000 shares. It was followed in activity by Continental Airlines up 1⅞ to 28¾, Pan American World Airways up 1⅝ to 81, American Tobacco up 3½ to 34¾ and Reynolds Tobacco up 5¼ to 46⅞.

Steels were mostly easier, apparently on profit-taking from last week's sharp run-ups. Lukens was an exception. It rose 8⅛. Jones & Laughlin dropped 1⅞, Allegheny Ludlum ⅞, U.S. Steel 1⅜, Bethlehem ¼, Republic ⅜ and Youngstown Sheet ¼.

Motors were held in the doldrums despite news the industry would turn out more cars this month than it did in the same month of the record 1955 year. Apparently the possibility of tough labor demands at the bargaining table this summer kept buyers away.

General Motors dropped ½, Ford ¼ and American Motors ¼.

* * * *

DUPONT racked up a gain of 3¼ in a higher chemicals section where Hercules Powder climbed 2¾, Olin Mathieson 2¼ and Witco Chemical 1¾. Eastman Kodak advanced ⅝, Allied and Union Carbide tacked on ¾.

IBM shot up 10 in an otherwise lower electronics group. Zenith dropped 2⅛, Motorola 3½, Texas Instruments 1¼, Electronic Associates 4⅛ and Control Data 2.

Standard Oil of Indiana rose 2 points, Continental Oil picked up 2⅜. Standard Oil (N.J.) 1½, and Texaco 1⅝. Carter Products and Richardson-Merrell rose 2 each but Johnson & Johnson dropped 2½ and Merck lost 2⅞.

Chicago & North Western shot ahead 5½ in the rails where New York Central added 1 and Norfolk & Western picked up 2¼. Missouri Pacific retreated 2¼.

* * * *

TOBACCO shares continued to improve on reports of rising cigarette sales. Philip Morris gained 5¾. American Tobacco and Lorillard 3½ and Liggett & Myers 3⅝.

Metals attracted some attention but turned mixed toward the end of the week. Reynolds Metals was up 2, Alcoa 3⅜ and American Smelting 3⅜. On the downside were Kennecott off 1¼ and Anaconda off 4¾.

Cement shares were a market feature, rising sharply on forecasts for the building industry plus anticipated demand to repair the damage of the Alaskan earthquake. Lehigh Portland rose 2⅛, Ideal 2¾, Missouri Portland 2⅛, Giant Portland 1⅞ and General Portland 2¼.

Western Airlines shot up 8 points, Braniff 2⅛, National 4⅛ and Trans World 2⅜. Delta backtracked 3⅜. Coca-Cola jumped 6 and Royal Crown Cola advanced 5.

* * * *

MAY Department Stores rose 4. In the last session the directors announced a dividend boost and proposed a 2 for 1 split.

J. I. Case spurted ahead 2⅜. Kern County Land announced Friday it is seeking to acquire Case through the acquisition of both the preferred and common shares. The offer on the common is $14.50 a share for not less than 1.6 million shares on 55 percent of the total outstanding. Case 7 percent prefessered shares soared 18¾ on the news, most of the gain scored in the final session.

American Telephone rose 1⅝ to 140 and placed among the 15 most active stocks of the week. The rights on the company's $1.225 billion stock offering rose 1/16 to 1 32/32 on a turnover of 5,565,500 rights. The right will be sold on a cash basis Monday.

General Electric rose 2, Boeing Aircraft 2⅞, McDonnell Aircraft 2⅛, Corning Glass 3, General Cigar 2¾ and Rohm & Haas 9. Polaroid sank 8 points and Xerox, its glamor twin, retreated 2⅛.

Big Swing to Instant Coffee On

By GERALD S. SNYDER

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UPI) — Instant coffee, once just a curiosity item, is now a half billion dollar a year industry, providing one of every five cups of coffee in the United States. Not since American patriots dumped King George's tea into Boston harbor nearly 200 years ago has there been such a noteworthy change in the national drink habit.

Exactly how instant coffee is made — the temperatures, pressures and methods used to preserve the aroma—has been one of the food industry's best kept secrets. This is all the more remarkable, the coffee people say, since never in the food industry's history has any product grown so big so fast—or with so many mistaken notions as to how it is made.

* * * *

INSTANT coffee is actually made by brewing coffee in much the same way the housewife does at home. But with two major processes added.

In the General Foods plant at Hoboken, where both instant and regular coffee are treated, the process begins with millions of odorless and tasteless little green beans from Colombia, Brazil, Guatemala and Africa. El Salvador, Mexico, Panama, Costa Rica and other Latin American and Caribbean countries supply the beans to other plants.

The beans are washed and mixed to form different varieties and then placed in roasters that handle up to 11,000 pounds an hour. Roasting takes 15 minutes.

* * * *

NOW THE coffee is cooled and sent into grinders which cut up the roasted beans. This is where the main process for making regular coffee ends and the process of making instant coffee begins.

A battery of percolators two stories high, looking like giant coffee pots, begin to brew the coffee that's to be turned into instant. Thousands of gallons of water at 300 degrees Fahrenheit are pumped into the percolators up through the coffee.

Droplets of pure coffee extract — exactly like the consumer makes in her percolator at home—are pumped up six floors to an enormous vessel called a spray dryer. Here the extract is piped into an air-stream which goes down through the dryer.

ONLY A FEW months away from Tahiti, where he was a drunkard and begger, Emile Gauguin works on a wood sculpture under the eye of Mme. Josette Giraud, in his Chicago apartment.

ANOTHER GAUGUIN

Artist Gauguin's Son in New Life

(Editor's Note—The author of this article, an artist and journalist, was born in Arles, France, famed for its associations with such artists as Vincent Van Gogh and Paul Gauguin. She has lived in the United States for the past 10 years and tells here the story of the discovery of Gauguin's son.)

By JOSETTE GIRAUD

CHICAGO (AP) — "Give me 10 francs. I am hungry."

That old man, half naked, dirty, crouching under a tree, whose voice stopped me in a street was Emile Gauguin, son of the famed French painter, Paul Gauguin. This was in 1961, in Papeete, Tahiti, and Emile was then 61.

Paul was 51 when his son was born, and had only about four more years to live. The boy's mother was a beautiful 17-year-old Tahitian girl. Emile resembled his father astonishingly. I gave him some money, and I told him he could come to eat at my place any time.

He came, he ate voraciously, without words and without thanks. Then he would leave, and he would come back again.

* * * *

WE CAME slowly to exchange a few words. He had difficulty at the beginning with his French as he was not used to expressing himself.

That illiterate man, rejected by all, was as isolated as a deaf mute. Because he talked with pride about his father, and to help him get out of his isolation, I encouraged him to paint.

From the beginning he started painting with ability, as if he had always painted—strange compositions full of beauty, expressing all his fears and all the thoughts he could not explain.

* * * *

HE WORKED with the simplicity of an artisan, without explaining what he painted and why. But isn't creation the most mysterious process? It was by painting that Emile became conscious of his dignity as a man, and that more than anything else gave him the strength to give up alcohol.

He had been a drunkard, begging on the streets of Papeete. He was a tourist attraction and collected coins by posing for pictures.

When he had completed a small collection of paintings, I took them on a tour of Europe. Emile's first one-man show was in Geneva, last April, and there were shows in London and Paris. Critics, curators and art dealers urged me to continue to encourage him. Now he is getting ready for his first American show next year.

* * * *

KEEPING my promise to Emile, I returned to Tahiti to take him away. He was waiting anxiously. He wanted to go away from the hostility of Tahiti and his unhappy past.

We visited New York, where he was fascinated by the city. Since last November he has lived here, learning the technique of wood carving and sculpting. His apartment, in a tall building, is modest. The floors are bare and he works in the living room, on a rough table. His paintings hang in his bedroom. He enjoys television.

His painting tends to abstraction. But what is more abstract than the simplified forms, stylization and geometric patterns of primitive art?

Some of Emile's creations adapt themselves perfectly to commercialization like printed fabrics and furniture.

* * * *

WE WANT HIM to do what he wants to do. We want him to develop his own inspiration without any influence from anyone.

There are many points in common between Emile's life and that of his father—misery, isolation and alcohol. Each knew little of their fathers, who died while both were very young. Their mothers raised them alone.

Paul Gauguin wrote: "I always had taste for escapes." He qualified himself as "Savage Paul."

Paul Gauguin, to fulfill his destiny, abandoned his family. Emile lived completely alone in spite of his marriages. Both began late to paint. Both knew misery.

* * * *

EMILE'S father pasted posters in the streets of Paris, he was a laborer in Panama, and became a sailor to pay his passage back to Europe in 1888.

He wrote: "Too much misery kills."

In Tahiti at the end of his physical and moral strength, fighting the authorities and the gendarmes, condemned to jail, Paul Gauguin died in 1903.

Emile was in the same desperate conditions as his father when I met him.

He calls me "mama" because I take care of him.

WHY?
Luana Mills, 20-year-old Long Beach City College student found her lost electric cart Saturday, near where she had to abandon it Thursday at 1600 West 14th St. The cart, left on the sidewalk because it broke down, was gone when Luana, crippled since birth, came back for it Friday morning. Saturday police found the cart. Vandals had made it run—again and again—into brick walls until it was damaged almost beyond repair. Luana, daughter of Mrs. Violet A. Mills, of 2112 E. 11th St., also lost her most precious possession in the cart—her Bible.

SAN PEDRO TEACHER KILLED IN SEPARATE CRASH

2 Die, 6 Hurt on Santa Ana Freeway After Motorist Gets Into Wrong Lanes

Two men died in a three-car smashup on the Santa Ana Freeway in Santa Ana Saturday and a San Pedro school teacher died of injuries suffered when his auto ran off the Harbor Freeway near Rosecrans Ave.

California Highway Patrolmen said the impact of the collision which occured north of 17th Street left all three vehicles a jumble of twisted steel.

Six others were injured in the crash, two reported in critical condition and one hurt seriously.

• • • • •

DEAD ARE Cpl. Ernest M. Erickson, 22, of El Toro Marine Corps Base and Billy W. Browning, 39, of 2338 S. Olive St., Santa Ana.

Erickson, riding with three other Marines, died at Santa Ana Community Hospital 35 minutes after the crash which occured at 2:18 a.m. Browning was dead on arrival at Orange County General Hospital.

• • • • •

IN CRITICAL condition at the county hospital were Cpl. Vance L. Parnin, 26, and William Whipple, 19, both of El Toro MCAS. Listed as serious was Richard Snyder, 19, of 11791 McDuff St., Garden Grove.

Cpl. Charles W. Abrams, 23, was reported in good condition at Santa Ana Community Hospital. Cpl. Marvin King, 22, of El Toro, and Vance L. Steelman, 18, of 1532 Michelle Lane, Anaheim, were treated at the county hospital and released.

Officers said one of the autos—wreckage was so bad they couldn't tell which was traveling northbound in the southbound lanes and smashed into the other two.

The teacher, William Stuart, 42, of 1207 Paseo Del Mar, was trapped in the wreckage of his auto for more than four hours before a passing motorist saw the car in a drainage ditch around 7 a.m., police said. He died at Central Receiving Hospital at 7:40 a.m.

Officers said Stuart lost control of his auto while driving south on the Harbor Freeway. It shot 100 yards through shrubbery, tore out a wooden barricade and crashed into the 15-foot-deep drainage ditch, shoving the engine into the driver's compartment and trapping Stuart.

Open Lomita Improvement Bids on April 22

HARBOR CITY — Bids on widening and improving a segment of Lomita Boulevard will be opened April 22 by the City Board of Public Works.

The project includes widening the north side of the thoroughfare from Normandie to Frampton avenues, to provide an 80-foot-wide roadway, and remodeling traffic signals and street lights at the Normandie Avenue intersection. The work is being financed by the county.

A SELLOUT

Waiting List for Concerts

The Long Beach Community Concerts organization, swamped by would-be concertgoers, said Saturday it was discontinuing the sale of season tickets for the fall season.

"More than 4,500 persons have bought tickets since the sale started Tuesday, and we just don't have any left," explained Earl Thomas, publicity director for the organization.

Nevertheless, he added, the concert group will be happy to put the names of those still wishing tickets on a waiting list. The concert season starts next fall in Municipal Auditorium.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

GOP CANDIDATE TO SPEAK HERE TUESDAY

Kaiser Calls Demo Senate Hopes 'Tragic Choice'

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Republican U.S. Senate candidate Leland M. (Lee) Kaiser comes to Long Beach Tuesday in the wake of heavy blasts against his principal Democratic opponents as a "tragic choice" field.

Kaiser, who will speak at a luncheon in the Lafayette Hotel International Ball Room under sponsorship of his Long Beach committee, included Pierre Salinger, Alan Cranston and incumbent Clair Engle in his attack.

The tragic choice facing Democrats, according to Kaiser:

"On the one hand they have a sick man, Clair Engle, whose health apparently won't permit him to campaign or effectively serve the state in the Senate, and on the other hand they must choose between two eminently unqualified candidates.

"One, Cranston, is so far out in left field that those Democrats who are self-respecting, patriotic Americans can't go for him, and the other (Salinger) is a machine politician with absolutely no business experience whatsoever."

Kaiser said he considers Salinger's candidacy "a rigged deal, coupling (Assembly Speaker) Jesse Unruh's strongarm tactics with Salinger's slick doubletalk."

STASSEN PETITION

Frank C. Finch of Long Beach, chairman of the California Stassen for President Citizens Committee, announced that Republican candidate Harold Stassen has been qualified for the state's June 2 primary with more than 20,000 signatures.

Finch noted that Stassen has entered Indiana's May 5 primary and is opposed there only by Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater. He said the Indiana campaign is expected to center on civil rights and foreign policy with Stassen campaigning on "a strong program for peace based on the successful Eisenhower methods along the middle way."

Finch said Stassen is scheduled to come to California this week to organize his state campaign.

He announced that Ben Peery, editor of the California Republican Assembly News, has been appointed chairman of the 21st Congressional District Stassen committee in Los Angeles.

HASTINGS HITS POLL

Willard Hastings, Democratic candidate for Assembly in the East Long Beach-Signal Hill 39th District, Saturday attacked poll results announced by incumbent Republican Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian.

"It would seem," he said, "that our esteemed Republican assemblyman is seeking to justify his undemocratic segregationist-type voting by taking an ex post facto poll regarding the Rumford Fair Housing Law. He has already voted against this bill, AB 1240. Judging by the announced response, it would also seem that the constituents in the small 'representative area' who replied are primarily members of the CREA (California Real Estate Association).

"It is my sincere belief that the people of our district do not wish in any way to discriminate against their fellow Americans. I feel the incumbent is using this poll to take advantage of an emotional situation rather than making an effort to inform his constitutents of all the aspects of the Fair Housing Law."

CULLEN SPEAKS

Michael Cullen, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Long Beach area is 32nd District, will be guest speaker at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Ruth Bach Library, 4055 Bellflower Blvd., for the Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club.

President Gertrude Ginsberg said Dick Cartwright will show the film, "For the Rest of Your Life," explaining the King-Anderson Medicare program. The public is invited.

VOTE REGISTRATION

The office of the League of Women Voters, 724 Atlantic Ave., will be open 4 to 7 p.m. daily through registration deadline, Thursday, to register voters.

Evelyn Davis, voters' service chairman, said the League is strictly nonpartisan and will gladly welcome any person who needs to register or reregister for the June 2 primary election.

HARBOR GOLDWATER

The Harbor Goldwater Committee announced opening of the headquarters at 816 Avalon Blvd., Wilmington, with some 200 guests attending Saturday. It will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Committee chairman, Mrs. Eleanor Kuehn, announced sponsorship of a "Cruise with Goldwater" May 16, a social and fund-raising outing from Wilmington to Catalina aboard the S. S. Catalina. Sen. Goldwater is scheduled to fly to the island and return with the boat party.

Some 1,800 persons can be accommodated at $10 per person. The committee also is selling $1 and $2 tickets for the Goldwater appearance April 15 in Long Beach Arena.

Bandit Suspect, Shot With Own Gun, 'Fair'

A 19-year-old suspect in a LaMirada holdup was in fair condition Saturday night after being shot in the back with his own gun.

According to Norwalk sheriff's deputies, the youth James Lyle Hessell, of 10920 Gard St, Santa Fe Springs, was shot by a service station attendant who wrenched the gun from his hand after the robbery at 14209 E. Firestone Blvd., at 4:30 a.m.

The attendant, James E. Parks, told detectives that Hessell pulled a gun on him and demanded the money. Parks said he handed over some bills, then grabbed the gun, a .22-caliber revolver.

Parks said the suspect pleaded with him to let him go but that he told Hessell he was calling the sheriff's office. The suspect then turned and ran toward his car.

Deputies said Parks fired one shot which struck Hessell in the back. However, the suspect reached his car and roared away.

Hessell later stopped an unidentified motorist at Florence Avenue and Rosemead Boulevard officers said and asked to be taken to a hospital. The Samaritan drove him to Downey Community Hospital where he later was arrested by Downey police.

Hessell, whose description matches that of a gunman who robbed another service station at 8408 Rosemead Boulevard, Pico Rivera, shortly before 4 a.m., was booked in the prison ward of Los Angeles County General Hospital.

Eye-Fraud Probe Set by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alleged quackery in the treatment of eye troubles will come under Senate investigation in public hearings Monday.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., chairman of a special subcommittee investigating Frauds Against the Elderly, said Food and Drug Administration witnesses would comment, among other things, on testimony he said the subcommittee has received concerning "reports of blindness from the use of contact lenses."

The senator said, however, the hearing's major purpose will be to receive testimony about "the variety of ways in which elderly Americans are being victimized by promoters of worthless products or treatments that make false promises for better vision or correction of eye problems."

TALENTS BRILLIANT

Lakewood Ballet Accorded Praise

By RACHEL MORTON

The dance and drama workshop of the Lakewood Philharmonic Association presented the "Ballet Coppelia" in the Lakewood High School auditorium Friday night before a large audience.

Produced by Norm Kreitzer, the featured stars were Marcia Merritt, Bill Tarpy and Charles Pressey. Valerie Silver was the director-choreographer, and besides her own pupils, there were performers from eight other dance studios.

It always amazes me what Valerie Silver can do with young people from 4 to 20 years of age in the art of ballet. She has a flair for drama as well, and the Coppelia of Friday night compared most favorably with many a professional performance I have seen.

* * * *

THE STAGE settings were very attractive, the lighting excellent and the costumes were lovely. How fortunate we are in Long Beach to have full-length ballet performances given from time to time, and with our own talented young people.

Bill Tarpy's superb dancing was the highlight of the evening. As the young lover Frantz, his dramatic portrayal equalled his dazzling feats of high leaps, fast turns and spins. He was applauded long after he left the stage.

Marcia Merritt was a worthy partner to Tarpy as she danced the role of Swanhilda. Very lovely in appearance, she had a fairy-like grace that was most sympathetic. The pas de deux with Bill Tarpy was very fine and the scene with Dr. Coppelius as the mechanical doll in the second act was full of humor as well as controlled ballet.

In makeup, in acting and in burlesqued dancing, Charles Pressey was outstandingly fine. Christine Mills and Kathy McFadden again achieved a notable success as they danced the "Dance de Fete." They are a duo of very talented young dancers.

* * * *

IN LOVELY tulle ballerina costume of pastel shades, six young girls danced beautifully in the Waltz of the Hours.

It was remarkable how the tiny tots kept immovable as dolls in Dr. Copelius' workshop. And no less a test of endurance was the act-long immobility of the mechanical doll, Coppelia, played by Shelley Horton. Other solo ballerinas were Hermine Kritzer, who danced "Dawn" and Diane Racek, who gracefully danced "Evening Prayer."

Next to the thrill of the solo dancing were the ensemble groupings and dancing of the little folk, filling the stage in bright red-and-white costumes. What a picture they made as they swirled in intricate patterns of the dance.

Modern Dental Plates
Aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates, Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers, lowers and partials. GOOD dental plates need not be expensive. THE COST IS SMALL.

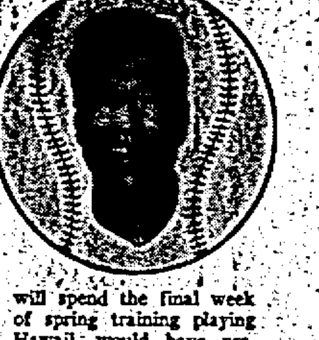
Beware, Dodgers—It's Still Angeltown

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer



PALM SPRINGS — After futile attempts to stretch it into a seven-game series, the management of the Angels has agreed to go through with next weekend's two-game civil war feud with the Dodgers.

The Angels' reason for seeking a longer series is obvious. Like any other baseball team, the Angels want to open the season with a winning attitude. Against who else could they achieve this goal but the Dodgers?

The city champs have never lost to the world champs in a series dating clear back to 1962 and encompassing three games.

Thus, the Angels, who will spend the final week of spring training playing Hawaii, would have preferred playing seven games in Dodger Stadium, reacquainting themselves with the park while their pitchers developed a winning attitude against competition which has proved less of a challenge than the Islanders.

The first time landlord and tenant got together was in the spring of 1962. Some 6,000 sadistic fans fought their way into Palm Springs' ball yard to watch the expansion babes be humiliated. The Angels, however, showed up, put their pants on one leg at a time, let the Dodgers have their fun for eight innings and then calmly pulled it out, 6-5, with the help of Albie Pearson's three-run homer off Johnny Podres in the ninth.

This so unnerved Podres that now, two-years later, he is still having trouble driving.

Last season, Walter O'Malley ordered the series into Dodger Stadium with the thought that 100,000 could watch his club prove what happened one year before was clearly a fluke.

Alas, the Angels were to again provide O'Malley with more trouble than John Holland. The Angels again pulled out the opener in the ninth inning, 4-3, and the next day coasted to a 3-0 victory.

Walter Alston pulled his shocked troops together and finally, in October, they managed to win two games in a row at Dodger Stadium. Which would only prove that Mickey Mantle is no Albie Pearson.

Bill Rigney, however, discovered that two games were not enough to instill the winning attitude. The Angels went from city champs to American League chumps, finishing ninth.

What happened over 162 games does not alter the fact that the Angels would seem to have the Dodger number (they would prefer having the Dodgers' attendance numbers). This point is confirmed by two facts:

The reason Frank Howard wanted to exit this year was because he was afraid of Angel pitching. So concerned are the Dodgers with this three-game losing streak that scout Lefty Phillips, who wrote the "book" on the Yankees, spent last week in Arizona preparing another on the Angels.

Aware of Phillips' presence, Rigney devised special plans for his city series starters, Dean Chance and Bo Belinsky. Chance did not pitch until Saturday after Phillips had re-

Reds, Hutch Working to Bounce Back

'Not Winning, But Getting in Shape' for NL Campaign

By GEORGE LEDERER
I. P-T Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla.—The Big Bear is a little bigger this spring and the pelt on his pate is shaggy, although turning a becoming grey.

Except that he is badly in need of a haircut, Fred Hutchinson looks great. The manager of the Cincinnati Reds says he feels good and you are convinced as his right paw clamps yours. Hutch has lost none of his strength.

You have read that Hutchinson directs the Reds' workouts from a golf cart in order to conserve his strength. You are pleased to see him pace along the sidelines and you are amazed when he sprints to the rival dugout to greet Dodger manager Walter Alston.

• • • •

"WAIT right here, fellas," says Hutch. "I'll be back to talk to you in a couple of minutes."

As you wait, you wonder. Should you inquire further about his health? Is cancer a forbidden word?

You decide to let Hutch call the shots, as he has for 10 years as a major league manager. As Hutch returns, you grind out your cigarette and button your shirt pocket to resist further temptation.

Doctors have extinguished Hutchinson's smoking lamp, but not his fire.

"I see no reason why we shouldn't bounce back," he said. "We're not winning this spring, but we're getting the club into shape. That's the most important thing."

• • • •

THE REDS did manage to pick up their first victory against National League opposition when they edged the Dodgers, 7-6, Saturday. They had lost nine in a row in NL exhibitions, including 12-2 to the Dodgers Friday.

"I heard all about that one," said Hutch, who did not make the trip to Vero Beach Friday. He heard so much from coach Reggie Otero that a new lineup, all regulars, already was posted in the Reds' dugout when the Dodgers arrived at 11 a.m.

Hutchinson was disappointed in the Reds' fifth-place finish, 13 games behind the Dodgers, last season. Several players disappointed the manager.

Frank Robinson, Gordy Coleman, Joey Jay, Bob Purkey and Bill Henry had sub-par seasons.

• • • •

"ROBINSON certainly isn't a .259 hitter," said Hutch. "Neither is Jay a 7-win pitcher. Purkey had a sore arm, Coleman was too heavy and Henry was spotty in the bullpen.

"We haven't hit yet this spring, but we're beginning to shape up. If we want to, we can put more speed on the field than anyone. We have a well-balanced club. We're young, and yet we have experience.

"If we have a weakness,

Cowboys Headed for Last Roundup Today

By AL LARSON

The Pacific Indoor Rodeo, referred to in some quarters as "tramp, tramp, tramp the bulls are marching," concludes today at the Long Beach Arena when cowpokes of every size and shape take their last crack at the juicy purse money totaling $19,060.

The bucking stock, which draws its final whiffs of the salt air, comes out charging at 2 o'clock.

The fifth largest crowd ever to attend an event in the L.B. Arena, 9,877, cheered Saturday night as the big oxes again stole the spotlight.

Only Lowell James, Rapid City, S.D., clung to his heaving and weaving beast, Tony Lama, for the required eight seconds; 10 boys bit the dust. The box score now reads: Bulls 39, Cowboys 12.

"Hurricane Hank" proved invincible again as he bounced his adversary, Bill Burton, in short order.

"This was the second time I've drawn 'Hank' but I haven't had any luck yet. He's a good, honest bull . . . just rank. He felt good and I got my arm straight. Then he whipped me down."

• • • •

"HANK," WHO was ridden only twice in 61 outings last year, has bucked 10 of 11 riders that have mounted him this season.

Buddy Peak poured the spurs to "Cheyenne" and picked off 67 points, highest mark to date in the bareback bronc event. Bob Eidson, last year's winner in this event, tallied 64 and stands second in this go-round.

Bob Robinson registered the night's highest ride in saddle bronc at 63 points.

Bill Martinelli, who had been one of the pre-rodeo favorites in the saddle bronc, flew head-over-heels when "Heaven Bound" bucked him off. For a moment Bill looked like he was hell-bound.

CAMP Pendleton, home of the last cavalry unit of bucking horses in the country, pulled far ahead of the Navy in the service competition.

All three Marines stayed up Saturday night to push their lead to 243-0. The sailors are batting 0-12 after four performances. Bull rider Jerry Lambert was rushed to Pacific Hospital when his bull stomped him in the chest but X-rays on the sailor proved negative.

Tickets Available

General admission seats at $1.50 and reserved seats at $3 and $4 are available for today's final performance at 2 o'clock.

Blades Belt Denver, Play S.F.

DENVER—The Blades rallied for four goals in the last period Saturday night to take a 5-3 victory over the Denver Invaders that put them in the finals of the Western Hockey League's Lester Patrick Cup playoffs.

The victory closed the best-of-seven semifinal playoff series at four wins to two. Denver won the second and fourth games in the series and dropped a 5-4 overtime decision to the Blades in Los Angeles Friday night.

The Blades move into the first game of the finals against the San Francisco Seals in Los Angeles next Wednesday night.

Stan Maxwell scored two goals and assisted on another in the Blades' triumph Saturday night. He scored the first goal of the game at 16:29 of the first period, then hit the Blades' fourth goal at 8:05 of the final period.

• • • •

THE BLADES trailed, 2-1, going into the last 20 minutes. Then Willie O'Ree connected at 2:09 and Gordon Haworth sent the Blades ahead less than two minutes later.

Denver tallied once more, Lou Jankowski getting his second goal at 10:54, but the Blades clinched it with Leo LaBine's scoring shot at 14:15.

Jankowski tied the score at 1-1 at 17:50 of the first period and Denver moved into the lead within the first minute of the second period on Dick Lamoureaux's goal.

The Blades showed the fatiguing effects of the furious three games of the series played in Los Angeles Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights during the first two periods, but came to life in the final stanza.

A near-capacity crowd of 4,572 was on hand at University of Denver Arena to see the Invaders close their first season in the WHL. Denver won the Governor's Cup going away for its first place finish in the regular season standings.

LONG, CARR SET WORLD MARKS

SHOTPUT: 65-11½

Dallas Long set a new world's record in the shotput Saturday in a track meet between Occidental College and the Pasadena Athletic Association.

Long, a dental student at University of Southern California, hit 65 feet, 11½ inches on his next to last throw. The old record, 65-10½, was set by Long in 1962.

Long represented the PAA at the meet. His series: 63-1½, 63-2½, 63-9¾, 65-1, 65-11½, 65-3.

Despite Long's record toss, Occidental went on to sweep the intermediate hurdles, 440 and two-mile run and hand the Pasadena team an 88-56 defeat.

Long said the throw came easy and added that he has always done well at the Occidental pit.

"To tell the truth, all those 65-footers felt just like the 63-footers used to feel," Long said.

220 CURVE: 20.2

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI)—Arizona State University's Henry Carr bettered his own world record for the 220-yard dash around a curve Saturday night.

Carr's time was 20.2. His listed world standard is 20.3.

Carr's amazing showing came in a dual meet between the Sun Devils and the powerful Southern California Striders.

The 6-foot-3 junior from Detroit, Mich., had little competition in his record effort, pulling away from the field with about 30 yards to go.

Second was the Striders' Adolph Plummer. The former University of New Mexico performer, a world record holder himself in the 440-yard dash, was tied at 20.8. Third was the Striders' Don Webster in 20.9.

Carr was slow out of the blocks but made up for it at the end of the curve.

Flying Wheels Capture 5th National Title

NEW YORK (Special)—Long Beach's Flying Wheels won their fifth consecutive National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament title Saturday, upsetting top-seeded Indianapolis 45-40 in the championship final of the 16th annual tourney.

The Flying Wheels scored nine successive points with eight minutes to play. John Cheves, a six-time wheelchair all-American, scored 18 points for Long Beach, which led at halftime, 23-19. Center Erle Gerard was next with 13 points.

Ninth-ranked Chicago upset the fifth-ranked Pan-Am Jets, 59-38, to defend their consolation championship. It was the Sidewinders' third upset victory in the four-day tournament.

HELP WANTED: TRADE WINDS BLOWING

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Trade winds are blowing again and there's a strong possibility that some major league player transactions will be completed before the season openers next week.

Every club with the possible exception of the New York Yankees needs help in at least one position. And even the Yankees are on the lookout for a left-handed pinch hitter.

The Chicago Cubs, unable to come up with a replacement for second baseman Kenny Hubbs, victim of a plane crash last February, tried unsuccessfully to pry loose Dick Tracewski from the Dodgers or Chuck Hiller from the San Francisco Giants.

They had to settle for Joey Amalfitano, purchasing the utility infielder from the Angels.

Oddly enough, the club most sought after for deals is the lowly New York Mets. It seems everybody wants the few worthies the New Yorkers possess.

Philadelphia and Milwaukee covet Al Jackson, the southpaw who won 21 of the 91 games the Mets have won in their first two years.

The Phillies, seeking a righthanded hitting outfielder as well as another starting pitcher, last week offered five players for Jackson and outfielder Frank Thomas. The players offered were pitchers John Boozer, Paul Brown and Dallas Green, rookie outfielder John Herrnstein and third baseman Don Hoak.

The Braves, also looking to strengthen their staff, offered shortstop Roy McMillan, center fielder Ty Cline and catcher Bob Uecker for Jackson.

A number of other trade proposals have been made during the spring training season.

—The Minnesota Twins offered center fielder Lennie Green, pitcher Jim Perry and first baseman Don Mincher to the Angels for right-handed pitcher Dean Chance.

—The Twins also offered first baseman Vic Power and third baseman George Banks to the Washington Senators for first baseman Bill Skowron.

—The Chicago White Sox offered center fielder Jim Landis and a pitcher for Skowron.

—The Giants offered outfielder Matty Alou and cash to the Mets for outfielder Duke Snider.

—The Detroit Tigers also want Snider but offer only cash.

—The Philadelphia Phillies offered shortstop Ruben Amaro to the Mets for outfielder Jim Hickman.

The Mets are not unwilling to part with Snider, who, at 37, is expected to see only limited action. But George Weiss, the club president, wants more than the younger brother of Felipe Alou and cash.

"Snider would fill our need for a left-handed pinch hitter and part time outfielder," said manager Charlie Dressen of the Tigers. "We'd like to have him but they have asked for Willie Horton, our young outfielder, in return. We regard Horton as a future star."

The Mets are loathe to part with Jackson, whom manager Casey Stengel regards the ace of his staff. It has been reported they have offered Jay Hook, a hight-hander, to the Braves in exchange for the proposed trio but Milwaukee is still holding out for Jackson.

A check of the 20 clubs disclosed the following as their most immediate needs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago—A second baseman.
Cincinnati—A third baseman.
Houston—A shortstop and catcher.
Dodgers—A first string catcher to replace the ailing John Roseboro.
Milwaukee—A fourth starting pitcher.
New York—A third baseman and shortstop.
Philadelphia — A right-handed hitting outfielder.
Pittsburgh—A third baseman.
St. Louis—A left-handed hitting outfielder and second string catcher.
San Francisco — A left-handed relief pitcher.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Baltimore—A second baseman.
Boston—A right-handed hitting catcher.
Chicago—A solid first-string catcher.
Cleveland—A second baseman.
Detroit—A reliable relief pitcher.
Kansas City—A second baseman and two starting pitchers.
Los Angeles—A third baseman and outfielder.
Minnesota—A second-string catcher in support of Earl Battey.
Washington—A third baseman, catcher and two starting pitchers.

The Sunday Sermon

Pearls from the Sunday pulpit:

. . . The mail continues to mount on the controversial issue of pay-television. Most of the correspondents seem to be against it for fear of losing many of their programs now on free TV. Our stand is still in favor of the progressive movement. As far as costs are concerned, I still maintain that NOBODY will be forced to subscribe.

WALTER O'MALLEY
"Pay-TV to Help"

. . . Interestingly, Walter O'Malley believes that home pay television will HELP the box office. His explanation: "I have figures to show that radio, because it was more or less a teaser and didn't give the listener the whole aspect of the game, helped build patronage. I also have figures to show that free television eliminated customers. Since pay-television is only an extension of the live gate, it will help a lot. Just think real hard what the Dodgers could have made on our three-game pennant-deciding series last year with the Cardinals." (You can wager that Walter is stringing his beads daily praying that such a circumstance happens THIS season.)

. . . Frank (Bud) Furillo, the young, new executive of the L.A. evening paper's sports department, likes the potential move of the Angels to Orange County . . . as he pounded out in this manner the other day: "The potential of Orange County is tremendous. It makes a lot more sense than Long Beach. Let's see how that plays in Hank Hollingworth's typewriter when he gets through fishing off Rainbow Pier." (In response, we might remind Bud that we already have played with our typewriter on the subject and agree that the Angels' Orange County-Disneyland connection is tremendous. Two-for-one always is fun. P.S. I wish I had the time to fish off Rainbow Pier.)

. . . Al Larson is no man to have in your corner during a barroom brawl. Our rodeo expert, after the highly successful event's first night program when the Arena had been cleared of fans, was suddenly encountered by a steer that somehow had sneaked past the guards and was sauntering around the stands. When rodeo boss Lex Connelly spotted the critter he yelled for assistance. Connelly went for the steer, Larson's partner, Bill Sawrey, rushed to aid him and Larson promptly climbed 30 feet up a screen. A cowboy aided Connelly just as the steer was getting set to drill Sawrey into the woodwork. The two experts maneuvered the animal back onto the dirt floor and the boss messed-up his beautiful, expensive Western attire wrestling the steer to the ground. "At least it proved one thing," panted Connelly after the episode, "the old man hasn't lost his touch yet." (It proved another thing, too. Choose Sawrey, not Larson, when the next tag-team affair crops up during those beer drinking beach parties).

NOTE TO PAT AHERN: Did you notice the fine writeups both wire services gave to John Wooden for his extreme sportsmanship during the U.S. Olympic basketball trials? Wooden's first aim wasn't in winning with the team he coached, but with sincerely trying to determine the best players to represent our nation in the upcoming Games. In using reserves 50 per cent of the time, Wooden's predominately UCLA-represented club lost its opener. Wooden's explanation: "I have an obligation to play all the boys an equal amount." The wire services' succint conclusion: Other coaches did not follow suit. (And that included the AAU-coached teams, too, Pat.)

. . . Last year we wrote that Jacques Grenier's son, Mark, of Millikan High, not only hoped to follow in his father's footsteps as a harness horse driver, trainer and owner, but also to branch out as a race announcer. Mark, who turned 18 Friday, has hit the big time fast: He is the "new" voice you hear announcing the final race daily at Santa Anita's current Western Harness meeting. (Mark even handled an entire program one day when the veteran announcer was ailing.)

. . . "Mark has a tremendous attribute," commented WHRA official Biff Lowry. "He can identify every single horse by its looks, not just its colors in a race." (If you think that's easy, try it. The only horses I can tell apart are coal blacks and strawberry roans.)

. . . ON THE SUBJECT of horses, Press-Telegram handicapper Ernie Mason received a letter from a local teenage miss that he still hasn't got around to answering (and doesn't know how he will). The question: "Are geldings born that way?"

. . . Caliente Future Book operators always report that they are trembling about what will happen to them if certain well-regarded horses win the S'Anita Handicap or the Kentucky Derby. Right now they're shaking in earnest over the prospect of Hill Rise capturing next month's Derby. On the first day they opened their Derby book, the Caliente people hauled-in $15,000 on Hill Rise at odds of 5-1 ($10,000 in one chunk). The colt was lowered to 5-2 on their next listings and should be even-money with them on the day of the race. That's beside the point, though. With little action on other horses, Caliente overall figures to blow 100 grand if Hill Rise nabs the Kentucky classic. I'd shake, too.

. . . Las Vegas bookmakers are getting surprising plays on both the Pirates and Braves (at juicy prices) to nab the N.L. pennant. The theory, they believe, is that the N.L. has produced six different champions in seven years. My conclusion: Forget it. There's a lot of contention in the circuit again, but it's really a three-horse race: The Dodgers, Giants and Cardinals . . . with the Phillies always pesty.

Great in Pinch, Lynch Homers Twice as Starter

By Associated Press

Jerry Lynch, Pittsburgh's pinch-hitting specialist, took advantage of a starting role, clubbed two homers, a double and a single, drove in four runs and scored four himself as the Pirates crushed Detroit 14-6 in an exhibition baseball game Saturday.

Lynch's 4-for-4 performance led a 20-hit Pittsburgh attack that also included a two-run homer by rookie Gene Alley. Don Demeter hit a homer for the Tigers.

Besides Alley, two other rookies played key roles—Minnesota outfielder Tony Oliva and Joeff Long of the St. Louis Cardinals.

• • • •

OLIVA smashed three doubles while Harmon Killebrew drove in three runs in the Twins' 7-4 victory over Kansas City. Ed Charles kept the A's in the game with a homer and two doubles.

Long collected three hits in a 15-hit Cardinal attack that overwhelmed the New York Mets 10-1.

Four other games turned into long struggles with the New York Yankees edging one half of the Chicago White Sox' split squad 9-8, Cincinnati defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6, Philadelphia beating Houston 9-6 and Boston outlasting the Chicago Cubs 9-7 in 14 innings.

Rookie Archie Moore stroked a two-run single that capped a five-run ninth-inning uprising and won for the Yankees. Clete Boyer homered for New York.

'I'M NO SUPER-STAR'

Wagner Modest on HR Prediction

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

TUCSON —It is unfortunate that Leon Wagner considers himself only an average player. Otherwise, he might completely destroy the American League.

Wagner made the following prediction Saturday:

"With the short fences in Cleveland I'll probably hit 50 home runs this year."

Asked why he wouldn't predict 62 home runs for himself, Wagner replied:

"Man, I'm only an average player. I'm no super-star."

• • • •

WAGNER made his prediction before rain called a halt to the Cleveland-Angels game in the third inning with no score. Thus, it was a cold birthday party thrown by the city of Tucson for Jim Fregosi.

Jupiter Pluvius became the first pitcher to stop Fregosi this spring. Jimmy turned 22 Saturday and turned into the final week of training with a .375 batting average. He leads the Angels in hits, total bases and runs scored. Within the next 48 hours he is expected to establish a first—he will be the first Angel to become a father this spring.

The Angels are still looking for a leftfielder and some pinch-hitting strength, but for Jim Fregosi it has been a productive spring.

• • • •

ANGEL ANGLES: Manager Bill Rigney confirmed Saturday's I. P-T story when he revealed that Bo Belinsky and Dean Chance would pitch next weekend's series with the Dodgers. . . . Belinsky will probably go Saturday night.

Belinsky and Chance showed up for Saturday's contest in resplendent cowboy outfits . . . [illegible] cowpoke ever to wear suede shoes . . . "I've been in this territory so long I felt I should go native," said Belinsky. "I believe in the old saying, when in Rome do as the cowboys do."

Coach Jack Paepke suffered two cracked ribs when he was struck by a line drive off the bat of Paul Peraeck during a workout at Palm Springs Friday. . . . Special assignment scout Joe Gordon has been in Arizona for three days surveying college talent.

Belinsky will be on the mound when the Angels face Hawaii at Palm Springs today. . . The contest will be color cast by KTLA (5). . . . Chance had not allowed a hit through the first two and two-thirds innings Saturday.

Dick Simpson will probably man centerfield for the remaining exhibition games with Albie Pearson in left. . . . Albie is not too happy with the idea. . . . "I'm a singles hitter," said Pearson. "You can hit singles and play center. If you play left and hit singles you're gone as soon as some power comes along."

HEMUS HIRED AS COACH BY CLEVELAND

The regular Cleveland third base coach, George Strickland, is managing the American League club until Birdie Tebbetts recovers from a heart attack.

Tebbetts suffered a heart attack Wednesday night, and Strickland had been acting as manager since then.

Hemus is being hired only until Tebbetts returns to work.

it's in our short relief and at third base. I don't want to name the third baseman for a while. Tommy Harper, Chico Ruiz and Steve Boros are fighting for the job."

Boros, guilty of two errors Friday, redeemed himself Saturday with two hits, including a double that enabled the Reds to tie the score at 6-6 in the eighth inning.

Purkey, 6-10 last year, retired the first 13 Dodgers and allowed only a scratch single through five innings. It was obvious he had run out of gas when 10 Dodgers batted against him for four runs in the sixth.

Hutchinson, too, is far ahead in a more serious comeback campaign. He has gained 15 pounds since taking his last x-ray treatment in mid-February and is stepping up his activity daily.

He rubbed his midsection and promised, "I'll take this off as soon as I can work out."

He really doesn't have to. All he needs is a haircut.

• • • •

BITS AND DATA—Tommy Davis, Willie Davis and Jim Gilliam homered Saturday to equal the Dodgers' production of 16 previous games. . . Gilliam connected for three runs and W. Davis for one in the fourth inning against Purkey. . . T. D. picked on rookie lefthander Ted Davidson with the bases empty in the sixth. . . Willie, Tommy and Ron Fairly hit the first three Dodger homers. . . Coleman hit a three-run homer and Vada Pinson hit one with one aboard against Johnny Podres in the fourth. . . Podres didn't allow a hit until Harper led off the fourth with a single. . . There were five hits in a row before Podres retired the side.

Jim Brewer, bidding for a relief job, allowed his first earned run in six innings on successive eighth-inning doubles by rookie Art Shamsky and Boros. . . The loss was charged to Howie Reed, who failed to retire a Red in the ninth. . . Chico Cardenas led off the ninth with a double. John Edwards was walked intentionally and the bases were filled when Reed threw late to third on Deron Johnson's sacrifice bunt. . . Pete Rose's single off Dick Nen's glove chased home the winning run.

FALL FROM LEAD

Vikings Stunned Twice by Valley

Just about the time Long Beach City College felt like it belonged on the top rung of the Metropolitan Conference baseball ladder, Valley and a case of over-confidence popped up and knocked the Vikings off their perch.

Bill Hatch's charges journeyed to the Monarchs' playground Saturday and were rudely treated to losses of 6-4 and 5-4, the latter in extra innings.

Long Beach jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first game and thought it had Valley on the run when the host contingent started running the bases like crazy. And after seven innings the Vikes found themselves on the short end of a 6-3 deficit.

• • • •

IN THE nightcap Bart Hammer walked, Don Keel singled and walks to John Kalench and Mike Linck gave LBCC a run in the second inning. But Viking errors and subsequent base hits in the second and third frames gave Valley a 4-1 advantage.

Angels Eye Cousins—

turned to Los Angeles. Belinsky was fed to the Giants' pitcher-devouring attack and the ensuing seven runs in six innings filled Phillips with over-confidence. Little did Lefty know Bo wasn't prepared for this effort. He had met curfew the night before.

This year the Saturday game will be played at night. It is the Angels' home game and general manager Fred Haney doesn't want to embarrass the Dodgers again. In case the Angels pull into the lead he will turn off the lights, allowing the Dodgers to sneak out unnoticed.

Sunday, when the site of the contest shifts from Chavez Ravine to Dodger Stadium, game time will be 1 p.m. And the $250,000 spent this winter on floral landscaping will be bared to the public for the first time. Included among the improvements was the construction of a scaffold and noose in O'Malley private box. If the Dodgers don't get the "hang" of beating the Angels, O'Malley will employ the rope.

There is only one thing that has the Angels worried. Crowds of 35,000 are anticipated for both games. The Angels tend to get nervous before such gatherings. Some 55,000 missed the Angels' final contest at Dodger Stadium last season. The "crowd" totaled 476. . . This weekend, there will be that many in O'Malley's box alone.

WYNN

Man to Man

MASON

By JERRY WYNN

A Viking among palm trees, Tommy Mason is the most recent addition to the ranks of famous Long Beach athletes.

The all-pro left halfback of the Minnesota Vikings arrived here in January to visit with his former college chum, George Hill, and has not packed his bags since . . . that is, except for a trip to St. Mary's Hospital this weekend for an operation on his football nose.

A native of Lake Charles, La., and an all-America at Tulane, the strong, swift and stylish (6-2, 200, 9.8 dash time) Mason was singled out by Minnesota as its bonus choice among all collegians when the club was founded in 1961.

Tommy played under the shadow and tutelage of Hugh McElhenny his first pro season, came into his own in 1962 and finished last year as the league's No. 5 runner and No. 1 among halfbacks. Only 24, the Rams and other NFL foes should be chasin' Mason for a long, long time.

What brought you to Long Beach, Tommy?

"George (Hill) kept writing to me what a nice place it is, and I finally decided to give it a try after the Pro Bowl game this year. Those winters in Minnesota were getting too cold for a Southern boy. I like it here very much and love the weather. I'd like to make it my permanent home."

What will make up your mind?

"Finding a good job in the off-season. I'd like to get into public relations or advertising, something I can make a career of when I'm through playing football. I was a pre-dental student at Tulane, but I don't think I'm returning to dental school."

As an eligible bachelor, how do the Long Beach girls compare with the southern belles of Louisiana and the northern queens of Minnesota?

"Good-looking girls are good-looking girls anywhere. They seem to be in abundance in California. I don't care where a girl comes from as long as she's friendly and good looking. But I must be a jinx to my roommates. George is going to be the fifth one to leave me and get married."

Have you thought of rooming with Cliff Livingston, the Rams' perennial bachelor, who lives in Belmont Shore?

"No, but I know Cliff well. He played with the Vikings two seasons ago, and he's a great guy. I thought he was living in Montebello. Where is Belmont Shore?

Back to football, Tommy. LSU has turned out such great backs as Steve Van Buren, Alvin Dark, Y. A. Tittle, Billy Cannon and Jim Taylor and Tulane has only you. What's been holding back the Green Wave?

"Tulane puts more emphasis on academics. You need a B average to get in. LSU is a state school and really emphasizes sports. Football is everything at Baton Rouge. I have no love for LSU, but I'm proud of the school. It's showed the nation how good football is in Louisiana. In the last Pro Bowl, we had seven players from the state—Jim Taylor, Y. A. Tittle, Tommy Davis, Richie Petitbon, Roosevelt Taylor, Willie Davis and myself. What other state can beat that number?"

Are you in training for the 1964 season?

"Yes. I'm working out at the Pacific Coast Club with John Ogden. He is one of the athletic directors there and he trained some of the Rams last year. I'm mostly working with the weights. I want to build my weight up to 210 when I report this season. Last year, I started at 195."

Is Minnesota coach Norm Van Brocklin a tyrant as some reports have indicated?

"No. I have a lot of respect for him. He is a smart coach who wants to win badly and isn't afraid to let you know about it. He doesn't play favorites regardless if you are a star or on the taxi squad. We've got along well."

Will Van Brocklin be able to handle problem-child Hal Bedsole?

"I think so. When you go to the Vikings, there is only one way to do things—Van Brocklin's way. I hear Bedsole has great potential. If he can catch passes, he'll have nothing to worry about. And the kid is lucky. We've got two great quarterbacks in Fran Tarkenton and Ron VanderKelen."

What do you think of the Vikings' chances in the rugged Western Division next season?

"I think we're getting better all the time. We tied for fourth place with Detroit last season even though we lost three games in the last 15 seconds. With a little bit of luck and more experience, we're going to do much better. I'm optimistic."

What do you think of the chances of the Rams?

"Their defensive line is as good as I've played against. Gabriel is getting better and Bass is a great back. But losing their big fullback (Ben Wilson) will really hurt them. The third down is the most important in football. I was all-pro, and there were times I just couldn't make that one yard for a first down. You got to have the big fullback."

What has been your greatest thrill in football?

"Just being part of pro football. It was great to be named all-pro, and I'd certainly like to play on a championship team. Maybe next year."

Here's to finding a permanent Long Beach home, a job and a good supply of roommates for Tommy Mason, the Viking among palm trees.

Olympic Trials to AAU Five

NEW YORK (UPI) — The AAU "Stars," led by the unerring free throw shooting of Larry Brown and Dick Davies, won the championship of the U.S. Olympic basketball trials Saturday night by turning back the NCAA "Reds," 78-73.

All-America Walt Hazzard and his UCLA teammate, Gail Goodrich, made final bids for roundtrip tickets to Tokyo when they helped the NCAA "Blues" turn back the AAU "Stripes," 75-67, for fifth place.

NBA TITLE QUEST GOES ON TONIGHT

By Associated Press

The National Basketball Association's semifinal playoffs will be resumed today at St. Louis and Cincinnati with the San Francisco Warriors back in the picture and the Boston Celtics attempting to make it a rout.

After viewing films of their opening game loss—a so-called horror film — the Warriors bounced back Friday night with a 120-85 victory over the St. Louis Hawks which tied the best-of-7 game series at 1-1.

The defending champion Boston Celtics are 2-0 over the Cincinnati Royals and need only two more victories to go into the finals.

Canadiens Turn Back Toronto, 4-2

MONTREAL (UPI) — The crippled Montreal Canadiens, coming from behind with a spirited second-period rush, defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday night, 4-2, to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final Stanley Cup hockey series.

The Canadiens, playing without team captain Jean Beliveau and left winger Gilles Tremblay, beat goalie Johnny Bower three times in the middle period to overcome two Toronto leads and move ahead in the bitterly contested playoffs.

Dave Balon, rookie Claude Lorase—called up Thursday after Beliveau suffered a crippling knee injury—and Bobby Rousseau were the Montreal scoring heroes. Claude Provost added the fourth goal into the empty Toronto net with 30 seconds to play.

Nicklaus Leader by Three

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus put together three consecutive birdies halfway through the back nine Saturday to shoot a four under par 67 and vault past slumping Sam Snead into a three-shot lead after 54 holes of the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament with a 206 total.

Snead, the leader by three shots through each of the first two rounds of the 72-hole tournament, was stunned by a triple bogey 6 on the seventh hole and wound up with 74 to drop to a four-way tie for second at 209.

Defending champion Doug Sanders charged back from a slow start to fire 66.

NICKLAUS, playing here only because snow a week ago prevented him from practicing at home in Columbus, Ohio, for his defense of the Masters title next weekend, had five birdies and one bogey.

"I'm still not hitting the ball real solid, but it's been a little better every day," he said. "My front nine iron play wasn't good, but I got the ball closer to the hole on the back nine. I feel I will be hitting the ball better by the time the Masters opens."

PROS TAB NICKLAUS IN MASTERS TOURNEY

It's Golden Bear vs. Charger

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, the big Golden Bear, and Arnold Palmer, the Charger, renew their battle for No. 1 world golf honors as co-favorites here next weekend in the 28th Masters Tournament.

These two par-shattering sluggers head an elite field of 56 top U. S. pros, 15 U.S. amateurs and 28 foreigners—expected to tee up Thursday in the four-day, 72-hole test over the beautiful but exacting Augusta National course.

It is the year's first major championship — a reawakening of the golf season after the drab winter lull, staged in a carnival atmosphere which brings devotees swarming into this Georgia city by the thousands. No other tournament attracts as many.

Despite a severe winter ice storm and a recent cold wave, the 6,980-yard, par 72 course, designed by the immortal Bob Jones, is lush and flowering. The broad, rolling greens— where the tournament traditionally is won and lost, promise to be smooth as glass and just as slick.

Nicklaus, the bull-strong powerhouse from Columbus, Ohio, who at 24 already has won every major American crown, is seeking to become the first player ever to repeat as Masters champion.

Although there have been multiple winners—Palmer, Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, three each —no man has been able to put titles back to back.

Palmer's three triumphs came in the even-numbered years—1958, 1960 and 1962 —and his bid draws extra support from the fact that this year follows a natural sequence. The 34-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional, the game's all-time leading money winner, consistently plays the Augusta course well, never finishing worse than ninth in the last six years.

"It is my kind of course —I love it," says Palmer. The same affection for the sprawling, wide-open layout is claimed by young Nicklaus, who consistently hits the ball farther and higher than any player who ever lived.

Nicklaus is rated a 6-1 favorite in an informal poll of the touring professionals, with Palmer next at 7-1, followed by National Open champion Julius Boros, Tony Lema and Bill Casper, 8-1.

Palmer is rated the favorite at 4-1 in a scratch sheet compiled in a national golf magazine, Golf Digest. Based on records in the last six Masters and current form, the chart pairs Nicklaus and Lema as second choices at 6-1; Gary Player of South Africa, the 1961 winner, at 7-1; Sam Snead and Bill Casper, 8-1.

Palmer, who led the 1963 money winning list with a record $128,230 although he failed to win a major title, has been in a mild slump this winter, failing to crash through to a single tour tournament victory. Some contend his game has been dulled by mushrooming business enterprises, but the comeback specialist contends he has shaken off all outside responsibilities to get ready for the Masters test.

The 210-pound Nicklaus contends to press Palmer for the position of No. 1 man in professional golf. Last year, the blond bomber won the Masters and PGA crowns and missed the British Open by only a stroke.

The reigning British Open king, left-handed Bob Charles of New Zealand, and Player head the largest and strongest foreign contingent ever. Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., the present National Amateur champion, the veteran Charles Coe of Oklahoma City and Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., top the amateur list. No amateur has ever won the Masters.

'Big League of Golf' Proposed

At the very top of our list of favorite people in the 31 years we've been writing sports is Howard Capps, the former PGA tournament director who originated and developed the Desert Inn's Tournament of Champions into one of the "big five" classics in the links world.

Howard, who parlayed his golf earnings into real estate in boom areas of California and Nevada, retired January 1 as pro at the Desert Inn Country Club . . . worth over a million dollars.

But they want him to go back to work . . . as the commissioner or "czar" of a new professional golf tournament circuit which Howard himself mapped out several years ago.

HOWARD CAPPS

We contacted him the other day about this and he admitted, "Yes, I've been approached. A number of the touring players put it to me in February at Phoenix. I told them that I was flattered, but . . .

"You know, I enjoy this relaxin' so much, it sort of frightens me. But I would not consider that post under any circumstances at the present time, Dave. When I was the PGA tournament director back in 1950 and '51, I could see then the trouble ahead that is now developing along the tour.

"It was then that I dreamed up my plan. It's 12 years old, but still fits. And I'm sure the pros eventually will have to come around to it.

"I've given it to a number of the players on the tour in detail. And they are definitely interested. I don't want to start any boxing matches with PGA officials, but they are not the answer and couldn't conduct the swing if it is to be successful for many, many reasons."

CAPPS BELIEVES THAT quick and forthright action is necessary to avoid additional conflicts, such as the latest one between sponsors and players over TV revenue, plus the absence of stars needed to attract galleries in many tournaments and also the decorum of some players.

His idea is a radical change from the present format. "The only solution," he points out, "is a Big League of Golf, an operation independent of both the PGA and the present players' committee administration.

"The players obviously don't have time for executive duties, nor is it logical they should be in authority in an endeavor where they also are competitors."

He suggests a high commissioner who would be beyond the influence of the players and therefore able to make logical, unsentimental decisions.

HIS PLAN FOR a Big League of Golf is this: He suggests that the 60 men with the lowest scoring average for a year be signed to contracts to play a tournament schedule cut to 30 dates. This would leave room for such other events as the U.S. Open, Masters, PGA championship, Tournament of Champions, various pro-am events and the various TV exhibition matches.

The players who signed these contracts would be excused from a tournament only because of a genuine emergency, thus guaranteeing that the stars will compete.

"Even the last-place finisher would receive enough money to make expenses," Capps says. "The winners would, of course, enjoy a veritable bonanza. And the winner of the most tournaments would be the true national champion and would receive a substantial bonus."

What would happen to the rest of the players now on the tour? "They would be placed in a minor league, competing for perhaps $25,000 instead of the minimum $50,000 in the Big League," Howard says.

MINOR LEAGUE TOURNAMENTS would be sponsored by the big meet people and played at the same time in adjacent areas. Fringe revenues, including that from TV over which everyone is now fighting, would be used to finance the minor league competition.

At the end of each season, Capps suggests that the 15 leading minor tour players would replace the least successful 15 of the Big League men. This would insure a few different names each year.

This method would insure rookies a chance of breaking in. The present tournament fields are so crowded now that the PGA has revoked 45 playing permits in recent months for lack of ability. These men are foreclosed from learning to play tournament golf the place it can be learned—on the tour.

"With only 60 players, the tour also would find it easier to obtain better courses," Capps points out. "The way it has become on the tour and TV courses, the good putter has as much chance as the truly fine player . . . perhaps more. The emphasis should be returned to shotmaking. The public, I'm sure, would enjoy watching a great player fighting to stay even with par on a tough course.

"However, the quality of courses available for the tour is decreasing every year. Where once the finest, most difficult courses were used, the tournaments more and more are forced to easier and play-worn public links."

HOWARD ALSO DECLARES that the "job of commissioner under my plan would be a dirty one for about a year or two. The man who takes the ball will get a lot of abuse before he and his efforts have proved out and are appreciated. The politics and mud-slinging at first will be really something. After a couple of seasons, though, it should be all white meat and gravy and a smooth operation."

Capps went through this once when he was the PGA tournament director. He took charge of the tour during another period of controversy when the tournaments were marked by actual fisticuffs as well as charges of laxity over playing-rule enforcement and favoritism in pairings and starting times. And he became the outstanding tour chief the PGA has ever had.

Howard produced the tour's first rule book and from then on rulings were in the letter of the law, regardless of the fame of the player. And starting times and pairings were by prescribed formula.

THE PLAYERS QUICKLY discovered, to the surprise of even the most critical, that things worked smoother when they followed the book.

Capps feels sure his plan—run by a strong man with absolute power—would prove to be the "cure-all."

But while Howard is willing to give his plan to the golfers for the asking . . . he wants no part of running it.

"As Satchel Paige once said when an umpire was attempting to hurry him to the mound after he had been called into a game in relief with the bases loaded . . . 'look here, ump, old Satch is in NO hurry to get in NO trouble.'

"And I agree 100 percent with his philosophy," Howard declares!

Troy Spikers Blast WSU; Vikes Routed

Southern California's Trojans, defending national collegiate champions, defeated Washington State's outmanned Cougars 86-59 Saturday in a Big Six Conference dual track and field meet before 857 fans in the L. A. Coliseum.

There were two double winners. The most outstanding were the victories by Cougar John Valiant in the mile in 4:10.7, an event in which he was favored, and then in the 2-mile run. Clocked in 9:10.4, he led his favored teammate, Chris Westman, to the tape.

Southern Cal's Dave Morris won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 and the 220 in 21.6. His star teammate, Dick Cortese, favoring a leg injury, did not compete.

Final score: USC 86, Washington State 59.

Long Beach City College was simply outmanned by a talented USC Frosh track squad Saturday morning at the Coliseum. Verne Wolfe's sophomores - to - be gunned down last year's state junior college champions, 92-40.

Depleted by sickness and injuries, as they have all season, the Vikings entered men where they could and in some cases had them competing in events they'd never before attempted.

Typical of the latter was distance-runner Sam Pinterpe, who took third in the mile (4:46.0) then switched over to win the triple jump (42-5) and get show money in the long jump (20-2¼).

Marines Dust LBSC Despite Dee's 4 Wins

CAMP PENDLETON (Special) — The Marines of Camp Pendleton let Dee Andrews run wild and tamed the rest of Long Beach State College's track team for an 88-57 win Saturday.

Andrews won four events—the 120 high hurdles (14.4), 440 intermediates (53.8), long jump (23-9 ¾) and triple jump (46-9½)—and placed second in the high jump at 5-10, somewhat under teammate John Rambo's 6-8 effort.

In scoring his 23 points, Andrews stretched his own school triple jump record by a half-inch and posted an original mark in the 440 hurdles, where there was no listing.

BUT THE featherfooted 49er wasn't asked to match muscles with the Marines, who swept all places in the weight throws. Dave Davis tossed the shot 58-1¼, Ed Kohler sailed the discus 172-3½ and Bill Spordoni fired the javelin 250-3.

Almost unnoticed, 49er Bob Johnson went unplaced despite a shotput of 48-11½, two feet beyond his previous reach.

Freshman Steve Newell set a 49er frosh broad jump record at 22-11¼, passing Jeff Clements' mark by a quarter-inch.

Other 49er winners besides Andrews and Rambo were Jim Richarson in the 100 (9.8) and Darryl Taylor in the 880 (1:53.6). Taylor had to run his fastest race to beat Marine Jimmy Parr, who clocked 1:54.3.

Poly Cindermen Romp Along

By BRUCE YOUNG

Power-laden Poly High won 8 of 10 events Saturday to easily outdistance its opposition in winning the Long Beach City College Relays for the eighth consecutive year.

The rapid Rabbits, who have never lost this meet, piled up 77 points, more than triple its nearest opponent. The Hares also won the Bee title, while Millikan was the Cee champ.

Versatile Earl McCullough led the Poly onslaught with 16½ points, but he was not at his best, winning the 100 in 10 flat, the high hurdles in 14.2 and coming in second in the long jump at 22-7.

Mary Motley, always a late starter, moved a step closer to peak form in the long jump, winning with a season best of 23-5½. The smallish senior cleared 24 feet three times in 1963.

Poly won all four varsity relay races, upsetting Millikan in the two-mile as Al Nichols held off a late surge by Ralph Spicer.

The Rabbits easily won the 440 and 880 relays, but needed strong legs by Ron Wilson and Ron Sommer to overtake Jordan to triumph in the mile relay.

Downey's Phil Chidester won the high jump at 6-2½ as Poly Larry Freeman dropped to Bees and won in a record 6-4¼. Wilson's Larry Laufenberg took the pole vault with a personal and city best of 13-3.

Poly soph shotputter John Hubbell continued to be impressive as he put the 12-pound ball 55 feet, 11 inches. That's the top mark in the city.

Earlier, in a class Bee exhibition, Hubbell hurled the 10-pound shot 60-10—eight inches over the CIF record. Hubbell is a Bee and will compete in that class in the CIF meets.

Poly's Dave Sugano was the top Bee pointmaker with 13, two more than Freeman. Lakewood's Bob Stoughton and Millikan's Greg Ward tied in Cees with 10 points apiece.

A VERY L-O-N-G JUMP
Earl McCullough of Poly appears to be pulling on non-existent object to help him in long jump during LBCC Relays Saturday. The Rabbits' ace finished second to teammate Mary Motley.

DUMAS BACK, GOES 7 FEET ON FIRST TRY

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Charlie Dumas of the Striders high jumped 7 feet and George Young, running unattached, turned in a 4:07.1 in other highlights of the Striders-Arizona State track meet here Saturday that saw Henry Carr run his 20.2 (story on page C-1).

Dumas, jumping for the first time in nearly four years, cleared 7 feet on his first try, then quit for the night. He offered no reason for not continuing.

Glenn Winningham led Arizona State field events with a 251-9 effort in the javelin.

TRACK ROUNDUP

Jerome 9.5, 21.3 as Oregon Wins

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Oregon sprinter Harry Jerome, continuing his comeback after a leg injury in 1962 nearly ruined his career, won the 100 and 220-yard dashes plus anchoring the winning sprint relay Saturday as his team edged Stanford 74-71 in their dual track and field meet.

Jerome equalled the meet record of 9.5 seconds in the 100 and ran the 220 in 21.3 for his double victory before 4,000 fans in Stanford Stadium.

Three meet records fell. Oregon's Gerry Moro pole vaulted 15 feet and teammate Les Tipton threw the javelin 243-4½. Stanford's Steve Cortright triple jumped a record 48-3¼. He also won two hurdle races.

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI)—Jerry Siebert of the Santa Clara Youth Village ran a 46.5 leg in the mile relay Saturday to pace his teammates to a 3:09.6 victory in a special track meet honoring the Japanese Olympic team.

Siebert had scratched earlier in the day from the half-mile because of a leg injury. John Garrison of San Jose State, the school sponsoring the meet, won that race in 1:49.6. Both times bettered previous marks set in the United States this year.

Hiroomi Yamada of Japan finished second in the broad jump at 24-10¾.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Performances by Olympic hopefuls Willie May of Chicago and Bob Schul of Miami of Ohio highlighted the first Kentucky Relays here Saturday.

May, a silver medal-winner in the 1960 Olympics, captured the 120-yard high hurdles in 0:14.3. Schul coasted to an easy victory in the two-mile run, hitting the tape in 8:47.3.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Fifteen records fell and one was tied as Missouri, speared by the mighty Robin Lingle, who ran a 1:48.1 half-mile and a 4:02.4 mile, dominated the Texas Relays with two records Saturday.

The Missouri two-mile relay team, with Lingle doing his 1:48.1 on the anchor, set a record of 7:22.7.

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Charles Craig of Fresno State leaped 51-4 in the triple jump to lead his teammates to a 97-43 track victory over Santa Barbara Saturday.

Karemesines Keeps No. 5 Spot

Chris Karemesines of Chicago held onto his No. 5 national drag rating when Tom McEwen of Long Beach was forced to cut off in the third of their match duels at Lions Drag Strip Saturday night.

The No. 1 junior eliminator race stood at one each between the Heidelberg Special and Boyd-Pennington, defending.

Top eliminator (fuel)—B.R. Martin 8.22 seconds and 183.28 mph. Elapsed time (fuel)—Shubert-Herbert 7.99 seconds. Top speed — Mooneyham-Ferguson-Jackson-Faust 189.56 mph.

Jordan Boy Winner in Big Rifle Match

Jordan High senior George Cameron won the 11th high school invitational small bore rifle meet at UCLA Saturday. Thirty-two schools competed.

Cameron, of 5174 Lincoln St., shot 235, to pace his team to a fourth-place finish. C. Maynard, also of Jordan, was 11th. Pasadena won the meet.

Cal Spikers Easily Sprint Past UCLA

Stocky Jim Blakeney scored 13 points and had a place on the 440-yard relay team to lead California to a 92-53 victory over UCLA Saturday in a Big Six conference dual track meet.

The 182-pound Blakeney, a halfback on the Golden Bear football team, won the 100-yard dash in 9.7, the 220 in 22.2, was the leadoff man in the relay, and placed second in the long jump.

California's Ron Gould was the other double winner at Westwood's Trotter Field, winning the high hurdles in 14.9 and the 330-yard hurdles in 40.4.

UCLA made its best showing in the two-mile run, winning 1-2 with Dick Weeks, timed in 9:09.2, and Bob Day, 9:17.5.

Jr. Net Favorites Win, Tougher Tests Today

By BOB MARTIN

Southern California's finest young tennis players won opening-day matches without too much difficulty Saturday in the eighth Long Beach Junior Tennis Championships, but the going is sure to get a lot rougher today.

Only three seeded players were beaten Saturday as 136 matches were completed on the Lakewood Country Club and Long Beach City College courts, and they were not among the title threats in their divisions.

In Boys 18 singles, Tom Moeller of Santa Monica ousted seventh-seeded Rick Reed of Glendale, 6-1, 6-2, while in Boys 16 competition Mike Gilfillan of Santa Monica beat sixth-seeded Larry Amador of San Diego, 6-2, 6-4, and Robert Smith of San Diego toppled seventh-seeded Mike Hobson of Fullerton, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

BILL DAVIDSON, seeded third in Boys 16, failed to appear and was defaulted.

Long Beach's favorite, Kathy Harter, opened defense of her Girls 18 crown with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Stephanie Grant, a greatly improved young player from Beverly Hills. Kathy Blake of Brentwood, the 1962 champion and runner-up last year, beat Ann Kortlander of Pasadena, 6-1, 6-0.

Steve Derian of Long Beach, seeded No. 2 in Boys 12, drew a bye and then defeated Dick Eisendrath, 6-0, 6-0, in the 12s. Steve also scored a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Richard Harding in the 14s.

PLAY WILL resume at 9 this morning and the meet will wind up next Sunday. There will be singles matches in all events except Girls 18 today, and doubles play will begin.

The Boys 18 competition, featuring such stars as Tom Karp, Steve Tidball, Bob Lutz, Jim Hobson, Stan Smith and Ed Grubb, will enter the round of 16 at 9 a.m. today and quarterfinals are slated at 12:30.

SUGAR RAY HELPS TO NAB MURDER SUSPECT

Detective Sgts. C. L. Brown and J. A. Brooks read an article in a magazine that Robinson and a policeman had chased a man in connection with a $4,500 jewelry theft from Robinson's fiancee.

The article said the man, Cecil Hall, 35, had thrown a punch at Robinson and that Robinson had countered with a left hook—with the result that Hall is now in jail.

The detectives sent a telegram to New York and found hat Hall is the same man charged with the Jan. 18 slaying here of Jimmy Perkins, 35.

Rockets to Battle S.F. Dodgers Today

The Long Beach Rockets will attempt to start another win streak today when they host the San Fernando Valley Dodgers at Blair Field at 1:30.

These two teams were scheduled to play two weeks ago when rain canceled the contest.

After losing last week to the L. A. Eagles, the Rockets are now 18-4.

'Bruiser,' Midgets Head Mat Card

Dick the Bruiser and Pepper Martin are the headliners in Tuesday night's wrestling matches at Municipal Auditorium.

A special tag team match of midgets also is scheduled, matching Sky Low Low and Fuzzy Cupid against Irish Jackie and Tiny Tim.

CELEBRITY GOLF MEET RETURNS TO L.B. LINKS

The sixth annual World Entertainment Golf Championship will be played at the Recreation Park course in Long Beach, May 23-24, general chairman Maurie Luxford announced Saturday.

The tournament decides the official golfing title of show business. This will mark the third year the event has been contested at Recreation Park.

Luxford expects more than 125 leaders of the entertainment world to contest for the title won by Bob Wilke, screen and TV badman, in 1963. The tournament traditionally attracts a big percentage of the show business favorites.

It is sponsored by Golf Life magazine, with the support of the city of Long Beach.

NATIONAL AAU SWIM

California Kids Set U.S. Records

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) — Don Schollander and Dick Roth, a pair of Santa Clara, Calif., high school students, each broke his second American record Saturday night in the National AAU swimming and diving championships.

Roth, 16, shaved three-tenths of a second off the 200-yard individual medley record to win his event right after Schollander wiped out the 500-yard freestyle standard. Roth's time of 1:58.2 eclipsed the 1:58.5 set last year by Chet Jastremski of Indian. He did not compete this year.

Schollander's record-breaking time wiped out the mark of 4:48.2 by Roy Saari in last year's AAU meet. Saari was second about 12 yards behind Schollander, who was piling up his second victory and assuring himself of 19 points and the meet's outstanding performer trophy.

Southern California easily won the team title with 83 points, followed by Yale with 47 and Indiana's 41. Foothill College had 29 and Navy finished with 15.

• • • • •

EARLIER, Schollander won the 200-yard free-style, lowering his own record, and placed second in the 1650-yard freestyle behind Saari.

Southern Cal's William Craig won the breaststroke with a 100.1 ahead of a spirited duel for second.

Bob Bennett of Southern Cal took the backstroke at 53.7, shy of the 53.1 American record he set last week at the NCAA meet.

Ken Sitzberger of Indiana became the first freshman ever to sweep both AAU diving events when he won the three-meter competition with a score of 4:76.3. He won the one-meter Friday night.

McCormick Leads Publinx

Bill McCormick of El Dorado fired a one-under-par 71 at Brookside Park in Pasadena Saturday to take the lead in the So. Calif. Public Links golf championships.

The long-hitting McCormick held a one-stroke margin over Alondra's Peter Kramer and a two-shot edge over Bud Bradley of Rancho, Norm Barck of Western and Neil Burges of La Mirada. Burges is the defending champion.

Play resumes at Los Serranos today. The field, which includes several Long Beach golfers, will be cut to the low 32 and ties following today's play.

Alamitos Opens Thursday

Something to Please Everybody

Perhaps that heading is a rather rash statement, but once you visit the Sportsmen's Show, currently showing at Pan-Pacific Auditorium, you will get the general idea that there is something to please everybody. Whether you fish, hunt, camp, boat, water-ski or just loaf in the back yard, you'll find a booth that will make you stop and pay attention.

Tackle Row is loaded with new fishing equipment of all kinds — Shakespeare, Sevenstrand's Fenwick rods, Harnell, Garcia, Wright and McGill, Sila-Flex, Penn, Tru-line's new gold-plated guides and tips, Quick reels, Zebco and many others.

Garcia, as usual, has one of the largest booths in the show and is displaying beautiful new reels that have not even reached the market yet. Every reel and rod that Garcia makes are on the backboard of the exhibit.

In the south corner of Garcia's exhibit a midget stove, the Impecco S-200, with a tiny butane cartridge is on display. While not strictly a Garcia product, it has Garcia's blessing and is being marketed through that vast organization.

Over in another aisle, W. K. Klessig Co., Rosemead, is displaying the famous Tilley kerosene-burning heaters and lamps which are creating quite a sensation.

ONE OF THE STRIKING attractions in the boat section is the 20-foot Harbor Hopper, made by Ryan of Gardena and powered with OMC engines of whatever horsepower you want. It's a tricky convertible, with a top that can be taken off, placed on shore and used as a cabana for overnight camping. Yet that same top may be lowered for easy trailering.

Frontier Airlines has a small booth with a pretty stewardess telling the public about Frontier's 30 days of unlimited travel for only $100 per adult and $50 per child, 2 through 21.

That almost unbelievable offer is made by an airline that covers the states of Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, Nebraska and Missouri. It's a part of Frontier's great plan to get people air-travel-minded in those states.

There are dozens of booths along Travel Row that will put you in the mood to fly, drive or cruise to distant places for your vacation. While walking through Travel Row on opening night, we chatted with John and Edna Alford, who were putting the Shasta Lake booth in order. They own and operate Bridge Bay Resort on Shasta.

A few booths away I saw W. H. (Cliff) Clifford, owner of Copco Lake, giving away Wobble-Rite lures to adults. Cliff is subdividing the Copco Lake property and planning a resort on the Klamath River below Iron Gate Dam.

UPON ENTERING THE TENTS housing the trailers and campers, it appeared to me that every vehicle of that kind certainly must be in the list of exhibits. There's a camper to suit practically any family and any purse.

Wandering out to the open arena, we saw the "Parade of Outdoor Champions" with the Bell Rocketmen climaxing the show with their jumps of 60 feet into the air. The rockets, worn on their backs, were developed by Textron's Bell Aerosystems Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., for the U.S. Army to lift man into space and transport him over ground in controlled flight.

Other entertainment consists of Mariachi Los Camperos, one of Mexico's greatest musical groups and sensations of the recent New York Sportsmen's Show; Larry Griswold, clown prince of the diving board; Eddie Feigner, king of the softball pitchers; Jimmy Running, champion log roller, and Joan Salvato, women's all-around champion flycaster (and pretty).

If the Mariachi group, with its Hootenanny-south-of-the-border style, doesn't have you singing and stomping your feet, you just haven't got any music in your soul.

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW PERSONALS—Drop by the Sevenstrand booth on Tackle Row and ask Ken White or Phil Clock for literature on the Hot Shot Lure Big Fish contest. Eighteen outfits will be given away. The value of each outfit is $74.60. It consists of a Fenwick Feralite FS65 rod, an Orvis 300 reel, one dozen Hot Shot lures and one spool of monofilament line. There are three fishing areas, all along the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada.

Bob Barrett, of Zebco's booth, is exhibiting not only Zebco reels, but also a selection of Realist scopes for .22 rifles and big-game guns, the 80,000-candlelight Dynalite flashlight and the latest Texas reloader for shotgun shells.

Dick Graves, Long Beach Aluma-Craft dealer, is in his usual spot and displaying the latest in aluminum boats.

Many of the states, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska and even New York are handing out pounds of literature every hour. There's a special reason for New York's participation; it's World Fair year.

Although Thursday's wind threatened to blow down the tents, they held firmly and the crowd was tremendous, considering the weather. A long line of visitors was waiting for the 6 p.m. opening.

Eye New Turnstile Records

By DON HARDIN

The first day of pari-mutuel wagering and legalized quarter horse racing at Los Alamitos was Dec. 4, 1951.

Since then many thousands of quarter-horse race patrons have visited the popular track nestled just across the San Gabriel River bed in Orange County.

In fact, it's the most popular track in America for the sprinters of 540 yards or less.

It opens its 13th spring season Thursday and officials of the track are hopeful of a new attendance record.

• • • •

THE REASONING is simple. Quarter horse racing interest in this territory has mushroomed in the last decade and the Vessels' interests at Los Alamitos have made that track conveniently attractive for fans.

Since its inception, complete new stands, stables and track have been installed to make the Los Alamitos plant one of the finest in the nation.

Work crews have been busy since the start of the year for this spring meeting and some of the best horse-flesh and jockeys will be on the track when the swifties roar down the straightaway at a wink-a-second.

The stakes schedule has been announced by Edward Burke, racing secretary and director of racing. The schedule predicates a profitable meet for the owners and trainers.

• • • •

STARTING with the Inaugural Thursday for three-year-olds and up for a purse of $2,500, the list goes as follows:

"The Shue Fly" on April 11, for three-year olds and upward for a purse of $5,000; "The Derby Trial" on April 18, for three-year olds for $2,500; "The Miss Princess" for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The P.C.Q.H.R.A. Derby" on April 25, for $25,000 added; "The Barbara B." on April 25 for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The Chicado V." on May 2, for three-year-olds and upward for $5,000; "The Vanetta Dee" on May 4, for three-year-olds and upward for $2,000; "The Los Alamitos Quarter Horse Championship" for three-year-olds and upward for $25,000; "The Juvenile Championship" on May 13 for two year olds for $15,000 and the "Marathon" May 12, for three-year-olds and upward of $5,000.

Honoring the memory of Frank Vessels, Sr., a bronze bust statue will be unveiled on Monday at noon.

The Frank Vessels, Sr. Memorial Foundation was founded by friends and admirers shortly after Mr. Vessels passed away last year and this memorial honors the man who has done so much for quarter horse breeding and racing.

The public is invited to attend the unveiling ceremonies.

Stevenson, Ellik Nab Virginia Sweepstakes

Al Stevenson and Dr. Milo Ellik shared low net honors in Virginia Country Club's weekly sweepstakes Saturday afternoon.

Class A: Low Net—Al Stevenson, 79-13—66; tie between Ed Sourtis, 74-6—67, Don Schorsbsid, 76-9—67. Blind Bogey (74)—Don C. Wallace Jr., Lloyd Hallamore, Ralph Oliver, Ralph Irwin Sr., Dr. Sid Ellery, Dr. Bill Tedd, Jim Ferris, Earl Lundhigh.

Class B: Low Net—Dr. Milo Ellik, 87-18—69; tie between H.S. Merrell, 85-15—70; Bill Cheney, 88-18—70. Blind Bogey (80)—Tommy Moore, Dee Berry, Larry Hunt, E.W. Elliott.

WHICH CAME 1ST?— RACE, THEN EGG!

MIAMI (AP)—An ostrich outran a camel, a llama and two horses Saturday and captured the Noah's Ark Cup in the Gulfstream Park Florida Derby Festival.

Winner Myrtle ran the furlong in 1:07⅗ and probably would have gone faster if jockey Benney Sorenson had not fallen off five times.

Sorenson was clinging to Myrtle's neck with arms and legs at the finish.

"I thought Myrtle was going to lay an egg, she was so excited," said trained Jonny Rivers of Camdenton, Mo. "She has not laid any all year and she was on the verge, especially when we put her in the starting gate for the first time. If she had squatted, we would have had it."

ONE-HALF HOUR AFTER the race, back in the trailer in which she travels, Myrtle did lay an egg.

Sam, a 12-year-old llama, finished second two lengths behind Myrtle. Rivers had predicted Sam and Ulysses, a guanaco—or camel without a hump—would sit down in the middle of the track.

"They usually do," he said. Chief Plaudit and Steptoe, both Appaloosas horses, were Skittish. Otherwise they would have fared better, Rivers said.

"Steptoe is scared to death of Myrtle."

CHOKER TIES RECORD

Northern Dancer Coasts to Victory

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Northern Dancer, E. P. Taylor's Canadian comet, ran only as fast as needed Saturday to turn back seven rivals in the $116,500 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park and clinch his claim to the Eastern three-year-old championship.

With jockey Willie Shoemaker merely chauffering the chocolate-colored colt, Northern Dancer rolled under the finish line one length in front of Rex Ellsworth's California invader, The Scoundrel. Dandy K. captured third money another two-and-one-half lengths behind.

Northern Dancer was the heavy favorite of the crowd of 30,212, second largest in Gulfstream Park's history. One unidentified bettor pushed $50,000 through the parimutuel machine in the show pool to win $5,000 for his risk.

Northern Dancer paid $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20 across the board for a $2 bet and was the shortest priced Florida Derby winner since Tim Tam paid $2.70 to win in 1958.

The Scoundred paid $4 and $2.20 while Dandy K. returned $2.20 for show.

• • • •

NORTHERN Dancer's time for the mile and one-eighth over a fast track, carrying 122 pounds, was a dull 1:50 4/5, good enough to earn first money of $76,500 and boost Northern Dancer's earnings to a total of $261,365.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mr. Moonlight, a lightly regarded Kentucky Derby candidate, rallied with a strong burst of speed in the stretch at Aqueduct to win the $58,300 Gotham Stakes by a nose.

Mr. Moonlight, running in a stakes race for the first time and quoted at 60 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby future book, moved from far in the rear as he streaked through the stretch to beat Traffic. Those who bet on Mr. Moonlight collected $35.80, $13.60 and $6.20. Traffic paid $6.20 and $3.60, while Mr. Brick paid $2.90.

Mr. Moonlight, winner of four of 10 previous races, carried 114 pounds over the mile in the slow time of 1:37 1/5.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Choker, making his first start of the year, captured the 112th running of the $18,150 Phoenix Handicap at Keeneland, tying the track record for six furlongs.

Choker was clocked in 1:08 3/5 and returned $10.80, $5.20.

TRIPLE TIE FOR 3RD AT GOLDEN GATE

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Three horses finished in a dead heat for third place Saturday in the first race at Golden Gate Fields.

It was the first triple dead heat in Golden Gate's history.

The photo finish camera failed to separate Lottie Marie, Indian Lark and Aero Space for the show position.

Longflight won and Royal Noor was second in the six furlong sprint.

The crowded tote board couldn't even list Aero Space's $3.20 show pay. But it did Indian Lark's $2.20 and Lottie Marie's $2.80.

Longflight paid $3.40, $3.20 and $2.80 and Royal Noor $6.20 and $3.40.

THE PRICE WAS RIGHT

Ex-Claimer, Outpaces Irwin Paul at Anita

By ERNIE MASON

Pole Adios, the mightiest claim in harness racing history at $20,000 last summer, brilliantly proved that the price was right by scoring a stunning upset over favored Irvin Paul in the $20,000 California Pace Saturday before 18,410 shocked onlookers at Santa Anita.

Cunningly driven by Lou Rapone, the Greentree gelding shook loose in the final eighth of a mile to zoom by the 6-5 choice and win by a length in a tepid 2:01 1/5 for the mile.

Mr. Budlong and Rusty Range, principals in a classic dead heat last week, were third and fourth in the select field of sidewheelers contesting western harness' climatic event for pacers.

• • • •

POLE ADIOS, winner of the Elks Pace early in the meeting but a distinct outsider Saturday in much more formidable company, rewarded his supporters with a liberal $41.40, $10.80 and $3.60. Irvin Paul paid $3.60 and $2.40 and Mr. Budlong paid $2.40.

Pole Adios sizzled his last half in better than 58 seconds and his final quarter in under :27 3/5 to score the most important triumph of his colorful career.

In a supporting feature to the Californian Pace, the $3,800 Alpha Delta Pi Pace, Tillys Boy, alias Lumber Dream, returned to the wars after a two-year layoff and breezed to a highly impressive victory in 2:01 1/5.

Tillys Boy, one of the most promising sidewheelers ever to race at Santa Anita until minor injuries and an unruly temperament got the best of his abundant ability a few seasons ago, took command at the beginning and raced in front wire-to-wire.

Leading driver Jimmy Cruise retained his one-winner margin over Jim Dennis by scoring with Newport Buell in the third. Dennis won with Volador in the fourth. Cruise now has 17 victories for the season, which concludes on Wednesday.

Sulkies Go Monday

The only Monday racing of the spring harness racing season at Santa Anita will be conducted Monday as Western Harness Racing Assn. launches the final three days of its meeting.

DEAN MARTIN PERFORMS AT BANQUET

Another member of the most famous clan in show business — Dean Martin — has got into the act for the seventh annual Baseball Writers' dinner Friday evening.

Martin will team with Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. in a laugh-provoking "clan-bake" for more than 1,100 guests and baseball fans in the Hollywood Palladium.

Open to the public at $20 per person, tickets to the dinner will be available at BBWAA headquarters (1352 Biltmore Hotel) or MAdison 6-2371 until Friday.

ATLANTA HIS TRACK

Lorenzen Favored in Stock '500' Today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., set himself up Saturday as the man to beat in the Atlanta 500-mile stock car race Sunday by winning a preliminary race of champions over the Atlanta International Raceway.

Lorenzen gunned his Ford to victory at an average of 144.5 miles an hour over the 1½-mile speedway where he already owns the pole position for Sunday's race. He qualified for the pole Wednesday with a speed of 146.470 mph in four laps, a track record.

Lorenzen, who has won the last two '500's and counts over $50,000 in prize money at the AIR, outdistanced Junior Johnson of Ronda, N.C., in a Dodge, Fireball Roberts of Daytona Beach, Fla., in a Ford, Rex White of Spartanburg, S.C., in a Mercury, Dave Pearson, Spartanburg, in a Dodge and Bobby Johns of Miami in a Pontiac, in that order.

ALL OF the first 20 positions bettered Johnson's 1963 qualifying record of 141-plus mph.

More than 60,000 spectators were expected to watch the fifth annual race Sunday that involves 42 drivers and $63,000 in prize money. The weather forecast was not promising. It called for scattered showers, something that has plagued previous races here.

Motor Sports Slate Big; Cycles Go Today at Ascot

A big weekend of motor sports activity closes today with a wild array of events scheduled on three fronts—Ascot Park, Lions Drag Strip and Orange County Speedway.

J. C. Agajanian has scheduled a big extravaganza at Ascot, in Gardena, with motorcycles going in the popular 15-lap steeplechase. First race is at 2 p.m., and 160 riders are expected.

Then, tonight figure-8 cars hit the Ascot dirt, trying to follow up an successful Easter engagement. First race on the eight-event card starts at 8 p.m.

Included in Ascot's night program is a women's race.

Lions is hosting another daytime stock car meet, beginning with time trials at 9 a.m. The eliminations go at 1:30 p.m.

Over 200 stockers, including the jazzy AFX factory experimentals, are set to roar up and down the high-speed strip at 223rd and Alameda.

WE'RE SEARCHING THE LONG BEACH AREA FOR A MAN

Frankly, it may take months to find him. But, we're willing to wait . . . the opportunity is that important.

Here's a quick "profile" of the person we're looking for. Chances are he's between 28 and 40. Education . . . college or equivalent, in all likelihood. He's now in a junior-executive position . . . well liked, making good progress. But he has a problem. He knows he's capable of doing better . . . feels "trapped" by a salary structure which is good, but not good enough.

If you fit this general description, we'd be happy to talk to you about this selected opening in our organization, which will become available in 6 to 8 weeks. It may require several interviews . . . will certainly require exhaustive tests. But should you turn out to be the man we are looking for . . . we can promise it will be well worth your time and trouble.

To pursue the matter further, write us a letter outlining your business experience, age, marital status. (If you prefer, phone 371-6361.)

WE'LL CONTACT YOU AND ARRANGE A MEETING

Write Box No. A-1343 c/o Independent, Press-Telegram.

CADILLAC

A Sunday
Car Side Chat
from Ridings Cadillac
Long Beach's only Authorized Cadillac Dealer

Vacation time is just around the corner and many of you are beginning to get that certain feeling of anticipation. An important part of the preparation for this happy occasion is to be "car ready." Quite often you will find it more practical to buy a later model car than to put more money into your present car.

In shopping for another car be sure to keep this in mind: DON'T BUY just a "USED" car, but DO BUY a thoroughly "RECONDITIONED" car. We have a choice selection of the finest reconditioned "Custom Ready" cars to be found anywhere. We urge you to carefully inspect our cars and to compare them with others ... THERE IS A DIFFERENCE.

We are closed on Sundays. However, we cordially invite you to visit our lot today and look over our fine RECONDITIONED cars. All are clearly described as to equipment and price.

ON UCLA STAGE

'P.S. 193' Offers Powerful Drama

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Talented, new playwright David Rayfiel evidently doesn't subscribe to the grand Churchillian doctrine that it is better to have "jaw-jaw" (war of words) than to make the real thing — "wah-wah" (war). Words beget war, Rayfiel contends.

In his play "P.S. 193" smashes through the thin red line of so-called academic (university) freedom to show that even the words "waged" before freshmen in a classroom are indeed the "briefing" for the perilous existence on the battlefield.

Splendidly supported by a UCLA Theater Group production that cannot be topped, "P.S. 193" is rooted in the theme of collective responsibility. Fortunately, it is a rondo of a play rather than the strident note of "am I my brother's keeper?" Its main theme repeats itself in the perfect setting of university Professor Kobitz's (James Whitmore) required freshman philosophy course—"an oasis of free choice in a closed system." In addition, assorted themes linking characters and sub-plots to the central idea keep moving in and out.

DIRECTOR Sydney Pollack serves as a fine instrument of interpretation. Whitmore's professor, willowy, alcoholic Cloris Leachman's Mrs. Kobitz and Donnelly Rhodes, as Mario Saccone, the war veteran student with the brutal bullet logic of the Korean battlefield who haunts the Kobitzes in class and at home, score as a playwright's dream "trio" in this sometimes savagely intricate drama.

JAMES WHITMORE
Outstanding

Whitmore is particularly great in shaking off the "friendly ghost" of his existence as the student Saccone taunts him with the memory of the professor's favorite student (Lennie Schwartz) shot down in battle.

With admirable restraint Whitmore recaptures the stature of his own existence "above and beyond words" without spilling another's blood. In the test of wills Cloris Leachman comes through as a powerful actress and Rhodes as a chilling newcomer who looks like Ben Gazarra, buts acts better. Myles Harmon lights the all-purpose set against a black backdrop and some young actors serve creditably as the professor's students and a campus chorus, adding to the fresh, simple appeal of the production.

"P.S. 193" continues through May 10 in the Humanities Building, UCLA. The title refers to Professor Kobitz's old high school with the "soft-boiled children" whom he yearns to teach whenever the pressure of reality becomes overbearing.

This is Capucine

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP)—The nose is long and narrow, and has a slight bump so that in profile the tip seems to float by itself.

Stationed on either side are two enormous Joan Crawfordish, blue-grey eyes, fluttering false eyelashes. The cheek bones are high and press against the flesh.

The teeth are white and even but there is a distinct overbite so that the upper lip protrudes. The chin and jawbone are pronounced and when they move, long tendons on the slender neck perform a dance.

Put these commonplace features together and you have Capucine, a stunning and beautiful woman.

PERHAPS women with similar faces and bodies (34-25-36, 5'7", 119 pounds) would think the dream of being a model or a movie star pure folly. Some stars who draw citizens to the boxoffice appear generously endowed in the bosom department. But Capucine insists it is not the decolletage or the degree of pectoral embonpoint that gets eyeballs clicking.

"What is this thing with bosoms among the Americans and British?" asks the slim-lined French star. "Is it supposed to be sexy? It is not.

"To be sexy is to be provocative, not to show 200 pounds of bosom."

CAPUCINE, whose real name is Germaine Lefebrvre, at 17 went to Paris, became a model and soon became acquainted with life, as she says.

"I discovered that babies did not grow like cauliflowers," she says. She became romantically entangled with an actor and her family exploded. The result was that she got married. Eight months later, she was divorced.

She has been single, but not necessarily unentangled, since.

* * *

MAKING THE SWING from modeling to movies meant a complete change of scenery. She moved to New York, equipped with an English vocabulary of about zero, but not without an ability to say no.

First, she worked as a model reaching the zenith of the industry with a fee of $70 an hour. One evening, dining with a friend, she was spotted by a man who asked if she would come to Hollywood for a screen test.

"I thought it was the usual come-on," she says. "But the next day I discovered it was real.

* * *

"BUT I DECIDED I was going to be an actress and do it by work, not by being a prostitute or having affairs. If I have an affair it is because I want to love, not for a job. I worked very hard."

She first appeared in "Song Without End," and currently is to be seen in the wildly-whacky farce, "The Pink Panther," in which she portrays the sultry, slinky, double-dealing wife of British star Peter Sellers.

Turns Down Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Joe Pasternak says he finally found someone who doesn't want to be in the movies.

Pasternak went to a bank opening in Beverly Hills and spotted a distinguished looking man who was perfect for the part of a department store executive in an upcoming Doris Day movie, "Made In Paris."

Pasternak offered the part—a big one—to Paul Klein, 49, but got a turndown.

Klein is president of his own cosmetics firms.

"What would my stockholders say if I showed up as an actor?"

Elizabeth Nielsen After-'Shrew' Play Moderator

Dr. Elizabeth Nielsen, of the CSLB English department, will moderate the discussion on Shakepeare's "Taming of the Shrew" at the Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., Wednesday.

The discussion will follow a special performance of the play for students. Curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Student admission is $1. Pat Brown and Robert Quarry, who appear in the play as Kate and Petruchio, will participate in the after-the-show discussion.

'Yum Yum Tree' Auditions Tuesday

Tryouts for "Under the Yum Yum Tree" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave. The show is scheduled to open April 23.

Two men and women, 20 to 30 and 30 to 40, are needed. Pat Brown will direct.

JANICE CRINNION DREAMS OF A HOME COVERED WITH STUCCO-LIKE PLASTIC AFTER VIEWING VARIOUS SAMPLES

THEY'LL COVER the WORLD in PLASTIC

By KEN CHILCOTE

The wonderful world of plastics is getting a real boost this month as a Long Beach plant goes nationwide with its products designed to cover most anything with a substance impervious to wear and weather.

Prep-rite Plastics Inc., 1524 W. 15th St., after more than 10 years of intensive research to develop extremely tough and resistant covering for both exterior and interior surfaces such as floors, walls, roofs and metals that are subjected to extreme conditions, has achieved desired results. And now, through franchised dealers over the nation—and the world—their products should make a big step forward for the plastics industry.

• • • •

IN HOUSING, Prep-rite seems to have the answer for quick construction with a permanent finish. Plastic-coated plywood with a stucco-like rough finish so bonded that the wood has to be shredded to remove it, is certain to draw much interest. Sheets of this finished wall fastened to studding and frames of a structure, complete the construction, stucco work and painting in one process.

That stucco-plywood offering is but one of the many ways Prep-rite is opening new vistas into the wonderful world of plastics.

Using an orthalic resin as its base, the Prep-rite product is presented in formulas mixed to create specific qualities to solve special problems. The product can be made rigid or flexible, flame retardent where required and it can be made to bond to a wide range of materials.

The resultant coating in each instance is non-porous, impervious to most chemicals, including acids, and is claimed to be three times harder than concrete.

• • • •

A CANNERY FLOOR was so pitted from heavy steel carts and the daily cleanings that the concrete had to be replaced, forcing a shutdown for many days. Prep-rite was poured over the surface and in one hour a level, non-porous surface was ready to use. Months later the floor is easily cleaned and has shown no chipping or peeling.

Boats are given complete protection from the ravages of salt water and marine growth; boat decks, loading ramps, sun decks, roofs coated with the products never need recoating, report company officials after lengthy tests. Decks, ramps and flooring can be made non-skid by applying grit in the covering.

Oil and acid tank trucks are coated to provide an interior surface easy to clean. Similar coatings are going onto swimming pools. The bear cages in the San Diego Zoo have Prep-rite surfaces, making them much easier to clean.

Crews are now at work in Detroit resurfacing 200,000 square feet of flooring in a General Motors plant after a test on a 10,000 square foot area showed the floor kept a smooth surface despite industrial wear. A spark plug factory has ordered 180,000 feet covered by Prep-rite material.

Leon Grivel, president of the firm, was a successful Los Angeles contractor when his son, Leon Jr., became interested in plastics in college. The father-son team began their research and test program trying various formulas until they came up with Prep-rite. Reports from Twinnig Laboratories attest the results.

A daughter, Robinette Kirk is the public relations head of the firm and E. L. Dux is the national marketing manager. "Nearly every time our door opens we are confronted with a new challenge," says Mrs. Kirk. "A builder or an industrial plant needs a new bonding agent or a new coating for some material or product. And so far we have come up with the answer nearly every time."

Start Public Golf Course on Irvine Ranch Property

Construction of Orange County's newest public golf course — Rancho San Joaquin on the famed Irvine Ranch property has started with Labor Day targeted as opening date.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were participated in by George M. Holstein III, developer of the golf course; Robert H. Green, president of Far West Financial Corp. and State Mutual Savings & Loan Association, its principal operating subsidiary which is financing construction of the project; Charles Thomas, president of the Irvine Co. and former secretary of the Navy; and Marshall Duffield, former USC football great who will be chairman of the new golf course.

The new links will be located on 170 acres in the University Park area of the future city of Irvine and will be easily accessible from the Santa Ana and Newport Freeways and adjacent to the future San Diego Freeway where Como Road now intersects Lane Road.

• • • •

THE PUBLIC LINKS, designed by golf course designer William F. Bell, Jr., will have two courses, one of 18 holes over 6,400 yards and a nine-hole par-3 course which may be extended in the future.

Greene pointed out at the groundbreaking ceremonies that State Mutual's financing of the $1-million golf course attests to the company's belief in the secure future of this rapidly-growing section of Orange County.

The golf course is the one of the first projects in the Irvine Co.'s master plan for development of an 88,000-acre area that includes a branch of the University of California and the city of Irvine.

Bendix Offices to El Segundo

The Western Regional sales offices and the Western Corporate office of The Bendix Corp. have been moved into new quarters in the new McCulloch Building, 6151 W. Century Blvd., El Segundo.

James P. Buckley, Western Corporate representative, said the move will centralize all of the Bendix sales offices in the Southern California area. He said 16 divisions will maintain space at the new offices.

The move was made to bring the sales offices nearer the aerospace complex at International Airport, he said.

DOWNTOWN IMPROVEMENT

Owners of the Stafford Building, First and Locust Avenue, have completed remodeling the structure to provide the new home for Long Beach Stationers. Major improvements were made on the interior as well as the exterior and now marks another big improvement in the downtown area.

Home Show Will Open Wednesday

Two anniversaries will be elebrated Wednesday through Sunday during the Orange County Home Show at the Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa, according to George Colouris, producer.

The annual show will make special recognition of its own 10th anniversary and of the county's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Contributions made by the building industry to the county's 75 years of progress will be spotlighted throughout the show in displays and by other means.

The Orange County Builders Association has sponsored the Home Show since its inception in 1955. John Backman, who is serving as general chairman of the show for the second time, commented that the Home Show has shown steady increase in both attendance and in the number of exhibits.

Honors to Agent

C. C. "Bob" Bateman of the Long Beach agency at 4270 Long Beach Blvd. has been designated by the American National Insurance Co. as the most outstanding agent during 1963 in one of the company's 11 nation-wide geographical regions.

Building Permits Up

Rebounding from a February slump, Long Beach building activity increased 71 per cent in March to a valuation of $6,164,157 for 2,220 permits.

The February figure was $3,611,355 for 1,898 projects.

Reesidential construction showed an even larger gain —380 per cent. The March valuation was $2,254,700 for 178 family units, against $469,945 for 51 units in February.

• • • •

HOWEVER, LAST MONTH'S volume for building of all types was 31 per cent below the total for March of last year—$8,871,138 for 2,364 permits. Residential construction was down 59 per cent from the comparable figure of $5,528,345 for 685 units.

For the first quarter of this year the building total of $27,906,679 stands 2 per cent below the 1963 quarterly record of $28,429,050.

Plan 17 Apartments for Downtown Area

Plans for the upgrading of the vicinity at Second St. and Cerritos Ave. in Long Beach, have begun with the filing of a tentative condominium map for a 17-unit development there, according to Jack Spahn, vice president of E. L. Pearson and Associates of Hawthorne, civil engineers and condominium consultants.

Spahn said that the construction of the $300,000 project will be preceded by the removal of some 40-year-old buildings and will bring about increased land value to the immediate neighborhood and a better tax value to the city. He added that it represents part of the growing trend to dress up the city—especially that near the ocean.

• • • •

THE THREE-STORY structure will house both one-bedroom and den units as well as two bedroom units and prices are expected to range between $18,000 for the one-bedroom units to $20,500 for the two bedrooms.

Just three blocks from the ocean and near the World's Fair Site, the condominium's construction work will be by C. J. John and J. K. McCall. They anticipate the groundbreaking this month with expected completion in August of this year.

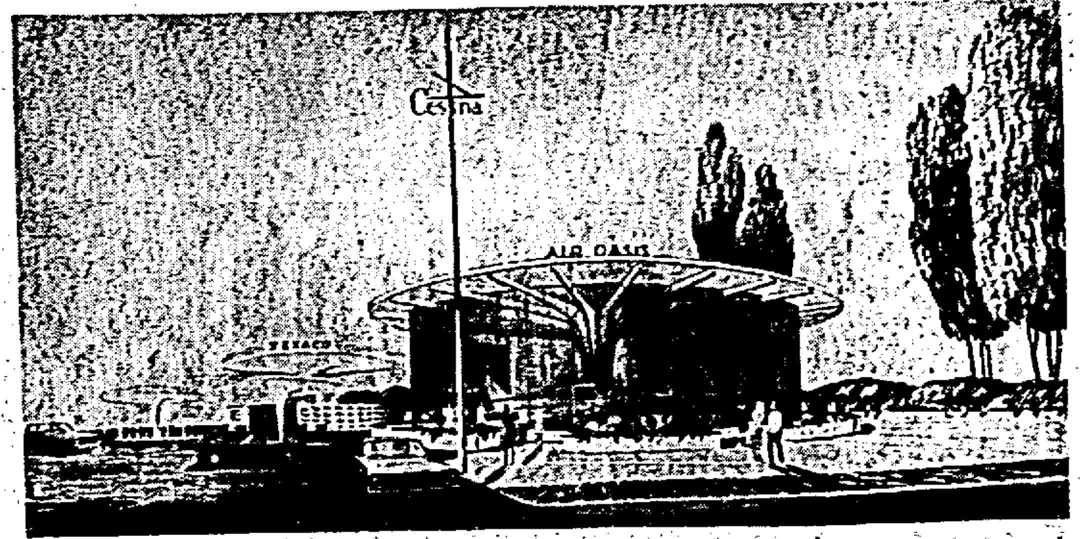
Designed for the utmost in adult living, the condominium structure will feature a roof garden with heated circulatory therapeutic pool, shuffleboard facilities and table tennis. Each unit will have an individual balcony patio.

Kaiser Steel Buys 60 Acres

Kaiser Steel Corp. has purchased the plant and property of Taylor Forge & Pipe Works at Fontana.

The 60-acre parcel and associated industrial buildings adjoin the 1800-acre Kaiser Steel plant.

The property was formerly used by Taylor Forge, a Chicago-based firm, for the manufacture of spiral weld pipe, but has not been in production for two years. No plans were annouced for its use, but Kaiser Steel officials pointed out that the property integrates well with the steel plant proper, and was in fact the site of a shell plant operated by Kaiser during the war. No purchase price was revealed.

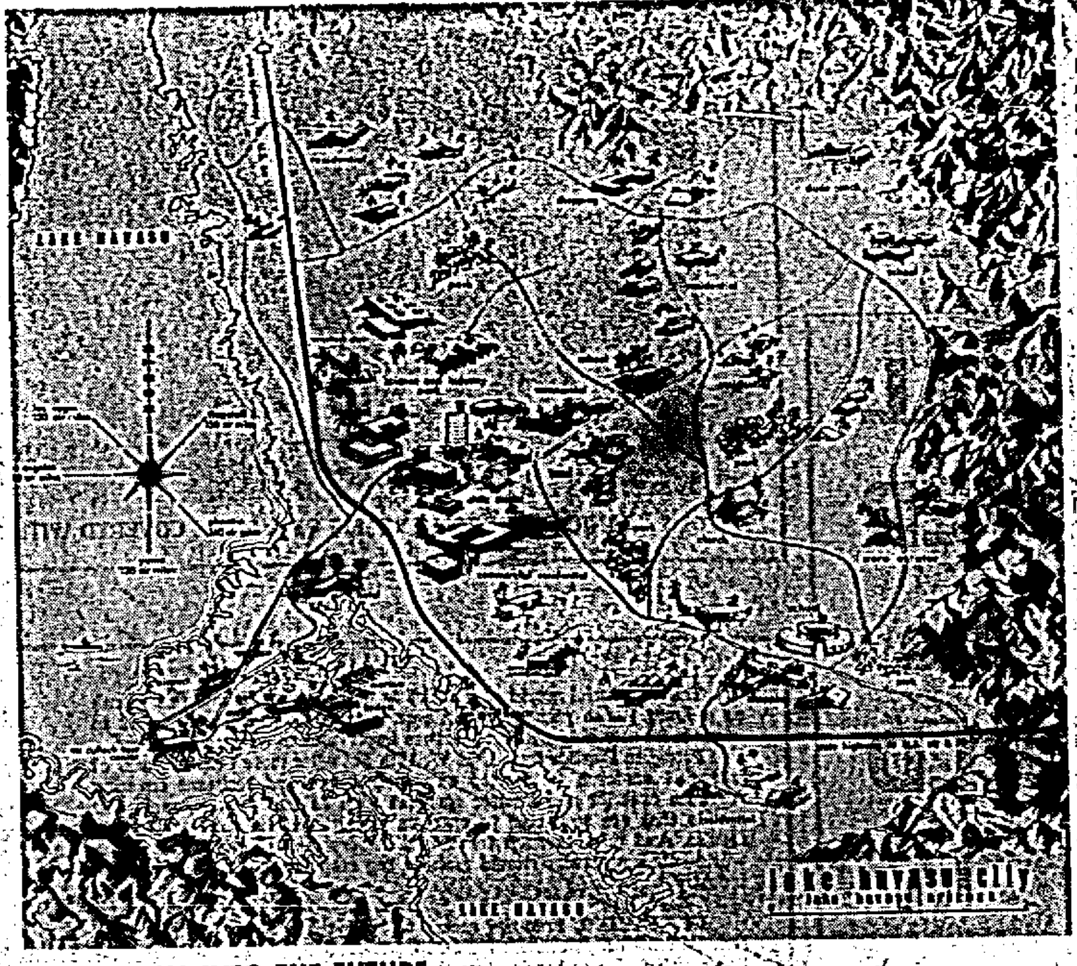


$250,000 AIR OASIS PROJECT

This new $250,000 aircraft showroom and custom-design auto service station will be built at Long Beach Municipal Airport by Air Oasis Co. City has approved 25-year lease of building site at northwest corner of Lakewood Boulevard and Wardlow Road. Air Oasis is a leading distributor of light planes.

New City Is Rising at Lake Havasu

HOTEL NOW OPEN
Already in operation is this Lake Havasu Hotel, although all units have not yet been built. Restaurant and cocktail lounge are in use now.



PROSPECTUS INTO THE FUTURE
Artist's conception looks into future plans for Lake Havasu City, new development on Colorado River 17 miles upstream from Parker Dam. With some facilities already established, McCulloch Properties, Inc., has long-range plans to create a city of 50,000 population. Planning has been done by C. V. Wood Jr., one of Disneyland designers.

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

A new city is in the making about 240 air miles east of Long Beach along the Colorado River at the western border of Arizona.

It is called Lake Havasu City and is located along a body of blue water known as Lake Havasu, formed when the river was widened for a 45-mile stretch after Parker Dam was built.

Construction already is well under way in a multimillion-dollar development by McCulloch Properties, Inc., headed by Robert P. McCulloch, Los Angeles industrialist and manufacturer of chain saws and outboard motors.

• • • •

PLANS CALL for creation within the next 20 years of a city with a population of 50,000. Master planner is Engineer C. V. Wood Jr., who helped get Disneyland established and has been a key figure in numerous other major developments.

The planned 26 square mile urban complex is 140 miles northwest of Phoenix and 17 miles upstream from Parker Dam.

The lake itself is a western waterfowl flyway and an important wintering place for millions of migratory birds. It is well stocked with fish and popular for water sports.

• • • •

FIRST UNITS of a planned 200 room hotel have been opened, including a restaurant and cocktail lounge; a motel is under construction; work is starting on a McCulloch factory unit; a 6,500 foot airstrip is in use and the company has its own Constellation service; paving of 31 miles of streets is well under way; and houses and other buildings are being built.

Shopping center space has been contracted and more than 11,000 palm trees will be planted, the company has announced. Five deep wells are supplying water.

Some 98 acres are reserved for schools, first of which is due to be built by this fall.

New Retail Store for Buena Park

Permit for a $148,665 retail sales building boosted construction in Buena Park to $186,564 during the past week.

Pacific Coast Properties took out permit for erecting the retail sales project at 8860 Valley View St.

Union Oil Co. of Los Angeles took out permit for construction of a $14,573 service station at 7995 Knott Ave.

K.M.A. General, Garden Grove, was issued permit for construction of a $13,762 single family dwelling and garage at 6751 Berry St.

Other permits were issued to G. R. Cromwell, 6371 Marshall St., repair fire damage, $2,500; Edward DeGroot, 6122 Belle Ave., remodel and alteration, $1,500; John Fairchild, 10365 Eudora Ave., family room, $1,380; R. La Barge, 5846 Los Alamos St., sun room, $1,340; James Powell, 7467 Comanche Drive, garage and interior alterations, $600.

Joseph Costle, 6358 San Marcos Way, screened patio, $340; Robert J. Hoffman, 8187 Whitaker St., interior alteration, $100; A. E. Sumpter, 5721 Crescent Ave., patio, $320; Forrest L. Morrow, 8074 Columbine Circle, patio, $600; Floyd Mallette, 7821 Holder St., patio, $700; Charles Backman, 6171 San Lorenzo Drive, patio, $480; Nick [illegible], 5482 Braeburn Circle, two patios, $400; and various signs for Buena Park Center, $394, $424, $382, $386 On The Mall, $400.

Course in Property Management Set Up

Opening of a School of Property Management at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 5513 E. Spring St., Long Beach, has been announced by Moore Realty.

The course will be held for six weeks on Thursday nights, April 9 through May 14. The school will be conducted by E. Tennyson Moore, president of the firm, and T. R. Bradley, head of the company's Property Management and Leasing Division. Reservations may be made by calling HA 1-8481.

T. R. BRADLEY

More termed this an innovation in the field of real estate education and said the course is open to anyone interested.

Tiling Tip

Dry ice can be a great help in removing old flooring tiles, according to housing experts at Allied Chemical's Barrett Division. The ice is placed over each tile until the intense cold causes the bonding material to deteriorate. Gloves should be worn in handling the ice to avoid injury.

Will Discuss Home Building

Ray Pacheco, president of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, announced that the speaker for the meeting Wednesday at the Captain's Inn will be Merrill Butler, Jr. who will speak on Home Building in the Free Enterprise System.

Butler is president of the Home Builders Association of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura Counties.

The Butler-Harbour Construction Co. of which he is the president, has completed and sold nearly 2,800 homes since 1956 and won the Saturday Evening Posts "Outstanding Home Award" in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

Butler graduated from U.S.C. in 1948 with a bachelor of engineering degree in civil engineering. He was project engineer of Lakewood Park development in 1949 and until his recall to the army during the Korean conflict in 1950.

Error on Bridge Is "Built In"

NEW YORK (AP)—At first glance it looks like a mistake. The two 690-foot steel towers that hold up the Verrazano Narrows Bridge connecting Brooklyn with Staten Island are 1⅝ inches farther apart at the top than at the bottom.

But according to Steel Facts, published by American Iron and Steel Institute, this is deliberate. It was done to compensate for the curvature of the earth. Each tower to be truly vertical must have its axis point to the center of the earth.

Shipping Gain Told

Shipping activity at the Port of Los Angeles is showing a substantial increase according to a recent report by Albert Perrish, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners.

The total amount of general cargo and lumber handled through the harbor during the first eight months of the current fiscal year, he said, has increased 21% over the same period one year ago. The comparison is for the eight months ending February 29.

The tonnage increase was 536,938 tons — raising the 8-month total from 2,537,463 in 1962-63 to 3,074,401 tons this year.

• • • • •

PERRISH attributed the increase in shipments to a general improvement in business and labor conditions and expanding facilities at the harbor, which are attracting more foreign trade.

"There is every indication," Perrish said, "that this trend will continue for the rest of the fiscal year. In fact, the month of March, just ending, may prove to be one of the busiest at Los Angeles Harbor."

The lumber and general cargo figures cited include both inbound and outbound shipments, Perrish added.

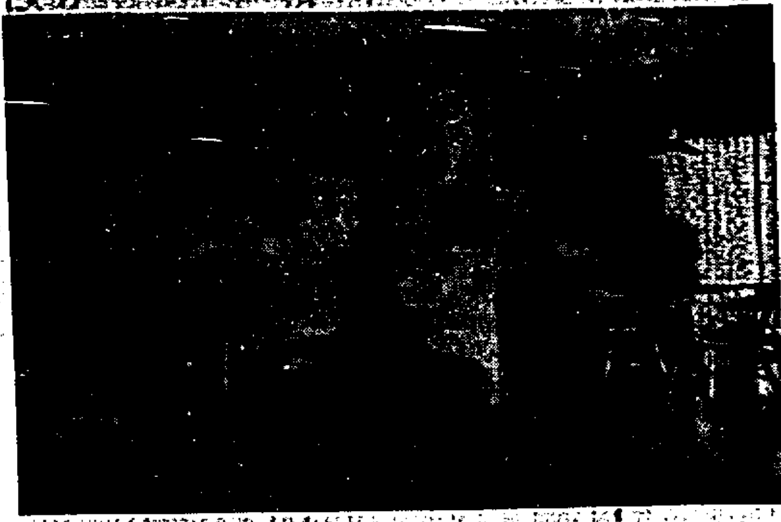
Much Interest in Newest Unit of Sunkist Plaza's Big Homes



AN OCEANA UNIT HOME

The receptive response by homeseekers to the last weekend's preview showing of the new Oceana Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach has caused the acceleration of plans for grand opening, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders.

Bram's observation was accompanied by a prophecy for a rapid sellout just as in the previous unit of the Pacifica Series, which sold out in record time.

A leading factor in the popularity of this development, Bram added is the inclusion of a complete array of built-in appliances by Waste King-Universal, one of the leading appliance firms in the country today.

• • • •

The quality built three and four-bedroom homes with family room and two baths are priced from $18,250. They are offered on terms of no money down to all and all that's needed is $100 total costs.

Additionally, they feature sleek Formica counters, ash cabinets, separate utility rooms, vinyl asbestos floor tile, forced-air heat, sliding glass doors and custom lighting fixtures.

All rooms are planned with the flexibility for varied arrangements of furniture and extra power 100 ampere service is provided. As a bonus feature the rear yards will be fully fenced.

• • • •

THE OCEANA SERIES is located on Edwards Ave. just south of Westminster in Huntington Beach. Vast stretches of beach are but a few minutes distant and shopping, churches and recreational activities are within walking distance.

To reach the homes, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; right to Bolsa and right on Bolsa to Edwards and the models.

New Homes Month Is Being Observed

WASHINGTON — April has been proclaimed New Homes Month by William Blackfield, president of the National Association of Home Builders, to open the show of this year's new homes for sale.

Some 150 communities in which the NAHB has local affiliates will sponsor some showcase event such as a Parade of Homes or Home Show to display to the public the new homes coming onto the market.

Other segments of home building, such as suppliers of products for homes and public utility companies, are lending support in their communities.

• • • •

"TODAY'S HOME BUYER is getting more house for his money," said Mr. Blackfield. "He is getting more space, more conveniences. His home is better designed and is built for better living."

As the Springtime event was launched, Blackfield pointed to several reasons why the home builder is able to provide better housing today at relatively little increase in price despite the pressures of a surging economy.

"Builders today are doing very careful market research," he said. "They are ascertaining what their public wants, needs, and can afford, and they are building precisely to that market.

"Also, in the matter of technology, builders today are making utmost use of new materials and methods of construction. And they are putting into practice the findings of our past three years of research into better and more economical methods of land use.

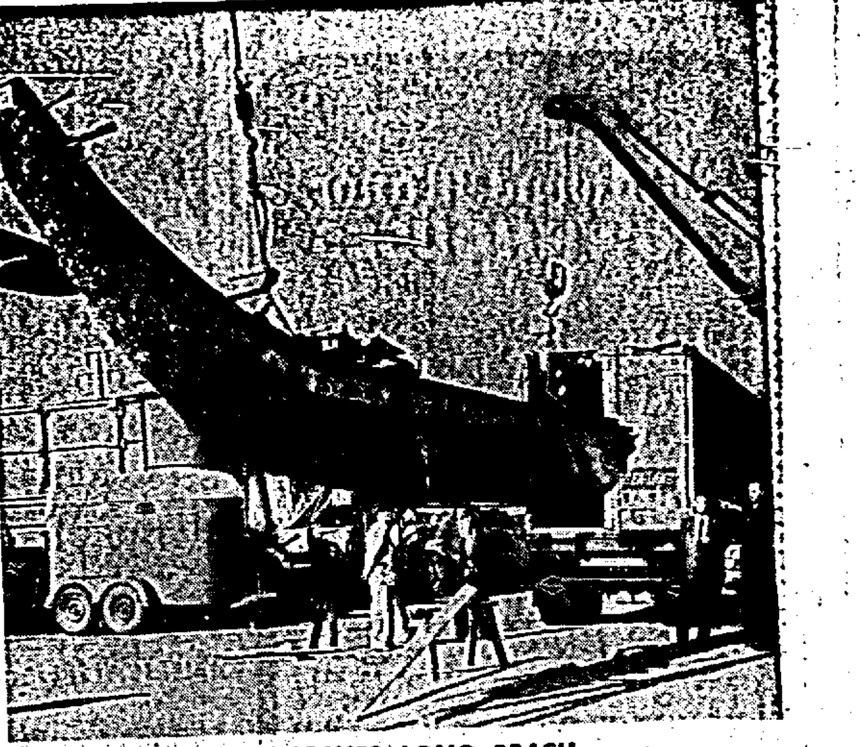
To Discuss Navy Import

Gene Gallman

Importance of the Navy to the economy of Long Beach will be discussed by Gene Gallman, president of the Independent Businessmen's Association at the breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors Tuesday.

He also will disclose the work of his association in cooperating with the Navy.

Honored guests will be Rear Adm. Odale D. Waters of the Long Beach Naval Station and Mayor Wade, who was the first president of the IBMA. Bill Ballard is program chairman.



WORLD FAIR EXHIBIT LEAVES LONG BEACH

A South Seas canoe used in the filming of the movie "Mutiny on the Bounty" is placed in Sea-Land truck van at Port of Long Beach for shipment via container ship to New York. The van also contained interior furnishings of Bounty, brass deck lanterns and other props from the movie. The Bounty will be exhibited at the New York World's Fair.

Many Calories Thrown Away

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From seven to ten per cent of the calories in household food supplies are thrown away, fed to animals or used for non-food purposes, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

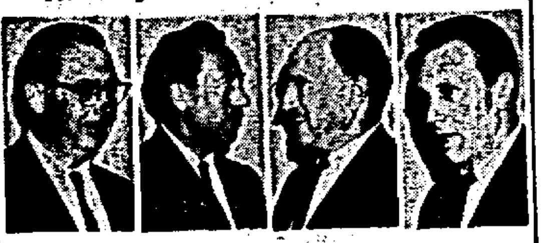
According to a USDA survey, the discarded food amounts to about 200 calories per person per day.

Conference On Industrial Relations to Draw Many

More than 500 industrial relations specialists and other executives from business, industrial and labor organizations in the metroplitan area will attend the seventh annual Industrial Relations Conference at the Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division Wednesday.

J. CURTIS COUNTS
From Douglas Co.

RICHARD GARNER
Kaiser Steel Executive



Playing part in upcoming Industrial Relations Conference are these men: (Top, from left) H. G. Newsome of Douglas Co.; P. L. Marcus of Fiesta Pools Inc.; James Stevens, head of Culinary & Hotel Workers Local 681; and C. N. Patterson of City College. At bottom is Don Hart, personnel manager of Grayson Controls Division, Robertshaw Controls Co., Long Beach.

The afternoon-evening conference will open with registration at 4:45 p.m. and includes two major addresses, a conference dinner and a panel discussion and question period.

Speakers will be J. Curtis Counts, corporate director of employe relations at Douglas Aircraft, Inc., Santa Monica, and Richard E. Garner, superintendent of industrial engineering for the Kaiser Steel Corp., Fontana.

• • • •

COUNTS will speak on "The Agency Fee Bargaining Agreement," under which nonunion employes within a bargaining unit may elect not to join a union which is the official bargaining agent. As a condition of employment, under this system, employes must either be union members or may pay an "agency fee" in lieu of membership dues.

Garner's topic will be "Twelve Months of Sharing—Kaiser's Long Range Plan." Not a profit-sharing arrangement, in the usual sense, the much-discussed "Kaiser Plan" involves sharing of cost reductions with the work force as a result of increased departmental or plant-wide efficiency.

Administrator of the new plan since its inception a year ago, Garner also will discuss such other precedent-setting provisions as the "reserve pool" for employes displaced by technological changes.

• • • •

REGISTRATION for the Industrial Relations Conference is $5, including the dinner, with special rates for faculty members and qualified students. A special $1 registration also is available for instructors and students who do not attend the dinner.

Registration forms and complete programs are available at the LBCC Business and Technology Division campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Marina Series Draws Buyers

Introduced to Southern California homebuyers recently the new Dutch Haven Marina Series in Huntington Beach gives every indication of becoming one of the Southland's fastest-selling communities.

Tom Rochelle, sales manager for Dutch Haven communities, attributed the community's tremendous buyer-appeal to several factors — excellent location, moderate price, construction by a nationally known firm and the inclusion of dozens of luxury features normally available only in homes of far greater cost.

• • • • •

DESIRABLY located close to the beach, the Marina Series is especially planned to provide those features most needed and preferred by family buyers.

Recreational advantages are unusually abundant within the area.

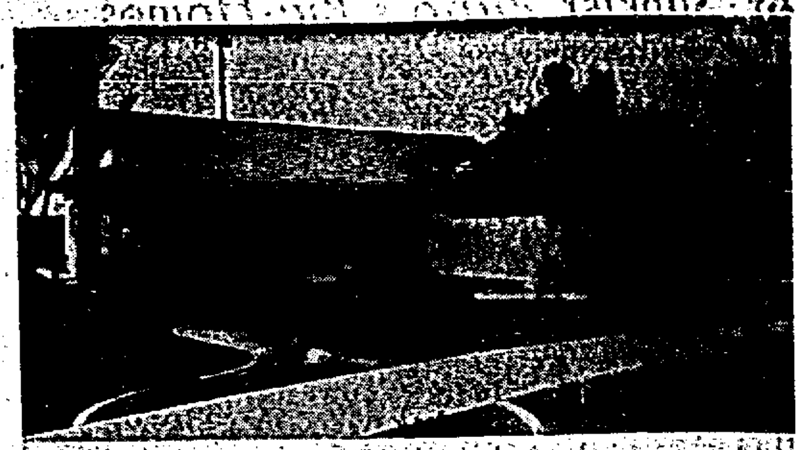
The homes are three to four bedrooms and up to two baths in size. Buyers have a choice of 18 architecturally created exteriors.

• • • • •

PRICES START at $18,950. VA, Cal-Vet and FHA financing are available, with a total move-in cost of $95 to Vets. There are no hidden charges, second mortgages or balloon payments.

Luxury-inspired features include complete built-in Medallion kitchens with dishwasher, counter-top range, disposal, oven and range hood with fan and light, family rooms, separate dining areas, decorator fireplaces, custom hardwood paneling, wood shake roofs, forced-air heating, master bedroom suites and complete color coordination.

Model homes are open daily from 10 to 9. To visit the homes drive east on Santa Ana Fwy. to Beach Blvd. turnoff. Go south on Beach, to Warner, right to Edwards, then left to furnished models.



HAS CUSTOM LOOK
Interesting roof line, wide wood shakes and decorative sidewall trim of model home at new Dutch Haven Marina Series in Huntington Beach typify the "custom architectural look" being emphasized at the family-planned community. Priced from $18,950, homes at Dutch Haven Marina Series are three to four bedrooms and up to two full baths in size. Total move-in cost to vets is $95.

Bank Group Buys School Bond Issue

A Bank of America N.T. & S.A. underwriting syndicate has purchased the $2,300,000 bond issue of the Fullerton Union High School District, Orange and Los Angeles counties.

The Bank of America group paid a premium of $979 for a combination of 3½%, 3% and 3¼% bonds. Net interest cost to the district was 3.14%.

The bonds were reoffered to investors to yield from 2.30% to a dollar price of par on the 3¼% bonds, according to maturity March 15, 1966-1984.

The issue sold consisted of $1,860,000 of 1960 school bonds and $440,000 of 1963 school bonds. Proceeds will be used for various school purposes.

The district is located in northwestern Orange County and includes about eight square miles of Los Angeles County. The district contains 96% of Fullerton, all of La Habra and 45% of Buena Park. Estimated population is 160,000.

Members of the bank group which purchased the Fullerton bonds were: Goldman, Sachs & Co.; Drexel & Co.; Stroud & Co., Inc.; Kenower, MacArthur & Co.; Stern, Frank, Meyer & Fox.

Only Two-Story Homes in Anaheim Development

Here is one of the varied models of two-story homes offered in the new King Edward Series of Royal Coachline Homes in Anaheim. The homes are priced from $26,800 to $28,900.

The two-story home has proven its popularity in the new King Edward Series of Royal Coachline Homes, states Mark Pitman, developer of the new Anaheim community. "Many of our associates were skeptical about building a subdivision consisting of nothing but two-story homes. However, the excellent response to the new King Edward Series has proven our judgment to be correct," stated Mark Pitman.

Offering 17 exterior designs and four spacious floor plans the new Royal Coachline Homes are two-story three and four bedrooms, all with large family rooms and two baths. The homes are priced from $26,800 to $28,900 and can be purchased on terms of conventional financing. FHA and Cal-Vet terms are also available.

• • • •

AMONG OUTSTANDING features in the new King Edward Series is wall-to-wall carpeting of 100% nylon in the living rooms, dining rooms, bedrooms, halls and stairways, custom block wall completely fenced rear yard with gate and lawns planted front and sides.

The luxury kitchens of the new series feature built-in gas range and oven with triple rotisserie and exhaust fan over range and are already piped for gas refrigeration, gas dryer and gas log-lighter. These kitchens also include dishwasher and disposal. The large cabinets offer a choice of driftwood, provincial, walnut or birch woods. The bar and sink tops are of self-edged Formica and the flooring is of all-new metallic vinyl asbestos tile.

• • • •

OTHER FEATURES include large pool size lots, oversize garages with plenty of storage space. Baths are roomy, with marble-topped Pullmans, vanity and dressing tables, Mr. and Mrs. sinks with Dreslyn basins. There are entry halls, hardwood paneling, cedar shake and shingle roofs, ornamental iron trim, stone and brick exterior masonry, telephone outlets in most rooms and luminous ceilings.

From Santa Ana Freeway, interested viewers may drive on Ball Road to State College Blvd., turn left (north) to Lincoln Ave., then right to Sunkist and left to furnished models.

Unemployment Fund Benefits Extended

Extended duration unemployment insurance benefits under the Miller-Collier Act formula beginning April 1 to Californians who exhaust their regular unemployment benefits.

Insured unemployment during the three calendar months of December, 1963, and January and February, 1964, was in excess of the 6 per cent ratio which triggers payment of extended duration benefits, Albert B. Tieburg, director of employment, said today.

• • • •

HE SAID an average of 264,618 weeks of insured unemployment was certified during the three-month priod. This amounted to 6.32 per cent of the statutory base of the average of 4,182,878 employes subject to the state Unemployment Insurance Code in the four calendar quarters that ended Sept. 30, 1963.

The Miller-Collier Act is an amendment to the unemployment insurance law enacted by the 1959 Legislature. It requires the director of employment to make a finding each month of the ratio of unemployment covered by the Unemployment Insurance Code.

The most recent previous extended benefit duration month was September, 1963.

Peddles Apples at Theater Line

WICHITA (UP)—There was a long line of persons at the ticket window of a Wichita movie house when a well-dressed man walked up with a large paper sack.

"Want to buy an apple?" he asked one of the standees. Then he walked down the line selling apples at 10 cents each.

His impeccable appearance baffled the standees but they bought all the apples he had. Then the man disappeared down the street.

Officers of Credit Unit Reelected

Paul R. McCrery was chosen president of the Long Beach Credit Association for the seventh consecutive year at the annual meeting of the stockholders last week. All officers and directors were reelected: Harry Buffum, chairman of the board, Buffums', vice president; Ike Sukman, president, Columbia, treasurer; B. L. Gibbs, secretary, and K. M. Gibbs, assistant secretary.

PAUL McCRERY

Reelected directors for a two year term were: Paul McCrery, Ike Sukman and B. L. Gibbs. Hold-over directors are Harry Buffum, J. F. Bishop, E. C. Valdes and K. M. Gibbs.

• • • •

McCRERY REPORTED on the progress made in the past year of operation. He stated the merchant owned association has 800 active members, 750,000 credit reports in file and 60 employes. McCrery further reported in the past year the association had compiled 250,000 credit reports and collected approximately $500,000 in its collection department.

The association, a 49-year-old Long Beach institution, and in its 26th year as a merchant-owned organization, will celebrate its diamond anniversary in 1965. Plans are currently being formulated to commemorate the event.

Five Regal Homes Remain for Buyers

There are only five homes remaining in Regal Homes, popular new Buena Park community, states Tom Sims, builder. Excellent financing is offered with down payments of only $395 which includes all costs and impounds.

Regal Homes are three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. They are priced from $22,900 and have been designed to provide many of the homes with unusually large "King-Size" lots for pools, gardens, etc. Families with an income of $650 monthly can qualify.

The homes feature balanced power and have built-in range and oven with exhaust fan and hood over range, fireplace with log-lighters. The back yards are enclosed with a block wall. Other features include furniture finish birch cabinets, tile stall shower with glass doors, also shower over tub, Del Piso entry floors, spacious master bedroom suites, forced-air heating and other fine features.

* * * * *

LOCATED on Orangethorpe between Valley View and Knott Ave. in the City of Buena Park, Regal Homes are short driving distances from Long Beach, the industrial areas of Fullerton, Anaheim and East Los Angeles. Knott's Berry Farm is but minutes away—the Southland's most famous beaches and Newport Harbor within a 15-minute drive. Regal Homes are also close to schools for all ages. One of the area's largest shopping centers — Buena Park Plaza is less than five minutes away.

ONLY $395 CASH DOWN

Here is one of the five Regal Homes remaining in the new Buena Park community. Priced from $22,900, the homes may be purchased for as little as $395 down.

Want Pantries

One of the items being demanded with more frequency by female home buyers today is bigger and better pantries, according to housing authorities. In addition to kitchen cabinets, they want more space for cleaning equipment and shallow shelves for canned goods.

Prompt Action by Firemen

PACIFICA, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Emilene Greer got extra-fast action when she phoned the fire department to report she had stuffed some rags into an oven to dry and they ignited. Responding firemen were led by her husband, Fire Chief Ed Greer.

Honor Two Edison Vets

Two men with combined service of 75 years were honored recently by Southern California Edison Co.

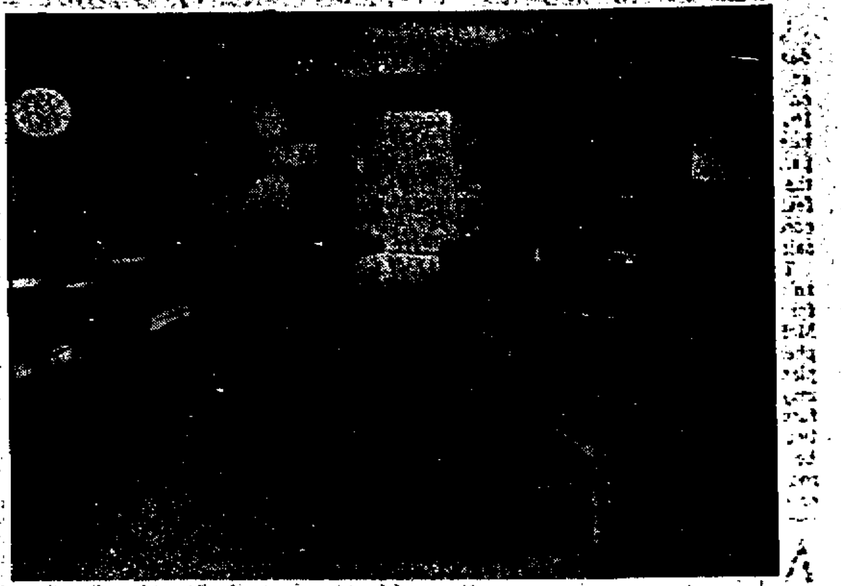
Robert C. Basil, 4231 Ocana Ave., Lakewood, retired from service with the Southland utility after a career that spanned 40 years.

Basil spent his entire career in the utility's operating department and for the past 20 years has been with Edison's Fullerton division.

R. C. BASIL C. LAMBERTSON

Max C. Lambertson, 3820 Chestnut Ave., was honored by the company on his 35th anniversary. Lambertson, who is employed as assistant plant engineer at the company's Alamitos Steam Station, was presented a diamond service pin.

Good Location Stressed in Garden Park Estates



IN GARDEN PARK ESTATES

Shown is a living room in a furnished model at Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove. One and two-story quality homes are offered with three, four and five bedrooms at moderate prices.

Of particular importance in attracting buyers to a new residential development is a good location, state officials of Garden Park Estates in a walled neighborhood in Garden Grove.

"We feel it's important for today's families to have an address they can be proud of, plus close-in conveniences," a spokesman said.

Garden Park Estates' homes are within a short drive of many large shopping compounds. Good schools surround the area and residents are connected to the entire Southland by nearby major highways and freeways.

Large one and two-story homes with three, four and five bedrooms are now being sold. A favorite is the stately two-story model, the officials pointed out. The home includes five bedrooms, with the master bedroom featuring a fireplace.

* * * * *

"THIS DESIGN appeals to the lively family with several youngsters," the spokesman said.

Also included are functional built-in kitchens; fireplaces, some with mantels and gas log liters; forced-air heating with thermostat and summer cooling switch, and colored mosaic tile.

Veterans can move in with nothing down, except costs and impounds with monthly payments from $109.63, including principal and interest. Non-veterans can use lowest FHA down on 30 and 35 year loans. Conventional terms are available and the homes are Cal-Vet approved. Prices start from $19,850.

To see the furnished models from Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. to Knott Ave.

Open Niguel to Private Developers

The 7,000-acre Laguna Niguel development near South Laguna is opening to various private developers, the Orange County Coast Association was told Thursday afternoon at a luncheon at Irvine Coast Country Club.

Pete Vogel, marketing director for Laguna Niguel, said builder John Klug will erect 3,000 Pacesetter homes, to become the largest "outside" builder in the tract. He has 250 under construction now and said all are sold.

OTHER BUILDERS have acquired, or are negotiating for, segments of the hillside properties whose curved streets are laid out to give maximum view benefits, Vogel explained.

Laguna Niguel, once part of the Shoemaker Ranch, ultimately will have a population of 35,000 persons, it was predicted.

Orange County's 75th anniversary observance this year will signal celebrations in which the association will take part.

TED PARKER, historian whose title company has done a booklet of the county's early years, recounted that what is now Orange County was divorced from Los Angeles County in 1889 simply because Los Angeles County Supervisors of that day "didn't want to spend money for roads or other improvements "in the cow county."

First Family Into Chatelain II Home

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Herr have the distinction of being the first owners to move into their beautiful new Chatelain II home in Placentia.

On "moving day" Bill and Claire and their three young children were welcomed by Otis Cranford and Jim Marshall of Cranford Development Co. and sales agent, Kay Neil, and were presented an outdoor barbeque . . . a house warming gift to add to the Herr's enjoyment of their new home.

Claire Herr said, "I'm still luxuriating in all this wonderful space. Mr. Craxford and his associates certainly understand how important spaciousness and convenience is to a family with growing youngsters.

"WE ARE NEW to the area, and we love it," Mrs. Herr went on. "We looked around for some time and decided that Placentia with its quiet suburban atmosphere was an ideal place to raise children. My husband is an engineer at Autonetics so the location is perfect for him."

The Herrs purchased The Deauville, Chatelaine II's five-bedroom, two-story model.

Chatelaine II homes are being offered for as little as $25,950 with 5% down and are located on Carolina Avenue, between Palm and Imperial Hwy. in Placentia.

Finally Learns Room Draped

WICHITA (P)—State Court Judge James V. Riddel Jr. had been in his office in the new courthouse four years when he decided he should have curtains for the office windows.

Checking for a place to install the curtains, he pulled back a narrow drape at a window and found that draw drapes were already in place, installed when the office was furnished.

New Test Area Near Beaumont

United Ttesting Laboratories Division of United Electro Dynamics, Inc., Pasadena, has leased a site called Jack Rabbit Trail near Beaumont from Lockheeed Propulsion Co. for environmental aerospace testing, it is announced by Donald D. Mallory, vice president and division manager.

Mallory said expansion of the division's facilities will enable the company to substantilly increase its testing capabilities in weapons systems, high-pressure vessels and cryogenic gases.

Three concrete test bays and a remote intstrumentation blockhouse have been constructed.

'Growing Room' Appealing to Showcase Home Buyers

Showcase Homes, a residential development by builder, William Krueger located on Hazard Ave. just east of Hwy. 39, has attracted many interested buyers, who are particularly impressed with the two-story plans which feature a growing room, according to Frank McFarland, sales agent.

The growing room is truly an innovation in home design for the growing family, stated McFarland. The builder supplies three different blueprint plans so that the purchaser may finish this room in the future best suited for his particular family's needs. It can be used as a spacious one room family activity center or can be finished as a luxury home with five or six bedrooms and three baths.

PRICED FROM $22,750, Showcase Homes have three bedrooms, two baths, and family/dining room. The rear yard is completely fenced and the front yard landscaped. Various types of financing are available to fit the particular need of the buyer.

Offering a choice of varied elevations, the exteriors are enhanced with stone, used brick, and colonial brick. The attractive interiors have slate entry halls, wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplace, marble pullmans in baths, ceramic tile in baths, and oversize linen closets.

The ultra modern kitchen is equipped with all-electric built-in range, wide oven, automatic dishwasher, garbage disposer, breakfast bar and ash cabinets. Ceramic tile and many built-ins and storage space are found in this important room.

Furnished model homes are open daily.

IN QUIET NEIGHBORHOOD

Showcase Homes unit 2, a residential development by William Krueger, are located in a quiet residential neighborhood near schools, shopping centers, and close to the new Douglas plant.

Arranging of Flowers

Spring has arrived at Union Federal Savings and the association is again sponsoring the third annual flower arranging exhibition April 9, at the Petroleum Club in Long Beach, according to vice president and Bixby Knolls branch manager Don De Silva.

"This event represents what we feel is of general interest and adds to the betterment of the community as well. The show will not only be instructive but visually beautiful and stimulating," De Silva stated.

The exhibition will start at the club at 3636 Linden Ave., at 7:30 p.m., and will be under direction of Tommy Christensen of the Virginia Patio. It will consist of more than 70 arrangements by a staff of three experts. As the arrangements are created they will be described by Mrs. Gladys Christensen. Free tickets are available at Union Federal office, 4512 Atlantic Ave.

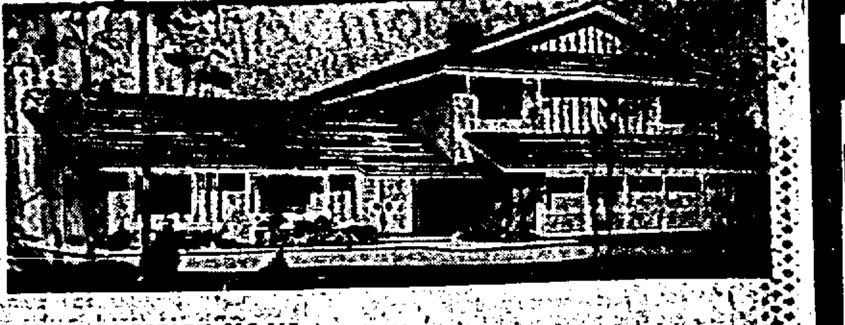
Santa Fe Drilling Outlook Is Bright

SANTA FE SPRINGS—"As an international contract drilling company, we believe Santa Fe is second to none on the basis of revenues and income derived from contract drilling opearations in foreign lands," president Ed L. Shannon Jr. and board chairman J. D. Robinson told stockholders in the annual report.

"Santa Fe started 1964 with 38 drilling operations in progress in 10 foreign countries and early this year obtained additional new drilling contracts in the North Sea area, Libya and Venezuela," they said.

Gross revenues and net income for the year to Dec. 31, 1963, were both the highest in the company's history. Revenues were $26,194,405 including $1,208,075 from sales of oil and gas from its California properties. Net income was $2,466,504 after taxes, equivalent to $1.64 a share on 1,502,539 capital shares outstanding at the year-end. These figures compare with 1962 revenues of $24,276,291 and net income of $2,195,090 or $1.46 a share on 1,504,389 shares then outstanding. Income from oil and gas sales in the U. S. increased 61 percent over 1962 oil and gas sales of $751,769.

"Income from oil and gas sales is financing our exploration activity," the report states, noting that $1,300,000 has been budgeted for the 1964 domestic oil and gas program. Early in 1964 the company acquired substantial leasehold interests in Ohio and Kentucky acreage where its participation "gives us an opportunity to explore in one of the most active areas in the U.S."



LARGE PRESTIGE HOME

Variety of Financing Terms Offered for Prestige Homes

One of the many reasons for the success of Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach has been the variety of financing available to the potential home buyer: FHA, VA on a few homes, excellent conventional financing, and Cal-Vet. By having all of these available, Prestige Homes has been able to fit the needs of many families that might not otherwise been able to purchase a new home, related Larry Shields of the building firm, Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., with main offices in Anaheim.

Shields said the Prestige Homes' sales force, directed by Dan Mytinger, have been instructed to work closely with every interested family in the selection of financing that best suits the family's pocketbook.

"We can afford to do this," Shields noted, "not only because it helps us to sell Prestige Homes; but because it shows the home purchaser that we are interested and willing to help him through an enjoyable, although trying, period of time when he is buying a new home for his family."

PRESTIGE HOMES are priced from $21,200 and are available in one and two stories, three, four and five bedrooms, with twenty four exterior elevations to choose from. Features include Westinghouse all-electric kitchens with built-in range, oven and dishwasher; color-coordinated wall-to-wall carpeting in the entry, living room, halls and stairways; slate entryways; wardrobes up to 14 feet long, massive fireplaces and individual features in some models such as pantries, "boat doors," master bedrooms with built-in dressers; and many, many others.

The six beautifully decorated model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the Long Beach area; drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West Street, turn right to Edinger Avenue, then right on Edinger to Springdale St., then left a short distance to Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach.

Master Pool Title to Sunset Builders

Sunset Designers and Builders are celebrating their recent appointment as builders of Master Pools with a month-long open house. Master Pool Builders, who number fewer than 100 in the entire pool industry, are selected by the international organization on the basis of business integrity, financial stability and technical and construction excellence.

Sunset for 18 years have beautified homes by adding rooms, building patios, installing fences and block walls, landscaping, and modernizing. Now with the addition of pool building, they offer homeowners the convenience of having one contractor perform all the functions.

Sunset boasts the largest outdoor living display in the Southland. More than an acre of land is devoted to showing the latest in pools, patios, fences, fireplaces and other items.

Sunset will be open daily until 9 p.m. The public is invited to visit their display area at 3626 Long Beach Blvd.

Tanforan Is Sold

Coldwell, Banker & Co. has completed the sale of Tanforan Race Track in the San Francisco Bay area to Sunset International Petroleum Corp. for $6.15 million. The sale was handled by the realtor's San Fancisco office.

A regional shopping center and complex of apartments and townhouses is contemplated by the purchaser for the 142-acre property, located partly in each of the communities of San Bruno and South San Francisco. The 64-year-old horseracing facilities will be demolished.

50 reasons why you should live in Sun City

Not only does Sun City offer the major advantages listed below, but Sun City believes in the freedom of individual choice. Sun City does not "package" all kinds of miscellaneous charges and fees into your monthly payment. Why have services which you do not need or want, foisted upon you?

CHECK THESE MAJOR POINTS FOR YOURSELF. COMPARISON PROVES SUN CITY IS FOR YOU!

		Sun City		OTHER PLACES
		YES	NO	YES	NO
1	Residents own their homes outright, without being involved in some "share ownership" plan. If you are the rugged individualist type that wants to manage your own home costs and affairs without being involved with other people's expenses — a home in Sun City is for you. If you like the share ownership idea, Sun City does have cooperative apartments. Either way, you have the freedom of choice.	✓
2	All community facilities are complete and operating now. Sun City does not offer you promises of something that is going to be built in the future! It is all here for you to enjoy NOW — at sensible prices.	✓
3	The comprehensive medical benefits program is optional. If you have all the insurance protection you need, don't have the cost of your neighbor's insurance buried in your home payment. In Sun City you may have excellent insurance protection if you wish. Again, the freedom of choice is yours!	✓
4	There is a complete shopping center in the community. The Sun City Shopping Center has over 20 different types of shops, stores and services. Every convenience for modern day living needs is here now. Not "coming soon."	✓
5	There is a championship golf course with pay-as-you-play fees not hidden in home payments. If you play golf, Sun City has a Championship Course to really challenge you. If you don't play golf, why have your neighbor's greens fees hidden in your monthly payments?	✓
6	There is a truly wide variety of recreational facilities, workshop and crafts centers. Sun City originated Active Retirement. Sun City was the first to offer complete facilities for purposeful activities. Others have imitated Sun City, but no one has ever equalled it. People come to Sun City to live . . . !	✓
7	Home buyers receive grant deeds and title policies. Your home is your own in Sun City. You own it just like a home anywhere else. You can pay cash if you wish and buy your home outright. Take advantage of substantial cash discounts. Why be locked into paying interest if you don't want to?	✓
8	Down payments are as low as $400. Sun City is for everyone! It doesn't require huge down payments to move into Sun City. After all, not everyone has enough money for a huge down payment.	✓
9	Homes and apartments can be purchased for as little as $10,950. Retirement homes should be sensibly priced! In Sun City you won't find people looking for status symbols. They are only looking for a good time. In Sun City everyone has a good time!	✓
10	There is a guaranteed sales plan to help purchasers sell their former homes. The sale of your present home could be guaranteed if you live in one of the many cities covered by our program. You may be able to move to a Del Webb community for Active Retirement with very little delay or inconvenience.	✓
11	Security and satisfaction is guaranteed by a strong corporation, listed on the New York Stock Exchange and with 30 years experience and more than 12,000 residents in similar communities in 3 states. If someone is trying to sell you promises of what they are going to build in the future, be sure the builder is big enough to back his word. The Del E. Webb Corporation is big enough to build everything before opening day!	✓
12	Houses or apartments are available in Sun City. You don't have to change your preferred manner of living when you move to Sun City. Freedom of choice is extended to your preference for large or small — house or apartment. A "please all tastes" variety of each are available for your choosing.	✓
13	Your Sun City home passes to your estate and your heirs. In Sun City you are not just "living in" your home during your lifetime to have it revert back to the sponsoring organization. Your Sun City home is yours to will to your heirs and becomes a part of your estate. In other words, it's your home. You have the freedom to do with it as you wish.	✓
14 through 50	There really are 50 reasons why you should live in Sun City — but we've flat run out of space. Come out to Sun City today and we'll be happy to discuss the other 36. When you live in Sun City you do what you want when you want! And when you decide to buy your home or apartment in Sun City, no one tries to force you into buying all kinds of services which you really don't want or need. FREEDOM OF CHOICE IS YOURS IN SUN CITY.	✓

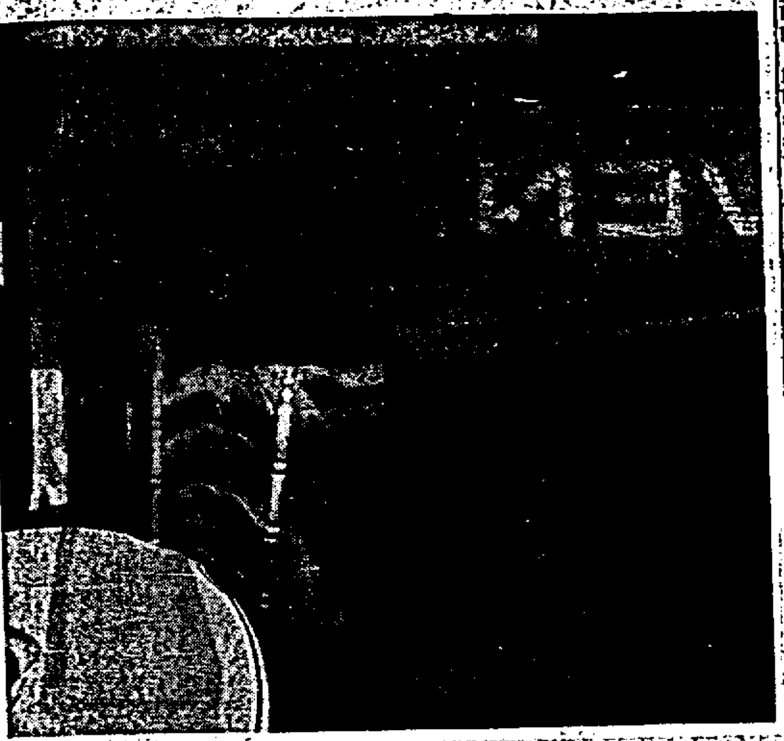
Many L. B. Executives Buy Old Farm Homes



HAS CHARM OF OLD

Spacious family room, rich cabinets, dining area, formal living room and big second-story Bonus Room are the features in the new unit of the Old Farm homes in Fountain Valley. Flexible terms are available at the walled community with prices from $27,500.

With the second unit of the Old Farm community in Fountain Valley well over half sold, the luxury Fountain Valley development is proving to be one of West Orange County's most popular executive communities, the developers, George M. Holstein and Sons report.

The big two-story homes are priced from $27,500 and have been designed to create the complete community concept, the builders explained. Entry patios and the varying of design has given the Old Farm community the "custom look" with lavish landscaping adding to the complete neighborhood.

Already the choice of many Long Beach area executives, the current Old Farm unit is offering a wide selection of plans, exteriors and the most flexible of terms, the Holstein organization pointed out.

• • • •

THE WALLED community is less than 15 minutes from Long Beach and only 5 minutes from Huntington Beach state beach. The site is near new schools and the Westmont Park and has been planned to be Fountain Valley's finest new home area, the Old Farm builders explained.

Top feature has been the big second story Bonus Room so ideal for playroom, rumpus area, den or additional bedrooms. Built in luxury kitchens and baths have also found flavor.

To reach the Old Farm from Long Beach, take Garden Grove Freeway to Hwy. 39, then south to Warner and east (left) on Warner to Cannery then south again to the models.

More Housing Seen

NEW YORK—Builders expect a 12 per cent gain in housing sales for 1964 over 1963, according to Fortune's semi-annual survey. This would boost nonfarm housing starts for the current year to a total of 1,740,000.

Apartments will again be the star of the housing market this year. Builders answering Fortune's inquiry forecast 635,000 apartments (three units and over) for 1964, against 529,000 actually built in 1963—a 20 per cent rise.

Traditional houses will be built at a 6 per cent higher rate this year than last, the builders expect, while they believe the volume of prefabricated houses will rise 20 per cent from the 200,000 units shipped in 1963.

Some 375 builders throughout the nation replied to Fortune's inquiry.

Buffums' Sportsman Shop Open

Building Started by Rossmoor

Ground has been broken for the $2.5 million Rossmoor Corp. national headquarters office building in the shopping center area of Rossmoor Leisure World at Laguna Hills, Calif.

Many Orange County civic leaders attended the groundbreaking ceremonies and observed the model of the three-story "jewel box" structure which likely will be considered one of the most striking office buildings in Orange County upon its completion in November of this year.

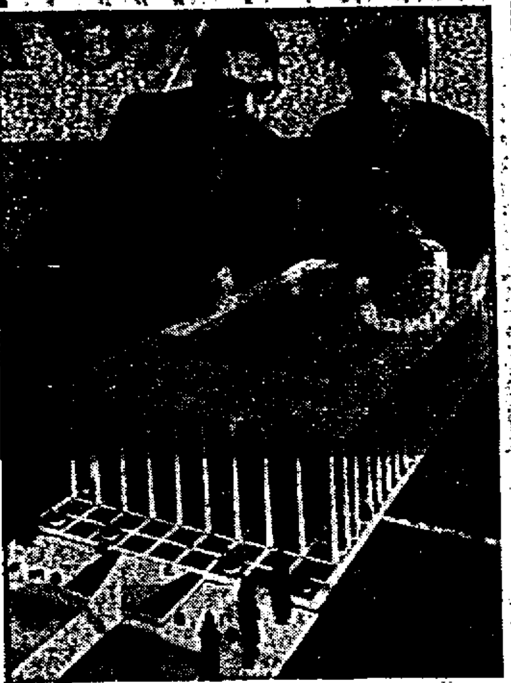
Hosts for the occasion were Ross W. Cortese, president of the Rossmoor Corp.; Murray Ward, senior vice president in charge of construction of all Leisure World and Rossmoor projects, and Jay Mercer, chief administrative vice president.

• • • •

THE NEW THREE-STORY administrative headquarters building was designed by the Los Angeles architectural firm of Burke, Kober & Nicolais, and measures 85,540 square feet. A curtain-wall of tinted glass extends completely around the rectangular structure from the ground to the roof. The glass curtain-wall is set off by 64 pre-cast concrete columns, three stories high. The pillars end in graceful arches at the roof level, giving the building its appealing classic style in a contemporary manner. Two large reflection pools are located at each end of the structure.

The show piece office building will accommodate more than 200 offices of the Rossmoor Corp. and the National Golden Rain Foundation. The full-basement will contain the corporation's blueprint department, mail room and some parking facilities.

The building will include the executive suites of the corporation, including the offices of President Ross W. Cortese; the offices of the Rossmoor Furniture Co. and the Rossmoor Water Corporation.



MODEL VIEWED

Ground has been broken for the new national headquarters office building of the Rossmoor Corp. in the shopping center area of Rossmoor Leisure World at Laguna Hills. Senior vice president in charge of construction Murray Ward inspects the model of the $2.5 million "jewel box" structure with Jay Mercer, the corporation's chief administrative vice president.

Lake Park Stresses Value at Low Cost

IN LAKE PARK

One of the most popular homes at Lake Park, near Lakewood, is the two-story Huntington with five bedrooms. The community is being built and developed by Larwin Group Companies, one of the nation's largest builders and developers of homes and shopping centers.

Value of homes at Lake Park, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, is found not only in the economy for buyers' pocketbooks but also in their prime location, according to sales manager Don Hermanson.

Lake Park is close to major employment, recreation and commercial facilities, Hermanson said.

• • • •

AVAILABLE at Lake Park is both low down payment FHA and VA-guaranteed financing programs. Qualified veterans may move in free at some of the models.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold there to date have been two-story models.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson (which becomes Lincoln Boulevard) to the model homes just east of Moody.

Shouldn't Every Property Buyer Insist on the Number One Brand of Title Protection?

Buying property is one of the biggest steps most of us ever take. It's important to see that your interests are protected to the maximum, should someone make a claim against your property title. The surest way is to ask for a title insurance policy by T.I.–the company that protects the ownership rights to more California property than any other title firm.

There are good reasons why T.I. is the choice of most escrow officers for swift, dependable, impartial title service. Only T.I. has complete up-to-date land records. Only T.I. has a high-speed data processing system that searches Los Angeles County property tax records, to assure greater speed and accuracy for your title transaction. And only T.I. can offer you the experience of California's longest-established title firm, the strength of America's largest title staff.

Your title order gets the personalized attention of an experienced title officer who goes through the toughest training program in the industry before he starts serving you. And he is backed by a staff of specialists whose knowledge of California real estate is unmatched.

Doesn't it make sense to insist on the accuracy, dependability, and personal service of T.I.–the number one brand of title insurance–when you buy or sell property?

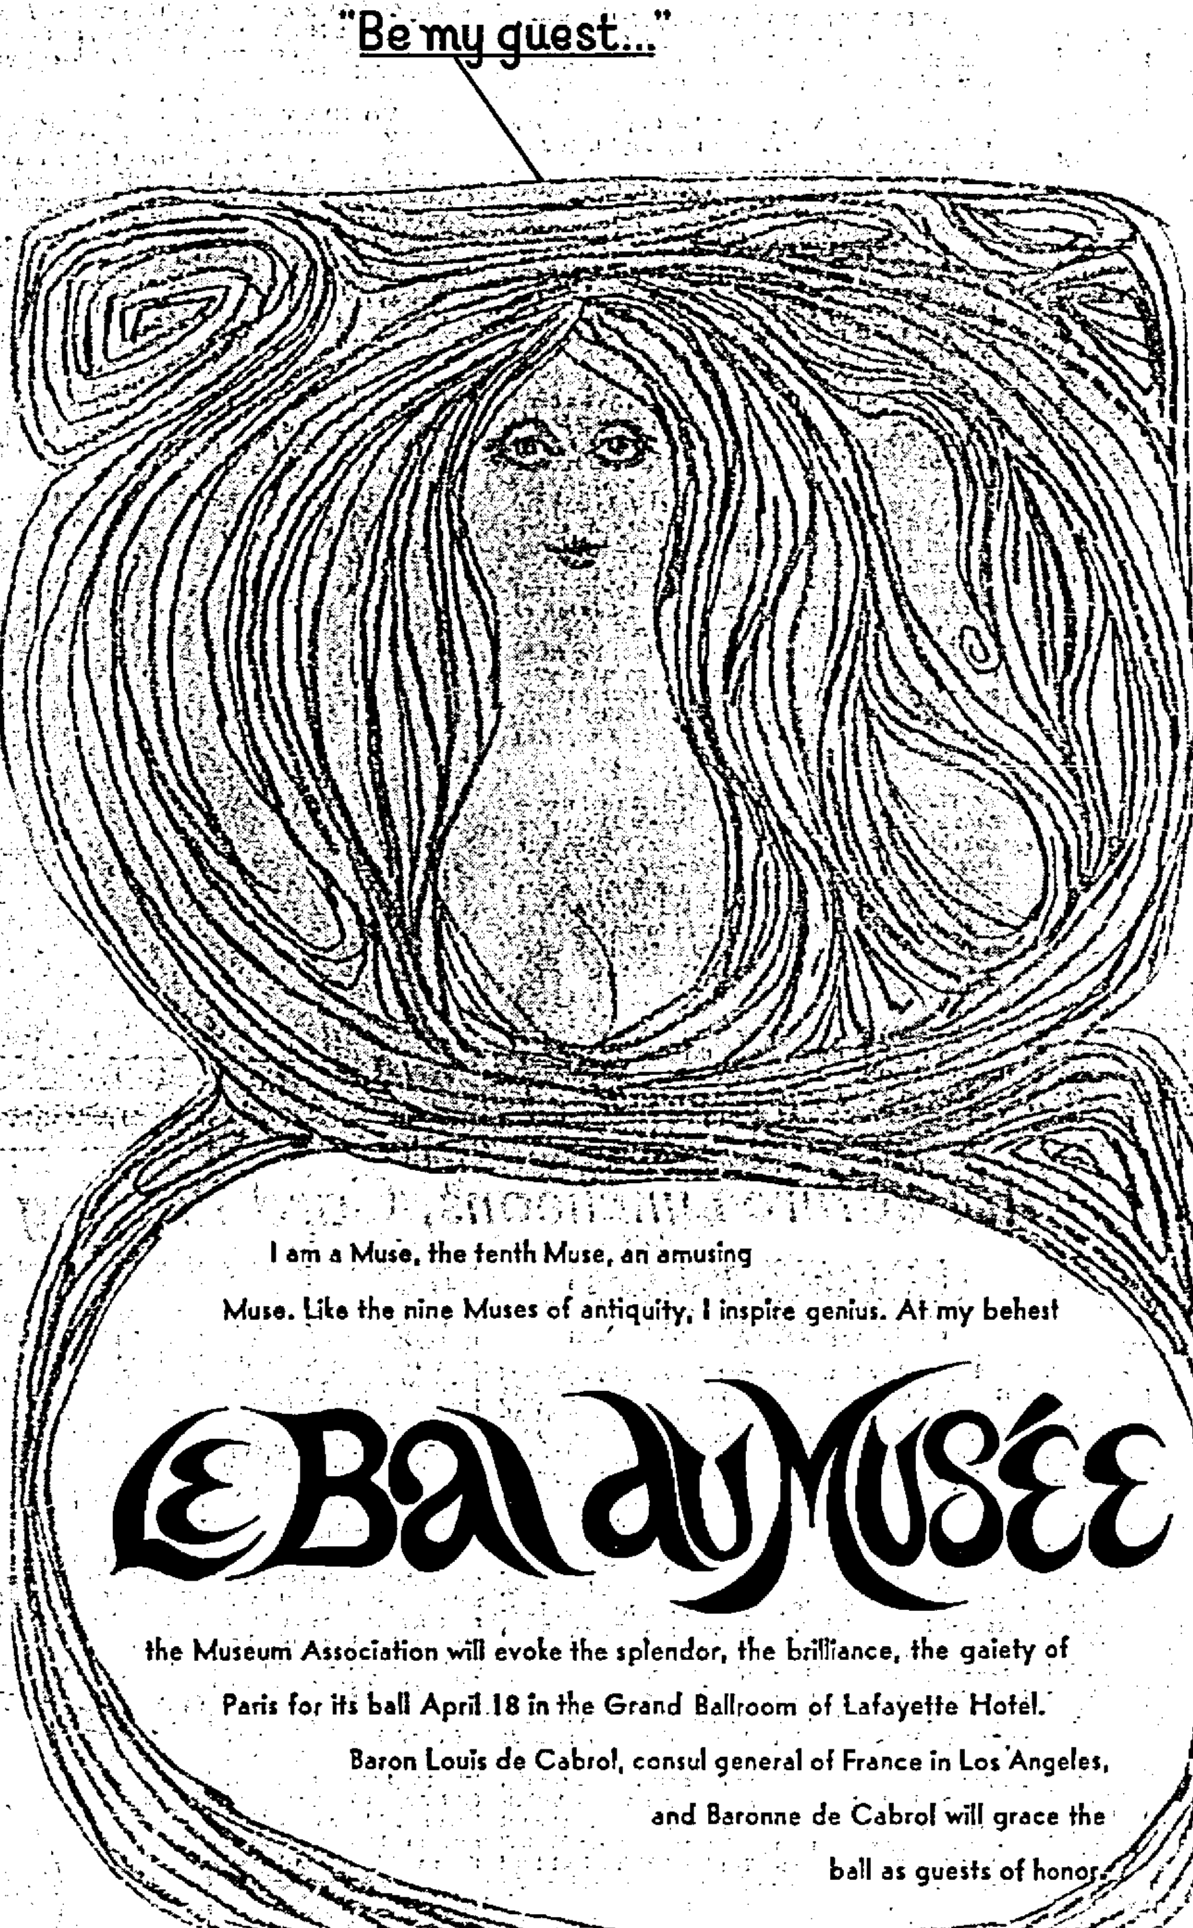
LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, APRIL 5, 1964 SECTION W



I am a Muse, the tenth Muse, an amusing Muse. Like the nine Muses of antiquity, I inspire genius. At my behest

LE BAL DU MUSÉE

the Museum Association will evoke the splendor, the brilliance, the gaiety of Paris for its ball April 18 in the Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel. Baron Louis de Cabrol, consul general of France in Los Angeles, and Baronne de Cabrol will grace the ball as guests of honor.

Do join us. Cocktails at 7:30 p. m. in a Left-Bank promenade on one side of the ballroom. Kiosks, art posters, a 10-foot tall Eiffel Tower, French tri-colors—red, white and blue—on brightly decorated bistro tables. At 9 o'clock, the party will move into the ballroom, with its atmosphere of the Bois de Bologne. There, Ray Noval's orchestra will play for dancing. Mrs. Martin Garron, 1465 La Perla, is taking reservations. My portrait? I inspired CSLB art student Dennis McManus.

Isaac Waltons Due—Other Fish to Fry

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

IN ALL degrees of tonsorial splendor—probably un-splendor—men of the Southern California Tuna Club will drive wearily but happily home today after a week-long fishing trip to Lake Mead. Hey, beaver!

Eighty fellows, give or take one or two, made the trek. To insure the operation's success, at least 40 of these served on committees, which just goes to show you how hard men are willing to work to have fun! And what jobs!

Up to something fishy, these two, all week long!

As for those sparkling white, pre-trip aprons, wonder what they look like now after cleaning several hundred pounds of Lake Mead's finest, and with precious little help from avid fishing buddies with other duties.

"Fish Care Warden" was Dr. Mulford Smith. Seems they keep big tanks in the lake in which to dump their catches, live. They release what they can't eat or don't want to bring home from daily limits (amounts brought home are undoubtedly governed by "orders from headquarters" here at home!). Mulford's job—keep finnies well fed.

Weigh Master was Dr. Sterling Pillsbury. Biggest job of all was Bob Joy's that of general chairman. Jim Kuster was alternate general, in case Bob plain wore out.

Pay-off duty was Dr. Chet Moore's. He was head of Global Communications. He took his ham radio equipment and packed it into the camp site, 21 miles into the wilderness from Temple Bar Landing.

The first "global" call for help was received from Chet Tuesday. Latecomers were asked to bring up the stuff forgotten. Official scales, tiki torches, keys to Bob Joy's boat (yep, he left 'em on dresser top), 10 pounds of salt, a case of canned potatoes, etc. Duly delivered.

PARTY SWITCH. There will be a luncheon Tuesday at Pat Horton's with 16 hostesses. Sound big? Well, there will be just six guests! The 16 providing brunch for their outnumbered honorees are members of Assistance League's provisional corps of a couple of years ago. They're entertaining for leaguers who saw them through their year of training.

UP BY THE ROOTS have been pulled the lives of Marjorie and "Brandy" Brandenburg for important transplanting. They left Thursday with eventual destination Brentford, England, where they will live for an indefinite time.

"Brandy" has been promoted to treasurer-director of Firestone Tyre (that's how they spell it in Jolly Olde) and Rubber Co. over there.

They'll spend a month in Akron, Ohio, before going on to New York, where they'll sail to Lisbon on the Greek liner, Olympia, with plans for sightseeing before they report to Brentford on May 30.

A farewell party was given for them by Elfie and Bill Sharp in their Rossmoor home. Good friends present were Betty and Raymond Grobaty, Jackie and Lou Rasch, Dee and Lewis Mahl and "Squid" and Jeff Williamson.

THREE WORDS that really sing are, "It's a boy." The tuneful phrase fell fittingly on the ears of Sherry and Dr. Selden Beebe when they became parents of their first child, Jason Hill Beebe, at Memorial Monday afternoon.

On the paternal side, this gives Joan and Dr. Edson Beebe the right to glow like first time grandparents. Their faces keep behaving like kleig lights, as a matter of fact.

Margaret Harriman Gilbert, the baby's maternal grandmother, is more experienced about this sort of thing with a total of four grandchildren.

In fact, Margaret was so calm about the forthcoming event, she invited Sherry to go on a snow country journey into Chihuahua Valley (near Warner's Hot Springs) for a long weekend. Luckily, Sherry changed her mind because Jason arrived a surprising two weeks early.

FLIGHT DATE . . . last Thursday. Arrival time—Europe in the spring. Bev (Mrs. Joseph) McLaughlin and sister-in-law, Nancy (Mrs. Kenneth) Walker, with Nancy's sisters (one from Washington, D.C. and another from Oakland) are taking a strictly feminine month of travel. They were to fly to London and tour in England first. Then they planned to pick up a car in Munich and drive, on a hop, skip and jump schedule, to various places on the continent including France, Holland, Switzerland and Germany.

WHEREVER SLOPES are winter white you're apt to find them dark-dotted with the skimming, skiing figures of Belinda and Dr. Jack Frishman. Currently, they are on a long weekend trip to Aspen, Colo., with son, Jack Jr. Just a brief time ago the Frishmans Sr. returned from a month in Europe. Primarily they went for Dr. Jack to do research studies in Paris but they also found time to research, test and study ski resorts. Prognosis: General condition great everywhere.

ALTHOUGH THEY won't change the decor of their home to accomplish it, Betsy and George Taubman will, nonetheless, give distinguished houseguests the red carpet treatment next Friday to Saturday.

Guests will be Eva and Allen Seed Jr. of New York. Allen, executive vice president of Keep America Beautiful, will be in town to talk at a Chamber of Commerce sponsored luncheon Friday at the Lafayette. That same afternoon, the Taubmans have bidden about 100 to their home to meet the Seeds at a cocktail party.

Assisting will be Vivian and John Davis, Dorothy and Gustaf Ericson, Mary and Gene Carlton, Jean and Bill Lockett, Marylou and Harry Krusz, Rosemary and Bob Westmyer, Dorothie and Lloyd Mallin, Bess Hudson and Kay Langen.

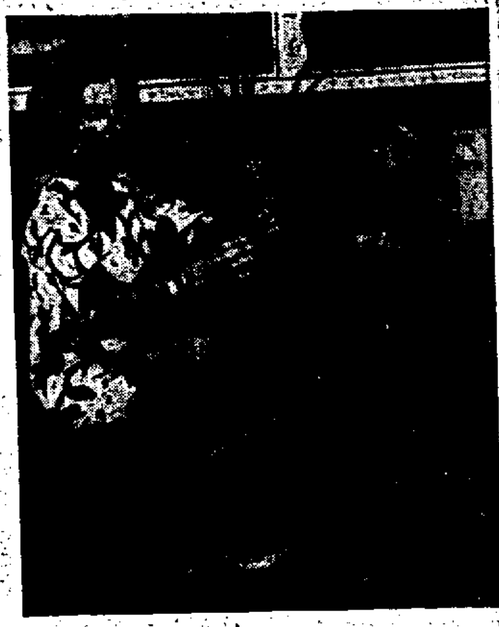
ANY TIME Mardi and Phillip Pelkey's car crosses over the border from Mexico back into the U.S. (which is frequent), you can be sure that little Falcon is loaded with ollas. That's because Mardi is a real dirt farmer, clay pot style, and ollas (Mexican pots) make perfect containers for her gardening.

On their last trip, Mardi purchased several, including the large strawberry planter she's pictured with, below. And what is she planting? Succulents, so easy to car for y'know. Strawberries you can buy in the markets!

But what amazed and startled natives on both sides of the border during last trip to Ensenada was the sight of big Phillip (six feet, seven and one half inches tall), plus all the luggage, plus the pots (big ones), plus their two good sized teenagers, plus the farmer, herself, all tucked INSIDE the car. Where there's a will there's a way.



She's real dirt farmer in typical patio style.

McNulty-Collins Families Joined

St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church was chosen for the wedding of Judith Ann Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Collins, to James Michael McNulty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. McNulty, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. James Michael McNulty

A bridal gown of silk organza with a bell-shaped skirt and appliques of Chantilly lace was worn by the bride. Her four tiered veil fell from a crown of silk organza and lace, trimmed with pearls and sequins.

Mrs. Patrick Rose attended the bride as matron of honor. The bridegroom was served by Richard Rinnella as best man. Rebecca Gates, Mrs. Ronald Schroeder, Mrs. Karl Van Holt, Stephen Murphy, James Morford and Ira Rosenstein were other members of the bridal party.

Mrs. C. J. Menssen Janssen

Miss Murphy Wed in Catholic Rite

Michelle Marie Murphy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lyle F. Murphy of Long Beach, married C. J. Menssen Janssen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Werner Janssen of Miraflores, Lima, Peru, at a Saturday afternoon ceremony at St. Barnabas Catholic Church.

The bride wore a Givenchy robe de style of Gros-de-londre with a bouffant veil of illusion held by a crystal and pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of Phalaenopis orchids, white velvet leaves and pearls.

Susan Howie attended the bride as maid of honor and Susan Murphy as bridesmaid. Robert Sikorsky served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers included Ben Little III, Brian Gurley, Eugene and Peter Porter.

THE NEW Mrs. Janssen graduated from Polytechnic High School and attended the University of Arizona, where she affiliated with Delta Gamma. She was a Junior League debutante in 1961.

Janssen received his bachelor of science degree at the Universidad Nacional de Ingenieria in Lima and his masters degree at the University of Arizona.

Reveal They're Altar Bound

Jarvis-Blackburn

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Jarvis of Whittier announce the betrothal of their daughter, Gerry, to Keith Blackburn, son of Long Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Chester Blackburn.

A December wedding is planned.

The bride-to-be was graduated from UC, Riverside, and now teaches in that city. Her fiance was graduated from Polytechnic High School and UCLA. He is in his graduate year for his MS degree at UCLA.

Mathes-Priddy

Engagement of their daughter, Susan E. Mathes to David L. Priddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Priddy, Long Beach, is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Carleton K. Mathes of Woodbury, Conn.

The bride-elect is a student at Connecticut College for Women, New London, and her fiance attends the U.S. Coast Guard Academy there. He is an alumnus of Jordan High School.

The wedding will be an event of June 6.

Preston-Freeman

Donna Sue Preston is engaged to Gary Evan Freeman according to an announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Preston, Long Beach.

Miss Preston was graduated from Wilson High School and Long Beach City College. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Freeman, was graduated from Polytechnic High School and currently attends LBCC.

No wedding date has been set.

Reed-Johns

Engagement of Wilson High School graduates Kathleen M. Reed and Kenneth Michael Johns is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kerr. The wedding will take place July 10.

The bride-elect furthered her studies at Pierce Junior College and Oregon State University at Corvalis. She is an airline stewardess.

Johns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Johns, Hawthorne, attended LBCC and University of Oregon at Eugene.

Biggers-Renning

A May 22 wedding at Whittier College Memorial Chapel is being planned by Bonnie Kay Biggers and Allen Douglas Renning.

News of the pair's engagement was revealed at a buffet supper in the Whittier home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Carter Biggers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ward Renning, Long Beach.

Miss Biggers attended Whittier Schools and is the granddaughter of Mrs. Leslie Carson Nanney and the late Mr. Nanney, pioneer residents of the Whittier area. Renning was graduated from Wilson High School and attended California State College at Long Beach.

Selditz-Brocksen

During a formal champagne reception for the immediate families, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Selditz revealed engagement of their daughter, Joan Maxine, to Arnold Gustav Brocksen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Brocksen. All are of Long Beach.

Both young persons were graduated from Poly High School, and now attend CSLB where the bride-elect is majoring in English and her fiance is a senior majoring in accounting. He is a member of the Accounting Society and vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

A Dec. 20 wedding date has been selected.

Rudd-Hawkins

An Aug. 15 wedding date has been chosen by Andrea K. Rudd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Rudd, and William J. Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LaCasse. All are Long Beach residents.

The bride-to-be and her fiance both were graduated from Wilson High School. She is a student at CSLB where she is affiliated with Alpha Phi. He attended LBCC.

Schmidt-Wilkinson

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Schmidt entertained at a family dinner to announce engagement of their daughter, Sandra Anne, to R. Michael Wilkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilkinson.

St. Anthony's High School is alma mater for both young people. Miss Schmidt currently attends CSLB where she is a member of Spurs and Califias. Her fiance, a Phi Kappa Theta at Loyola University, Los Angeles, will enter Loyola School of Law in the fall.

The wedding has tentatively been scheduled for June, 1965.

Does Overdue Bill Need a Reminder?

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a problem in capital letters—BILL! You see, Bill won't call me. I don't know if it's goodbye or if he is just too lazy to dial a phone.

We have had seven dates but I still don't know if it was serious. He said he was either going to California or into the service and that he'd call me. But—no calls.

I care for him a lot and other fellows don't appeal to me. Shall I wait faithfully by the phone or call him and ask him, "What's up?"—WAITING BY THE PHONE.

DEAR WAITING:

If Bill wanted to talk to you, he would call! Men are like that, you know. I doubt very much if he was ever at all serious about you—he never said so or acted as if he was. I'm afraid you took too much for granted.

I think if you wait by the phone, you are going to have a long, long wait—and it's such a waste of time! Call him, if you like, but I doubt if it will give you much satisfaction.

Go out with other guys (you don't have to be serious about them) and have some fun instead of sitting home "mooning" about Bill.—M. M.

• • • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I wonder if you would ask your readers a few important questions.

1. Do any of them have widowed in-laws living with them?

2. If so, how do they like this arrangement?

3. What is their secret for getting along?

4. Can two women remain together all day in the same house?

5. How do you correct children without creating a scene in front of the in-law?

6. How do you arrange expenses for an additional member of the family whom you hitherto had not budgeted for?

Please do see if you can find the answers among your readers who are undergoing the same problem we are. My husband's mother has moved in and, frankly, I'm about out of my mind!—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE:

Sometimes circumstances are such that there's really nothing to do but TRY and grin and bear it.

From my observation it is much better if you can arrange to have elderly and widowed in-laws live seperately. It almost never works where there are three generations under one roof—not in this day and age, anyway.

If this simply cannot be done, then sometimes a sort of bed-sitting room can be arranged where at least one can retire for privacy and at least the whole family isn't milling around stepping on toes and frazzling one another's nerves.

Perhaps some of my readers will have some constructive suggestions to offer you. In that case I'll be happy to pass them along.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 21 years old, Catholic, and training to be a nurse. I am in love and live with a man as man and wife. He has no special training and doesn't make much money.

My parents dislike him because of the poor reputation of his family and do not know that we are living together.

What should I do?—URGENT.

DEAR URGENT:

You are 21 years old and your own boss but, from your letter, I'd say you have very poor judgment. If you love the guy, and evidently you do if you are living together, for heaven's sake marry him or move out.

You should be old enough to know your own mind and if your marriage turns out to be a mistake, it won't be any more of a mistake than you are making right now.—M. M.

Versatile Dance Routines Promised at Medal Ball

What are the kids dancing these days? What's really new with the younger set—dancewise?

Are they still "stompin'," or "mashing potatoes?" Has the twist twisted itself out? Aren't there ANY waltzers? What's this slausson we're hearing about?

What are they dancing? EVERYTHING! That is, if thousands of young Long Beach dancers are an example of what's going on in the youth dance world.

Take activities in the local invitational dance clubs, for instance. Here fourth grade children circle hand-in-hand to work a "waltz puzzle" then break into the "hokey-pokey twist." Fifth graders square dance. Sixth grade boys and girls learn the waltz, foxtrot, swing and cha-cha-cha. Junior high school students add the samba, tango, rhumba and polka. Mambo, basso nova and authentic folk dancing round out the program for senior high and college students. But, they're ALL doing the slausson.

• • • •

AN ILLUSTRATION of this versatility in dancing will be seen during the ninth annual Grand Medal Ball being staged by the clubs and presented by Derrall and Chloe Call in Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Here, virtually all ages will be represented in a fast-moving, brilliantly costumed panorama of ballroom dancing, specialty numbers and royal pageantry.

Spiced by the modern jazz and Latin routines choreographed by Steven Peck of Hollywood and the precision teamwork edited by English dance master Peggy Carr, the event promises to reach full-scale production status.

• • • •

HIGH LIGHTING the ball will be the coronation of the newly elected king and queen, Bob Woods and Terri Hofacker. Gary Iseminger and Sue Connelly, prince and princess; Gayle Morton, Linda Pursley, Jim Rowe, Mary Ellen Reeves, Glenn Tate and Susann Chalfa, attendants, will complete the royal court.

"WE'LL DANCE LIKE THAT, when we grow up" seems to be the thought of fourth graders Randy Miller and Elizabeth Riggins as they watch Bob Woods and Terri Hofacker execute a tricky dance step. The teen-age "grownups" will reign as king and queen at the ninth annual Grand Medal Ball being staged Saturday in Municipal Auditorium by local invitational dance clubs.

More than 300 trophies will be presented dancers who have passed examinations before nationally qualified judges to earn the awards.

General dancing to the music of Manny Harmon and his orchestra will begin at 9:30 p.m. and continue until 11:30. Mrs. John Babrowski is ball chairman. The public is invited.

Oswald Jacoby

Optimism Successful

Barbara Wren of Dallas, Tex., has helped with the typing of these articles for several years and I will let her tell the story of today's hand in her own words.

"My partner's two-diamond response to my opening no-trump was the Jacoby transfer bid, and I responded two hearts just as I was supposed to. When he jumped to four hearts, I knew that I should have passed but I did have an absolute maximum 17 high card points with three aces and a five-card suit and I decided to experiment with a slam contract.

"When I saw the dummy, I decided right then and there to give up experimenting, but I still had to struggle along with this effort. I remembered that Mr. Jacoby always says, 'Give the cards a chance and maybe they will come through for you.'

"I took the ace of diamonds and promptly led back the nine spot. West studied a while and covered with the ten. I ruffed in dummy, played three rounds of trumps and took care to win the third lead in my own hand.

• • • •

"THEN I proceeded to do some thinking and worrying. If I could establish two winners in diamonds, I could discard two of dummy's four losing spades. One was going to go on my long club. My problem was whether to lead a low diamond and trust that the queen would have to come up or to play the jack and hope to bump the eight out of the East hand.

"I remembered that West had thought a while before playing the 10 and decided to try the bump. I played my jack. West put on the queen and there was East's eight. Also I had my three spade discards and slam."

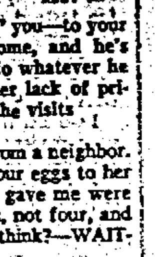
Highlight of the luncheon will be "Vacation Time Fashion Show," with Jan Rinella acting as coordinator and commentator.

It's His Home, After All

DEAR ABBY: My complaint concerns the husband of my next door neighbor. He is an able-bodied, intelligent, recently retired man who seems content to spend his days snoozing on the sofa, reading, or watching TV. His wife is a good friend of mine. When I drop in to have a chat with her, we have a cozy threesome. Nice? Why can't a man understand that his wife needs a little privacy in her own home? Surely there must be something more challenging for a man to do than to sit and wait to be called to his meals three times a day! My husband is approaching retirement age, and if this is retirement—deliver me!—MRS. G.



ABBY

DEAR MRS. G.: The retired gentleman would probably be glad to "deliver" you—to your own home. You are invading HIS home, and he's earned the right to snooze or read or do whatever he pleases in it. If his wife objected to her lack of privacy, she would go to your house for the visits.

DEAR ABBY: I borrowed six eggs from a neighbor. Two of them were rotten. I returned four eggs to her and told her that two of the ones she gave me were no good. She said I borrowed six eggs, not four, and I still owe her two eggs. What do you think?—WAITING FOR ADVICE.

DEAR WAITING: Be a good egg and give her two more.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset I could bawl! My daughter just received a book for her 12th birthday from my sister, who is a 33-year-old school teacher, and should have known better. This book is titled, "What is Happening to Me?" It is a facts-of-life-type book for boys and girls between the ages of 12 to 15. I planned to tell my daughter what I felt she should know when I thought she was ready for it. Now I don't know whether I should let her read this book or not. Don't you think my sister had a nerve sending my daughter a book like that without asking me first? What should I do about it?—UPSET.

DEAR UPSET: Simmer down and read the book. If you think your daughter should read it—let her. I have read the book and regard it highly. I am sure your sister meant well.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST MY FATHER": Do not despair. You still have your Father in heaven.

Mother Hears Alaska News

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

At 5:45 p.m. on Good Friday Mrs. Lee E. Hubbard parked her car outside the College Corner Drug Store in Anchorage while her daughter, Diana, went in to drop off some film.

At that moment the ground began to shake furiously.

"The cars danced, ground rippled, people in hysterics, wires whipping, poles almost broke—the stop sign flipped OVER the other wires . . ." Mrs. Hubbard wrote in a letter to her mother, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, 1074 Obispo Ave.

The letter was written on Tuesday following the disaster. The Hubbards still had no electricity, therefore no heat, but the water had just been turned on.

"Weather is 40 degrees and that's our life saver—oh me, the town is a mess—whole houses, lawns, trees and cars just dropped down in crevasses," Mrs. Hubbard continued.

• • • •

IN A SECOND letter dated March 30 Mrs. Hubbard wrote, "They may dynamite Penney's store and the 14 story L St. apartments today, they are so bad. Penney's main floor dropped clear out of sight. The most awful sights are the chasms with homes down in them."

"It is 8:45 a.m. now," she continued, "and we have had three sharp tremors this a.m." It was reported that by Sunday afternoon 44 follow-up tremors had been recorded since the quake.

The Hubbard residence is about a mile from the main street of Anchorage.

"Every single room a mess and things damaged everywhere—but as usual the kitchen took the beating, we couldn't walk through it. Picked up about five BIG bags full of broken dishes. Sure emptied our shelves—then the usual corn-starch, sugar, pepper, pickle juice and a jar of honey spilled on everything."

• • • •

MRS. HUBBARD went on to describe the terrible loss of life and injuries to friends that had taken place during the quake . . . how one couple ran into the street and were swallowed up by a chasm while their home slided over a bluff.

She reports that clean-up and salvage is being hampered by extreme high tides, higher than ever since the quake.

'FOXY' FROM 'VOLPONE'

Diversity in Exhibits at LBMA

By ELISE EMERY

Arts Page Editor

Three exhibits open today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., and will remain on display through April 26.

"Contemporary Painting," collected over the years by Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Los Angeles, is a survey of contemporary work, with emphasis on Los Angeles artists.

Designed to appeal to diverse tastes, the collection is not restricted to name artists. Among the works are Dong Kingman's "Williamsburg Bridge," Sam Amato's "Beverly Glen Park," Michio Takeyamo's "The Vine," Michael Frary's "Hurricane Warning," and Oskar Fischinger's "Outward Movement."

Friends of the Museum will host a public reception this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock.

THIRTEEN framed pictures have been added to the Long Beach Public Library's loan collection of color reproductions and original prints, swelling the total to more than 160. They circulate for one month and may be renewed for a second month. There is a small rental fee based on the size of the picture.

This cultural service is used by artists, students and persons who have a temporary need for color and art in the home. Others seeing dozens of pictures in a shop, are sometimes bewildered and find it hard to visualize any of them in the home setting. Trying first one and then another from the loan collection helps these people to make a satisfying selection when they do purchase a picture.

Pictures just received are: "Carnival Night" by Rousseau and "Road at Louveciennes" by Pissaro, both landscapes; "Water Lilies" (detail), by Monet; "Christ and the Fishermen" by Rouault; "Concert" by Raoul Dufy and "Still Life With Casserole" by Picasso, all abstractions.

Seascapes include "Fishing Harbor," Derain; "Ship in the Harbor of Le Havre," Braque; and "Breezing Up," Homer. Figure and portrait paintings are "Fatata Te Miti" (Bathers), Gauguin; "Pinkie," Lawrence; and "Singing Boys," Hals.

The library, a long time member of the Printmakers Society of California, has framed this year's gift print which goes with the membership. It is Thompson's original etching, "October in the Midwest."

GRACE DIMMICK has selected the following award winners in Long Beach Art Association's "Spring Exhibit," now on view at the gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.; best of show, "Spring Comes to Town," Julie Polousky, oil; second, "Broken Kite," Edna Padrick, collage; and third, "Rite of Spring," Joy Nye Elliot, collage. Bernice Ryan, Meleita Artin and Evelyn Cascelli won honorable mentions.

During Public Schools Week, April 20 through 24, LBAA will exhibit work of art students graduating from Long Beach high schools. Two students will be awarded art scholarships to Long Beach City College and California State College at Long Beach.

Students' Concert Scheduled

A massed piano concert, in which more than 200 students will be presented, will take place next Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Long Beach City College Auditorium, Harvey Way and Clark Ave. It is open to the public.

Sponsored by the Lakewood Music Teachers Association, the young artists will be under the direction of Wayne G. Gard, head of the LBCC music department. Twenty to 25 pianos will be playing at one time.

Several of the music teachers will also play the "Kinder Concerto" by Haydn and "Jamaican Rhumba" by Benjamin.

• • • •

THIS IS the second concert given by this group, and it is hoped to continue concerts every two years.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or from any Lakewood MTA member.

Opera Discussed by Music Council

The possibility of bringing grand opera to Long Beach was discussed at a recent meeting of Long Beach Music Council.

Rachel Morton, Independent, Press-Telegram music critic, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate already functioning opera companies in Southern California.

• • • •

IN EARLIER discussion, the music council noted the growing interest in opera in Long Beach and considered these forms in which it might be provided:

A professional company, such as the San Francisco Opera, could be invited to perform here.

An individual could come in and try to develop support for a company made up of musicians from surrounding areas.

Established groups concerned with music theater, such as Civic Light Opera, Long Beach Opera Workshop, Long Beach City College and California State College at Long Beach, could develop broader programs.

A separate Long Beach Opera Company could be established, using local resources, including the Long Beach Symphony.

• • • •

LONG BEACH Symphony has produced two operas for children, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and "The Gift of Song." These were enthusiastically received but have proved too expensive for the symphony to provide as part of their free Youth Concert series.

Fred Black, chairman of Long Beach Arts Council, said that resources other than those already contributing to music and art in Long Beach must be found for the support of opera.

• • • •

THE COUNCIL agreed that American composers and singers should be encouraged through a Long Beach Opera Company, with special consideration being given to local composers of merit.

Ronald Patterson

Soloist to Receive Award at Concert

Ronald Patterson, 19, will receive the Furjanick Memorial Award this evening when he appears as violin soloist with Long Beach Symphony Orchestra. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Long Beach City College Auditorium under the direction of Lauris Jones.

Patterson won the award in the recent annual Symphony Competition for Young Artists. He began his musical training at the age of 5 and has studied with Peter Meremblum, Manuel Compinsky and Eudice Shipiro. For several summers he attended Arrowbear Music Camp, directed by Fred Ohlendorf of Long Beach Unified School District.

Scholarships to the Music Academy of the West, the Aspen, Colo., Music School and the University of Southern California have given him opportunities for fine musical training.

• • • •

TONIGHT he will perform Tchaikovsky's "Violin Concerto in D Flat."

Other works on the program will be Haydn's "Symphony No. 104," Barber's "Adagio for Strings," and Brahm's "Academic Festival Overture."

Long Beach Symphonettes will honor Patterson at a reception immediately following the concert. The public is invited.

Concert tickets will be available at the box office after 7 p.m.

WANT TO PARTICIPATE?

Fine Arts Affiliates Is Forming

By BETTY WENTWORTH

"Our state college? I've always intended to run out and look it over. Frankly, where is it exactly?"

"I suppose when the children are older we'll be checking the facilities out at State—I understand it's grown quite a bit in the past few years."

"I've been seriously thinking of going back to school to get my degree. I majored in art, you know. Do you know anything about the teachers at State?"

These are actual questions posed by Long Beachers. Many of the people with whom California State College at Long Beach was discussed were startled to learn that the college is 15 years old, having opened in 1949. And they have honestly meant to go out and "look around." (In regard to the query the college is located at 6101 E. Seventh St., east of Bellflower Blvd.)

Comment Number Two is a masterpiece of understatement, since the "growing quite a bit" adds up to 15,000 students at the last roll call. Comment Three seems to be from a citizen just on the verge of making a profound decision. She'll probably actually go out to the campus.

• • • •

THUS, BECAUSE our State College at Long Beach has truly become an institution of a size and scope to merit the local citizenry's keen pride and warm interest, a small group of women formed an embryo organization last spring with a two-fold purpose in mind.

First, they felt the public should be made aware of its college. An interested community would and should lend support to the college and its campus cultural program which produces a constant flow of excellent art exhibits, dramatic and musical productions, as well as a variety of instrumental and vocal groups ranging from solo recitals to symphonic and band performances.

Secondly, they felt that the art, drama and music departments should have tangible evidence of support, in the form of audiences and as sponsors of events. When the public is drawn to a campus, a meshing of interests valuable to both, is certain to occur.

• • • •

THE GROUP of women, augmented by heads of the Fine Arts Division at State, is now incorporated under the non-profit laws of the state and is operating under a temporary board. Mrs. Clifford Millspaugh is serving as chairman, pro tem.

Invitations have been sent for a garden party for prospective charter members this afternoon from 3 to 6 in the home and gardens of Mrs. Franklin Waters, 1485 La Perla Ave. Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, college president, Mrs. McIntosh, and faculty members of the Fine Arts Division will be on hand to meet the guests.

The college symphonic band will provide background and incidental music during the gathering. Works of art by students will be displayed, and actors and actresses from forthcoming CSCLB productions will appear in costume.

It is hoped that the organization will be an effective aid to both the public and college. The public is warmly invited and encouraged to join the Fine Arts Affiliates. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Millspaugh, 4040 Pine Ave.

Concerts Scheduled by Choir

Two concerts by the A Cappella Choir of California State College at Long Beach will be presented on April 8 at 8:30 p.m. at Lakewood Presbyterian Church, 3955 Studebaker Road, and on April 12 at 6 p.m. at First Baptist Church, Firestone at California Ave., South Gate. There is no admission charge and the public is welcome.

On the program is a selection "Cry Out and Shout" by Frank Pooler, director of the choir. Other works will be "Missa Brevis," Gabrieli; three motets of Distler; "Valse," Ernest Toch; "Thy Years Will Never End," Bruckner; "An Ascription of Praise," Sateren; and eight waltzes, four by Brahms and four by Pfautsch.

The choir is sponsored by the department of music of the college division of fine arts.

Red Balloon Ends Series

Alamitos Branch Library, 1836 E. Third St., will conclude its series of Family Night programs Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. with "The Red Balloon," a color film that has a vast array of awards to its credit. Children and adults, too, love the fantasy of a French boy's unusual pet, a balloon as faithful and alive to him as a puppy. Action takes place on the streets of Menilmontant and Montmartre in Paris.

The second film is "Olympic Elk," story of the Olympic elks' annual trek to and from their summer grazing grounds.

Admission to the film showing is free.

How Opera Is Put Together

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Judging from the keen and lively letters I have received since writing an article on opera in Long Beach, I would say that there is real enthusiasm among our music lovers over the idea. Of course, "wanting" something and "accomplishing" something are two different things. But when a desire is strong enough, it usually becomes a reality; "Where there is a will, there is a way."

Because of a very fine performance of "La Boheme" which I recently heard given by the Pasadena Opera Company in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, I invited the founder and musical director, Allen Jensen, to come and talk to me about how opera is put together.

Born in Provo, Utah, Jensen at the age of 16 was the student conductor of the Provo High School orchestra, winning an AAA rating in a conducting contest. He was a scholarship student at Brigham Young University and later a scholarship student at the Eastman School of Music where he studied flute, violin and brass instruments and graduated with a bachelor of music degree.

Major and Minor Notes

HE BECAME flutist with the Rochester, N. Y., Philharmonic Orchestra and later with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. His orchestral experience began with the Provo Symphony which he founded and conducted with paid musicians and top soloists for five years. So well did he build this orchestra that it was invited by Toscanini to perform on the nationwide NBC "Orchestras of the Nation" series.

The famous Japanese Fujiwara Opera Company made three tours of the United States and Canada under Jensen's direction and he conducted a performance of this opera company over one of the Ed Sullivan shows.

• • • •

OPERA IS now his chief interest and he has conducted most successful performances of "Rigoletto," "Madame Butterfly," "Carmen" and "La Boheme," all sponsored by the Guild of Musical Arts of Pasadena. Equally successful have been his opera series in Santa Barbara to sold-out houses and he has been invited to add "La Traviata" and "Carmen" there next season.

Saturday, Allen Jensen will conduct a performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium with the famous Metropolitan baritone Igor Gorin singing the title role. "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini will be given May 5, 7 and 9 under Jensen's direction at Melodyland Theater featuring Licia Albanese, Brian Sullivan, Mildred Miller and Walter Cassell, all Metropolitan stars.

• • • •

"HOW DO WE go about getting grand opera in Long Beach?" I asked.

"Very easy," replied the affable Jensen. "Reserve a good auditorium, get an active committee working to raise funds. The approximate cost for one production of grand opera is $12,000. Get 12 people to donate $1,000, or 24 people to donate $500. Set the price of tickets at $8.00 top, and $2.50 lowest."

He continued: "There must be money to clear at the start—to cover publicity (which amounted to $2,000 in Pasadena), hall rental in advance, and operating expenses. Plan for a membership campaign in which sums from $10 to $1,000 entitle the donor to have his name in the program and membership privileges."

• • • •

I WAS interested to learn that the ticket sale in Pasadena paid 80 per cent of the cost of production and that the only expense not covered was $2,000 for advertising.

Allen Jensen not only knows his conducting metier; he knows how to select the best opera singers available within his price range, and how to assemble an orchestra. An affable, knowledgeable man in the prime of life, Allen Jensen will do much for the cause of grand opera in Southern California.

Leading Printmakers in Exhibit at CSLB

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

California State College at Long Beach, 6101 E. Seventh Street, is holding its first National Invitational Print Exhibition in the Art Gallery. Due to the significance of this exhibit, which continues through May 3, the gallery will be open Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays in addition to weekday hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Thirty-three of the nation's leading printmakers were invited to enter by Dick Swift, head of printmaking at the college; he has collaborated with gallery director, William Hill, in this exhibit. The 61 prints which are for sale in the show thus come with high recommendation.

• • • •

PRINTMAKING took a new lease on life in this country after World War II. Many of the works in this show are done with a high degree of finesse in traditional methods, but most result from marked departures and limitless experimentation. The only generalization to be made about the show as a whole is this: There is much color — from almost neutral harmonies to slap-bang primaries.

Will Barnett of New York's two entries have an oriental flavor in the flat color of their calligraphic forms. Two works, "Some Figures—" by John Coleman of Los Angeles use three-dimensional space to realize a fullness of form.

• • • •

ONE OF THE most startling works is a triptych, "The Search", by David Driesbach of Athens, Ohio. The three panels in color intaglio are involved, expressionistic, and reflect a strong influence of post-World War I "Neue Sachlichkeit," or "new realism."

The most arresting works are, undoubtedly, the two by Ben Sakoguchi, "Leslie Is Not a Boy," and "The New Bride Dreaming of Her Wedding." Each creates and explores an entire universe of the subconscious.

• • • •

Chef of the Week

James W. Foasberg

He abhors paper napkins! But why shouldn't he—he's in the laundry business.

In fact, James W. Foasberg's family (he's today's Chef of the Week), has been in that business since 1880. It is said to be the oldest laundry plant in the Western United States. Our "Chef" is the third generation.

Born in Huron, S. D., his family moved to Minneapolis, Minn., when he was eight years old. There he remained to complete his education before joining his Dad in business.

• • • •

IT WAS THERE, also, that he met, and courted his bride, Eleanor. They have two sons, Jim, 21, married and a senior at California State College, Long Beach, and Rick, 17, a senior at St. Anthony's High School. Upon graduation, Jim will be the fourth generation of Foasberg "laundrymen."

He'll find things changed, too, even since his Dad set-up his first washing machine in Long Beach in 1937. Just as the collar has now joined the shirt, the hand laundry machine has been replaced by one of automation. The Foasbergs have four locations in Long Beach and Lakewood, which includes dry cleaning facilities and one self-service laundromat.

• • • •

A MEMBER of the California Laundry and Linen Supply, he served as its president two years ago. He is currently president of the American Institute of Laundrys and a member of its executive committee.

Foasberg also belongs to the Uptown Kiwanis Club, and holds the title of vice prexy.

For relaxation, the Foasbergs, as a family, take-to-the-water. Either their own pool or aboard their 32-foot Chris Craft.

Oh, yes, he enjoys cooking, too, but usually confines himself to the rotisserie. Today he's "doing" a turkey.

TURKEY ON THE ROTISSERIE

One 12 lb. turkey—NOT to be stuffed.

Rub cavity with 1 tablespoon salt, and place a few sprigs of celery tips and parsley tops loosely inside.

Place on spit—truss cavity, making sure the wings and drum sticks are tied securely.

Do not salt outside, as it makes turkey too crisp and may crack; but paint outside generously with the following baste:

6 tblsp. soy sauce
1 tsp. salt
½ cube butter
Pinch of sage, marjoram or basil.

Pour ½ cup white wine key with drippings and wine in gravy pan, and baste turas required to keep skin moist. Add a little water to drippings to keep bottom of pan just covered.

Mrs. Kelly New Prexy of Alpha Omicron Pi

Mrs. Dorothy Clark Kelly will be installed as president of Long Beach alumnae chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi at a meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John Long, 6010 E. Walton St.

Mrs. Malcolm Epley, immediate past president, also will install Mmes. James B. Henderson, M. H. Woodbury, John W. Long, Leon Pugh with Mrs. Jack Bryan as Panhellenic representative.

During the business session plans will be made for attending the sorority's District 19 biennial convention at the Islandia Hotel in San Diego next Saturday. The conclave is open to all members of the sorority and their families.

• • •

WHILE sorority round tables and workshops are in session there are plans for husbands and children including a golf tournament, a visit to Sea Island and other Mission Bay points of interest. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Epley, 6317 Mariquita Ave.

Gamma Phis Plan Luncheon

Mrs. Arch Dawson, province alumnae director of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, will speak at the group's Long Beach alumnae luncheon on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Bennett, 3834 Myrtle Ave.

Annual Fete to Feature Violet Motif

Board members of Long Beach City Panhellenic will be honored at an annual "Violet Luncheon" given by Alpha Delta Pi alumnae in the Long Beach area on Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Louis Edes, 5411 El Jardin.

Mrs. James Payne is assisting in plans to entertain the representatives from 19 sorority alumnae associations with luncheon and bridge. Receiving with Mrs. Edes will be Mrs. Michael Sentovich, alumnae president, and Mrs. Robert N. Clingan, Panhellenic president.

Nurses to Meet

California Licensed Vocational Nurses Association, Division Nine, will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Garden Room, Third St. and Alamitos Ave.

For the first time a team of young adults will compete against experienced adult drivers in this gruelling coast-to-coast test of skill and concentration. Can they hope to win? Why did Chevrolet decide to let them try? You may find the answers interesting and very refreshing!

This year, for the first time in the history of the Mobil Economy Run, teen-agers are being given the chance to compete as a team against experienced adult drivers.

The nine Chevrolet entries will be piloted and navigated from Los Angeles to New York, April 3 to 9, by teams of young persons from all parts of the country.

Chevrolet is giving them this opportunity for one reason: to demonstrate dramatically to other young people that it takes much more skill to drive a car economically than it does to drive it fast. Anyone can stomp and steer, but it takes skill, intelligence and patience to be a good economy driver in national competition.

We believe this may be a good way of arousing the interest of teen-agers everywhere in safer and saner driving habits.

Who are these youngsters who will drive for Chevrolet?

Well, one thing they have in common is that all are members of Junior Achievement. They were selected from hundreds of applicants for this challenging test.

For about the past month a technical training staff has endeavored to teach the Chevy Teen Team something about automobiles, engines, fuel principles and how to drive for maximum economy.

Whether they can make a good showing competing against experts remains to be seen. If effort and enthusiasm can overcome inexperience, they will, we are sure.

More important, we think, are some of the reasons they gave for wanting to compete. Here are their own words:

"It's a fabulous opportunity to learn more about automobiles, safe driving, our country and its people."

"I think I'm a typical teen-ager. I'd like to demonstrate my alertness and capability as a driver."

"To meet new people because I like people."

"It's quite a challenge to prove that we teen-agers can drive safely and sensibly."

"To help raise the image of teen-age drivers. Maybe my experience will influence other teen-agers to drive more safely."

"I am confident that I can fulfill the job entrusted to me by Chevrolet and gain more respect for teen-agers through good example."

Good luck, kids. See you in New York, April 9. Drive carefully.

OUR COVER

Albie Pearson feels a debt of thanks to the Los Angeles Angels baseball club and to Bill Rigney, the manager, for having brought him far along the road of professional and financial success. As he looks forward to a big year with the Angels, he hopes for the kind of individual success that will be some repayment for the club's investment in him. He wielded a big bat for the Angels last season but would be willing to drop many points in his personal average to see the team wind up high in the first division. Pearson thinks there will be a lot more respect for Los Angeles in the American League after the tumult of the 1964 season clears away. For more about Mr. Big of the Angels, turn to Page 8.

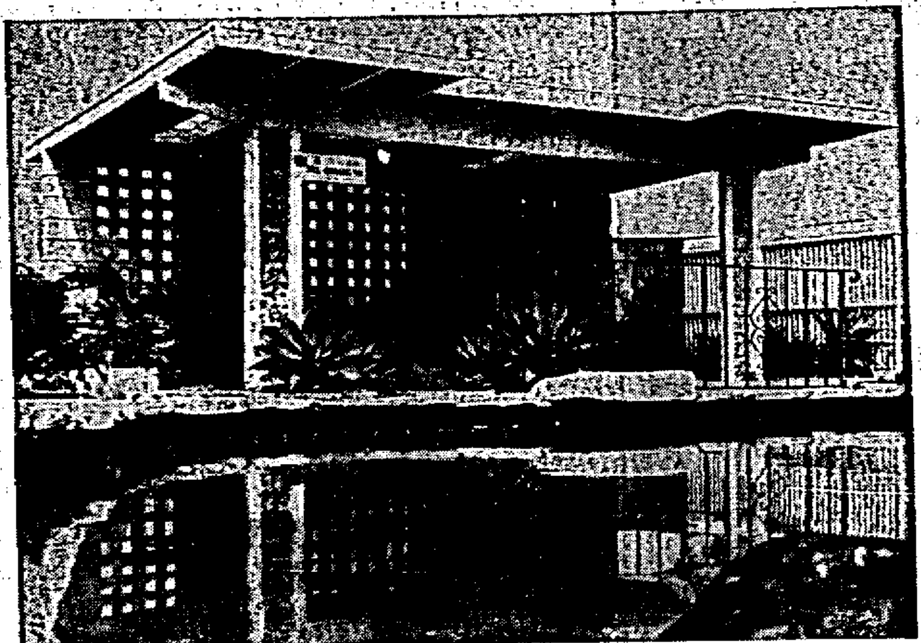
MASTER POOLS



GOOD NEWS FOR POOL BUYERS

Starting our 18th year, this addition of pools is just one more step in the creation of a one-stop shopping center for homeowners. Now for the first time you can have your pool, patio, fencing, decking, etc. all supervised by one contractor who is an expert in the field. Ask anyone who has experienced the task of pool buying, and you'll find out what a wonderful convenience it is to deal with only one contractor. No more calling sub-contractors to finish the jobs you thought were complete.

No more calling a pool man, then a patio company, a decking company or a fence man. Just one call to one reliable concern does it all.

MONTH-LONG OPEN HOUSE STARTS TODAY!

To celebrate our 18th Anniversary and our entry into the pool business, we will hold open house throughout the entire month of April. We will be open 7 days a week until 9 P.M. Why not take this opportunity to visit the largest outdoor living display in the Southland. More than an acre of land is devoted to showing the latest in pools, patios, patio covers, fences, block walls, fireplaces, barbecues and other improvements to give your home that distinguished "Southern California look" so envied in other parts of the country.

We have a staff of consultants on hand to answer your questions on outdoor living or remodeling. They'll show you how a new world of pleasure awaits the homeowner whose home improvements are planned by the professional craftsmen of Sunset Designers and Builders.

VISIT OUR DISPLAY SOON AND REGISTER
IT MAY BE WORTH AS MUCH AS $50 TO YOU
Ask for details when visiting

WHY A MASTER POOL?

Building a pool is a big investment. Naturally, you want to protect that investment by choosing wisely . . . your pool and your builder. When you choose Sunset to build your pool, you are selecting a builder who has a reputation for quality construction at fair prices, a builder who will be here tomorrow to service your needs, a builder who has met the extremely high qualifications necessary to become a builder of Master Pools.

When you choose Master Pools you select a quality pool built to rigid standards of excellence. A pool that reflects your good judgment in the years ahead. Price? Naturally that depends to a great extent on the type of pool you want. Our budget pool starts at $1695 in most areas.

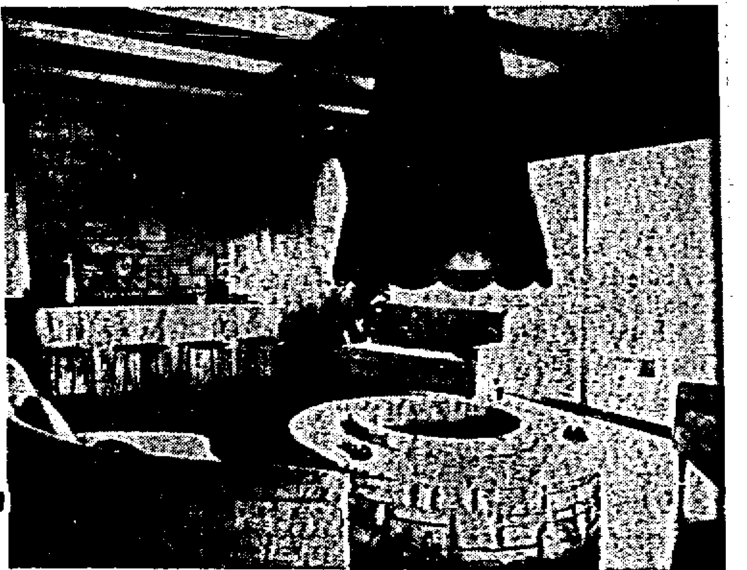
FOR 18 YEARS SUNSET HAS BEEN SATISFYING SOUTHLAND HOMEOWNERS

Expansion of Sunset Designers and Builders into the pool business is a natural one. For 18 years we have enriched and beautified homes by adding rooms, building patios, installing fencing or block walls, landscaping and interior modernizing.

Now, with the addition of pool construction, we can offer the homeowner the convenience of having one builder perform all the functions needed.

NEW FINANCING AVAILABLE

Sunset has arranged new financing through a 7-year bank loan to cover up to $10,000 in home improvements at the low rate of 5% to qualified clients. Under a single contract, the homeowner can build a pool, patio, decking or what have you, now that Sunset can offer a complete outdoor living package.



This is a family room that suited the needs of a particular family. It was built by Sunset to their satisfaction. Perhaps your needs may be different, but one thing remains the same . . . Sunset can do the job the way you want it [illegible]

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the genealogy on TIDYMAN.—B. T., Long Beach.

B. T.: TIDYMAN originated with the 13th century English words "Tidi-mann" meaning "prompt and ready follower," referring to the aid to a knight-at-arms. The Tidyman shield, granted to the Tiddeman branch of this family, has a background divided into six equal sections emerging from the center, tinted alternating silver and red. On each section is a ring, colored red on the silver sections, silver on the red sections.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze QUATRONE.—J. J., Garden Grove.

J.J.: QUATRONE is from the Italian word "quattro" meaning "four." Quattro-one, the actual source syllables, are for "large fourth child of fourth son."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please help with genealogy on CASPER.—A. C., Long Beach.

A. C.: CASPER is a variation spelling of the German and Dutch surname Kaspar. This was the title of one of the Three Wise Men or Kings of the Magi who traveled from Persia to present gifts to the Infant Jesus. These three Wise Men, Kaspar, Melchior and Baltasar died in the Holy Land and legends say that their bodies were taken to Europe and buried in the cathedral of Cologne, Germany. Kaspar's name indicated his traditional Biblical role, for it meant "treasure-master."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on GRACE.—R. G., Huntington Beach.

R. G.: GRACE, both English and Irish, is from the old French term "Le Gras" meaning "stout one." The English Grace ancestor was Raymond FitzWalter Le Gras, a 12th century nobleman of Norman-French ancestry. He accompanied English armies in the subjugation of Ireland and was later awarded a large estate, Courtstown, in Wexford, Ireland. This family also owned Grace Castle in Kilkenny, Ireland. Their shield is red, emblazoned with a rampant lion on a gold and silver stripe across the center.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on DE CORDOVA?—N. D., Lakewood.

N. D.: DE CORDOVA, a celebrated Spanish name, was first used by a man from the ancient city of Cordoba. This place was termed "Corduba" by the Romans, an obscure word believed to mean "place of the cattle hides." Cordoba was the 7th and 8th century capital of the Moorish caliphate which ruled most of Spain. The Cordoba shield has three vertical red stripes emblazoned on a gold background. Francisco de Cordoba, Spanish explorer who died in

Clam digging—and eating, too—can be a fun event to be enjoyed by the entire family, the kids especially getting a kick out of the excursion. Equipment is simple, apparel rough and ready. Observe seasons, limits and get a license.

By Bob and Jan Young

WHEN DRIVING along California's lovely coasts, if you see men, women, sometimes whole families wildly stamping on the sands at low tide, don't consider them entirely bereft of their senses.

You might say they are doing the surfers' stomp, or perhaps the Triton twist. But no matter the name, they are all clamming. For digging that Gaper or Pismo clam is a family affair. And a good deal of fun.

While the season in the Long Beach area is open year around for Gaper clams and from Sept. 1 to April 30 for Pismo clams (½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour after sunset), you must have a valid fishing license. The best time to search is when the so-called minus tides occur (those that recede farther than the usual low tides). Tidal tables appear in every daily newspaper and tidal charts for the entire year are available in sporting goods stores, where licenses and information may also be obtained.

MOST OF THE smooth, sandy beaches along the Southern California coastline have Gaper clams hidden beneath a few inches of sand, but Alamitos, Newport and Cabrillo Beaches are especially productive. Long considered an exclusive delicacy of the northern coastline, the Pismo clam has been successfully seeded on our southern shores and yearly becomes more numerous. But observe that 4½-inch minimum size when taking Pismos. (From the San Luis Obispo-Monterey Counties' line north, the limit is 5 inches.) There is no size limit on Gapers but for both varieties there is a bag limit of 10 to a fisherman in local waters.

About all the equipment needed is a spading fork or shovel, a gunny sack and some old clothes that you are willing to have soaked. Then for the fun.

CLAMMERS in the area can point out the best spots but lacking that vital information, walk along the beach at the surf's edge stamping the sand, or hitting it with your shovel or fork. If all goes well the clam will react by squirting a small stream of water up through the sand like a whale's spout to pin-point his location. Then you begin digging like Triton himself was after you. The clam changes positions and the incoming surf quickly slaps a foamy hand over the geyser hole.

Sometimes while you're not watching, the ocean belches up a belly-washing wave that will drench or even roll you a bit in the sand and surf.

With these bivalves available locally, clamming is a family affair and a sport which everyone will enjoy, especially when the rewards of your fun are served up as a meal at the end of a healthful day out of doors.

When you have all dug your limits and have donned your spare dry clothes, next comes the preparation.

SPEAKING OF Pismos as an example, use a short, stiff-bladed knife to pry open the shell, inserting the knife about one inch from the hinge. Trim away excess, then split clam down the middle and thoroughly clean, after removing any mushy flesh. The clams can then be batter-fried, made into chowder or even baked. Unless you are an expert don't steam them. After 10 minutes of such cooking, the once luscious clam may be a candidate for a shoe's half sole and that will be about all.

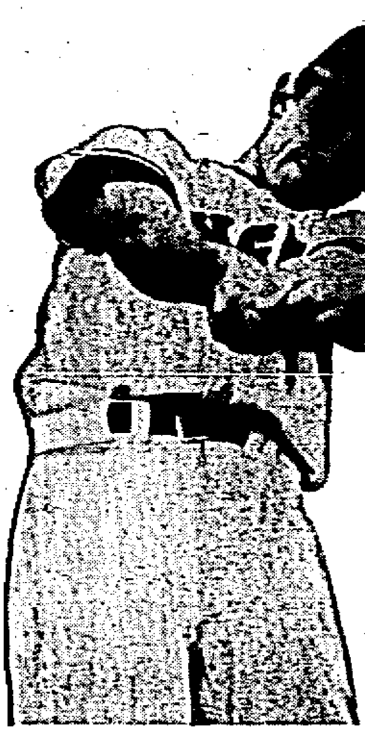
The delights of wading through the refreshing surf while clamming are unforgettable and the eating can be equally memorable.

While the sport may not be the most dignified in the world, it is exciting and fun for the entire family.

At 28, Albie Pearson has reached maturity as a man and player

Mr. Big of the Angels

By Ross Newhan



Albie Pearson ended last season with a .304 batting average. The 5-foot, five-inch, 140-pounder Mr. Big of the Angels foresees a better year ahead.

PALM SPRINGS—It was December 1960 and Albie Pearson was discouraged as he drove home from a round of golf. He had not played well that day, for he found it difficult to divorce his thoughts from his future in baseball.

The American League Rookie of the Year only two seasons before, Albie had been on a downhill toboggan. As he drove, his mind geared itself to baseball.

The picture he conjured was in dull black and white. It found him a member of the Miami Marlins with a future that stretched barely beyond the Fountainbleu. His confidence was ruptured and while Paul Richards (then general manager of the Baltimore Orioles) had promised to recall Pearson soon after spring training began, Albie realized that words are the cheapest commodity in baseball.

As Pearson turned into the driveway of his Riverside home he was greeted by wife, Helen. Her beautiful eyes were streaked with tears but there was a smile on her lips.

"Honey, honey, you've been traded," she laughed. "Let's celebrate."

"I HADN'T actually been traded," recalls Pearson with a grin. "I had been drafted by the newly formed Los Angeles Angels, and boy, did we celebrate. First, Helen unpacked the station wagon which she had used to follow me around the country for eight years and then we drank enough ginger ale to float a battleship."

Thus began Albie Pearson's career with the Los Angeles Angels—to whom he had sent the following telegram a few days before the draft session.

> Dear Mr. Haney:
>
> My name is Albie Pearson. I am with the Baltimore organization. I am not highly thought of by this organization. I can be had for peanuts. I think I can be of help to your club both on and off the field.
> —ALBIE PEARSON.

On April 13, Albie Pearson will lead the Angels on the field at Washington, D. C., not only as the American League's All-Star centerfielder, but as a prophet as well. Embarking on their fourth year, the Angels' remarkable progress both on and off the field would indeed have been slower had it not been for Pearson.

"I owe a great deal to expansion," admitted the 5-5, 140-pound Mr. Big of the Angels. "I cannot say that I would not have been a success with another club, but it would have been strictly as a player. What the Angels have meant to me as a man, and financially, cannot be measured."

FOR A MAN whose first contract called for a bonus of a pair of shoes, Pearson now has his hands in more pies than little Jack Horner.

He lives in a $75,000 house bordering a fairway of the Jurupa Hills Country Club in Riverside. He is a director of the Albie Pearson Co., Builders, Developers. As such he has supervised the construction of two homes and has two apartment houses on the fire. He owns one-third of the Mighty Mite Corp., which unsuccessfully attempted to sell a new-type golf glove and is now manufacturing hardware and scuba equipment. He collects rent on a Riverside office building which currently leases to seven tenants with room for three more. He is being paid $33,000 by the Angels.

"Baseball, and I mean the Angels, has made it possible for me to do things which would not be possible for a man in another business," said Pearson while relaxing between practice sessions in Palm Springs. "That's why I'll never kill the goose that laid the golden egg. Baseball is my life and when the financial side of Albie Pearson starts to interfere with the baseball side, then the businesses go.

"Unfortunately, the world judges success by financial standards. It's a shame. Some of my best friends are very poor. I think integrity would be a better criteria.

"My father convinced me early that the more successful you become the more humility you must carry in your pocket. If I achieve success it will be with holes in my shoes."

Photos by Roger Carr

Going through spring training in Palm Springs, Pearson is optimistic in view of Angels' '64 season. "I feel we're a first-division club," he says.

THE SUCCESS which Pearson has already achieved has been rapid.

"When I speak of a player," said Angels manager Bill Rigney, "I speak of a Willie Mays or a Tommy Davis or a Jim Gilliam. In his three years with the Angels, Albie Pearson has become a player."

"Without Mr. Haney and Mr. Rigney I might still have been in baseball, but I certainly wouldn't be on the verge of becoming a high-salaried player confident of the job he can do," said Pearson.

"As a psychologist Rigney is a genius. I was coming apart as a player when I joined the Angels. Rig would pat me on the back, show me how it was to be done and tell me I had the ability to do it.

"He never embarrasses me, and he has the uncanny knack of keeping me going when I'm tired. He deserves success the way he works so hard. To put it in parenthesis, he's just smart. Period."

Albert Gregory Pearson chased the American League batting championship into September last year only to have the long, hot summer finally take its effect on his demitasse of a frame. His final average of .304 was fourth best in the American League. It was his first .300 season in the big leagues.

"I always felt I could hit .300 up here," said Pearson. "Now I'd like to do it again just to prove to some critics it wasn't a fluke. I feel I have room for a 30-point improvement."

PEARSON'S maturity as a player parallels his maturity as a man.

"Five years ago I was only interested in Albie Pearson. But players learn quickly that while baseball is a game of individuals it cannot be won as individuals. Last season I hit .304 and we finished ninth. I'd gladly bat .261 like I did in 1962 if we could finish third again.'

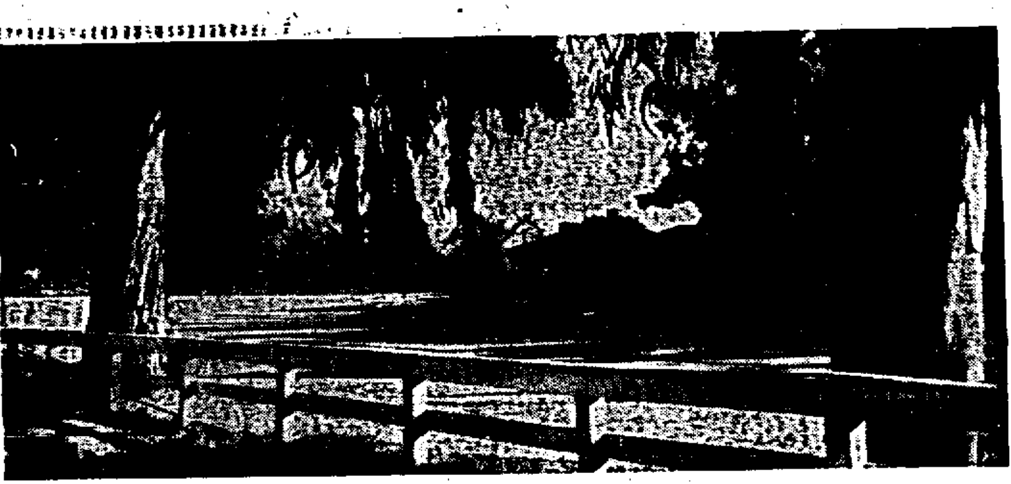
"I honestly feel we're a first-division club. This is the first year we've had some youth and depth going for us. Potentially, we have the strongest pitching staff in the league. And this year we have some speed for Dodger Stadium. We've been like quarter horses running the mile in that park."

Now 28, Pearson is on the verge of a ballplayer's most fertile years. When it's all over, he will turn to golf, either as a pro or course owner.

The sand-trapped future which Albie Pearson envisioned in 1960 has certainly become a lush green fairway.

Now a State Park

Will Rogers Lived Here



Will Rogers' home, now a state park, is maintained as a memorial to the famous humorist who died in a plane crash in Alaska in 1935. Many things in Rogers' active career have endeared him to the American public.

By Bob Schmidt

"I never met a man I didn't like."

WILL ROGERS said that. He said and wrote a great many other things, too, back in the twenties and thirties, and almost all of the things he said and wrote were considered wonderful examples of wit and wisdom by the millions of peope who held him in affection.

Times change, though, and the people who remember the hold the Cowboy Philosopher had on the American public are fewer each year.

Paul W. Minton, assistant supervisor of Will Rogers State Park in Santa Monica, almost daily runs into a problem which makes him shake his head.

"Folks come here to see where Will Rogers lived," he says, "and frequently they bring their grandchildren.

"The kids think we're talking about Roy Rogers, and they want to know can they see Trigger."

The 186-acre park, operated by the state since 1944, is one of the lovelier, quieter attractions in the Los Angeles area. It is the location of Will Rogers' home, the one where he, his wife, and their three children were living when Rogers was killed in an Alaskan plane crash in 1935.

"I don't make jokes, I just watch the government and report the facts."

Rogers had many stellar movie credits, among them and one of his most popular was "David Harum," in which characterization he is recalled by photo above.

The house itself is the main attraction, but people also like to visit the nine-acre polo field, the stables, and the spots where Will's two famous horses, Bootlegger and Soapsuds, are buried.

"Nothing has been changed since Mrs. Rogers deeded the home to the State of California in 1944," Minton says, "except that the trees are bigger."

The grounds and the ranch buildings are maintained as they were when the Rogers family lived there. The living room, revealing Will's personality, speaks eloquently of the man who relaxed in it.

The furniture is simple, the floors are covered with Indian rugs, the knickknacks are the kind of things you'd expect a cowboy to have.

Will Rogers was a cowboy. He was proud of that, proud of his ability to ride and to rope. And he was proud of the fact that he had a good deal of Cherokee blood in his veins.

"My folks weren't among those that came over on the Mayflower, but they met the boat when it landed."

About 120,000 people visited Will Rogers State Park in 1963. Actually, many more than that came to the grounds but that number paid 25 cents each to go inside the Rogers house. They got to see the downstairs portion of the splendid, 18-room mansion, the patio where Will did his barbecuing, the children's bedrooms, and the den where Will did his writing.

Picnic baskets are not permitted, but there are huge expanses of grass on which youngsters can romp and on which oldsters can sit down, breathe in the relatively smog-free air, look at the ocean, and relax.

"The United States has never lost a war. Or won a conference."

The state's Division of Beaches and Parks budgeted $85,000 for the park's upkeep in 1963. There are 11 permanent employes under the direction of park supervisor Wendell K. Davis.

There are no rides, no hot dog stands, no vendors hawking balloons, just peace, or tranquility, or serenity, or whatever word you apply to a home where a family lived happily together.

The park is an easy, 45-minute drive from Long Beach. Just take the San Diego Freeway to Santa Monica. Turn off at Sunset Boulevard and head for the ocean. After about 10 or 15 minutes you'll come to a large sign indicating a right turn into the park.

If you visit on Sunday, chances are you'll see the polo field in use. A polo club meets and plays there almost every Sunday, just as Will used to do.

Fewer people go there nowadays than used to go, which is too bad. The wit and wisdom of Will Rogers are genuine Americana. They should be cherished, and the memory of the man who said them should be cherished, too.

"The more you read about politics, you got to admit that each party is worse than the other."

"(Income tax) has made more liars out of the American people than golf."

"There's one thing no nation can accuse us of—that is secret diplomacy. Our foreign dealings are an open book—a checkbook."

WILL ROGERS

Humorist at Work

WILL ROGERS was born Nov. 4, 1879, in the Oklahoma Indian territory near what is now the town of Claremore.

He was always more interested in fun than work, particularly the fun of twirling a rope. He stumbled onto the happy fact that people would pay money to see rope tricks, and left his father's ranch at an early age to travel around the world with "wild west" shows.

Eventually he arrived in New York, and while performing there he stumbled onto another oddity. People had begun laughing at the "asides" he was making while doing his rope tricks.

Eventually, the "asides" became more of an attraction in his act than his tricks. An avaricious reader of newspapers, he took to commenting on the news of the day, and his star rocketed.

He became a Ziegfeld star, a movie star, a lecturer, a newspaper columnist, an author, an after-dinner speaker. He was the most famed and beloved American humorist since Mark Twain.

He bought property in the Pacific Palisades above Santa Monica in 1922, adding to it and building on it until 1928, when he and his family moved there.

In 1935, he was killed in an air crash. His wife died in 1944. The eldest son, Will Jr., was once an actor and a Congressman and is now in business. The second son, James, has a ranch near Bakersfield. The daughter, Mary, lives in the American colony in Tangiers.

She Talks to Horses for Living

By Jerome Hall

IF SHE DIDN'T carry a whip and wear boots she'd be just like most any other pert young career girl, except that she bakes gingerbread for a hobby and talks to horses for a living.

Her name is Collette Mask. She's 22 years old. She's the youngest trainer of race horses in California.

This week Collette again becomes a resident of Long Beach and a businesswoman in Los Alamitos, where she'll teach some of the fastest horses in the world how to run a little faster.

She's returning from a triumphant ("sometimes") tour of Bay Meadows, Pomona, Riudoso Downs in New Mexico and Sacramento.

THOUGH Collette is not the only woman in the business of training race horses, there are few men or women who have risen so far so fast. Matched against men who have been in the trade since long before Go Man Go went and even before the Los Alamitos Race Course had electricity, Miss Mask has ranked among the top 10 trainers often at recent meetings and not long ago finished in third place.

She trains both quarter horses — the speedy little things that run only about 500 yards — and thoroughbreds. She prefers quarter horses because "They're more like people. These quarter horses are just like buddies. And you don't have to worry about them as much as thoroughbreds. You can get to understand a quarter horse. I don't think anyone ever understands thoroughbreds."

Collette's best pal is Joe Sherry, a quarter horse with a bright future. Last autumn at Los Alamitos Joe Sherry equalled the best clocking in the nation for a two-year-old, 17.7 seconds for 350 yards, which was just one-tenth of a second off the world record.

"THE FUNNY thing about Joe Sherry," says Collette, "is he's a swayback. A swayback is not supposed to be a runner. But I think Joe just made up his mind to be fast, sort of like any good athlete with an infirmity."

When Joe was just a little fella he must have gotten the horse laugh because of his swayback. But since winning a few races, "he's become awfully cocky."

Collette says it's no more difficult for a young woman to be a race horse trainer than a young man and she can't explain why there are so few. In fact, it might be easier for a girl. She learned long ago that if she had any questions or needed any help, all she had to do was call out and the volunteers came running out of barns from all directions.

Asking questions and calling out for help is the only way to become a trainer, whether boy or girl. "It's a step by step, day by day proposition," says she. It is a 5 a.m.-to-late-afternoon task.

COLLETTE'S apprenticeship began at age 4 when she took her first solo ride. Her father, mother and her sister all have been racing trainers before her.

She has a dozen horses in her stable for the Los Alamitos spring meeting which opens Thursday. Only two are her own. She admits it takes much confidence for the owner of a multi-thousand dollar horse to entrust it to a snip of a lass of 22.

But Collette believes she has an advantage over the men in the business. She uses motherly instincts and woman's intuition. "Horses have different personalities; they're just like children. Sometimes you have to go some to keep ahead of them."

Collette Mask has a head start.

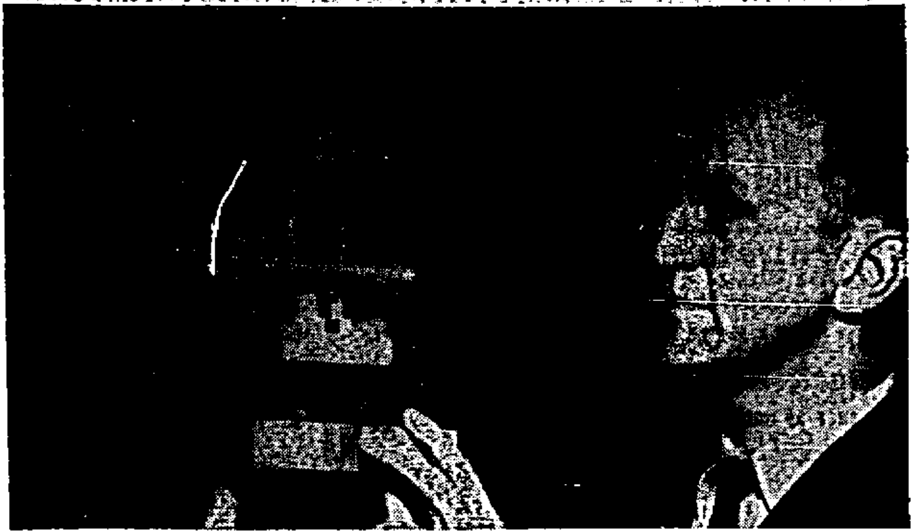
The Wheel Takes a New Turn

By Lou Jobst



Almost frictionless wheel—the slightest touch will set it spinning for hours—is demonstrated by Dr. Hans Bichsel who developed device while doing proton research.

PHYSICIST Dr. Hans Bichsel has revolutionized one of man's first and most revolutionary inventions, the wheel.

The Southland research scientist has developed an almost frictionless wheel.

Although the wheel has been one of the base building blocks of human civilization and technology, it has been the victim of troublesome and frustrating friction, drag and inertia.

The Bichsel wheel—discovered by chance while doing proton research—is a stainless steel air-support pulley which has 100 times less friction than conventional wheels.

INSTEAD of mounting his pulley shaft on bearings of wood, steel or sapphire, on which most axles rotate, the USC professor "floats" his wheel on compressed air.

The shaft of Dr. Bichsel's pulley rests in two small cylinders perforated with tiny holes. When air is forced through the holes, the wheel "floats."

Friction is so slight that the lightest touch will set the wheel spinning by itself for hours.

Dr. Bichsel hit upon the idea while doing research to measure the speed of electrified atomic particles in simulated orbit.

"A rough guess is that protons from USC's linear accelerator move with a speed of 46,000 miles per second, or one-fourth the speed of light—they could fly around the world twice per second," says Dr. Bichsel.

"ASTRONAUTS take 10,000 times longer for the same feat."

To measure these incredible speeds, the USC physics professor found conventional laboratory equipment not precise enough for his purposes.

"A huge electromagnet acquired by our nuclear physics laboratory had to be calibrated for this speed measurement and I invented the air-supported pulley to help in these very sensitive measurements," he explains.

The pulley can also be used to measure the acceleration of gravity on as small and light an object as a postage stamp.

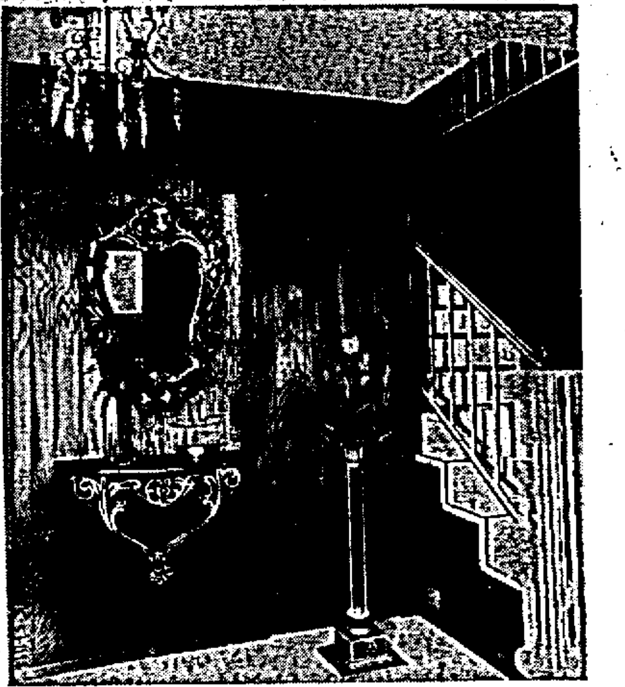
SOUTHLAND HOMES

A Delight, and More,



Unique treatment was given the entrance hall in the home of the Alex Du Bourdieu family, as shown above.

By Stella George

FOUR WHO make their home in a new and delightful two-story home at 371 Winslow Ave. find full contentment in surroundings that meet their every desire in living accommodations. They are Mr. and Mrs. Alex Du Bourdieu and their daughters, Kathy and Donna.

Appointments of the home were selected with an eye for lasting beauty, but also were keyed to the wishes of the family by Edna O'Brien, interior designer.

The front door is at the side of the house and leads to a large entrance hall. Paneling there and in the kitchen and rumpus room is distinctive—while it is walnut-dyed ash, it also appears to have the grain and color of fine oak. The stairway descends to the entry, and there is access to the living room on the right and the family room at the left rear. Directly to the left, glass doors lead to a patio.

A GILT-EDGED mirror faces the front door. Nearby is a small statue on a tall pedestal: a delicately balanced French lady with an ivory face and gold raiment.

The living room and dining room are carpeted in antique white. The only other color used in the entire decorating theme here is pale gold—there is no predominating accent tone. Since this is the case, Mrs. Du Bourdieu can use her own accent color to suit a special occasion, time, or season. For example, in the spring a gay bowl of lavender flowers provides the color touch. In the fall, an arrangement of autumn branches and leaves with orange flowers is in order. Christmas, Valentine Day, St. Patrick's Day all have special colors. The room is one of many faces.

A modernized Louis XVI sofa faces an oversized coffee table with an ornate gold base. Nearby a chair-and-a-half (so called because it is half again as large as an ordinary chair), a Florentine table, and another chair-and-a-half form a conver-

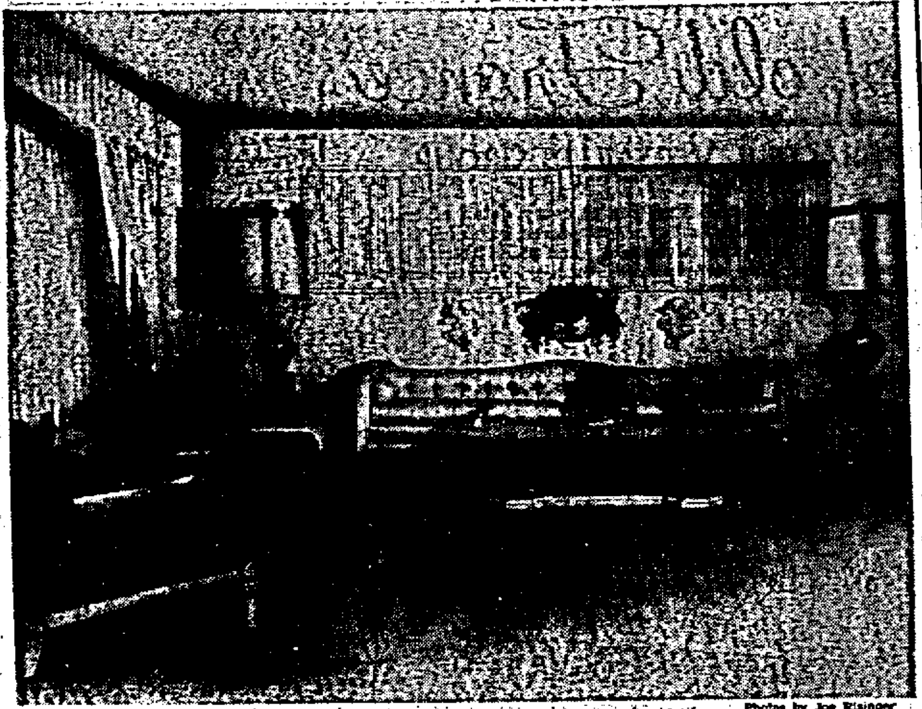
in the Lives of Four



Photos by Joe Risinger

sation grouping. Two low, continental occasional, pull-up chairs are across the way.

THE FAMILY ROOM is everything such a room should be—warm, comfortable, inviting, and very decorative. Persimmon and black are color accents. Oriental tables are jet black. The long sofa has the persimmon tones. The round rug looks like an Oriental import but is actually a domestic rug woven in the accent colors. A fireplace is at the far end of the room. Lamps hang above the sofa.

A door on one side of the fireplace leads to an all-purpose utility room: office, den, workroom. On the other end of the room is a small lavatory.

The kitchen is the epitome of perfection from a housewife's point of view, and attractive from every point of view. There is a cupboard for every need, and work area in abundance.

Upstairs there is the master bedroom suite plus two other large bedrooms. Kathy's room with a four-poster bed is done in rose, Donna's in blue.

Change of pace is pleasantly achieved in the family room which is in contrast to the formality of living and dining rooms. Persimmon and black are the color tones here.

PACIFIC COAST
DRAPERY DECORATORS

NO FREE LABOR

Drapery ads which offer free labor sound great, but they just don't make sense. When you work you want to be paid and so does everyone else. Free labor offers simply mean that you are going to pay more for fabrics or some other drapery service. A hidden cost is still a cost and must be included in your bill if the company is to stay in business.

At Pacific Coast Drapery Designers we do not offer free labor. We do not up the cost of one item to hide the free cost of another. Yet our fine draperies, individually designed for the interior of your home, cost you no more. Total price is what you pay, no matter where you buy. Call us today and one of Pacific Coast's drapery consultants will give you a free estimate in the convenience of your own home.

Sprouting Varies

Do you know that even under the best growing conditions different flowers and vegetables sprout in different lengths of time?

From 5 to 7 days is sufficient for seeds of radishes, beans, peas, cucumbers and sweet corn while carrots, beets and parsnips take 10 to 15 days. Parsley seed usually takes 3 weeks to sprout and seeds of columbine, larkspur and forget-me-not take as long as parsley or a few days longer to break through the ground.

He's a Living Fossil

After 60 million years, the rhinoceros is threatened with extinction. This one is shown at San Diego Zoo.

By Betty Hardesty

RHINOS, aptly called today's living fossils, having survived for 60 million years, are now threatened with extinction. In spite of efforts to protect them, there are less than 600 of the most prehistoric-looking mammal today, the Indian rhinoceros.

The Indian rhino has one horn, usually one foot long but sometimes up to 24 inches. He stands six feet at the shoulders and his great body, sometimes 13 feet long, is covered with rivet-like tubercles on a thick skin divided by deep folds into three sections suggestive of armor plate.

From the high grass of the jungles of Nepal and Assam, a few specimens have been transported to the Basel Zoo of Switzerland where Dr. Ernest Lang has successfully bred and raised them. A 1½-year-old baby born there may now be seen at the San Diego Zoo. On his arrival in California last October, he weighed 1,621 pounds but he may grow to 4,500 pounds.

SEEN ALSO at San Diego's moat exhibit areas on the large mammal mesa, are the two-horned black rhino and the square-lipped white. The black brouses, using his prehensile upper lip like a hook to gather thorny acacias and other plants. Ranging throughout most of African scrub country, he has a bad reputation as being highly nervous and apt to charge without warning.

White rhinos are the largest of the species, standing 6½ feet tall, and have a distinctively square mouth. Not actually white, they are lighter in color than the others. Huge heads, carried low, display two horns, the front horn growing to a length of more than five feet. White rhinos are grazers and, according to George H. Pourell, Ph.D., mammal curator of the zoo, are "more timid."

Hands of an Artist

By Olive Breed

LONSFORD (Bill) Williams' hands were smeared from the greasy, dusty motor and recalcitrant fan wheel it powered. As he reached to make an adjustment in the ancient refrigerator, his customer exclaimed, as though he might have stolen them, "You have a musician's hands!"

"I am not a musician," Bill explained patiently. When the motor and fan set up a whirr, he turned, "I'm an artist." A closer view of the hands revealed peeling palms and a couple of nails anchored by band aids.

For his first 18 years, Bill's life was on the farm where his hands developed great strength in the heavy work. He had no formal training but did some sketching, and dreamed of creating things from wood or clay, things that would give pleasure to people.

In the U. S. Navy, Bill's hands received valuable training as carpenter's mate. Upon being discharged from the service, he added a course in electronics and was ready to open a repair shop, which developed into TV, radio and utilities — everything involving electricity.

ON THE SIDE, Bill started formal instruction in art with such well known Southern California painters as George Barrett and Paul Lauritz, and in the 35 intervening years has kept up his studies, and developed outstanding technique with colors, something that once seen, is remembered.

At present, to all appearances the electronic repair work is full time and all that an ordinary pair of hands could accomplish, but his life as an artist is growing equally fast, and Bill's hands would not be willing to give up either. He lives at 1040 Orange Ave.

Beginning with 1963, Bill took over the Monday night workshop class of the Lakewood Fine Arts Association at Bolivar Park in Lakewood, and with his quiet, understatement manner, has generated so much enthusiasm he has found it necessary to add classes on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Due to the speed and assurance of his work, Bill gets assignments frequently for painting demonstrations. He represented the Lakewood Fine Arts Association at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona by doing a portrait of his daughter Helen. Interested crowds watched in relays, and named it, "The Pink Lady." When finished it was displayed in the Bank of America at Dutch Village. Little Sweden, on East Broadway, owns a number of Bill's paintings, which they have hanging in the restaurant on Broadway and in Seal Beach and Arcadia.

Your Name

1518, discovered the south Mexican peninsula of Yucatan.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on CRIDER—K.C., Long Beach.

K.C.: CRIDER is a form of the German surname Kreider, derived from "Kreide-handler" meaning "Dealer in chalk or lime." Another source for Crider was the old German term "Kreiter" deciphered as "squabbler."

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you data on the Slavic name YANCHURA? — J. Y., San Pedro.

J.Y.: YANCHURA is from central Europe. The Slavic root source is conjectural, but is believed to be "Jansch," one of many derivatives of Jan or John, meaning "God is gracious."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on BOOTHROYD. — D.D., Long Beach.

D.D.: BOOTHROYD originated in early Britain as "Buth-roth," meaning "forest clearing of the herald or royal messenger." Yorkshire records of 1379 list Richard de Botherod, a remote forefather.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain the surname NEW?—C.C., Surfside.

C.C.: NEW is from the old English term "Niwe" meaning "newcomer," used for a new settler in a village in the 1200s. Ancestors include Richard Le Newe of Cambridge and Robert Le Newe of Wiltshire, 1273. The New family coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four sections by an "X"-shaped cross, two sections tinted gold, two red. Overlying the background are four red and gold chaplets (wreaths worn around the head).

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on GAMBOA. —A.G., Norwalk.

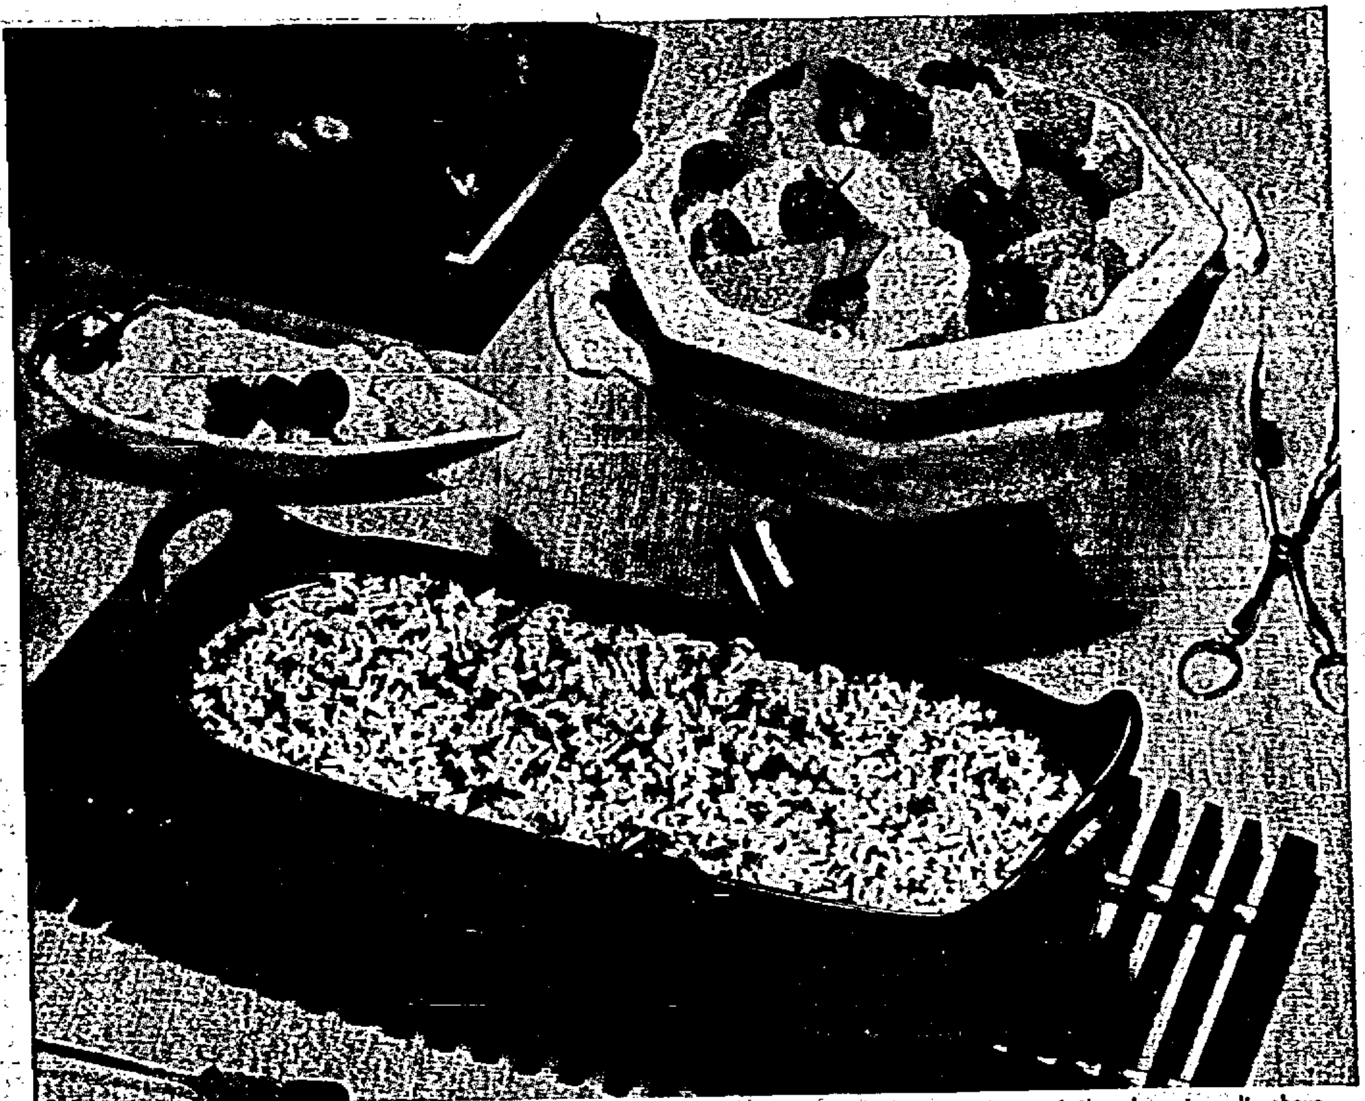
A.G.: GAMBOA is Portuguese. This name means "sweet quince" and was used by a forefather owning a quince orchard in the Middle Ages.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly publish data on REES.—S.W., Artesia.

S.W.: REES is from the old Cymric-Welsh word "Rhys" interpreted as "ardent one." The ancestor was the famous Welsh King Rhys-Ap-Tudor-Mor, who gained the Welsh throne in 1077. The Rees or Rhys shield is silver, emblazoned with a black chevron between three black ravens. John Rees was a land owner at Weymouth, Mass., in 1648.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze LANTZ.—S.M., Long Beach.

S.M.: LANTZ translates from old German as "Lance" or "Spear," portraying a courageous medieval spearman forefather. No coat-of-arms is accessible for this surname.



Green Rice Custard in a red bowl adds color to savor and makes a hearty main dish. Sharp cheese, parsley and green pepper join in restful combination with the rice, and the pleasant result, above, will brighten any meal. Serve with crusty rolls and fresh fruit.

Color Perks a Rice Custard

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

COLOR adds much to the appeal of food and whets the appetite together with the savor of various dishes. For instance, Green Rice Custard in a red bowl is as flavorful as it is colorful. The hearty rice main dish is well flavored with sharp cheese, parsley, and green pepper.

Green Rice Custard, a casseroled blend of good food, could be the focal point of a luncheon or supper which also includes a medley of fresh fruits—to be used as salad or dessert—and some crusty hard rolls with gay little butter balls.

Cooked rice is the basis of such a hearty casserole, and you couldn't find a more versatile basic casserole food. The rice can be freshly cooked for the dish, or it might be left over from a previous meal (rice never tastes leftover). Or it might even have come from the freezer. Easily cooked rice is just as easily reheated after refrigeration or freezing. Simply add a few drops of water—enough to cover the bottom of the pan in which the rice is to be reheated—and place, covered, over low heat until of the preferred temperature.

Green Rice Custard

3 cups cooked rice
1 cup finely chopped fresh parsley
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 cup grated sharp cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1 can (14 ounces) evaporated milk
½ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. seasoned salt
1 tsp. garlic powder
1 lemon, juice and grated rind
2 tblsps. butter or margarine, melted
Paprika

Combine rice, parsley, green pepper, onion, and cheese. Mix eggs, milk, pepper, salt, garlic powder, lemon juice and rind, and butter. Stir into rice mixture, blending thoroughly. Turn into a greased 2 quart casserole; sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Cheese Rice Souffle

1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli
1 can (10½ oz.) mushroom soup, undiluted
1 jar (8-oz.) pasteurized process cheese spread
4 eggs, separated
½ tsp. salt
Dash of cayenne pepper
2 cups cooked rice

Cook broccoli according to package directions. Drain. Combine soup and cheese spread and blend over heat. Beat egg yolks with a fork and add to cheese mixture. Season with salt and cayenne. Stir in rice and broccoli. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Pour cheese mixture into egg whites. Fold gently with a wooden spoon. Pour into a greased 2-quart casserole and bake for 1 hour at 325 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Sturdy and handsome, this lantern for indoor or outdoor use has a colonial theme. It's a home handyman project.

By Bill Meyerriecks

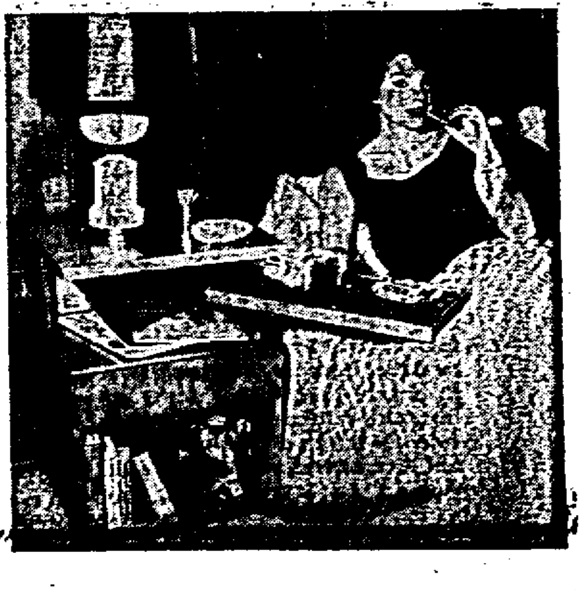
IF AT ANY TIME you've priced a similar Colonial lantern to the one shown in our photo, you know the worth of our suggestion that you make this early American adaption yourself—the Sketchbook way.

The Sketchbook plan shows you step-by-step and in details how to cut your sheet metal to sizes required, where to solder joints and the exact sizes as well as materials to do the job.

TO OBTAIN colonial lantern plan, specify S-155 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90812.

Table That's Adequate

ADEQUATE for the uses to which it can be put is the bedside table pictured below with NBC's Francine York. It has a top suitable for a lamp, ash trays and things of that kind and it's high enough that the lamp will give a good light for reading. Note, too, the swinging tray for writing or for breakfast and useful in time of illness. After breakfast, the tray swings out of the way. A shelf is provided for magazines or a radio and there's a drawer for medications or other nighttime needs. The bottom shelf is for books, magazines and such items. Tables like this will serve as end tables and the swinging shelves for TV trays—they can be made to swing either way. Any amateur home carpenter can make this table by using a full-size pattern with list of materials, illustrations and detailed instructions. To obtain the pattern, specify No. 344 and send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.



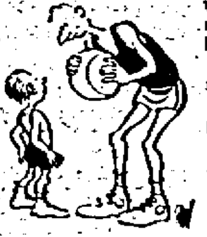
HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

No Time for Nothing

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: According to the old saying, busy hands stay out of trouble. But don't we sometimes tend to keep our kids too busy?

ANSWER: Heavy loads of homework stacked on a student by teachers, plus social and other activities urged upon him by parents, may leave him little time to himself.



Yet, time for doing nothing is important, too.

Says Ronald C. Doll, professor of education, Hunter College:

"Content readily comes into the curriculum, but most of us fight mightily to keep any of it from leaving. We show our young Americans that, like us, they must be busy all the time. Children who come home from school after a day of intense activity have to be hauled away to their music or dancing lessons, to a medical specialist whose services are surely becoming more and more needed, to special language instruction which obstinate school administrators have refused to provide—ad infinitum toward heart attacks and nervous breakdowns. After a while the question arises: When does the child have an opportunity to grow privately, quietly, independently, to be himself?"

QUESTION: Should a child be taught to consider failure a shameful thing?

ANSWER: No. Life is full of failures, some big and some small, for all of us. The only people who don't fail are those who don't really live.

A child should learn to accept failure, to take it in his stride, to find out what caused it, and—forgive the banality—to try again.

QUESTION: My son tries to play basketball and football, but he's too small. I hate to discourage him, but what can we say?

ANSWER: Tell him there's no shame attached to not being constructed for these sports. Few persons actually are. Suggest that there are other sports in which he can compete with a measure of success—swimming, track, table tennis.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Plant Potencies Researched

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

STUDY OF plants of reputed medicinal value has been undertaken by the Oregon State University School of Pharmacy.

The plants are those used by Indians of the Pacific Northwest. Special attention is to be given those plants growing in the Warm Springs Indian reservation.

Among those plants slated for study are wild peony, wild columbine, bitter cherry, ocean spray, creek dogwood, shelf fungus, alum root and poison hemlock.

A three-year $125,700 grant has been awarded by the U. S. Public Health Service for the study.

Researchers will be especially on the lookout for plants with potential usefulness in the treatment of heart and nervous system disorders, those with possible tranquilizing effects, those that appear to have anti-cancer activity and those with antibacterial properties.

PERSONS WHO live in glass houses should watch where they walk, advises the American Medical Association.

The AMA estimates that 40,000 persons each year try to walk through glass doors, glass walls and picture windows. About 6,000 wind up in the hospital and some even die from severe cuts and loss of blood.

More than two-thirds of glass-door injuries occur to males. Children 5 to 14 years account for one-third of these injuries. Major cause of the accidents: hurrying.

One safeguard recommended by the AMA: decals or bright tape attached to the glass at the eye level of both children and adults.

AN IMPROVED test has been devised to determine whether a TB patient has been taking his medicines.

Strips of filter paper are impregnated with oxalic acid and a chemical known as p-dimethylamine benzaldehyde, or DAB for short. The dry strips, white in color, are dipped into a specimen of urine.

If the patient has been taking an anti-TB drug called PAS, the paper strip will become orange-yellow to orange red after five minutes. If Isoniazid is the drug involved, shades will range from pale rose to reddish sepia.

The DAB test is 10 times more sensitive than the conventional ferric chloride test to detect the use of PAS, according to University of Brazil researchers reporting in the American Review of Respiratory Diseases.

Supervising the drug intake in tuberculosis patients is an important problem since patients often fail to take their medications.

Treasure from a King's Palace

Creamer, sugar bowl and silver tray once were property of Bavarian King Ludwig, a builder of castles, palaces.

By Helen L. Gillum

IN TIMES of war in Europe, countless works of art and other treasures are snatched from shelves and cabinets and sent away or carefully buried in the earth for safe-keeping. After hostilities have ceased and peace reigns again, family valuables and other precious items are retrieved to be loved and enjoyed for another brief period. Many of these objects eventually find their way to the United States, as in the case of some lovely old silver and beautiful amber crystal wine glasses, owned by Mr. and Mrs. James A. Willingham of 310 W. 32nd St.

The silverware — a dainty creamer and sugar bowl on a silver tray—was once the property of the so-called Mad King Ludwig (Louis the II) of Austria and Bavaria. Originally from one of the grandiose palaces built by the 19th-century king, the pieces were buried during the destructive years of World War II, finally winding up in an antique shop in Germany after the war. Both silver and crystalware were purchased by Mrs. Willingham's father while a colonel in the U. S. Air Force in post-war Germany.

ALTHOUGH King Ludwig became violently insane several years before his death in 1886, during his earlier years as king he was a lover of music and beauty. Particularly was he fond of Richard Wagner, the great operatic composer, and particularly did he love building magnificent castles. His extravagances as a builder of these huge structures eventually lead to financial ruin, and perhaps contributed to his mental breakdown and subsequent suicide by drowning.

But the castles remain, and one of his creations, Schloss Herrenschiemese, constructed on an island in a lake in Bavaria, has been compared to the Palace of Versailles, because of its sumptuous decorations, spacious halls and 245-foot-long Gallery of Mirrors. It is from this castle that the silver pieces are believed to have come. The pitcher and bowl bear King Ludwig's crest, an elaborately conceived affair in three sections consisting of two crowns, stars, crossed arrows and the tiny figure of a soldier.

THE EIGHT crystal wine glasses are of a delicate shade of amber, with maple leaves in white enamel just below the rim. They are eight inches high and of an unusual shape. Their origin is uncertain, but to cradle one of these exquisitely designed glasses in the hand, and to hear its soft ringing tones at the slightest touch is a pleasant experience. They, like King Ludwig's silver, echo royal elegance of the past.

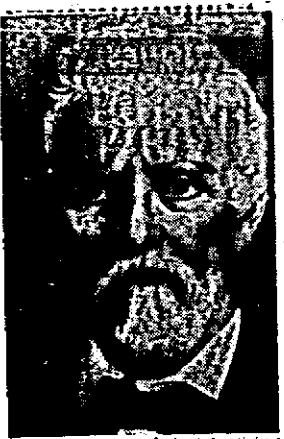
Ownership Unknown

By V. Franklin Limerick

IN THE early days of cattle raising in the United States, from Texas to California, the term "maverick" was used to denote a stray animal with no brand, especially an orphan calf.

Varied stories have been told as to how the word originated but there is no doubt about it actually coming from the name of one of the most honorable citizens in Texas, Samuel A. Maverick.

Maverick was an attorney who took an active part in the politics of his state from 1835 on through his life. He died in 1870. He was one of the signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence, the mayor of San Antonio, a legislator and a congressman.



His name became a byword in the cattle lands, and is still in use. He's Samuel A. Maverick.

THIS AMERICAN pioneer had a 385,000-acre ranch but was much too busy to look after it himself. The men he hired ran the place in a haphazard way, allowing the livestock to wander about with the increase unbranded, thus originating the name "maverick" for unmarked cattle.

In the unfenced, open range days of beef growing, the branding iron was a necessity. Brands were registered and stood up legally in any argument over ownership.

When it came time to market cattle, the shiftless cow hands on the Maverick ranch belatedly bestirred themselves and rounded up animals far and wide. Soon stories began to circulate that they were slightly careless with their branding iron. These rumors cast a shadow on the good name of Maverick and opened the door for a practice that became the blight of the era.

Toutant de Beauregard, a cattleman who lived in the neighborhood, bought the Maverick ranch in 1855. Besides the enormous range, the sale included all the cattle belonging to the place and the registered Maverick brand. Beauregard, being a thrifty man, took advantage of the precedent established by the former ranch crew and sent his men out on the prairies to mark all strays with the Maverick brand. His riders scoured the countryside and covered so much territory that the other ranchers began to protest.

WORD SPREAD about what was taking place. Ambitious cowboys began to start their own herds with "free" cattle—their for the taking. Cow thieves took advantage of the situation and shady operators became known as "mavericker," men who killed branded cows to claim the orphaned calves.

In the beginning, a stray calf that obviously had no mother, could be legitimately roped and branded by whoever found the little dogie. The honest cattlemen thought nothing of adding orphaned calves to the herd. The initial connotation of the term "maverick" simply meant an open range stray, a homeless animal, until it got completely out of hand.

Finally, the custom of branding "unowned" cattle was abused until the established ranchers had to have laws passed to stop it. The unethical took advantage of the "finder's keepers" rule.

Today, the word maverick is used to mean a "lone wolf," a person who prefers to be alone. But Webster defines it "an unbranded animal, especially a motherless calf, formerly customarily claimed by the first one branding it."

BOOK REVIEWS

The Puzzles of the Hieroglyphs

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

AT SOME POINT in the dim, dim past, the northeastern plateau of Africa became uninhabitable, a desert. A few bold spirits descended into the fertile valley of the Nile. Perhaps their leader was named Geb, or maybe Ab; at any rate it was monosyllabic.

"It is unlikely," says Barbara Mertz in "TEMPLES, TOMBS AND HIEROGLYPHS" (Coward-McCann, $6.95) "that Geb had a sense of destiny. He was looking for a better place in which to live, and he had no idea that the change of habitat would dramatically alter his people's way of life."

What Geb, or Ab, or whoever he was, started, is one of the greatest chapters, as Barbara Mertz puts it, "in the book of man." In her pages we meet "kings and conquerors, poets and inventors," that grand breed who made Egypt glorious.

The author's words, simple but breathing with the life of the times she writes about, give us fresh vignettes of the Pharoahs whose very names speak of mystery and grandeur: Thutmose III; the second Ramses: Akhenaton, the heretic pharaoh; Hapshepsut and many others. The puzzles of the hieroglyphs are made clear, and yes, exciting. The plain people of Egypt, the tiller of the soil, the hewer of stones, are not overlooked. Temples and monuments are vividly described. There are new judgments of the Egyptian rulers, such as the vulgarity of King Tut and his treasures.

FROM THE Garsts of Coon Rapids, Iowa, whose farming know-how amazed Nikita Khrushchev on his United States tour, comes a refutation of the Malthusian theory that world poverty is inevitable because population tends to increase faster than food production.

As the guest of Roswell Garst, Khrushchev saw farming at its best. Garst's brother Jonathan, successful agriculturalist, scientist, government consultant and veteran of trouble-shooting food missions in Scotland, Canada, Latin America, Russia, Romania and Poland, contends that if tested, modern methods of crop-raising are put to use, there is "NO NEED FOR HUNGER" Random House, $3.95).

Jonathan Garst proposes enterprising application of hybrid seed, new fertilizers, cattle feed, scientific irrigation and commercial markets to end malnutrition in the world. He suggests, for example, a U. S. demonstration farm in Brasilia as a practical promotion for the Alliance for Progress.

He argues, too, that hunger and poverty cause the social conditions which result in population explosion; that, conversely, adequate food is conducive to a low birth rate.

"BLOOD FROM THE SKY," by Piotr Rawicz (Harcourt, Brace $4.95) is a Ukranian Jew's first novel. Its author was among the relative handful who survived the extermination by the Nazis of his family and his community. "Blood From the Sky" records, through the mind and words of a highly civilized man, also a Ukrainian Jew, monstrous catastrophe on a gigantic scale, but focuses on the tragic and vain hopes of the victims, the illusions of those doomed to die.

The narrator survives because he has evolved a skillful and artful system of passiveness, and thus he and his girl escape massacre. He ends up as a shell, but an important one, for it is his mission to bear witness to what has gone on, to keep alive the memory of the dead. The novel is savage in its uncompromising truthfulness; savage in the bizarre humor and sharp realism with which the horrors committed by the Nazis are set down.

ALAN SEAGER, professor of English at the University of Michigan, bounced through an eventful youth and young manhood, college in the States, and Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship — and girls, alluring and beautiful and none of them dull.

He did a heap of growing up in the 1920s and '30s and his story, a collection of recollections, is "A FRIEZE OF GIRLS" (McGraw-Hill, $4.95). Most of the chapters have appeared in periodicals but, put together, they are an engrossing portrait of the young Seager, although he subtitles his book, "memoirs as fiction."

Transplanting Tip

When setting out young plants, have the ground moist but not wet. Firm them in well and water so that the soil settles well around the roots. Then for the first few days after planting syringe the tops lightly to help keep the leaves fresh. When you see signs of new growth start your regular garden care.

Recipe of the Week

BREAD CRUMBS and sour milk are basic ingredients of a pudding that wins $5 as best recipe this week for Ralph H. Bormann, 4331 Vermont Ave., Long Beach 90814. The recipe:

Crumb Pudding

1 cup sour milk
1 cup brown or white sugar
½ cup flour
½ tsp. ground cloves
1 tsp. baking soda
1 egg
1 cup dried bread crumbs, rolled fine
¼ cup shortening
½ tsp. ground cinnamon
2 tblsp. dark molasses
¾ cup raisins
¾ cup walnuts

Soak bread crumbs in sour milk half hour before adding other ingreients. Grease a 9x9 pan. Bake at 300 degrees for one hour. Serve with whipped cream topping or hard sauce.

Hard sauce:

⅓ cup butter
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 tsp. vanilla or brandy
Pinch of salt

Work the butter with a spoon or beater until light and creamy. Then add the sugar gradually while continuing to work with a spoon or beat with electric beater. Add the vanilla a little at a time and the salt. Pile lightly in a serving dish and chill until needed. Maybe a sprinkling with cinnamon or nutmeg if desired.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. After a new drug is discovered or developed, how long does it usually take for it to reach the market? V. E.

A. So many factors enter into the development of a new drug that there can be no set time for its appearance on the market.

The process may take from two to ten years. After a potentially useful drug is discovered, it is first tested for safety on animals, then manufactured in quantity. Permission to market it must come from the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The correct dosage must be fixed and the most acceptable form of administering the new drug must be decided upon before it is actually tried out on patients.

Q. Is it legal to address a letter simply to "Occupant" at a certain street address? D. W.

A. Yes. To address mail to a specific street number without addressing the occupant by name, such terms as Postal Patron, Householder, Resident and Occupant may be substituted for the name. The complete address must be given, as usual. Similarly, a letter may be addressed to a post office box number without addressing the boxholder by name.

Q. Please give some information on the old-time baseball pitcher, "Wild Bill" Donovan. C. S.

A. William Edward Donovan was born October 13, 1876, at Lawrence, Mass.; he died December 9, 1923. His big league career started in 1898 with Washington (N.L.); from 1899 to 1902 he pitched for Brooklyn (N.L.) and in 1902 also played at first and second and in the outfield. From 1903 to 1912 Donovan pitched for the Detroit Tigers (A.L.); in 1915 and 1916 was manager-pitcher and in 1917 non-playing manager for the New York Yankees (A.L.); in 1918 he again pitched for Detroit, and in 1921 was non-playing manager for Philadelphia (N.L.).

Q. Please give the words that meant divination by the four elements—fire, air, water and earth in ancient times.—E. J.

A. Divination by fire, pyromancy or pyroscopy; by air, aeromancy; by water, hydromancy, hydratoscopy (rain water), pegomancy (spring or fountain water); earth, geomancy.

Dog World Is Busy

Collies are favorites both for beauty and as working dogs. This one is owned by Marybeth Meacham, Torrance.

By Eleanor Avery Price

HUB POODLE Club has its spring puppy match today at South Park, Compton. Registration is scheduled between 9 a.m. and noon, with judging to start at 1 p.m. There will be special classes for the 2-3 month and 3-4 month toys, as entry is usually large in these age groups.

There will be an assistance table at the match to help beginner exhibitors. Anyone interested may attend club meetings on the fourth Thursday of every month at 8 p.m. at El Dorado Park, 2800 Studebaker Road, Long Beach. The club pledge is:

"As a member of the Hub Poodle Club I promise to foster and promote interest in poodles by encouraging their breeding in accordance with the set standard, to the end that such standard and qualities of the breed may be advanced."

Collies breeders may get dogs groomed immediately for the April 12 California Collie Clan match held at Lynwood City Park. And one with a dog entered in the Southeast Obedience Club sanctioned match in the same park on the same day, should do a little more practicing this week.

A BIT MORE about collies, membership in the National Working Collie Association of Southern California membership is also open to owners of other working dogs interested in herding and obedience. Phone TE 4-6552 for further information.

Also on April 12, basset puppies will frolic in the Basset Hound Club of Southern California spring match in Lynwood Park and Escondido Kennel Club has a puppy match in Escondido.

Another club event that should interest every obedience-minded dog owner in Southern California is the April 24 dinner and meeting of Valley Hills Obedience Club at Glen Aire Country Club, 3910 Stanbury Ave., Sherman Oaks. Reservations must be received by April 17, and the dinner tab is $3.75. Call ST 4-4668 or ST 4-3010. This once in a life-time gathering will include four outstanding speakers—Bill Koehler, movie trainer for Disney Studios and one of Southern California's first obedience trainers—a trainer's trainer; Frank Inn, number one supplier of trained animals to movie and TV studios today; Carl Spitz, one of the oldest and most experienced dog educators in the business of movies, war dogs, etc. as well as an AKC obedience trial judge, and Herb Wegner, who has had more than 35 years experience in dog training and producing dog films for TV, and also an AKC trial judge.

Time for Feeding

When the acid loving plants—azealea, camellia and rhododendron — go out of bloom, it is time for the gardener to begin feeding them with an acid fertilizer. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen suggest alternating a balanced fertilizer with liquid fish at monthly intervals after the first feeding right through summer.

All three seem to respond better to this varied diet than to any one fertilizer used exclusively.

of his lady friends was a beautiful campus actress at Michigan who made Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year and married an acquaintance just to get to Greenwich Village where Seager, responding to her urgent invitations, found her alone and starving. Later she entered into a mixed marriage, embraced communism and went off to Russia.

FANS OF ALLAN VAUGHAN ELSTON'S tales of the West will rejoice in "THE LANDSEEKERS" (Lippincott, $3.50), a story of 1879 in Idaho when goldseekers were giving way to landseekers. Elston's novels are based on historical facts. He lives in Santa Ana.

A girl he met in Chicago might have been "The Nicest Girl in Cook County," as billed, had she not also been the cold-blooded sister of the ruling gangster family of that bloody era. And there was the Memphis belle whom he gave two dozen (bargain) roses—without petals; and the middle-aged actress who almost choked on his fraternity house pin.

There was a so-what southern murder; a setback with tuberculosis which brought him back to the States from Oxford; and a roommate who plotted to kill his mother but, instead, indulged expensive tastes by burgling the archives of a church.

Witty and funny, Seager's story is also studded with shockers.

HAVE YOU ever wondered what it would be like to live in Africa? Eyes of the world are turned toward Africa where a revolution is taking place today.

Four talented new South African writers tell what it is like in the "Dark Continent" where they live. Richard Rive, Alex LaGuma, Alf Wannenburgh and James Matthews are co-authors of "QUARTET NEW VOICES FROM SOUTH AFRICA," (Crown, $3.50). The 16 stories are edited by Richard Rive, one of the four authors, with introduction by Alan Paton.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglass brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach area.

Cal-Tex has been selected as the exclusive franchised contractor of FLEXON in Southern California. You can obtain free information or have a free home demonstration without obligation. The low cost will surprise you and terms can be arranged to suit your pocket book.

From Rags to Rugs

Quickly, easily crocheted, this woolen throw rug will bring beauty and color, without clashing, in any room.

By Elsa DeBra

WITH the gift-making-for-others season out of the way, Long Beach mothers and grandmothers have more time to fashion something for themselves—a crocheted rag rug, for instance.

Unlike our colonial fore-mothers, we do not have to wait impatiently for members of our families to discard their woolen garments. We simply visit rummage sales, and thrift shops to collect usable clothing, which often may be purchased by the pound. Skirts and coats of wool flannel are best, because the fabric is soft, easy to work with, tears without raveling. We avoid tweeds and diagonal weaves, unless we enjoy spending hours in cutting the one-inch-wide strips for crocheting.

For flower-strewn beauty, and soft, resilient stepping, an easy 'round and round' single crochet throw rug is an enjoyable project.

THRIFTY early American housewives appropriated any color available, but we can afford to be selective.

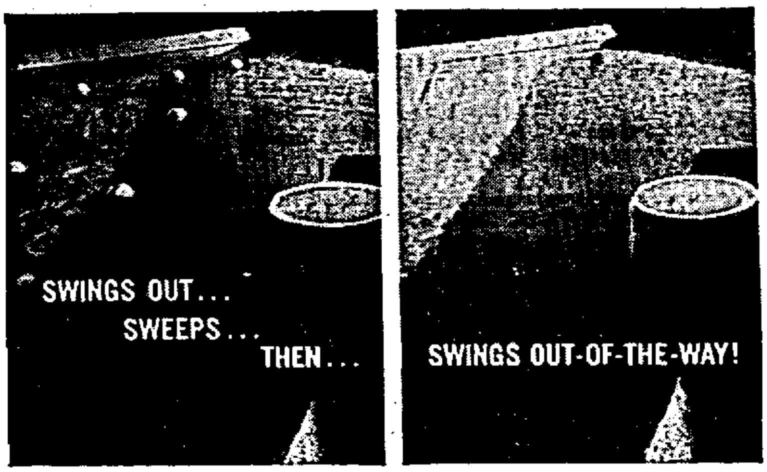
For the border, use strips left over from the center fields, plus any other tones of red and blue available, combined with various shades of neutral grays (or beiges). This border measures 12 inches. It could be wider. In fact, the whole rug may be 'hit and miss,' if one wants to give the apeparance of an oval bed of wild-flowers!

Procedure: Assemble enough woolen garments—the rug pictured weighs about 9 pounds—cut off belts, zippers, pockets, and other irregularities. Then wash in the machine, and dry in the sun. Press while damp. Now tear into one-inch strips, the longer the better. Sew together on machine (fine stitch) like this: lap over adjoining strips about 1¼ inches, fold over and stitch across, diagonally. Do about 20 strips, then you are ready to start crocheting. It's unwise to wind the sewn strips into a ball as this causes annoying twisting during the crocheting. Use a very large crochet hook. An old-fashioned one, whittled out of wood, is most satisfactory.

For the 36x54-inch rug, chain stitch a length of 18 inches, for the center 'spine.' Make a left turn, putting two single crochet stitches in first stitch, then one single crochet in all the other stitches until you get to the end of the 18-inch length. Then two single crochet stitches again at turn. This increase at turns keeps your work lying flat. As the rug grows you will have to increase more often, and you can do this at any point in the row you're crocheting, but preferably on the curves, or turns.

So, test your work by occasionally spreading the rug on a flat surface. If it ripples, you're increasing too often. If it cups, you're not increasing often enough.

Although rugged and durable, this rug graces a bedroom with pastel blue walls, pink and white dimity curtains, and clashes not at all with the heirloom wedgewood cases on the dresser.



New Anthony "Hida-Sweep" automatic pool cleaner...

CUT POOL CARE 90%! HIDA-SWEEP, NEW ANTHONY ROBOT CLEANER, "HIDES" IN POOL WALL, COMES OUT AND CLEANS WHOLE POOL AUTOMATICALLY...EVERY DAY!

All you have to do is relax. Or even sleep. Each day—or night, at a time you've selected—automatic clock control sends floats and cleaning arms swinging out across the pool like a flotilla of mine sweepers. When jets from high pressure pump have swept settled dirt down the drain, Hida-Sweep swings back into its harbor hidden in the pool wall.

You are always ready for a swimming party. There's nothing to move or remove. Won't get jarred out of adjustment. The cost: much less than pool service, adds about $7 a month to your 10-year pool contract. Call any Anthony showroom for details.

Baird Caves to Open

The famous Baird caves on Lake Shasta in Northern California are finally being opened to the general public, probably around June 1.

Discovered in 1878, the caves up to now could be reached only by people who knew the exact location, and who were willing to make the long, hard climb up the limestone formation.

The caves will continue to be accessible by water only, but you can now come either in a boat operated by the owners or in your own craft. Buses will then take you up the mountain to the cave entrance. Motorists can leave their cars at the dock near O'Brien.

A map listing resorts and campgrounds along the 365-mile Lake Shasta shoreline can be had by writing the Shasta Dam Area Chamber of Commerce, Box 1057, Project City, Calif.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We have never traveled outside the U. S. but would like to start planning for next year. Is there a way to start?"

BEST I've seen for armchair planning is a free booklet called "World Wide Package Plan"—any Pan American or American Express office. Gives you a list of 135 planned package trips in all parts of the world. Car rental rates. Maps of Europe, etc. This will give you a choice of trips and basic costs.

When you have the trip in mind, write the national tourist bureaus of the countries where you want to go. (They're all in the New York phone book yellow section if you don't have a branch in your own city.)

You can start a very useable file. A brown envelope for each country where you are going. (And write the name on the outside with a big, fat marking pen — you may be trying to find the right envelope in a dark airplane.) Basic material in it should be a map and a map of the major city—usually free on airline counters.

You could put in $10 worth of the money of the country—for airport tips and taxis when you land. Then stuff it with clips from travel pages—the things you want to do, places you want to see. Restaurants. Shops. Best buys.

That way you only use the stuff from the country you're in. And you don't get all your information cluttered up. This is the way I do it. And it works for me. (Have the next country envelope in your flight bag en route. That way you get out your map, taxi and tipping money on landing.)

"Can you give us weather conditions in April on the central highway to Mexico City? What insects to beware of. What brands of beer and tequila are most satisfactory?

MEXICO has so many central highways now I'm not sure which one you mean. But on any of them, the weather should be OK. If you are going from Laredo on Highway 1, cross the high mountains starting at Tamazunchale at midday. They are sometimes in clouds morning and late afternoon. You could get it so thick you couldn't drive ahead or turn back.

From the border down to where you start to climb is scorpion country. A very painful bite. They love those tile floors. Don't walk barefoot. And shake out your shoes before you put them on.

Tequila Sauza is a good brand. For beer, Corona Extra and Bohemia.

"We plan to travel in France (in order to learn French). Would like any thrifty ideas for we do not have much money."

WELL, you chose the highest priced country in Europe. A red Michelin guide will give you listings in each town of hotels, restaurants and comparative prices. Any book store and most magazine stands.

Camping and youth hotels are cheap. If you are driving, buy a loaf of bread, sandwich meat and a bottle of wine. Eat on the roadside. There are many more picnic spots in France than in the U.S.

The Michelin guide will show you places serving a small prices lunch, usually under some title like "menu touristique." Also, all French restaurants post their dishes and prices outside the restaurant. The French consult these before they go in. And you should, too. If you ask for the "menu" it means a fixed price meal with all courses included. If you want to shop for items, ask for the "carte." The fixed-price dinner is usually the best buy.

"I have heard that you must get a license for your cigaret lighter in Portugal. . ."

THAT'S TRUE if you are a resident. But I never heard of them asking this from a tourist.

In the Driver's Seat

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Travel Editor

THE WISE traveler, before taking off, reads all he can lay hands on about the places he intends to visit. This puts him in the driver's seat, so to speak, because he has picked up many tips on getting there, background and customs of the people, and some knowledge about specific things and places he might otherwise not know about and miss.

Besides, most travel books make fine reading.

Here are thumbnail reviews of some of the latest travel books.

"THE CHANGING WORLD OF AUSTRALIA", by R. M. Younger (Franklin Watts, Inc., 575 Lexington Ave., New York 22, N.Y., $6.95): A former director of the Australian News and Information Bureau in New York tells what has made Australia tick, from the early struggles of the people to the Australia of today. An important book for the Down Under gadder.

"TRAVEL ROUTES AROUND THE WORLD" (Harian Publications, Greenlawn, N.Y., paperback $1): This just-published edition describes 700 ways to travel by freighter, including many from Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors.

"YOUR GUIDE TO 32 EUROPEAN CITIES" compiled by J. H. N. Mason (Barnes & Noble, 105 Fifth Ave., New York 3, N.Y., paperback 95c): Much needed info about Europe's most important cities. Moreover, it fits into the traveler's handbag or coat pocket.

"A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO NEW YORK" by Arthur Frommer (Frommer/Pasmantier Pub. Corp., 80 Fourth Ave., New York 3, N.Y., paperback 75c): World's Fair visitors will want this one, a rundown on the Big City's hotels, restaurants, night spots, shopping and sightseeing.

"PACIFIC PATHWAYS" by Stan Delaplane (McGraw-Hill, $5.95): Southland magazine travel columnist gets you started and keeps you charted on your trip into the Pacific —from Hawaii to New Zealand and Into Malaysia. Rich in anecdotes and practical information.

"RETIRING TO THE CARIBBEAN" by Wesley Edson (Doubleday, $4.95): A workmanlike but completely fascinating look at the islands of the West Indies for one who might wish to move there, or only take a jaunt there. Edson covers all the bases for the retirees.

"JAPAN ON $5 A DAY," "HAWAII ON $5 AND $10 A DAY," and "ISRAEL ON $5 A DAY" (Arthur Frommer, Inc., 80 Fourth Ave., $1.95 each): Each contains the fact-filled encyclopedic listings and comments for which the "$5 a Day" series is famous: precise data on least expensive forms of transportation, hotels, restaurants and tours.

"NEW ZEALAND," "AUSTRALIA" AND "JAPAN" (Lane Book Co., Menlo Park, Calif., $1.95 each). These new Sunset Travel Books, in text and picture, tell when to go, what to see, where to stay and dine. Each book is a delight to read, as well.

"NEW HORIZONS WORLD GUIDE: Pan Am's Travel Facts About 108 Countries," edited by Gerald W. Whitted (Pan American World Airways, P.O. Box PAA, Idlewild, N.Y., $2): These 640 pocket-size pages contain the greatest accumulation of travel data ever assembled in a single volume. Definitely the best buy, anywhere, in a travel guide.

"FODOR'S GUIDE TO EUROPE: 1964" edited by Eugene Fodor (David McKay Co., $5.95): From planning the trip to getting there and back again—by plane, ship, train, car, bus—this one's the greatest. Thirty-four countries covered in 957 information-packed pages with illustrations; and 19x19-inch full-color map of Europe.

"THE DOLPHIN GUIDE TO CAPE COD, MARTHA'S VINEYARD AND NANTUCKET" by Fran Blake (Doubleday, 95c): What is the charm of Cape Cod and the Islands? More than you ever imagined, if you have never been there and take time to read this informative little book.

"EUROPE '64" (Speak-Easy Language Cards, 155 E. 40th St., New York City 10016, postpaid $2): Brand new pocket-size guide tailored especially to the needs of Americans in Europe and Isreal this year, including money converters. Organized country by country.

"SPAIN" (Carlos S. Pachon, manager, Spanish National Tourist Office, 453 Post St., San Francisco 2, $1.75 postpaid): Contains everything you need to know as a tourist. Profusely illustrated, with many pictures in color.

"COMPLETE GUIDE TO NEW YORK CITY" by Andrew Hepburn (Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y., $1.95): Everything the traveler needs and wants to know, complete with 1964-1965 World's Fair Supplement, maps and photographs.

Alaska Calls Tourists

THE ALASKA earthquake on Good Friday had its principal effect only upon Anchorage and immediate surrounding area, and all travel accommodations in Fairbanks, Juneau, Ketchikan, Skagway, Sitka and Haines, as well as smaller communities are intact, according to a telegram received by the Travel Department of Southland Magazine late last week from Morris Ford, director, Alaska Travel Division.

Ford continued: "All airlines serving Alaska are operating on full schedule. All ports of call served by Alaska's new ferry system, and by all cruise ships, are intact and without any damage whatever. All tour operators have indicated to us that they are proceeding with their original plans for Alaska tours this season. The Alaska Highway through Canada and interior Alaska has not been affected."

The Western Regional American Society of Travel Agents convention, Ford said, has been moved from Anchorage to Fairbanks, but the dates remain unchanged—May 21-23.

The tourist industry ranks third in importance to Alaska's economy. Ford said, "One way the people of America can help Alaska is to visit the state this summer and enjoy the many wonderful things to see."

Wax Plant Goes Well for Cutting

By Joe Littlefield

CHAMAELAUCIUM (Geraldton wax plant) provides attractive cut flowers for indoor decoration, blossoming from January on for several months. The single, small, pink flowers last for a couple of weeks indoors.

Some of the flowers weep a drop of two of sap that will stain table cloths. A special cover such as plastic or another cloth spread beyond the farthermost blossoms protects against such stains.

This shrub grows well in sunny location, prefers to be kept on dry side. This means deep but well-spaced watering.

THE DARK green, inch long plant, foliage is needle-like, somewhat like deodar foliage. Shrubs tend to grow leggy unless pruned drastically, each year at the time the flower branches are cut for table decoration, or when the shrub has finished blooming.

"Drastic pruning" means to begin the pruning from the first year plant is set out. The first year pruning is the most ruthless. The upright branches are cut back one-third of the total height of the plant, the side branches one-fourth of their outward spread. Thereafter, each year for the next three years, upright branches should be cut one-third of their current season growth, and one-fourth of their outward spread.

Pruning this shrub thusly, forces it to send out hundreds of new branches throughout, causing it to develop into an attractive fully developed bush.

Glads: Perennial Favorites

GLADIOLUS splashes color in the garden and is a great favorite for cut flowers—in fact, a florist's standby. Easily grown, if a few simple cultural rules are followed, glads are highly rewarding. The color range is exceptionally wide.

For Quick Beauty

Rose plants can be a big help to owners of recently built houses. They offer quick and satisfying results since blooms generally appear the same season in which the rose bush is planted. Together with other shrubs, rose bushes can give the new house an immediate "lived-in look," says the American Association of Nurserymen.

If other activities are likely to leave the new homeowner with little time to get his landscape started in the first year, then he may find it worth while to try a few roses in tubs. These tubs can be put close to the house on either side of the front doorway, or spotted about the property as accent plants.

Improvising in this manner can serve to attract attention away from unsightly bare spots on the property. Once using them the homeowner may want to retain the tubs of roses permanently. They look exceptionally well on a bleak concrete stone or gravel patio.

Tree Roses for Accents

If you wish to attract special attention to any particularly pleasing part of your property, or to dress up and dignify an obscure corner, plant tree roses, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Tree roses are the most stately of all. Even planted in the midst of your rose or other garden they will attract the eye immediately.

What is a tree rose? It is, in effect, a small tree trunk usually three to four feet in height with what looks like a lovely bouquet of roses growing at the top. The kind of flowers may be hybrid tea, floribunda, grandiflora or climber. The kind of flowers is determined by the type which the growth "buds" to the trunk.

Tree roses are wonderful accent plants because of the sharp contrast between the flowers, which sometimes seem to be a beautiful bouquet of roses suspended in space, depending on how and where the plant is set out. Tree roses in pots or tubs especially do marvels in beautifying a garden patio, porch or any other area used for dining and entertainment. They probably will cause more comments from guests than almost any other flowers. Tree roses usually are available only from nurserymen, including quality garden centers.

Garden Clubs

Rose expert, Mrs. Ralph Boggs, will speak and officers will be elected at a meeting of Belmont Heights Garden Club at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Boggs requested those having roses in bloom to bring a few flowers to the meeting. Mrs. Josephine Woods will preside and tea hostesses will be Mmes. Nannie Wood, Cora Bovyer, Ethel Anderson, Jo Ibbotson, Julia Morris and Miss Mildred Morris. Visitors will be welcome.

"Species as Greenhouse Companions for Orchid Hybrids" will be the topic of Emerson (Doc) Charles of Costa Mesa in a talk before the Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park clubhouse, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue, Long Beach. The public is invited and admission is free. Orchid plants in bloom will be on display.

"Fuchsia Culture" will be the subject of C. W. Eipper of Lomita in a talk before the Long Beach Fuchsia Society Thursday evening in Machinist Hall, 728 Elm Ave. A jitney potluck dinner is planned at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . Pinching out terminal growth of bushy plants leads to more and showier blooms.

A regular garden spray program will asure you of a more beautiful, healthy, insect-free garden.

Plant dahlias now. They want the best soil you can provide. Perfect drainage and staking. Plant the stake first, then put the neck of the dahlia carefully near its base.

Set out annuals and perennials from nursery flats. The more the merrier.

If we hit a period of a week without rain, start using the hose. In the spring particularly it is essential to keep plants growing lustily.

Seed Intrigue

There's something really fascinating about starting plants from seed. True, it may be more practical to use seedlings from the nursery for most things, but do try some seed for the fun of watching the full plant life cycle.

Godetias, candytuft, alyssum, calendulas, sweetpeas, radishes, parsley are excellent to try because they are pretty surefire. Kids love the experience of planting seed. However, get snail and slug bait from the C. A. N. nurseryman before the seedlings emerge so you don't have them eaten overnight.

DO YOU NEED ONE OR TWO LETTERS?
SOLVE COMPLETELY
every Crossword Puzzle you start with this brand new CROSSWORD DICTIONARY. Here's how you use it. The nearly 400 pages contain over 72,000 definitions listed alphabetically. These describe those seldom seen words that survive only in Crossword Puzzles. If you are stumped by a 3-letter word meaning "macaw", look it up. You'll find it is "ara".
There are also 13 Special Sections devoted to money, famous people and geography. Now, if you're still groping, a Special Cross Reference is included which lists every 2, 3 and 4-letter word. If you know any one letter of a 3-letter word or any 2 letters of a 4-letter word, you can solve the puzzle. How to use this section is fully explained in the preface.
Crossword Puzzlers, with the aid of the CROSSWORD DICTIONARY you will have seen your last frustrating blank square. To order

ROSE BASS

Anniversary Treats

THIS IS a love story. It all began 15½ years ago when Rose Matz and a neighbor woman went to a Baltimore, Md., theater and saw the movie "Johnny Belinda."

As they strolled through the lobby afterward, the neighbor met a cheerful, dark-eyed friend named Jack Bass. She introduced him to Rose and the three went to a nearby cafe for coffee and an hour of bright conversation. Jack was so enchanted by the lively personality of Rose that he began dating her. Some time later, when her doctor sent Rose to Miami, Fla., to recuperate from a nagging illness, Jack found that he missed her very much. He took the next plane to Florida where his presence quickly helped Rose regain her strength.

They were married five months after their chance meeting in that Baltimore theater. A few years later they came to Long Beach and went into the restaurant business. In 1955 they opened Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. 2nd St., Naples. Working very hard, they turned it into one of the city's finest restaurants, making friends by the score with their congeniality and the high quality of their prime rib au jus and charcoal-broiled steaks.

This Wednesday night Jack and Rose will have a double celebration marking their 15th wedding anniversary and their 9th year as owners of the Corsican. They will share their fun with their guests by including marvelous Emerald dry wine and anniversary cake with all dinners. Adding to the gaiety will be entertainment by pianist Franz Steininger, supported by the voices of many professional singers who will drop in to serenade Jack and Rose.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Playing Vaudeville in Long Beach 'Shook' Donald

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The 8-year-old boy had gone back to get a second plate of macaroni and had it in his hands when, suddenly, the floor "started swimming."

It was March 10, 1933, and Long Beach was hit by the worst earthquake in its history.

The 8-year-old boy was Donald O'Connor who, with his family, had been doubling in vaudeville that day at the Strand and State Theaters here.

He had gone with his mother to an Ocean Blvd. cafeteria for lunch when the earthquake hit.

"It was just like waves," he said. "I looked out the window and I saw a building tumbling down."

• • • •

THE WOMAN in front of him started running and the boy ran after her. He heard his mother call and he stopped.

"A second later the front of the cafeteria building we were in came crashing down," he said.

Neither Donald nor his mother was hurt. His older brother, Jack, however, was injured in a bingo parlor in the amusement zone.

When the earthquake hit, the bingo patrons rushed to get outdoors and Jack was pushed through the plate-glass door. He was badly cut, but not permanently injured.

• • • •

LOOKING back to that day, Donald still remembers one thing vividly—a fork.

"I don't know what happened to the dish of macaroni," he said, "but I hung on to the fork.

"I kept it with me for a week—even when I was sleeping. Don't ask me why, because I don't know why."

He grinned and added:

"I still like macaroni, but I eat it with a knife now."

Without the macaroni and the knife, Donald makes his second appearance as guest host of "The Hollywood Palace" at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, channel 7.

He is the only host that has been brought back for a second time on the popular variety show.

Donald, in fact, has been asked by the show's producers to take over as permanent host.

He was tempted because, for him, "it's like getting back home to vaudeville."

• • • •

HE OVERCAME the temptation for a practical reason—money. He makes more of it doing personal-appearance tours. The way he has the tours organized also permits him more time with his family.

If he committed himself as Palace host—a live show—it would drastically curtail his personal-appearance tours.

Besides, Donald is still rankled about his latest experience with television—not "The Hollywood Palace" appearances.

With Soupy Sales playing his agent, Donald had put together the pilot of a series based on "Letters From a Hoofer to His Mom," a best-selling book by former vaudevillian Jack Donahue.

"The show was so completely different that I think it scared a lot of people," said Donald.

* * * *

"THE PATTERN today is fall in line with the same show and sell it over and over and over again.

"If a situation comedy called 'She Loves Me in December' is a hit, you can bet next season there'll be a 'She Loves Me in January' too."

Donald's situation-comedy series, although it was "completely different," almost made it for next fall.

A sponsor liked it and a network liked it. But the sponsor didn't like the time-slot the network offered so the deal fell through.

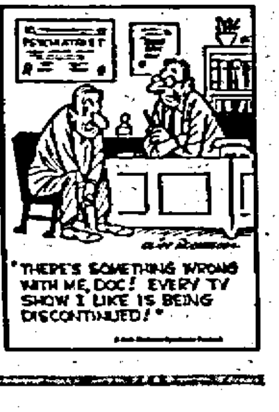
Donald may be rankled, but he's not defeated.

With the TV series out of the picture, he's hoping to do a movie. Currently he's negotiating for purchase of the musical rights to a book he thinks would make an excellent motion-picture. He didn't name the book.

And, from his receptions on his personal-appearance tours, he's convinced of one thing.

"Hoofing hasn't gone off the market," he said.

One of the prime hoofers in the market-place is still a guy named O'Connor.



"THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH ME, DOC! EVERY TV SHOW I LIKE IS BEING DISCONTINUED!"

WANDERING VIDEO MINSTREL

His fellow performers, attendant technicians and others who accompany him on the road are indebted to Perry Como for getting them a working vacation in such places as San Francisco, Hollywood and New Orleans.

Perry's wanderlust is the result of a unique television schedule for this season, a total of seven appearances in as many cities. Besides the aforementioned cities, Perry has done, or will do, shows in Dallas, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Minneapolis (the latter city is the site for Como's show 10 p.m. Thursday, channel 4.)

Asked about his travels, Perry spoke of the need for a television performer to get away from home base, be it Hollywood or New York. Perry has the wanderlust.

* * * *

"IT WAS an idea I had," he said. "I think all of us tend to get stale in our own stages. We get so involved and impressed with our own inventiveness. Who cares about a blue balustrade (a row of Roman-type columns)? Stick a camera out there and let the people perform."

Most of Perry's traveling in recent years has been between his Long Island home and Manhattan where he did all his shows. He welcomed the change in geography and frequency of appearances. The handsome singer cut down his appearances from 30 to 7 this season.

"I have found that it's a chore doing 30," said Perry, who'll be 52 years old this May. "Let's face it, I can't sing for an hour for 30 weeks, and get away with it. Nobody can.

"I'LL TELL you what it's done," he said, referring to his current career as a wandering video minstrel. "It's given us a lot of fun. I hadn't been out of New York working in 15 years. It's a lot of traveling, more than I've done in 20 years."

Como's plans for next season are incomplete. An associate says, "He waits until the last minute."

His sponsors are going over all the pertinent data needed for decision-making in television. So is Perry, but there's one difference. His intelligence service includes a complete rundown of the nation's top winter golf courses.

SPECIAL

MORMON CONFERENCE—90-year-old David O. McKay, president, presides over the 134th annual general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, live from the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City at 9 a.m., ch. 11. Featured is the 375-voice Tabernacle Choir and organ.

ANGEL BY THE HAND—Actor Marvin Miller is narrator for a first-run showing of a color film explaining adoption through a modern agency, from the anguish of the natural parent's parting from the child to the satisfaction of the adoptive family. Show marks the time shift of "Survey '64" to 6:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4, and deals also with the difficulty of finding homes for children of minority races or with medical problems.

THE CELEBRITY GAME—Premiere. Carl Reiner is moderator for a new series at 9 p.m., ch. 2, in which Hollywood stars register pro and con votes in provocative, light-hearted questions (chiefly love and marriage) as three contestants try to guess their vote. Dr. Joyce Brothers is series consultant, with William Bendix, James Darren, Troy Donahue and bride Suzanne Pleshette, Eartha Kitt, Dorothy Malone, Robert Morse, Agnes Moorehead and Cliff Robertson, the nine guest celebrities on opener.

MADE IN AMERICA—Premiere. Hans Conried hosts a new panel series in which all contestants are millionaires at 9:30 p.m., ch. 2. Jan Sterling, Walter Slezak and Don Murray are panelists for the opener, charged with identifying the three millionaires and determining how each made his fortune. Cash prizes go to the contestants' pet charities.

Where's the Basketball?

UCLA's current championship basketball team, the only one in the university's history to go through the regular season undefeated, will be featured in a 90-minute special on channel 5 starting at 4 p.m. today (Sunday).

It will include highlights of the National Collegiate Championship games in Kansas City. There will be films of the team's victory at the NCAA Western Regional Finals in Corvallis, Ore.

The program will also show the arrival of the champions at Los Angeles International Airport, including their excited welcome from admiring fans.

Fred Hessler, who narrates for the special, will interview Coach Johnny Wooden and his assistant, Jerry Norman. The pair will give their post-victory opinions of the championship tourney.

* * * *

A PORTION of the program, that specifically devoted to Coach Wooden, is a repeat.

It was aired by channel 5 prior to the team's winning at the NCAA Western Regional Finals.

During this repeat portion, Wooden is visited at his home. He discusses his philosophy of coaching and speaks of the men who have influenced his life.

Another highlight of the repeat segment features action shots from UCLA's final game with USC.

SPECIAL

THE ESTABLISHMENT — Hour-long revue of acid commentaries, ranging from heterosexuality to politics, is at 9 p.m., ch. 11. Written by Peter Cook, the all-new production features Peter Bellwood, Francis Bethencourt, Alexandra Berlin, Roddy Maude-Roxby and Carole Simpson, plus the accompaniment of the Marian McPartland Trio. (Hour will be repeated next Sunday at 9 p.m.)

EAST SIDE/WEST SIDE— The highly-acclaimed, award-winning (but canceled) series, which will be cited by the L.A. County Employes Ass'n during today's "Panorama Pacific" (8 a.m., ch. 2), repeats at 10 p.m. a segment with which it hopes to bid for an Emmy nomination. Diana Sands and James Earl Jones star in a poignant love story of a young Negro couple whose baby falls victim to the filth of the Harlem slums in which they live. Episode, whose choice to represent the U.S. was questioned, struck out at the Monte Carlo Film Festival awards.

Pan and Fan Mail

Last Wednesday I stayed home from an important meeting and made it a point to watch "Ben Casey," which I never do.

The reason was that I'm a student of Indian lore and your log said there would be a rare Apache sun dance during a dream sequence.

Well, there was a brief portion of a burial dance at the beginning of the program. There wasn't any more sun dance than a man in the moon.

Mrs. Peggy Pollach, Long Beach.

The public relations man who forwarded the logging information about the Indian sun dance is a student of cowboy lore.

I am replying to your request last week from Mrs. S. Dahl about Lori March who was a clairvoyant on the Perry Mason Show.

Lori did not graduate from Wilson High in Long Beach, but, rather, is a graduate of Beverly Hills High School.

Her real name is Lori Von Eltz.

She had leads in many school productions and was a very charming friend. I graduated the same year, 1940.

Another now successful alum of that vintage at BHHS was Betty White (now Mrs. Allen Ludden).

Lori can be seen almost daily in the daytime serial, "Secret Storm," channel 2

Mrs. John Graham, Long Beach.

Thanks, and what Eltz is new?

Ever notice that in the TV commercials on beer and wine, of which there are many, not a single one shows anyone actually guzzling the stuff? Pictures show the happy fluid being poured—but never quaffed. Wonder why?

We wish the Little Old Winemaker would get a new pair of pants.

J. Paul Gleason, Long Beach

The National Assn. of Broadcasters, who oversees the content of commercials, frowns on quaffing on screen. I want to emphasize, though, J. Paul, that the NAB has no negative provision with regards to providing the Little Old Winemaker with new trousers.

• • • •

Who played the lead role in the "Tightrope" television series?

Donald Pettijohn, Long Beach.

Mike Connors, not David Janssen.

TV MOVIE TIPS

SUNDAY

PRINCE AND THE PAUPER—5 p.m. on channel 9. An excellent 1937 movie starring Errol Flynn, Claude Rains and the Mauch Twins. The skillful adaptation of Mark Twain's story is about a beggar who changes places with a prince.

ROCK AROUND THE WORLD—6 p.m. on channel 7. A 1957 movie starring Tommy Steele. The "rock" is the kind that goes with roll.

INDISCREET — 7:30 p.m. on channel 9 in COLOR. Stars Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman. Romantic comedy about an American diplomat and an European actress who believe in love, but not necessarily marriage. A 1958 production.

THE SABOTEUR — 11:15 p.m. on channel 2. Excellent Hitchcock suspenser about fifth columnists in the U.S. The spy story, a 1942 production, stars Robert Cummings, Priscilla Lane

COVER GIRL—11:30 p.m. on channel 4. Pretty good 1944 musical about a chorus girl and the dancer she loves. Stars Rita Hayworth, Gene Kelly and Phil Silvers.

MONDAY

THE VIRGIN QUEEN — 7:30 p.m. on channel 4 in COLOR. A 1955 release starring Bette Davis, Richard Todd and Joan Collins. About the romance between aging Queen Elizabeth I and handsome young Sir Walter Raleigh.

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME — 8 p.m. and nightly on channel 9. Produced in France, the 1956 movie stars Gina Lollobrigida and Anthony Quinn. Adaptation of Victor Hugo's classic about the love of a hunchbacked bellringer for a beautous gypsy girl.

WEDNESDAY

CONFIDENTIAL AGENT—10 p.m. on channel 9. Pretty good adventure story with the Spanish Civil War as the background. A 1945 production starring Charles Boyer and Lauren Bacall.

FRIDAY

CARBINE WILLIAMS — 7 p.m. on channel 11. Stars James Stewart in a 1952 release. It's about the personal life of the man who invented the carbine rifle for use by the armed forces.

SATURDAY

THE TREASURE OF THE SIERRA MADRE—8:30 p.m. on channel 11. Excellent movie about men who strike gold, then combat bandits and each other. A 1948 production starring Humphrey Bogart and Walter Huston. It's the winner of three Academy Awards, including one of Walter Huston as best supporting actor.

RED BALL EXPRESS—10:30 p.m. on channel 7. Story of an Army transportation corps efforts to get supplies through to stalled tanks at the front. A 1952 movie starring Jeff Chandler, Sidney Poitier and Hugh O'Brien.

BORN YESTERDAY—11:15 p.m. on channel 2. Judy Holliday won an Academy Award as best actress for this one. She plays an ex-chorus girl linked with a millionaire junk dealer. Co-stars Broderick Crawford and William Holden. A 1950 production.

YOU MIGHT NOT BELIEVE IT from this scene with Juliette Greco and Errol Flynn, but the 1958 movie "The Roots of Heaven" is principally about African elephants. It airs 8:30 p. m. Thursday on channel 5 in COLOR.

Jana Taylor's Bad Luck Is Good

KEPT UNDER WRAPS

SHATTERING EXPERIENCE FOR JANA TAYLOR

UNWRAPPED

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pretty Jana Taylor is a professional patient, a gal who makes a good living on television's "General Hospital."

For more than a year, Miss Taylor has been the Number One patient on the ABC-TV show. In her case, it pays to be sick. It has paid her thousands of dollars during the past year.

Jana plays the part of "Angie Costello" on the show, a half-hour serial which runs five days a week on the network.

"I must have done close to 150 of the shows," the 20-year-old actress said.

Jana started out on the series as an unfortunate girl who was seriously injured in an automobile accident. Her injuries left a horrible scar on the young lady's face. It took more than a year for the show's doctor star, former baseball player John Berardino to patch her up.

"IT'S BEEN VERY INTERESTING, very challenging," Jana said. "You have a lot of emotion to deal with in a role like that, and that's the challenge—to produce it. It's not just an ingenue role. I don't like straight ingenue work. If I had to do that I wouldn't stay in this business."

In the year since Jana was packed into "General Hospital" to be treated for her injuries, the young actress has been a ready source of hospital-type emotion. If the doctors run out of diseases, they can always practice surgery on Miss Taylor's face.

However, all things must come to an end, even Jana's confinement in the hospital. She has been released, but continued for a while as an out-patient.

JANA IS NOT the only patient on the show. There are others without whom the series could not survive. After all, what good is a hospital if nobody is sick?

For instance, there's somebody on the show who plays a malaria victim. That's good because it takes years to cure such a disease.

Then there's Ralph Manza, the man who plays Jana's father in the show.

Ralph also is an ill character, and therefore always available for an emotional scene.

It appears as if other patients might have to carry the medical case load on "Hospital" now that Jana has been cured. Other things are planned for her.

Jana's father on the show is expected to buy a pizza parlor in which she'll be a waitress. The place will be located near the hospital, of course.

And there's always a chance Jana might become a patient if she gets burned by a roll of hot pizza dough.

PERRY COMO — For his sixth show of the season, Como goes to the campus of the University of Minnesota, at Minneapolis, presenting singer Keely Smith, comedian Bob Newhart in a salute to the opening of the baseball season, pianist Peter Nero and the University's Men's Glee Club at 10 p.m., cha. 4. Como winds up his season May 28 with an hour from Chicago, returning in the fall with seven more specials in the same time slot, again alternating with "Suspense Theatre."

RICHARD BURTON and the Bard—Playbill editor Walter Wager and ABC's Bob Young interview the actor at a "Hamlet" cast party held last Friday in Boston, exploring the impact of Shakespeare on drama, culture and language on the 400th anniversary of his birth. The 10:30 p.m., ch. 7, program also shows scenes of today's opening night crowds on Broadway where "Hamlet" begins at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre.

BOOTLICKING BOB

'Obnoxious Lt. Carpenter' Nice Guy's Video Role

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

Hastings plays the role of "Lt. Elroy Carpenter," the bootlicking naval officer on ABC-TV's "McHale's Navy." Bob's role is that of an obnoxious aide to Joe Flynn, the show's grouchy "Capt. Binghamton" who is always trying to get Ernest "McHale" Borgnine tossed out of the Navy.

BOB HASTINGS

It's a rather nasty role that Bob plays. Nobody likes him, not even the contentious captain he's trying to impress.

Personally, Hastings is a nice guy, not at all the status-seeking brass-hat he plays on screen. Bob took the job in "McHale's" expecting that it would be only for one episode.

"I came in the second show for one shot and stayed," he said. "They decided to make me the captain's aide. Nobody takes the beating I do on television. I'm sure the people enjoy watching the 'yes man' get booted."

Hastings said his character of "Lt. Carpenter," albeit a momma's boy, is necessary to the show because "he's somebody the captain can talk to. Everybody else is the captain's enemy.

"Carpenter isn't a dope. He knows the Navy. And he's fallen into the captain's pattern of wanting McHale thrown out off the post. And he resents a man so un-Navy as McHale getting medals.

WHAT STARTED out to be a one-shot part for Hastings appears to be a job that could last four or five years. The show is in its second season now and has been renewed for a third.

Bob has been in the acting business 28 years, starting out as a kid singer on radio's National Barn Dance. When he's not working on "McHale's" Bob appears on other shows.

The "Lt. Carpenter" character is the first time Hastings has played a role other than one which he describes as "everybody's buddy."

"I've always played the fast-talking guy," he said. "We have a great time working on this show. A lot of times when I get hit with something I don't even expect, it's because I haven't been to rehearsal."

Hit is the word. It's not unusual for the irate captain to whack his hapless lieutenant on the head.

California World's Fair

A 15-minute progress report on the 1967-68 California World's Fair in Long Beach will be aired on radio station KFOX (1280) at 5:30 p.m. today (Sunday).

Glenn Watson, executive vice president and general manager for the fair, will present the report, including his outlook on future expectations.

The report will be the first in a series of monthly messages. Various individual leaders associated with the multi-million dollar international project will be featured.

BLACK MOMENTS OF REALITY

True Violence on TV Screen Influences Viewer to Avoid Brutal Fiction Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Though Congress may investigate television violence again, it is likely that real-life error on the home screen in recent years is having more effect on the viewer mood than the fiction.

It may not be too far-fetched to suggest that from seeing these black moments of reality, some good is emerging in merely making the vast audience of televiewers more sensitive to the horrors of violence and hate in an edgy world.

Consider some of the events of these years that have been seen in living rooms across the nation:

There was the night that a televised boxing match ended with one of the participants, Benny (Kid) Paret, being fatally injured.

There was the killing of President Kennedy, which, while not telecast nationally at the moment the shooting occurred, was quickly aired in reconstructed film form.

There was the fatal shooting of Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee Oswald, by Jack Ruby.

There was the televised verdict of death at Ruby's trial.

ONE OF OUR LAWYER friends thinks that the harsh verdicts in the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnaping and Ruby cases may well stem partly from a modern-era reaction by citizens against fear of bodily harm. In short, that the uneasiness of current life—including the bomb—has made possible bodily offense a more personal matter.

Be that as it may, there is no question that present and future network entertainment schedules contain a good deal less violence than in the past—and congressional investigations of fiction are by no means the only reason any more.

Violence, of course, is always around, often in legitimate dramatic form. But few serious parties pay attention to the nonsensical arguments that since Shakespeare and other great writers employed violence, the often crude video handlers should therefore be considered in the same light.

IT IS PROBABLY no accident that the highest-rated western on the air, "Bonanza," is relatively light on violence, and that the majority of most-watched shows are comedies. There will be even more laughers on the networks in the fall.

The National Association of Broadcasters recently toughened its guidelines for commercials about warlike toys. Boxing, which once had three weekly network programs, will soon have none. On April 28, David Brinkley will narrate a special called "Boxing's Last Round."

These, of course, are only items—as was Gary Cooper's lament, shortly before he died, about the over-emphasis in western fiction on cowboy punks. The prime fact is that neither do-gooders nor reformers can move the public like a first-hand look at the true face of violence itself.

'Mr. Broadway'

Broadway playwright-director Garson Kahn ("Born Yesterday") has discovered television and is under contract to David Susskind of Talent Associates to provide two pilot scripts for prospective series for next fall. One is an hour show called "Mr. Broadway," about a press agent, and the other is a half-hour idea entitled "Missie," dealing with the adventures of a small-town girl in New York.

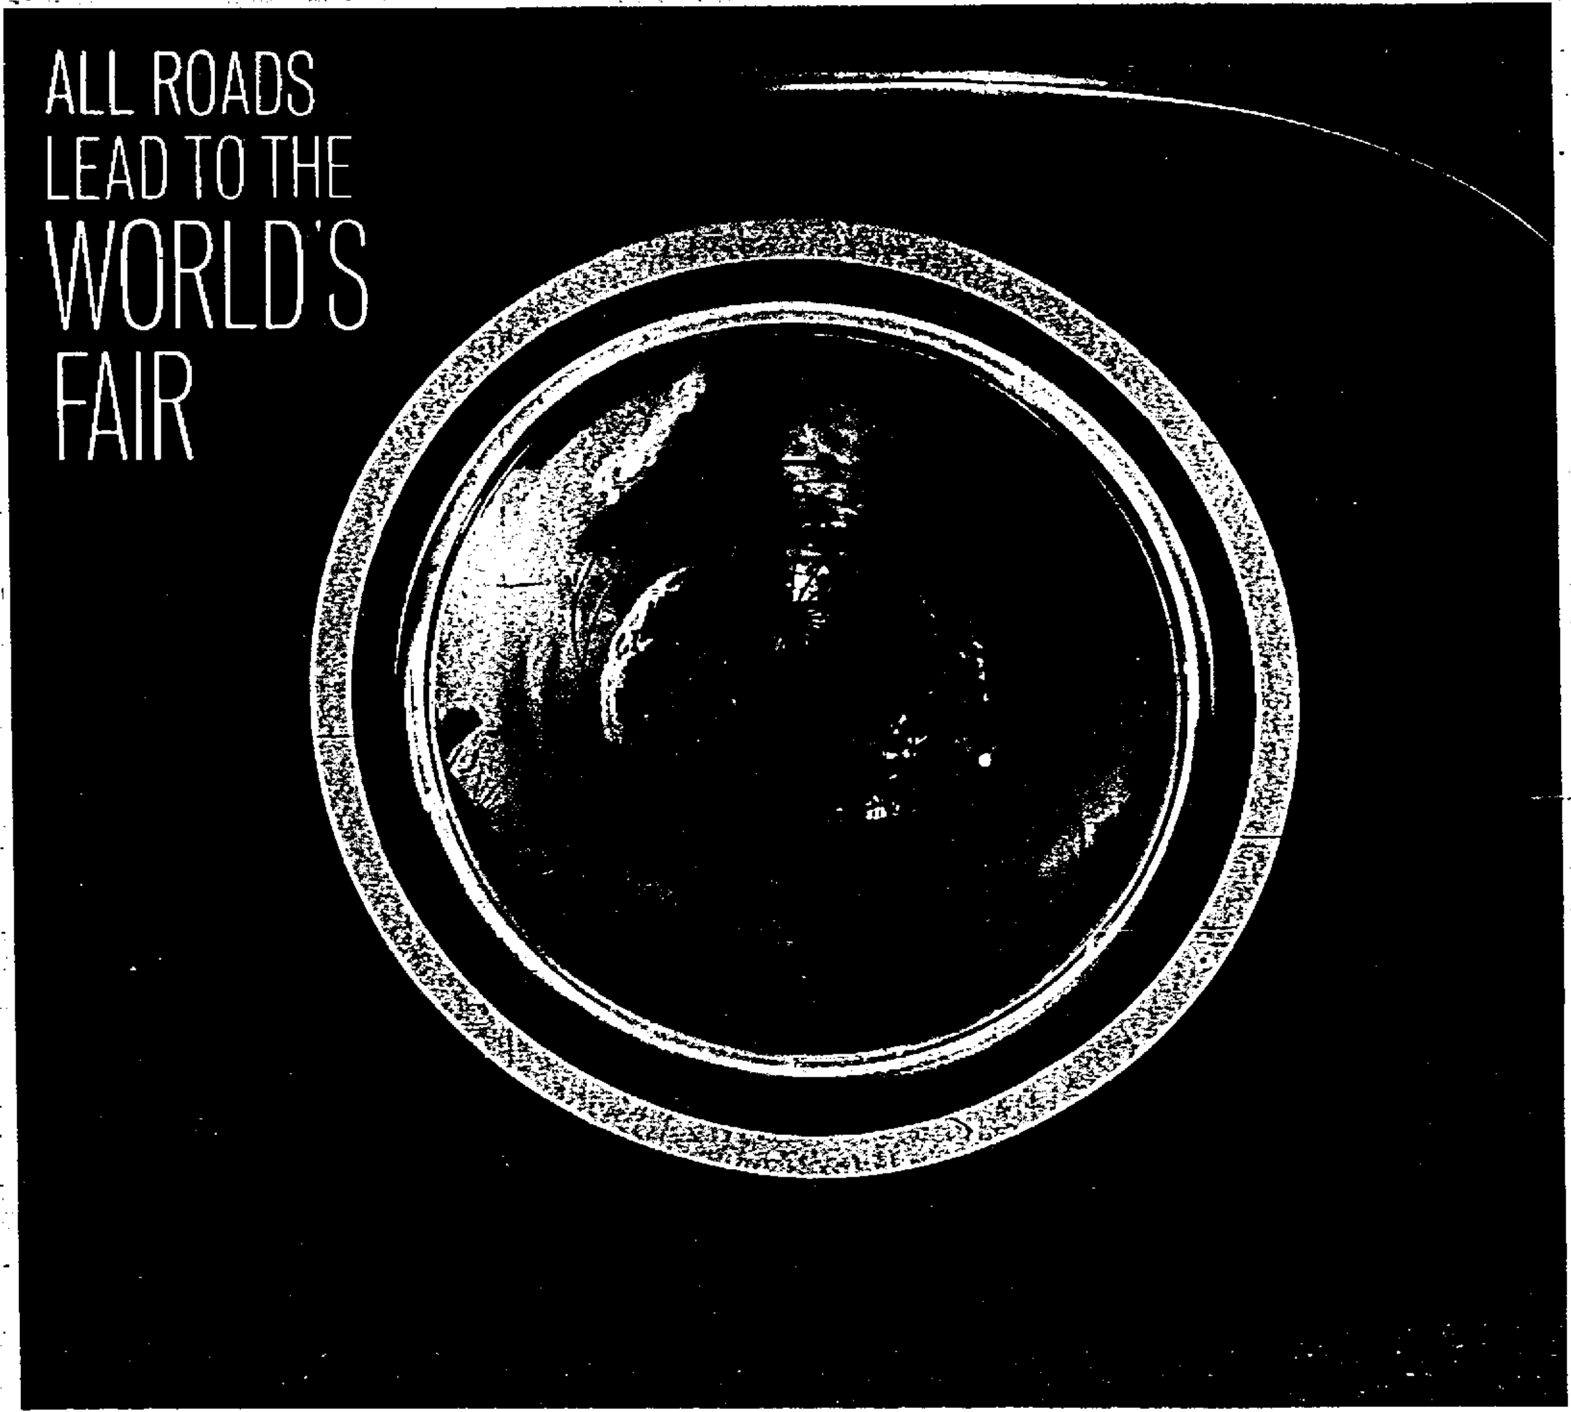
THE FIRST LADY'S ADVICE ON RAISING TEENAGERS

A WORLD'S FAIR BARGAIN FOR PARADE READERS



ALL ROADS LEAD TO THE WORLD'S FAIR

April 5, 1964

Walter Scott's

Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy could have easily survived the wound from his assassin's first bullet, but that the third bullet, allegedly fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, really did him in? I've read so many conflicting reports about the shooting. Is there an authoritative autopsy report or something?—A.T., Arlington, Tex.

A. The autopsy report given to the Secret Service and the Warren Commission reveals that Kennedy was struck first in the upper part of the right back shoulder. The bullet caused a hematoma, a swelling containing blood, inside the neck and shoulder muscles. Physicians believe the President might easily have recovered from that wound. The second bullet to hit the late President, thought to have been the third shot fired by the assassin, hit Kennedy in the lower right back side of the head. It caused such immediate and violent destruction to his head as to be "completely incompatible with life." That bullet destroyed considerable brain tissue, severely damaged the forehead, and a fragment from that bullet exited through the throat. The throat wound, first observed by Dallas physicians who tried to save the President, gave rise to the speculation that two assassins might have been involved in the murder, one shooting from the front and one from the rear. The autopsy report proves conclusively, however, that the shots which killed the President were fired from behind. The Dallas doctors who treated him at Parkland Memorial Hospital were unaware that the President had been first shot in the shoulder since he was on his back at all times while at the hospital. An autopsy was performed on the late President's body on November 22, 1963, at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Q. Will Dolores del Rio (r) ever see 60 again?—Diane Home, El Paso, Tex.

A. Never.

Q. Will Mrs. J. D. Tippit of Dallas pay income tax on the more than $600,000 in gifts she's received?—Mrs. D. Gregory, Portland, Ore.

A. No.

Q. Ernest Hemingway left an estate valued at more than a million bucks. My question is, how much of the estate was in stocks and bonds?—K. Peters, Sun Valley, Ida.

A. The estate included $418,933 in stocks and bonds; $801,766 in real estate; $189,611 in notes, cash and mortgages. Stocks held by Hemingway included 304 shares of Eastman Kodak, 504 shares of General Motors, 280 shares of American Tobacco, 240 shares of Bethlehem Steel and 336 shares of AT&T.

Q. On what grounds did Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Jackie Kennedy, receive an annulment of her 1953 marriage to Michael Canfield?—Leon Guterman, Miami, Fla.

A. The annulment was granted on a charge that Canfield, a non-Catholic, had entered the marriage with no intention of having children.

Q. Does the Austrian police force consist of Nazis? Is that why they roughed up our Olympic stars at Innsbruck?—Heidi Gunther, Oakland, Calif.

A. Says sportscaster Tom Harmon, who covered the Winter Olympics: "It was a brutal mish-mash. Some of the Austrian police reminded me of the Storm Troopers in Hitler Germany. They are completely totalitarian. Their dislikes were not confined to Americans, but included everyone visiting there. They set the tourist trade in Austria back 10 years."

Q. How old is Lana Turner? Does she drink?—Ina Kurtz, Columbia, S.C.

A. Miss Turner, 44, has been known to indulge.

Q. Why has the press consistently refused to tell the story of Father Donald Runkle?—T.R.S., Washington, D.C.

A. The press has carried the story of how Father Runkle, 50, was ordered by a Chicago judge to pay damages to 38-year-old Robert McArdle for alienating the affections of Mrs. McArdle, 36. She was the organist at Father Runkle's church and was divorced last summer because of an affair with the priest from 1958 to 1962. After doing penance, Father Runkle was transferred from Chicago to Odessa, Tex.

Q. How long has Gunsmoke been on the air? Is it true that Jim Arness and Amanda Blake have been made millionaires by the show?—Chuck Adams, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Gunsmoke has been on the air 11 years. Both Arness and Blake as a result are in the millionaire class or soon will be.

Q. Does Zsa Zsa Gabor have any ability as an actress—I mean as a serious actress?—Elaine Hammer, Jersey City, N.J.

A. Practically none.

Q. Is Frank Costello still the leader of the Mafia in this country?—Dino Landi, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Police authorities believe the leader still to be Vito Genovese.

A. Douglas insists he's the most disliked.

A. Jill and Paul are friends. The Beatles don't need any more publicity. Jill and Sal are not as close as they once were.

Q. Is the David Susskind marriage breaking up?—C.T., Swampscott, Mass.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me if the State of New York pays Governor Rockefeller his full salary while he's running around the country?—R.W. Wales, Syracuse, N.Y.

A. Yes. Potential Presidential candidates are not taken off salary because they aspire to higher office.

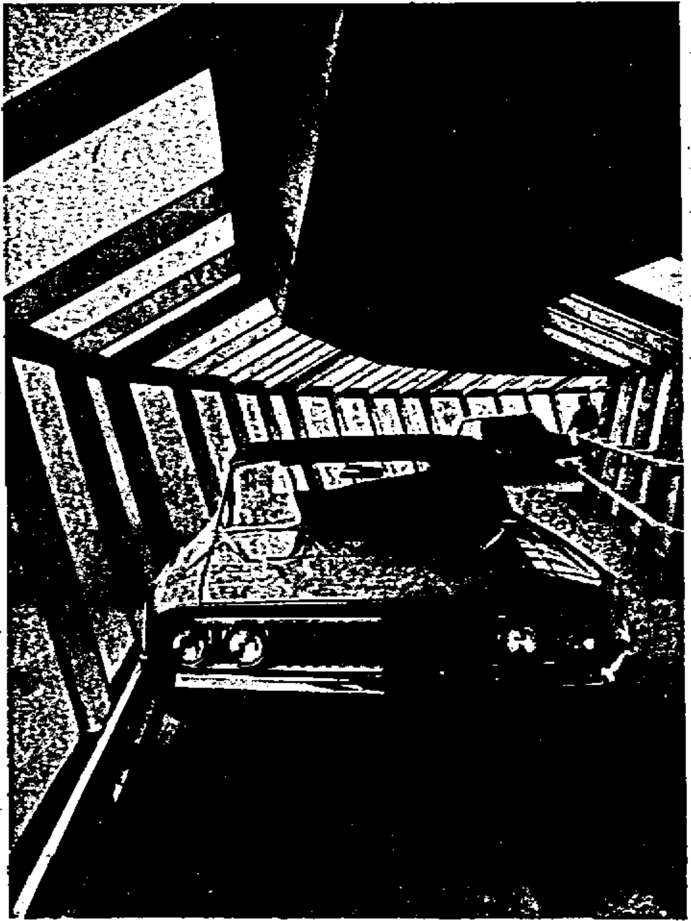
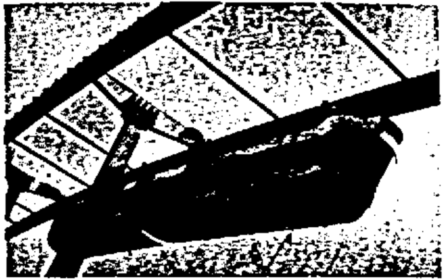
1964's BIG SHOW

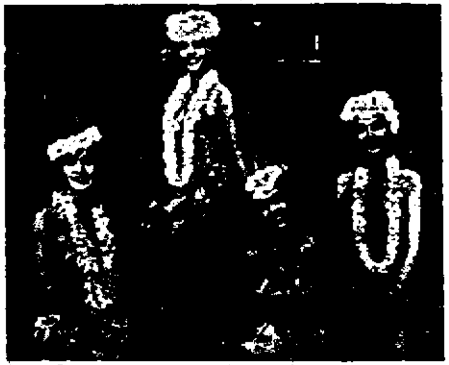
HERE'S YOUR PREVIEW OF THE WORLD'S FAIR • by NEAL ASHBY



Ford's "Magic Skyway" ride in convertibles begins with ascent up plastic tunnel overlooking Fair. Cars move inside Ford Pavilion, seem to speed through time and arrive at the "dawn of life on earth." Disney-developed electronic cavemen wave and speak. Ride moves on to coming Space Age. Passengers wear seat belts.



Monorail, 40 feet up, carries 40 passengers per car around amusement area. The ride lasts 7 minutes.



Hawaiian beauties in leis, native costumes, will dance a hula six times a day inside Hawaii's Pavilion.

Tent of Tomorrow, built by New York state, will house fashion shows, programs. Roof is multicolored.

The gates to New York's billion-dollar 1964-65 World's Fair swing open on April 22. Awaiting visiting throngs inside will be 150 exhibit pavilions of every color and shape, every kind of show the entertainment world can produce, the earth's greatest treasures and achievements on display. The Fair-goer can check a child, get a free shoeshine, appear on color television.

Where does he start? A book couldn't tell you everything about the Fair. But to simplify matters, the Fair site at Flushing Meadow Park is divided into 5 principal areas. Why not begin in the area that promises to hold the highest interest for you? Here are the areas and some of their highlights:

TRANSPORTATION. America's auto manufacturers will have major exhibits. General Motors is prepared to send off 70,000 persons a day on its Futurama ride. They'll see man as GM thinks he will function in a variety of future earthly and space settings.

On 5 bridge-connected islands in an artificial lake, Chrysler Corp. will demonstrate such facets of its operation as engineering, production and styling. One feature will be a walk-through "engine." Ford will usher guests into convertibles which will carry them through lifelike scenes of prehistoric times, then of a yet-to-come era when Space has been conquered. Walt Disney-created animated electronic figures will perform.

INDUSTRIAL. Under a transparent dome inside its big pavilion, General Electric will produce nuclear fusion. A tremendous electrical current will super-heat plasma of deuterium gas. A flash of light, a rush of sound, and deuterium nuclei will fuse and produce a small burst of energy.

In the 17,000-seat Singer Bowl, events like Olympic trials and folk dancing will take place. Visitors to the IBM Pavilion will ascend on moving chairs into a giant egg where they will attend a computer program.

LAKE AMUSEMENT. Sleek, two-car monorail trains will circle over this reservation of dance, song and thrills (80¢ for a 7-minute ride). The entertainments down below will include Michael Todd, Jr.'s modern minstrel show aboard a Mississippi River showboat on Meadow Lake, an all-new Wax Museum.

INTERNATIONAL. Classic statuary created in the pre-Christian period will be arrayed in the Greek Pavilion. Hawaii's presentation will include hula dancing, Spain's performances by renowned concert artists, the Caribbean its own distinctive foods and music.

FEDERAL AND STATE. Beneath the multicolored dome of New York's Tent of Tomorrow, daily fashion shows and other special programs will be staged. The 11 many-sided sections of the Minnesota Pavilion make it one of the Fair's most far-out architectural concepts.

Fully 80 per cent of all Fair exhibits are free. Admission to the grounds is $2 for adults and $1 for children. Greyhound is supplying transportation in 3 types of vehicles at fares from 25¢ to $9 an hour.

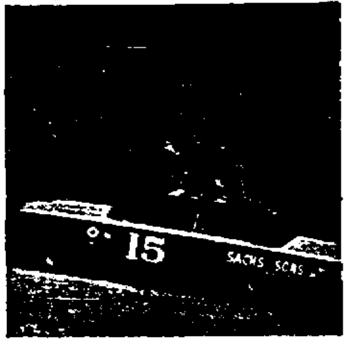
There are 111 restaurants. Prices range from 30¢ for a hot dog at one of the 25 Brass Rail refreshment centers to $6.25 for a steak, à la carte, at the Top of the Fair restaurant. Rest rooms are provided at every refreshment center, every pavilion. There is parking space for 20,000 cars ($1.50).

How long will it take to get a reasonable look at everything? Twelve 8-hour days!

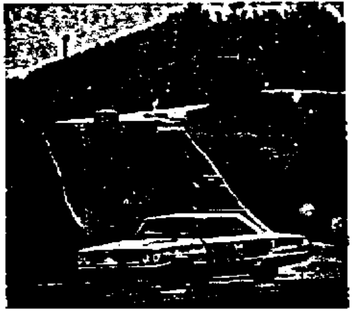
FOR MORE ON THE FAIR TURN THE PAGE...

Four specially equipped Comets each run 100,000 miles . . . averaging 105 mph . . . at the Daytona International Speedway. An unprecedented test of durability!

Ford-powered Lotus stands up to the searing punishment of famous Indianapolis "500" classic. Finishes 2nd . . . only 34 seconds out of 1st place!

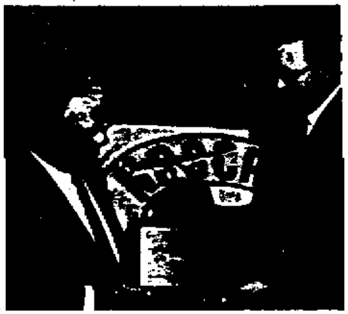


Mercury Marauder proves its stamina and power by setting an all-time record for modified stock cars in the brutal 12½-mile Pikes Peak Hill Climb.



Fords place 1st, 2nd and 3rd in Riverside "500" for competition-modified stock cars—10th straight Ford victory in "500 mile-or-over" NASCAR events.

Five Ford pickups each complete a 100,000-mile durability run in Texas. No overhaul or replacements needed for transmissions or clutches.



NASCAR Award for Engineering Excellence goes to Ford Motor Co. for "outstanding automotive development and proof of performance and reliability."

Engineering excellence puts extra value into your Ford-built car...

YOUR TRIP TO THE WORLD'S FAIR

These two pages of PARADE guarantee you a perfect summer vacation. With PARADE's special World's Fair offer at left, and the special trip prepared with the assistance of the American Automobile Association at right, you and your family—no matter where you live—can drive to and from the top travel attraction of 1964 and get the most out of every mile. You'll know what routes to take, where to stop and what to see as you go. It adds up to the ultimate in economy, enjoyment and family fun.

To plan your family's trip, consult the map for the point closest to your home, then pick up the trip from there. Trips are planned in a loop, and you can begin and end the loop at any point and still see plenty of America. You can also shorten the trip if you wish. The summary below tells you cost, distance to be covered each day, places to stop, what to see.

Note that costs are based on overnight stays in hotels or motels, and all meals taken in restaurants. You can save considerably by camping, or by planning picnic meals.

TRIP FROM THE WEST

Beginning from Las Vegas, Nev., trip lasts 31 days, covers 6,018 miles round trip. Basic cost for couple: $864, including $330 for overnight lodging, $315 for meals, $75 for tips and miscellaneous and $144 for gas and oil, based on 15 miles to the gallon. Extras should be added for admissions, garage parking in New York, tolls, souvenirs. If children are going, add $225 per child to the basic cost.

1ST DAY: Las Vegas to the Grand Canyon, via Williams, Ariz., about 230 miles. One of the nation's most spectacular attractions; stay overnight. (Reserve ahead.) Permit to enter the park is $1.

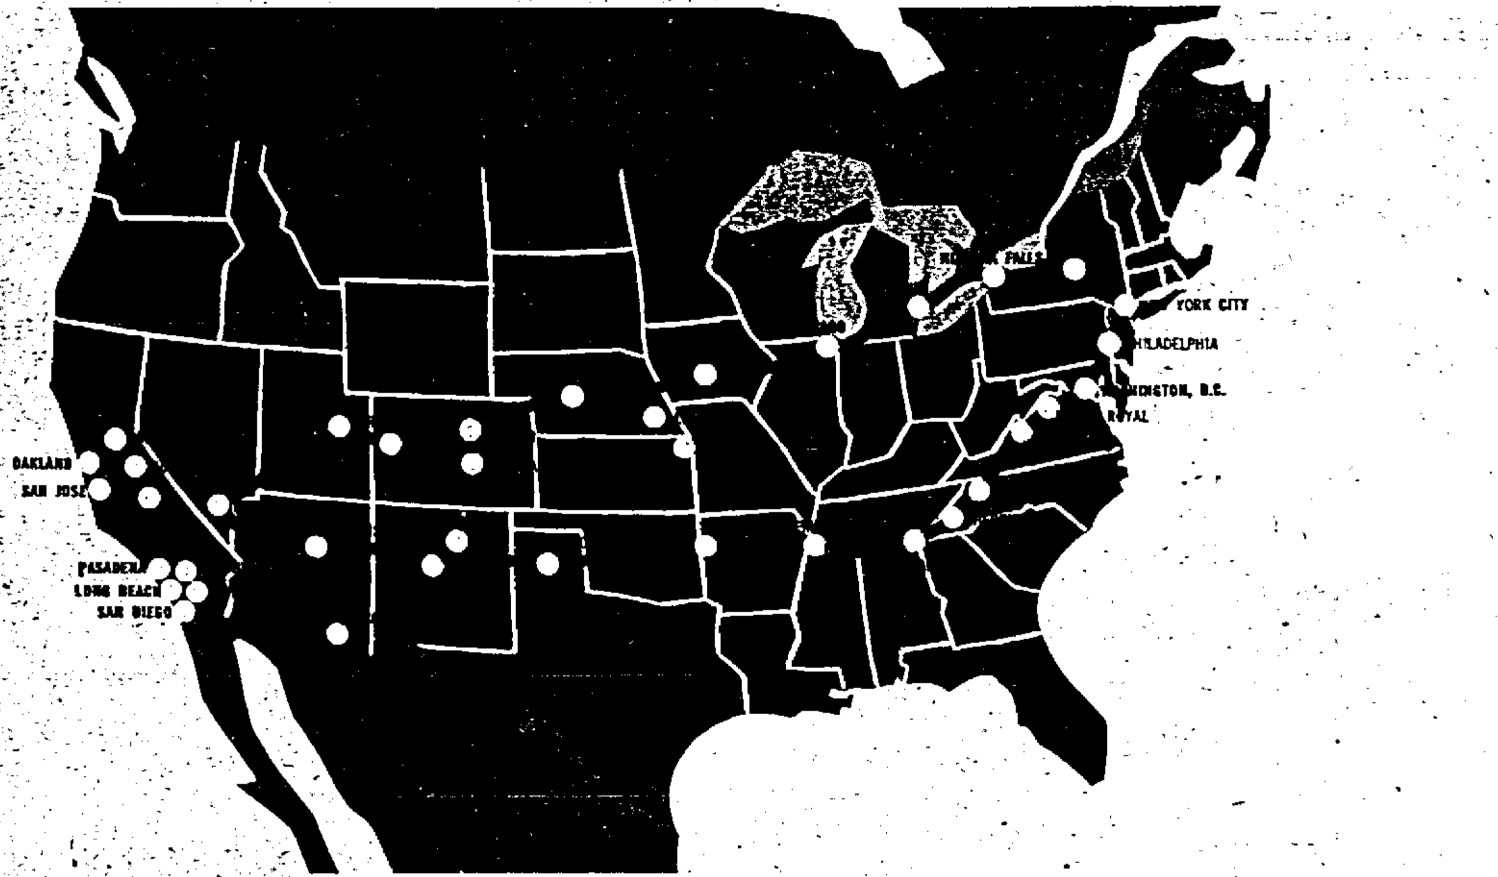
2nd DAY: Grand Canyon to Albuquerque, N. Mex., 357 miles. Near Flagstaff, Ariz., on U.S. 66, visit Meteor Crater, formed 50,000 years ago when a mammoth meteor struck earth. You'll cross the Painted Desert, can also see the Petrified Forest, still arrive in Albuquerque in time for dinner in a Mexican restaurant in Old Town.

3rd DAY: Albuquerque to Santa Fe, 60 miles. An intriguing town for a day's sight-seeing. See the Palace of the Governors, first building in the country put up for governmental use, and used until 1910. Good place to stay is the LaFonda Hotel.

4TH DAY: Santa Fe to Amarillo, Tex., about 350 miles. A driving day. Good motels at Amarillo.

5TH DAY: Amarillo to Fort Smith, Ark., about 462 miles. A driving day.

6TH DAY: Fort Smith to Memphis, Tenn., about 300 miles. Route takes you through the beautiful Ozark Mountains. In Memphis, visit one of the jazz houses on Beale Street, see the colorful Cotton Exchange. You'll also enjoy Chucalissa, a prehistoric Indian village now being reconstructed after extensive archeological excavations.



7th DAY: Memphis to Chattanooga, about 310 miles. This is TVA country; you'll see spectacular Muscle Shoals, Wheeler and Wilson dams. At Chattanooga, visit Lookout Mountain (go by inclined railway), tour the Chattanooga-Chickamauga battlefields, scenes of critical fighting in the Civil War.

8th DAY: Chattanooga to Great Smokies, about 190 miles. You'll come in via the homespun settlement of Cades Cove. Then stop in Gatlinburg for lunch and to shop for souvenirs and mountain honey. Cross through the park; you might spend the night at Cherokee, N.C., where there's a restored Cherokee tribal village and museum. From June to September, the Mountainside Theater presents Unto These Hills, a historical drama of the Cherokees. Write in advance for reservations.

9th DAY: Cherokee to Blowing Rock, N.C., about 150 miles. At Asheville, visit the famous Biltmore Estate, built by George Vanderbilt, then enter the Blue Ridge Parkway, one of the world's most scenic drives, for a 99-mile trip to mountaintop Blowing Rock. You might include a side trip up Mount Mitchell, highest peak in the East. Be sure to make motel reservations for Blowing Rock.

10th DAY: Blowing Rock to Waynesboro, Va., about 267 miles. You'll spend most of the day on the road—9 to 10 hours because of winding parkway.

11th DAY: Waynesboro to Front Royal, Va., about 132 miles. Route follows the majestic Skyline Drive through Shenandoah National Park. Take your time; stop often at overlooks. A side trip to Luray Caverns is well worth it.

12th DAY: Front Royal to Washington, D.C., about 70 miles.

13th DAY: In Washington. Since your driving was so brief on the 12th day, you'll have 2 full days to enjoy the nation's capital, with its aura of excitement as the center of government activities, its foreign embassies, its beautiful parks and avenues. Musts to see are the White House, the Capitol, the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial and Jefferson Memorial; if you have time, stroll along Massachusetts Avenue's Embassy Row, see the Washington Cathedral and Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, two magnificent houses of worship. Visitors this year will also want to see the John F. Kennedy grave in Arlington National Cemetery, overlooking the Potomac.

14th DAY: Washington to New York, 250 miles. With an early start, you can include a short side trip to Philadelphia.

15th, 16th, 17th and 18th DAYS: In New York, at the Fair. See pages 4-5.

19th DAY: New York to Utica, 270 miles. Leave New York via the New York Thruway. At Central Valley Interchange, take a side trip to West Point and the U.S. Military Academy. (If you wish, you can eat or even stay overnight at the U.S.-owned, AAA-approved Hotel Thayer, right on the Academy grounds.) Return to the Thruway at Newburgh, continue to Utica, entrance to the Adirondack Mountains and the Thousand Islands.

20th DAY: From Utica to Niagara, 225 miles. You should arrive in time to go aboard the Maid of the Mist, or take an elevator trip below the Falls. Cross to the Canadian side for a view of the Falls from the new Seagram Tower, to shop in the duty-free shops or, at night, for a look at the Falls under special illumination. An excellent hotel on the U.S. side is the Sheraton Block, where many rooms overlook the Falls. Because of the popularity of Niagara, however, you should write well in advance for reservations.

21st DAY: Niagara Falls to Detroit, about 260 miles. Start early and you can visit the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, an excellent museum of Americana at Dearborn.

22nd DAY: Detroit to Chicago, 300 miles.

23rd DAY: In Chicago. See the Art Institute; Merchandise Mart, one of the largest office buildings in the world; Museum of Science and Industry; Union Stock Yards, the Lincoln Park Zoo and the suburban Brookfield Zoo.

24th DAY: Chicago to Des Moines, Iowa. 350 miles. A driving day.

25th DAY: Des Moines to North Platte, Kans., 400 miles. A driving day.

26th DAY: North Platte to Denver, 260 miles. Of interest: the Civic Center, with its statues of Kit Carson and the Bucking Bronco; the Art Museum; the Museum of Natural History. Visit the Mint—but write ahead to make arrangements. Children under 8 are not admitted.

27th DAY: Denver and vicinity. Visit Rocky Mountain National Park, where 59 peaks are over 12,000 feet high, including the granddaddy, Longs Peak, 14,256 feet.

close to home

28th DAY: Denver to Colorado Springs, 67 miles. For a taste of luxury, stop at the world-famous resort, Hotel Broadmoor. Also drive up Pikes Peak (road opens May 1), visit the Air Force Academy.

29th DAY: Colorado Springs to Grand Junction, Colo., 300 miles. En route, at Canon City, see the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas River, with its sheer cliffs rising 1,200 feet. A suspension bridge spans the river at 1,053 feet.

31st DAY: Price to Las Vegas, Nev., approximately 415 miles. A driving day.

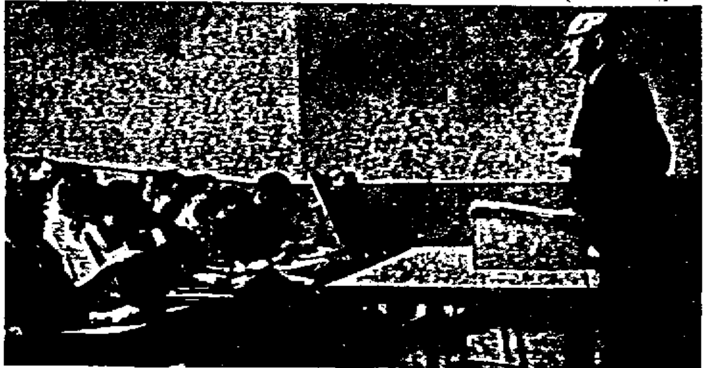
Helped by brother Ron, polio victim Ed Roberts goes to classes.

Homework in the horizontal: with book propped before him, Ed turns pages with wand held in his teeth. Below, he attends political science lecture. Ed hopes eventually to enter politics.



BERKELEY, CALIF.

Students at the University of California here have grown used to seeing senior Ed Roberts attending classes, and they have come to regard him with the special awe usually reserved for a hero.

For Edward Verne Roberts is a hero. With little to sustain him but a burning determination and lots of heart, he has overcome tremendous odds: he has bulbar polio—the worst kind—and it has not stopped him.

Few people thought there was any sense in his trying to go to college after polio struck at the end of his sophomore year in high school.

"Not go to college? It never entered my mind," he protests, his voice growing hard and firm as he adds: "I am determined to go as far as I can. I don't see any closed doors."

Keeping those doors open requires the discipline to stick to a rigid and rigorous schedule. Ed uses special forced breathing techniques that must be repeated constantly and consciously controlled. He can't walk and is confined to a wheelchair. He turns book pages with a wand held in his teeth; the book itself is propped before him on a rack. The wand is also used to operate a tape recorder so he can keep audio notes and play them back at any time.

He needs constant help. His brother Ron, also a student at the University, gets him up in the morning, helps him eat breakfast and for the rest of the morning wheels him to and from classes scattered widely around the hilly campus.

After lunch they return to the University Infirmary where Ed lives, and most of the afternoon is spent doing homework and resting.

At 5:30 P.M., an orderly arrives to help take care of him. The orderly feeds and bathes Ed, and remains near by through the night in case of any emergency. Roberts' former orderly, Charles Buff, who had experience tending polio victims while at high school, says that Ed Roberts was a special case for him. "Even if the job paid nothing, working with Ed would have been compensation enough."

NIGHT IN AN IRON LUNG

At 7:30 Ed goes into an iron lung for 12 hours, so that when he sleeps, the machine controls his breathing for him.

Before polio struck, Ed Roberts had been an active, athletic youth. The disease was so severe that had it not been for the medical discoveries of the past dozen years, doctors say, he would have died.

Instead, he recovered sufficiently to attend some classes as a high school senior. That in itself was a major step, because during the intervening two years, he had been getting his instruction via an intercom set up between his home and the school.

Ed decided to go to San Mateo Junior College to continue his education. But the possibility of entering a full-time university was still up in the air. He could not even bring himself to consider the Berkeley campus at first. It was too hilly, and he knew nobody he could ask for help.

However, Dr. Henry B. Bruhn, director of the student health service at Berkeley, encouraged him.

So did his late father, a diesel engineer with the Southern Pacific Company, and his mother, a part-time religious education director for the Unitarian Church.

And at the University Infirmary, according to Dr. Bruhn, Ed is an inspiration to the healthy as well as the handicapped. "He is in sharp contrast to the average person who has to face such a disastrous disability and usually retreats into a vegetable existence. But Ed Roberts does the best with what he has, and he has a fine mind."

Ed Roberts' intent is not to stop when he finishes college, although his plans currently have not jelled. He is a "B" student, a political science major and will be graduated next June. Law school, he says, may follow. But, what then? —

He may teach law in college, or may go into practice.

But his face lights up as he says he "may seek public office, eventually. I would like to go into politics. But this is a dream. Perhaps it isn't too far from reality. All of us must have dreams. I think I know how people feel and what they need. If I'm in the legislature, perhaps I can help people with their problems."

I'LL MAKE YOU A MENTAL WIZARD IN ONE EVENING!

Yes! Here at last is your chance to gain the THINKING-MACHINE MIND you've dreamed about . . . so easily and quickly you'll be astounded . . . and do it without risking a penny!

By HARRY LORAYNE

Let me explain! I don't care how poorly organized your mental powers are today — how difficult it is for you to concentrate . . . how bad your memory may be . . . how much a prisoner you are of crippling mental habits . . . how long it takes you each morning to get your mind going with adding-machine speed and certainty!

I BELIEVE THAT YOUR MIND IS WORKING TODAY AT ONLY 5% TO 10% OF ITS TRUE POWER—SIMPLY BECAUSE YOU DON'T KNOW THE RIGHT WAY TO FEED IT DIRECTIONS!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind problems — so clearly and logically that those problems half-solve themselves before you even touch them!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind facts, figures and names and faces — so they burn themselves into that mind in such picture-form that you remember them forever!

Simply because you don't know the right way to feed your mind a FULL CHARGE OF ENTHUSIASM — so that it revs up instantly every morning . . . so that it operates at full power, not for just a few brief minutes each day, BUT FOR 10 HOURS AT A STRETCH!

Mind Power Is A Trick! I'll Teach It To You In One Weekend!

Yes! Problem-solving is a trick! Concentration is a trick! Memory is a trick! Habit-breaking is a trick! And, above all, generating the will power that means success IS A TRICK! Mind power can be made to order — you don't have to be born with it! The secret of a fast-acting, full-power, THINKING MACHINE MIND is as simple as tying your shoelace! And I'm willing to prove it to you without your risking a penny! Here's how!

All I ask from you is this. Let me send you — at my risk — one of the most fascinating books you have ever read. When this book arrives, set aside a few moments each day from the following weekend. Glance through just one chapter. And get ready for one of the most thrilling weekends of accomplishment in your entire life!

The Very First Hour After You Pick Up This Book, You Will Perform A Feat Of Mind Power That Will Astound Your Friends!

What you are going to do in that very first hour you receive the book, is this. Turn to page 144. Read three short pages — no more! And then, put down the book. Review in your mind the one simple secret I've shown you — how to feed facts into your mind so that they stay there, permanently, as long as you wish!

Then put this simple trick to work for you — that very same hour!

Call in your family or friends. Ask them to make a list of any TWELVE facts, names or objects they wish, as fast as they wish. Have them write down the list so they won't forget it! But, as they give you each fact, YOU are going to perform a simple mental trick on that fact, that will burn it into your mind, IN PERFECT ORDER, as long as you wish!

And then — INSTANTLY AND AUTOMATICALLY — you are going to repeat that list, backwards and forwards, in perfect order, exactly as if you were reading that list in your friend's hand! And you are going to have one of the most exciting moments of your life, as you watch the expression on those people's faces as you reel off those facts as though they were flashing on a screen on the inside of your memory!

Thrilling? Yes! But also one of the most profitable secrets you will ever learn. For that list of twelve facts can just as easily be an appointment schedule—with each appointment flashing automatically into your mind at just the right time and place that you need it! Or a shopping list — or the outline of a speech — or a sales presentation — or the highlights of an important article — or a list of things that have to be done in perfect order!

Any one of them — they flash into your mind automatically, as though you pressed a button! And this astonishing mental gift — which will serve you every day for the rest of your life — is yours from the very first hour that you pick up this book!

And yet it's only the beginning!

Which Areas Of Your Mind Do You Want To Strengthen In A Single Weekend! Concentration, Will-Power, Self-Confidence, Habit-Breaking!

Yes! From this moment on, in less than one thrilling hour a day, you begin testing the wonder-working techniques of Automatic Organization on every untrained corner of your mind! You begin breaking through mental barriers — mental limitations that have been blocking you for years!

You begin tapping the buried powers of your own mind . . . powers that you have glimpsed before in brief flashes . . . now brought to the surface — organized with simple formulas to double their potency — and placed forever at your beck and call, ready to go to work for you at the blink of an eyelash!

For example —

DO YOU WANT TO DEVELOP "STEEL-SHUTTER CONCENTRATION" — OVERNIGHT?

Then turn to page 85 . . . master one simple exercise . . . and thrill to your ability to absorb huge amounts of information — easily and swiftly — even in a room filled with half a dozen howling children!

DO YOU WANT TO DEVELOP "X-RAY EYES" — POWERS OF OBSERVATION THAT AMAZE YOUR FRIENDS?

Then turn to page 136 . . . play three fascinating games . . . and then startle your friends, time and time again, by your ability to spot revealing details — put together hidden pieces of evidence — that they never even dreamed were there at all!

DO YOU WANT TO SEE HOW EASY IT IS TO REPLACE BAD HABITS WITH HABITS YOU CAN BE PROUD OF?

Then get ready for the revelation of your life on page 103 . . . that replaces agony with fun . . . that actually lets your bad habits break themselves without your hardly touching your will power.

YES! AND DO YOU WANT TO GENERATE ENTHUSIASM . . . FRIENDLINESS . . . PERSONALITY AT AN INSTANT COMMAND?

Then read every word starting on page 165! Learn how to overcome shyness and fear, automatically . . . make anyone like you . . . dissolve opposition with as little as a single word . . . earn both trust and respect from everyone you meet — and keep them — for good!

Read It For Ten Days — Entirely At Our Risk

And this still is just the beginning!

What Harry Lorayne has described to you on this page is just a small sampling of the information packed into his amazing new book, SECRETS OF MIND POWER — now available only through this article!

Here at last is a practical, fascinating, easy-to-read book on improving the powers of your mind that really works! Its author, Harry Lorayne, has been called by experts "the man with the most phenomenal memory in the world!" He has already shown over 250,000 men and women, all over America, how they can achieve startling improvements in their memories overnight, with just a few minutes work!

But this fabulous Push-Button Memory Technique is only one small part of Harry Lorayne's great new book! Here — in addition to Memory — are complete "Push-Button Sections" on Observation, Concentration, Enthusiasm, Will-Power, Idea-Creating, Rapid-Learning, Time-Saving, Clear-Thinking, Personality, Friend-Making, Public-Speaking, Worry-Control, Conquest of Fear, and many more!

Yes! Here are dozens of simple techniques that enable you to overcome crippling emotions, and keep your thoughts headed straight for each goal! Showing you how to think clearly and effectively in any situation — make decisions without agonizing delays — learn vital facts and figures at a glance — work at full mental power, all day long, for weeks and even months on end!

Here are tested, and proven "Thought-Stimulators" that streamline your mind — develop your creative imagination — increase your daily output — help you make time for everything you have to do!

Here are "Confidence-Generators," that let you laugh off worries and fears — make your own good luck — keep other people from taking advantage of you — turn bad breaks into opportunities — yes, even sharpen your sense of humor and improve your ability to speak well, whether in private conversation or before a crowd of hundreds!

It Must Work For You — Or You Don't Pay A Penny

The price of this giant, one-volume Mind-Power Encyclopedia is $4.98 — far less than similar books that do not do its job as well! And it is yours to read without risking a penny! You prove it to yourself at our risk for ten full days! It must do everything we say — you must be amazed and delighted — or simply return it at the end of that time for every cent of your money back immediately! Send in the No-Risk Coupon — TODAY!

NEW FROM SARA LEE

The freshest caramel pecan rolls you never baked

{ Just warm and enjoy }

Where can you find completely baked caramel pecan rolls that taste like they're right out of the oven? In your grocer's freezer! The new ones from Sara Lee.

Sara Lee freezes them the moment they're popped out of the oven—"stopping the clock" on flavor and freshness until you warm them and serve them at home.

Completely baked. In your grocer's freezer.

Freezing also lets Sara Lee use lots of fresh butter and eggs and whole milk—with no artificial preservatives.

Try some tomorrow morning. Sara Lee Caramel Pecan Rolls. Put them on your breakfast table all fresh and warm and covered with rich caramel and crisp pecans. Great day in the morning!

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BAKER & KERR. The senator who most influenced Bobby Baker in his take-care-of-yourself-first attitude was the late Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, one of the sharpest, shrewdest, trickiest wheeler-dealers Washington has ever seen. Kerr, often called the uncrowned king of the Senate, was born in a log cabin in Indian territory before it became the state of Oklahoma. He built up an industrial empire (Kerr-McGee Industries) in oil, banking and mining worth $200,000,000. When he died in January 1963, his personal fortune was estimated at $50,000,000. Kerr was chairman of the powerful Space Committee and he saw to it that Oklahoma got plenty of space contracts. A month after North American decided to erect a gigantic plant in Tulsa to build $900,000,000 worth of equipment for the Apollo Project, Fred Black, a lobbyist for North American, and Bobby Baker both borrowed money from Kerr's bank for their vending company. Baker and Kerr were thicker than thieves, and the full truth of their relationship will probably never be known. Senator Kerr, for example, was fanatically opposed to the late President Kennedy's Medicare bill. This bill was defeated by one vote at the time Bobby Baker, as secretary to the Democratic majority, was a key man in that extremely close legislative battle.

THE LATE SEN. ROBERT KERR AND BOBBY BAKER.

YOUTH REGAINED. Dr. Tiberius Reiter, 61, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, recently announced in London a new method of injecting testosterone, a key male hormone, into the bodies of old men, thereby restoring their virility. Reiter injects testosterone pellets into the muscle in the buttocks, and these pellets release a small amount of testosterone into the blood stream each day. Full details of Reiter's work have been forwarded to the American Geriatrics Society.

CONTRACEPTIVE MARKET. The market for oral contraceptives in this country is growing so rapidly that most of the major pharmaceutical houses want part of it. At the moment, two companies, Johnson & Johnson and G. D. Searle & Co., have the lion's share. But Upjohn, Syntex, Parke Davis, Mead Johnson, Eli Lilly and Wyeth Laboratories are all preparing to compete.

PERSONALIZED AIR CONDITIONING. A personal air conditioner, 12 inches long and weighing only 6 ounces, has been developed at the Savannah River Laboratories in Aiken, S.C. The device, which delivers cold air via plastic tubes to various parts of the body, was developed for use by chemical and atomic workers who labor in hot or contaminated air.

Pillsbury

The Vienn-easiest

Here's an elegant new torte dessert inspired by old Viennese sour cream recipes... You make it in a waltz with these two Pillsbury mixes.

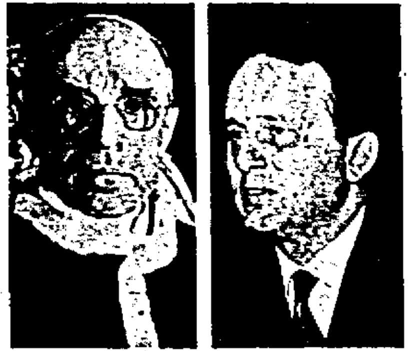
One for New Vienna Style White Cake

One for the Fluffy White Frosting

Until just recently, tortes were for kings and such. Now Pillsbury brings you a velvety-new white cake that's ideal for tortes or regular two-layer cakes. It bakes up brimming with delicate sour cream flavor. Comes out of the oven so tall and moist it's easy to slice the two layers in half to make four. Then frost between layers and crown with peaks and swirls. It's elegant but easy. And very inexpensive. How about a little foreign intrigue at your house tonight?

ANOTHER PILLSBURY MOIST CAKE BECAUSE PILLSBURY DOESN'T SKIMP ON THE SHORTENING

BEST-SELLING PLAY. The Deputy, controversial drama by Rolf Hochhuth, dealing with the refusal of Pope Pius XII to denounce the Nazi mass murder of the Jews, may well become the best-selling play in published form of the 1960s. Grove Press, publishers of the drama in this country, reports that it sold 40,000 copies less than one week after the play opened in New York. More than 250,000 copies of The Deputy have already been sold throughout Europe.



POPE PIUS XII AND PLAYWRIGHT ROLF HOCHHUTH.

FOR UNHAPPY GIRLS. The British are experimenting with homes for teenage girls who do not get on with their parents. The first has just been opened in Birmingham. Residents are girls who have "a drunken father or a stepmother they can't get on with, or find that for some other reason conditions at home are unbearable. It is usually circumstances like these," says one of the home's officials, "that lead to girls succumbing to temptation and getting into trouble."

SOFT DRINKS. According to a Commerce Department forecast, Americans will guzzle more soft drinks this year than ever before -- approximately 222 eight-ounce bottles apiece. Last year each of us drank 217 such drinks.

READING DELINQUENCY. From 20 to 30% of the children in a typical American classroom eventually learn to hate school. One reason, claims Morton Botel, national reading expert, is this: "Up to 15 million children are so seriously retarded in reading that they cannot understand their textbooks."

My Favorite Jokes

by Larry Wilde

EDITOR'S NOTE: Larry Wilde, one of the fastest-rising night club comedians in the business, is a product of Jersey City, the Marine Corps and the University of Miami in Coral Gables. Wilde, born in Jersey City, got his first taste of show business in the Marines, where, as a member of the Special Services Branch, he wrote, directed and produced variety shows. After two years of service, he enrolled at the University of Miami, majoring in speech and drama. Since graduation Larry has performed as a comedian in more than 400 cities throughout the world. He has appeared with such top attractions as Martha Raye, the Kingston Trio, Andy Williams and Roberta Sherwood, telling such jokes as these:

I was in a book store last week and overheard a man say to the salesgirl: "Where will I find a copy of the book, Man—Master of the Home?"

"Sir," she replied, "the fiction department is two aisles over."

I once worked with six chorus girls who led rather unusual lives. Five of them married very wealthy men—millionaires. The sixth one married a musician who was broke. And just to show you the queer twist of fate, the girl who married the poor musician turned out to be the only one who was unhappy.

My neighbor's stockbroker advised him to buy stock in a company called United Uranium. So he bought the stock, and it went down. His broker said, "Don't worry, it's going to go up, buy more!" So he bought more, but it continued to go down.

In desperation my neighbor went to a fortuneteller who said, "Don't buy United Uranium, buy Amalgamated Metal." So he bought Amalgamated Metal, and the stock went up. He was furious with his broker. He called him and said, "You told me to buy United Uranium, and it went down. My fortuneteller told me to buy Amalgamated Metal, and it went up!"

"Don't blame me," answered the broker. "My fortuneteller said United Uranium!"

They have some wonderful toys for the kids nowadays. I saw one the other day called an "educational toy." It's designed so that the child can adjust to the world as he finds it. No matter how he puts the toy together—it's wrong.

The AMA has just announced a new development in surgery. They say that surgeons can now remove the top of a man's skull and replace it with the lid from a pressure cooker. That's so he can whistle before he blows his top!

A scientist in Boston just came up with a new discovery. He tried to pour five quarts of water into a three-quart container. Naturally, he couldn't do it. So he proved that you cannot put more into something than it will hold.

Just then, his wife walked in wearing slacks—and shot the whole theory right out the window!

Wiss* English Pattern shears cut 5 miles of hedge and still keep their edge

(MY WORD!)

Best bloomin' shears around? If not, the chaps who cut hedges professionally are making a big mistake.

Why do they choose Wiss English Pattern Shears? Balance, for one thing (some hedge shears are so blade-heavy you can hardly stand up straight when you use them).

The patented neoprene shock absorber, for another. It takes the jolt, not your arms.

And, of course, there's the quality of the blades themselves—we use a hot-drop-forged steel. Smashing stuff to cut with. Keeps its edge long after cut-rate shears have called it quits.

Incidentally, it's not required that you be a professional hedge cutter to use these shears. The only credentials you need at your hardware, department or garden supply store is the required sum of money.

We're very democratic.

SUGGESTIONS FROM MRS. DAN GERBER

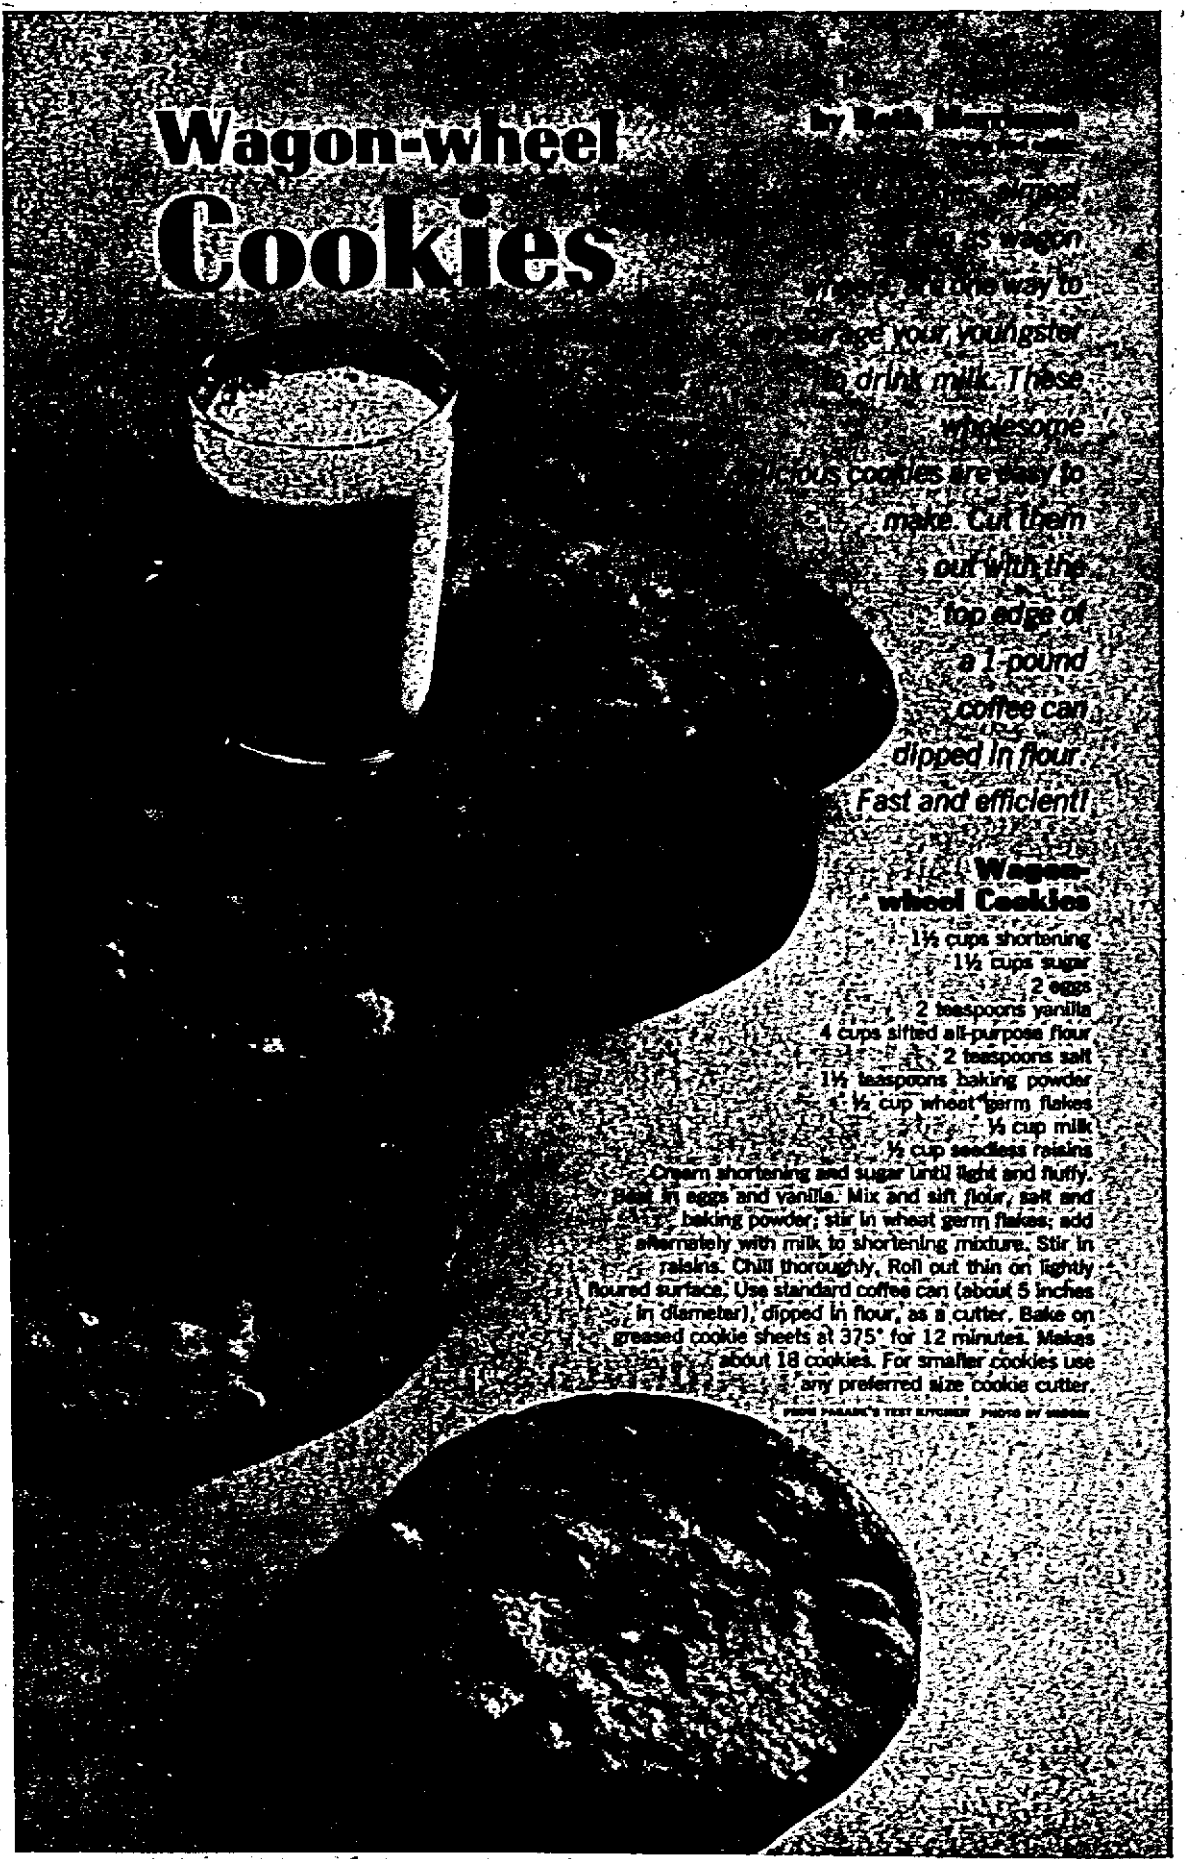
Signs of self-feeding starting to show! Finger foods, like Gerber Meat or Chicken Sticks are helpful for practicing hand-to-mouth co-ordination. Tasty ways to do it, too.

The Meat Sticks are made from lean pork and beef—the Chicken Sticks from juicy poultry ... all specially selected by Armour. Both have added nonfat dry milk for extra protein. Both are suitably seasoned to pamper a toddler's palate.

Breakfast bonanza. Nothing like a tasty, toasty, nut-like flavor to win a baby's favor. And Gerber High Protein Cereal is just the thing to titillate an appetite. In addition to being pleasantly flavorful, it has a 35% protein content to help promote baby's growth. And, like all Gerber Cereals, it's enriched with iron to help build good red blood ... calcium for strong bones and teeth and important B-vitamins which contribute to appetite and growth.

Added attraction. A topping of baby's favorite fruit adds a special fillip of flavor to any Gerber Cereal.

Variety review. Now there are nine refreshing Gerber Juices to give added pleasure to baby's "juice breaks." The sipping delights include Orange Juice, Apple Juice, Orange-Apple, Orange-Apricot, Orange-Pineapple, Pineapple-Grapefruit, Apple-Cherry and the two newest Gerber offerings: Mixed Fruit Juice and Prune-Orange. All luscious—all equally rich in the vitamin C your darling needs for sound gums and body tissues.



Wagon-wheel Cookies

by Beth [illegible]

[illegible] almost [illegible] is wagon wheels are one way to [illegible] your youngster to drink milk. These wholesome [illegible]licious cookies are easy to make. Cut them out with the top edge of a 1-pound coffee can dipped in flour. Fast and efficient!

Wagon-wheel Cookies

1½ cups shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup wheat germ flakes
½ cup milk
½ cup seedless raisins

Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder; stir in wheat germ flakes; add alternately with milk to shortening mixture. Stir in raisins. Chill thoroughly. Roll out thin on lightly floured surface. Use standard coffee can (about 5 inches in diameter), dipped in flour, as a cutter. Bake on greased cookie sheets at 375° for 12 minutes. Makes about 18 cookies. For smaller cookies use any preferred size cookie cutter.

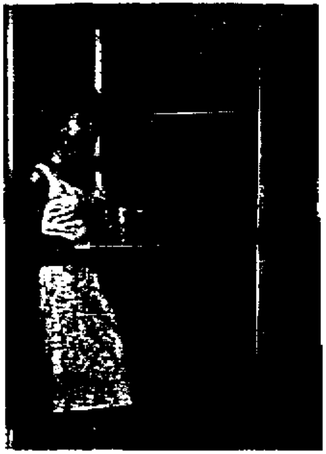
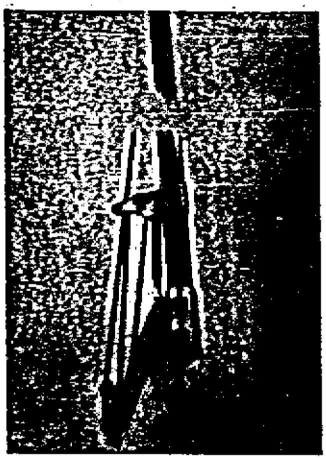
Make life easier—take a look at these new ideas for your home and family ■ BY PETER DRYDEN



Sliding door closer



Tree trimmer

Sliding door closer: Simple to install yourself, this closer for sliding screen doors (far left) remembers to shut a door when youngsters forget or adult hands are full. It attaches to center of door frame—and pushes the door shut smoothly, quietly. Anodized aluminum finish. $12.95, McGraw Mfg. & Distributing Co., Dept. PP, 1489 S. Broadway, Denver, Colo. 80210.

Tree trimmer: This one (left) has a triple-power, ball-bearing pulley system that provides compound leverage to enable you to cut extra tough branches with little effort. It works on branches up to 1 inch in diameter, reaches to 15 feet, comes in two sections for easy storage. $16.45. Extra 4-foot extension: $3.85 each. Pruning attachment: $5.45. Roycraft Industries, Dept. PP, 222 W. 39th St., Kansas City, Mo. 64111.

Automatic bailer: A new boat bailer needs no complicated installation — and works automatically without electricity, gas, any type of fuel. Gentle rocking of a boat in water activates the 6" x 8" x 9" pump, which takes bilge through a filtered inlet hose, discharges it through an outlet hose you hang over the side. It can bail 5 gallons an hour, is especially useful if you're a weekend enthusiast and your boat remains in the water and weather all week without use. $39.95. Details: E & R Lab Service, Dept. PP, 7413 W. Florissant, St. Louis, Mo. 63136.

Convertible fish lure: If you're an angler who believes in the theory, "change your color, change your luck," a new lure could be of interest. It comes with 100 different colored metallic inserts—and you can switch from one to another in 3 seconds. The inserts simulate patterns of frogs, shrimp, minnows, perch, etc. $4.95. National Dynamics, Dept. PP, 220 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

New bottom for garbage can: If you have a can with a rusted-out bottom but otherwise in good condition, a new plastic replacement bottom will extend its life. It fits household 20-gallon cans—and automatically locks inside. $1.25. Classic Enterprises, Dept. PP, Box 11492, Tampa, Fla. 33610.

BRINGING UP BABY,®
HINTS COLLECTED
BY MRS. DAN GERBER,
MOTHER OF FIVE

A "taste of life" for your little one*

Why is it that everything from fingers to toes, toys to clothes, eventually finds its way into the eager mouth of a baby? Strangely enough, it's a natural desire to learn and the mouth is one of the earliest and ablest "teachers." Through it your baby comes to know the satisfaction of food, the pleasures of flavor variety. Mouthing also teaches texture, shape and size. Finally, nibbling and gnawing are "beginners' courses" in chewing.

A taste of lusciousness. Babies take naturally to the natural goodness of Gerber Strained Fruits. And for good reason! The colors literally sing . . . the flavors are naturally good. Due in part to the fact that Gerber Fruits are flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to preserve the utmost in flavor and color . . . to say nothing of precious vitamin values. Ten happy choices.

Notable, too, for superior colors and flavors are Gerber Strained Vegetables. Made from selected, inspected produce, they're individually "custom-cooked" to bring out the best of everything in each particular variety.

Rule of thumb. To most babies, nothing seems to taste as good as that little old thumb. Thumbsucking, once much frowned upon, is now regarded as perfectly normal and rarely, if ever, harmful to young babies. On the plus side, it usually satisfies a need with a minimum of fuss.

Dept. of reassurance. Thumbsucking often stems from the fact that baby may not have had enough feeding time at breast or bottle. Minor discomfort, boredom and fatigue are also factors. Once you understand the reasons why, you'll stop worrying about the importance of thumbsucking and handle the situation according to its cause.

Dept. of information. Do you know why we stress the importance of using Gerber Baby Cereals throughout babyhood? It's because they contain several nutrients your baby needs from the infant stage right through the toddler age. Iron, a strong factor in building good red blood. Calcium, a contributor to strong bones and teeth. B-vitamins to help promote growth. All captured in the most delicate cereal forms imaginable.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"®

THE FIRST LADY'S ADVICE ON RAISING TEENAGERS

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

With a rare tenderness, Lady Bird Johnson has reared two beguiling daughters in the white glare of the public spotlight. She is frank to admit that she dreaded seeing them become teenagers. Yet she has kept them fresh and unspoiled; they betray none of the brattishness so often found in children of prominent parents. The experience has taught the First Lady a few things about teenagers which she has agreed to share with PARADE readers.

She has achieved a warm and gentle relationship with her daughters. They are affectionate and demonstrative toward one another, not the least inhibited about confessing how much they love each other. Lady Bird has a habit of ending her phone talks with her daughters with some tender remark like "You are loved" or "I have faith in you." And there is no doubt in the minds of Lynda Bird, 20, or Luci Baines, 16, that their mother means it.

When they are away from home, they have what Lynda describes as "moral togetherness." "We know," she says, "that Mother is always thinking of us." The First Lady explains: "I let them know they are trusted as to judgment and character and leave them considerable leeway. Children are likely to live up to what you believe of them."

She tries to let her daughters make their own decisions. She approaches their problems with this usual opener: "Let's discuss this and decide what's best." Then she outlines the pros and cons, gently guiding their thinking. This has led President Johnson, who sometimes listens with amused approval, to call her "The Judge." He describes her approach as that of a judge permitting the daughters to be their own jury.

The First Lady doesn't hesitate to put her foot down, though ever so softly, when discipline is needed. "I think discipline," she says, "is something children want. They feel cherished because of it and would feel lonely and abandoned if they were not disciplined."

One January night, a daughter—Mrs. Johnson won't say which one—didn't get home from a dance until 2 A.M., 90 minutes past her deadline. "She and her date opened the door to find me in my dressing gown with a glint in my eye," recalls the First Lady. "And if I'm not very much mistaken, she was glad as well as a little frightened to see me. It showed I cared. We simply sat down, and they had a very reasonable explanation." (They had taken another couple home who had been unable to hail a taxi, had also been slowed by slippery roads.)

Lady Bird's reprimands are gentle. ("Mother always plays it cool," says Lynda.) But a quiet reproach from her can strike the girls deeper than a sharp scolding from anyone else. Then the sisters, who have their occasional spats, will rally to one another's defense. "Don't pick on my little sister," Lynda will say petulantly.

Mrs. Johnson has always taught her daughters more by example than exhortation. She compares her technique to floating messages out to sea in bottles and hoping they'll come back eventually. "It has been my greatest satisfaction," she says, "to see the lessons I had tried to implant—and that had fallen, I thought, on arid fields—later blossom forth in one of the children."

THOUGHTFUL ACTS

She is most pleased when the girls show thoughtfulness. The sweetly pensive Luci lavishes affection on people and pets, makes bedside visits to the animal hospital when a pet becomes sick. After President Kennedy's assassination, Mrs. Johnson tried to reach Lynda, was warmed to learn she had gone to be with the children of wounded Texas Gov. John Connally.

Lynda carefully prepares for her duties as the President's daughter, another habit she has picked up from watching her mother. "Lynda has shown such a willingness to learn about countries and to have the proper background of knowledge before meeting foreign dignitaries," says Mrs. Johnson proudly.

Not long ago, the First Lady was too sick to keep her appointments for the day. Lynda came to her bedside, whispered lovingly: "Don't worry, Mother, I'll take over." She substituted for her mother with poise, boned up on the theater so she could chat intelligently with a sophisticated group from the New York-Washington theater world.

When the girls are beckoned to a microphone by their father to make an impromptu speech, Lady Bird confesses: "I hold my breath in terror. But they always come through with something sensible." She has not tried to shield the girls from the spotlight; rather, she has cautioned them only: "It's just the job Daddy holds that is important, not you or me." Result: the girls are totally at ease, but never precocious, in famous company.

The key to Lady Bird's success with her daughters is companionship. "Our teenagers have been two of the most interesting companions I have had," she says. Her advice to other parents is to "enjoy, enjoy" their children. With just a trace of a catch in her voice, she pleads:

"You may not believe it when you are tugging fat little legs into a snowsuit for the third time in one afternoon, or warming a 2 A.M. bottle, or feeling your heart flop over when you look at the thermometer and it says your child has 104 degrees. But you will find that the years pass all too swiftly.

"My first suggestion is to know what your children are doing—and share their interest in it—whether it is composing a poem for a family Thanksgiving dinner or making a batch of cookies to take to a friend on her birthday. Then try to broaden their field of interest into whatever you know—housekeeping, archeology, traveling—whatever in your life you may have loved."

The busy First Lady is never too rushed to take time for her daughters, to listen patiently to their woes and wishes. She tries to clear her desk by 5:30 P.M., when the girls flounce in from school, so she can spend the evenings with them. The best way to reach teenagers, she urgently believes, is to hear them out.

She urges parents: "When one of your children wants to talk to you—not always at a convenient time for a busy mother—listen. Whatever she has on her mind—school, beaus or general philosophy—listen. Clamp down on that impulse to say, 'Oh, dear, I have to take those run-down loafers and get new heels on them,' or 'If I don't get those letters signed and off my desk now, they'll have to hold over until tomorrow.'

"A good friend of mine once told me that the only time to talk to your 10-year-old daughter is when she is 10 years old. So if you really want to understand, to share and perhaps to formulate the lives of your teenagers—listen to them."

'TEENAGERS ARE CONCERNED'

Though she has no sons, Mrs. Johnson suspects girls are easier to raise. "I believe from hearing from my friends," she says, "that girls are more pliable and amenable to teaching and have less of the necessity for rebellion."

She believes today's teenagers are "more aware of and concerned about their place in the world and the dawning tomorrow" than past generations ever have been. "I think they are living in the most important period of mankind's life on this planet," she adds, "with more potential for good on the one hand and a lowering cloud of Armageddon on the other."

The First Lady has a word, too, for the teenagers. "I don't discount," she says, "the tensions and strains posed by two forces affecting young people these days: one, the escalated accent on education which some very fine young people simply cannot measure up to, and two, the drive of automation on our lives which makes it difficult for many of the school dropouts to find jobs. But somewhere along the way in your education find a tool or a skill that you enjoy, that you are reasonably good at. There is nothing better than the feeling of independence of knowing that you can make your own living." ■

FESS PARKER: SECOND TIME AROUND

Fess Parker and wife, former Marcy Rinehart, scan dinner menu at shore restaurant

Ten years ago Walt Disney signed Fess Parker, a 29-year-old Texas giant, to star as Davy Crockett at $500 a week.

Because multimillionaire Disney is a generous tycoon, he assigned Parker a share of the tie-up royalties on Davy Crockett products — coonskin hats, T-shirts, comic books, toys, guns, etc.

In the years 1954-56 of the Crockett boom, more than $100,000,000 worth of derivative products were sold under the Disney license. Fess Parker became the number-one screen hero of the nation's children, and his share of the royalty bonanza mounted to $350,000 before taxes.

"I took most of what was left after taxes," Fess now recalls sheepishly, "and I gambled it in oil, in wildcatting. Most of the holes we dug were dry, but we did hit enough pay dirt to keep me going when, after six pictures, Mr. Disney decided I had had it."

Today Fess Parker is back in business at the same old frontier stand. With musket and coonskin hat, he has just finished an hour-long pilot for a new TV series, Daniel Boone. NBC plans to schedule it on Thursday nights from 7:30 to 8:30, hoping that Parker, like lightning, will strike twice.

"There's a new generation of kids in the land," says one NBC executive, "and there's no reason why Fess shouldn't appeal to this crop as well as he did to the last one."

FOUR FOR THE MONEY

The Daniel Boone series is a four-way deal, Parker, NBC, 20th Century-Fox and the show's producer, Aaron Rosenberg, each owning 25 per cent of the package. In addition, Fess gets a salary of $7,500 a week.

"To tell you the truth," Parker admits,

What other cereal sustains and satisfies like good hot Quaker Oats! It provides food elements children need for growth—and grown-ups need for energy. In protein, alone, whole grain oats is richer than any other leading cereal. Brings 27 other essential nutrients to breakfast, too (even though oatmeal is the most economical cereal in the store). Hot Quaker Oats lights up a nice warm glow inside . . . makes the day look brighter—in a minute.

Cooks in just one minute... costs less than 2 cents a serving!

The Benjamin Thomas family, Levittown, N.Y. lines up for hot Quaker Oats: Shawn 4, David 8, Gail 11, Benjamin Jr. 13, Mother and Father

by LLOYD SHEARER

"there's no difference between playing Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett. Matter of fact, we were going to call the series More of Davy Crockett, but NBC was afraid it might infringe on some of Mr. Disney's property rights, so we simply switched to calling it Daniel Boone. I sure hope it goes across, not just because of the money, but because I'd like to become a hero again in the eyes of the kids.

"I guess I miss that feeling of being looked up to and admired more than anything else. I've got a little boy of my own now—he's 3, Fess Parker the Third—and when he throws his arms around me and hugs me, I'm telling you, it's a big thrill. Having the love and respect of children is a soul-satisfying responsibility, and I welcome it.

"Playing Daniel Boone 10 years after Davy Crockett—that's not progress insofar as my acting career is concerned, but if I've learned anything after 15 years out here, I've learned how to take things in stride, the ups and downs, the peaks and valleys.

"After all," Fess declares, "I sort of started in at the top. There was only one direction I could go from there."

RUSTIC INTELLECTUAL

Because he is tall—6 feet 5—slow talking, tousle-haired and rustic-looking, Fess Parker does not appear to be the intellectual he is.

Born in Ft. Worth, raised in San Angelo, a graduate of the University of Texas, class of '50 (major: history), a graduate student of the University of Southern California in drama, Fess Parker, like others of his breed — Gary Cooper, Henry Fonda, James Stewart, to name a few—is basically a serious sophisticate who assuages his ambition in a Western drawl.

Parker wants eagerly to become a major motion picture star—"sort of like Jimmy Stewart or Gary Cooper"—and is frustrated by the fact that in Hollywood he is cast exclusively as the action man of the early American frontier.

What he wants most is a lead role in Mr. Roberts or Twelve Angry Men or any of the roles a producer would judge worthy of Henry Fonda. Parker also possesses a fine baritone voice, and last summer toured the country playing Curly in Oklahoma.

In 1960, after Paramount had cast him in three "adventure-type lemons"—The Hangman, The Jayhawkers and Hell Is for Heroes—Fess moved out of Hollywood, 100 miles north to Santa Barbara.

Ten years on the frontier: Above, star Fess Parker greets enthusiastic young fans in his original role as Davy Crockett. Below, he appears as Daniel Boone in TV series.

"I decided," he says, "to change the pattern of my life, then to come back to Hollywood a changed man, a more worldly and versatile personality whose new style would impress the powers that be."

First, at the age of 35, Fess married Marcy Rinehart, secretary of Doris Day's husband, Marty Melcher. He took Marcy to live in fashionable Santa Barbara, learned to fly and bought a plane, bought a string of horses, learned to play polo, then invested his life's savings in a snazzy 50-acre trailer camp called Rancho Santa Barbara which today is worth $1,500,000.

After his son, Fess Elisha Parker III, was born in 1961—"He's the first in four generations of my family to be born outside of Texas"—Fess decided to show Hollywood his new look. He bought a foreign sports car, some custom-tailored clothes, showed up in Hollywood looking like a hayseed Anthony Eden.

After one modern comedy guest shot on TV with Bob Newhart, he was offered the role of Sen. Eugene Smith in the TV series Mr. Smith Goes to Washington. It lasted 26 weeks, then was canceled.

"In terms of my acting career," says Parker of this period, "I finally joined the 20th century, but somehow, it seemed, the 20th century didn't want me."

So back to Santa Barbara went old Fess. There he concentrated on building up his swank trailer camp until a few weeks ago, when he got a call from 20th Century-Fox asking if he'd be interested in playing Davy Crockett on TV.

Never a man to turn down an honest dollar, Fess said he was more than interested. After a few conferences with the studio legal department, writer Borden Chase changed Davy Crockett into Daniel Boone, and Fess Parker found himself back on the cinematic American frontier exactly where he started 10 years ago.

IS JILL STILL SHOOK UP?
WOULDN'T YOU BE?
GEE, I'VE TOLD HER A THOUSAND TIMES NEVER TO PLAY WITH HER GLASSES ON!!
JILL SIMPLY CANNOT SEE THE BALL COMING, AND NEVER CATCHES IT RIGHT! SO FIRST THING YOU KNOW SOMETHING HIDEOUS LIKE THIS HAPPENS!!
SHE GETS A FAST PASS FROM SUE AND, POW, SHE'S HAD IT!!
THE POOR KID!
THINK THEY'LL EVER BE OKAY AGAIN?
I GUESS SO, BUT THESE THINGS TAKE TIME, POSIE
WHEN YOU BREAK TWO FINGERNAILS AS LONG AS JILL'S, THEY DON'T GROW OUT OVERNIGHT, YOU KNOW!

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Only 50¢ A MONTH

Independent Press Telegram

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

Take advantage of this great Reader Service—the personal accident insurance that brings you cash when you need it most! Send in your application today!

I apply for "Accumulative" Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree (1) to pay the premium of 50¢ per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper as my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.

☐ FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY — Send no money. Pay carrier 50c each month at the same time you pay for paper.

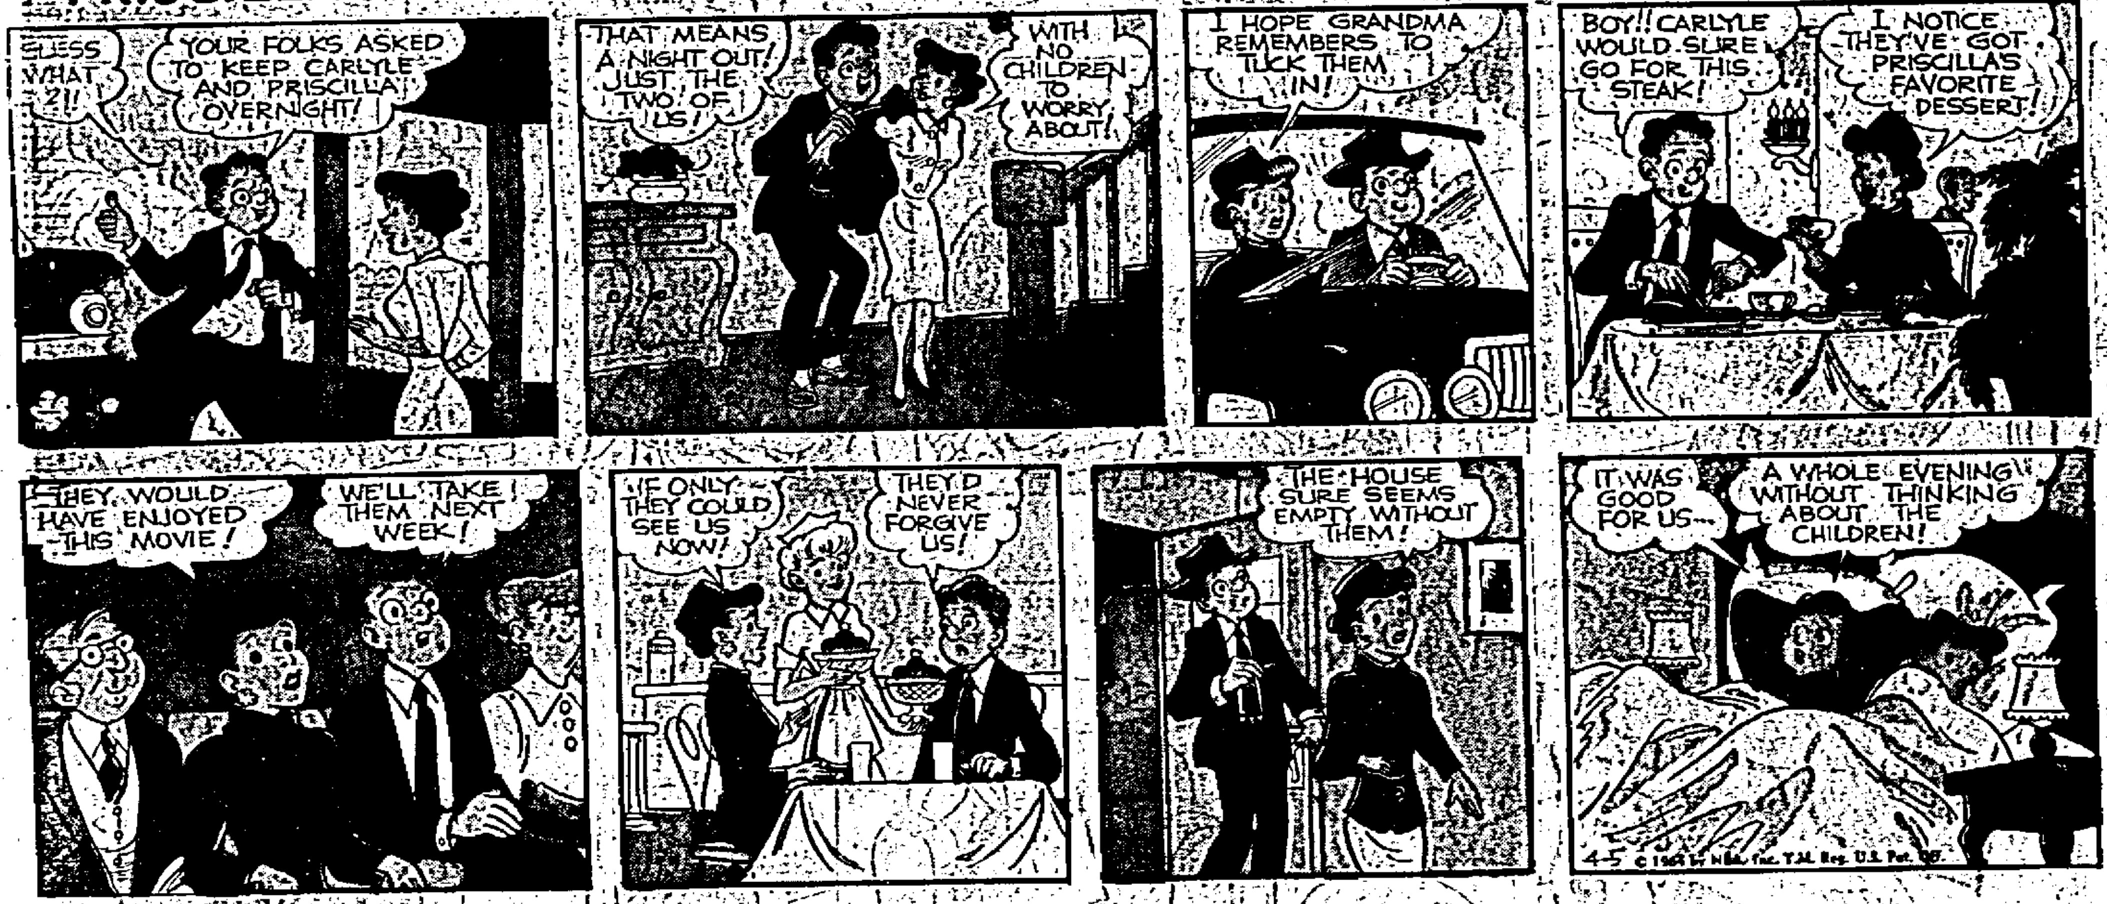
PRISCILLA'S POP

By Al Vermeer



GUESS WHAT ?!
YOUR FOLKS ASKED TO KEEP CARLYLE AND PRISCILLA OVERNIGHT!
THAT MEANS A NIGHT OUT! JUST THE TWO OF US!
WITH NO CHILDREN TO WORRY ABOUT!
I HOPE GRANDMA REMEMBERS TO TUCK THEM IN!
BOY!! CARLYLE WOULD SURE GO FOR THIS STEAK!
I NOTICE THEY'VE GOT PRISCILLA'S FAVORITE DESSERT!
THEY WOULD HAVE ENJOYED THIS MOVIE!
WE'LL TAKE THEM NEXT WEEK!
IF ONLY THEY COULD SEE US NOW!
THEY'D NEVER FORGIVE US!
THE HOUSE SURE SEEMS EMPTY WITHOUT THEM!
IT WAS GOOD FOR US...
A WHOLE EVENING WITHOUT THINKING ABOUT THE CHILDREN!

I HAVE TROUBLE MANAGING MY ALLOWANCE..
WHAT KIND OF TROUBLE, ARTHUR?
IT SEEMS THE MORE I GET THE MORE I SPEND.
WHO DOESN'T?
-BUT I ALWAYS WIND UP BROKE...
ITS NATURAL, ARTHUR. MOST PEOPLE GO THROUGH THE SAME THING...
-BUT IF YOU THINK YOU HAVE A FINANCIAL PROBLEM, THINK OF THAT RICH OILMAN IN TEXAS WHO MAKES A MILLION A WEEK!
AN OILMAN IN TEXAS WHO MAKES A MILLION A WEEK?
A MILLION DOLLARS A WEEK!
A MILLION A WEEK?
YES WHAT DO YOU SAY TO THAT?
I HOPE HE'S PUTTING SOMETHING AWAY.

TOMORROW'S THE DAY WE GO AFTER THE BLODGETT CONTRACT!
I WISH THE BOSS WOULD LET ME HANDLE THAT DEAL!
MISS GRINDSTONE, I'VE DECIDED TO PUT A NEW TILE FLOOR IN HERE!
YES, SIR!
STOCK ROOM
I'D ASK ONE OF OUR MEN TO HANDLE IT, BUT IT'S A TRICKY ASSIGNMENT!
STOCK ROOM
HE'S TALKING ABOUT THE BLODGETT DEAL! HERE'S MY CHANCE!
I NEED SOMEONE WHO CAN CUT CORNERS!
THE BOSS LIKES TO TRIM COSTS!
IT MUST BE LINED UP CAREFULLY SO IT WILL BE AIR-TIGHT!
HE WANTS A CONTRACT WITH NO LOOPHOLES!
BOSS! CAN I TRY IT? I'LL DO A VERY SLICK JOB! NO ROUGH EDGES!
OKAY, CARBUNCLE! I'M GAME!
CALL UP AND ORDER THE TILES, MISS GRINDSTONE!
TILES?
CUT THOSE CORNERS, CARBUNCLE!
LINE IT UP NICE AND AIR-TIGHT!
OH, SHADDUP!

IT'S ALL CLEAR, DEAR... JOANNIE'S ASLEEP!
I'VE GOT EVERY-THING... INCLUDING THE KITCHEN SINK!
WOW!! IT'LL TAKE ALL NIGHT TO PUT THAT TOGETHER!
THIS SAYS JUST AN HOUR.. ER.. AFTER PUNCHING OUT AND PRE-FOLDING!
AND THAT'S JUST THE FIRST ONE! THE OTHERS TAKE LONGER!
DOESN'T ANYONE PUT OUT ASSEMBLED TOYS ANY MORE?
I'M SORRY. THAT'S ALL JOANNIE WANTS FOR HER BIRTHDAY... THAT PLAY KITCHEN AND THE DRESS SHE SAW IN THE PAPER.
THE DRESS LOOKED SWELL IN THE PICTURE! YOU SENT FOR IT, DIDN'T YOU?
OH YES!... THIS CAME LAST WEEK...
...AND TODAY I BOUGHT THIS...
IT SEEMS THAT TOYS AREN'T THE ONLY THINGS THAT COME UNASSEMBLED!
